The Big

Picture

Opening Theme

If one takes just a brief look at Whitworth College one can get the big picture of life at this school. The challenging academic program, a sturdy sports program, and the dedicated music department are some of the things people see on the outside. But take a closer look . . . What really makes up this school are the individuals that come from different families, unique backgrounds, and many countries. All these people of different race, gender, creed and generation somehow come together to make this college what it is.

One can look at the individuals attending this school and see the sophomore from Japan who transfers in living with the senior who grew up in Spokane and will graduate in May. All students, faculty and staff have a place here. We are like pieces to a puzzle. It is as though God scattered all the pieces around and we are coming together to see what the big picture is, not just in our lives at Whitworth but in the rest of the world. Despite problems and faults we can find with Whitworth, we should take a look at ourselves and see if we are doing our part to create the big picture. Our goal should be to piece it together and make it work.

Community Building Day

A Whitworth tradition that has been upheld through much of the college's history, Community Building Day continued this year with a new twist. The traditional day, held September 25, was mixed with a celebration of Native American culture. The day started with breakfast and an opening ceremony, which was followed by the fall clean-up in the dorms. The traditional competition held in this area was won by Arend, with Mac coming in second. At the same time, trees were planted to help beautify the campus in the coming years. The highlight of the day came in the final event, which included the raising of the newly carved totem pole followed by a Native American dance ceremony.

"Community Building Day is something the whole campus rallies behind. It is a chance for students to get to know faculty and staff as people." Trent House, A.S.W.C. President.
"The most important part of Community Building Day to me is getting everyone involved right at the beginning of the year." Kim Thompson, Lancaster President.

ANOTHER BRICK IN THE WALL: Marc Thielman, Bill Ginn, and Sujay Sahni work together on the building effort.

LANDSCAPING: Baldwin-Jenkins residents participate in the clean-up of the front of their building.

SOWING SEEDS: Planting in preparation for next spring's garden was done by Arend residents Jill Taylor and Lisa Harrell.

The Weekend

The first weekend in October marked a time of growth and relaxation for many students. Denny Ryberg, director of Campus Ministries at University Presbyterian Church in Seattle and chaplain of the Seattle Supersonics, was the guest speaker at The Weekend. Joining him were speakers Jim and Linda Hunt, Nola Allen, and Doug Dye. They spoke about topics such as doubt and solitude with God. "I enjoyed Jim and Linda Hunt's seminar on doubt. I realized that everyone has doubts about everything in life and not just me," said Jana Baxter, a junior.

The Weekend kicked off Friday night with games, an escorted dinner, and a speaker, followed by a campfire. Saturday was packed with activities, including the various seminars and an afternoon of free time, in which students swam, canoed, and visited with friends. "We had a relaxing time with friends," commented sophomore Matt Van Sickle.

Before dinner on Saturday night, students paired off for the Emmaus walk. Students shared about themselves and their walks with God with another they weren't acquainted with very well. A talent show and another campfire wrapped up Saturday's events. "I enjoyed singing around the campfire and the free time. After The Weekend, I hope to be more open to personal differences," said Megan Kresch.

Sunday morning a worship service was held, enabling students to listen to testimonies given by their peers and participate in taking communion. Students left Camp Spalding Sunday after with a sense of peace and a greater knowledge of who they are and who they are called to follow. "The Weekend provided a chance for me to leave my worries and problems behind for three days," said freshman David Nelson. Sophomore Nicol Kleppin said "We formed a small community and were able to bring it back to Whitworth."

Parents Weekend

It's that weekend again, you know the one where those blessed with parental units eat croissants and drink lemon tinged ice water in Marriott, while everyone else gets deli bar in the HUB. The weekend when Mom brings all those embarrassing things you left at home and Dad reminisces about his days at the big university.

Basically, though it's a great weekend. You show your folks around (including the downtown skywalks), eat out a lot and send your parents back to school at the mini-colleges. This year's selection included: Forrest Baird's "Core 50-an introduction to Core 250," Diane Thomas' "Careers in the 90s," Ron Pyle's "Describing and Managing Interpersonal Conflict," Lois Kreffaber's "The Consequences of Unrestricted Growth," and Dick Mandeville's "What is a Healthy Relationship Anyway?" Then we're wisked off to President DeJong's convocation, followed by the indoor, pre-game picnic.

"I don't know what people complain about," said fifth-year-senior Elouise Nelson, "I had to wait four years for my parents to come, and I had to beg!"

The weekend continues and some began to think, "now I remember one of the reasons I left to go to college!" as Mom notices the chest deep pile of laundry in the corner and Dad wants to know where you find space to study.

Heeding the advice of your parentless roommate you quickly hurry the family off to the Pine Bowl for a Whitworth soccer game or off to a day of less freedom-threatening family bonding. This is how many Whitworthians run into each other in Eddie Bauer's, J.C. Penney's and Nordstrom's.

The evenings in the Cowles Auditorium are filled with the voices of the professor cast of "The Golden Age."

Sunday morning, and students may hop in Mom and Dad's car and go to what the brochure called "church of your choice." Back on campus, Marriott is busily hosting a no-host brunch at Leavitt Dining Hall.

Homecoming Day

The campus went Greek for Homecoming '91. The week kicked off on Wednesday with dorm decorating. Each dorm was given a theme. The Greek myths were: Ballard · Venus, goddess of beauty; Mac · Hades, god of the underworld; B.J. · Midas, the golden touch; Stewart · Zeus, lord of the sky; Warren · Poseidon, ruler of the sea; Arend · Aphrodite, goddess of love; and the village and off-campus decorated the HUB in a general Greek theme. The dorm decorating competition was won by Arend.

Thursday night Olympic style Greek games were held in the Loop. They took place in a big arena with flood lights. Some of the games included a fish egg slap and a cow dung toss.

Another change to Homecoming this year was the idea of "gods" and "goddesses" instead of the traditional king and queen. One god and goddess was chosen from each dorm.

The half time chariot race during the football game against Simon Fraser was a high light of the week. The Warrens came in first place.

"For me the most exciting part of the week was during chariot race," said Ballard goddess Julie Fairman. "I sat down on the chariot with Jon Sloan (the Mac god) and it broke. We had to be carried during the race."

Jeff Polage also made his debut during the game as the new Pirate mascot.

DEAD FISH: Margaret Meeker and her partner from B.J. participated in the "fish egg slap" competition. The object was to break the egg on your opponent's head with the fish.

BREAKING THROUGH: Aaron Pacheco gains some yardage for the Pirates against Simon Fraser. Whitworth went on to win 24-17 over the Clansmen.

GREEK DINOSAURS: Warren's goddess, junior Kari Henderson, and god, freshmen Trevor MacDuff, applaud as other dorm gods and goddesses are announced during halftime.

NASTY PIRATES: Senior Jeff Polage shows his spirit as the new school mascot.

Homecoming Night

Greek Week 1991 culminated with a "Return to Athens." That was this year's theme to Homecoming held on October 19 in downtown Spokane at the Ag Trade Center where one could dance the night away or be entertained by a comedian.

Before reaching the Ag Trade Center many couples, or groups, had different ways of having fun or trying to impress their dates. Some people went to watch the Spokane Chiefs play hockey against Seattle, while others took their dates to Manito Park to dance all alone.

Another way to impress your date is to totally surprise them with a new way to experience Homecoming; by U-Haul. Freshman Becky Kitzman said that there is, "definitely nothing more exciting than going to Homecoming in a U-Haul then, maybe, rollerskating in a formal."

There was more to Homecoming than impressing your date and having fun. Junior Kari Henderson, who was voted the Warren's Goddess, said this of Homecoming night, "It was a kick, I got a free dinner out of it."

"After practice I went to grab what I thought was a can of Arid Extra Dry and sprayed it on. After leaving the locker room I looked at my armpits, which felt kind of sticky, and they were pitch black. What I had used was a can of black acrylic spray paint. To get it off I went to see Russ, who had to use tape remover."

What I Did Last Summer

"The fall production of What I Did Last Summer was the second of two plays by A.R. Gurney, an up and coming American playwright," said director Rick Horner. The play takes place in the summer of 1945 on the Canadian shore of Lake Erie, near Buffalo, New York. It's a story about a fourteen-year-old boy named Charlie, played by Pomona, Ca. freshman Chris Hamming, growing up and having to make decisions about life. He works and becomes friends with Anna, the pig woman played by Medford, Or. senior Beth Bloomquist who tries to find his potential. While Charlie's mother, played by Silverdale, Wa. freshman Cindy Kolhmann, and his sister, played by Spokane, Wa. senior Lisa Mattiello are trying to make him go to a private boarding school he does not want to go. Also, Charlie has problems with his best friend, Ted, played by Tacoma, Wa. sophomore Erich VonHeeder, and the girl they both like Bonny, played by Georgetown, Tx. freshman Sara Revell. The play was very well presented and had an extra twist, the characters once in a while turned and talked to the audience about what the play was about.

The Cornerstone

Ephesians 2: 19-20 "Consequently, you are no longer foreigners and aliens, but fellow citizens with God's people and members of God's household, built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus himself as the chief cornerstone."

Whitworth College is providing us with a foundation, one on which we can build a future. But every foundation needs a cornerstone, a strong and sturdy rock on which to lay the foundation. At Whitworth, Jesus Christ is that cornerstone. On Him we can build ourselves and our community. Jesus is the link that draws us all together. Talk to students and they will tell you that the community of Christ is the basis for Whitworth College.

"It's obvious to me. I think mainly it has got to be the family atmosphere. It's the faculty, staff, and student body cohesiveness that's made by the Christian atmosphere. It's like we all have a common bond." Kellishea Chatman, Baldwin-Jenkins Cultural Diversity Advocate

Ephesians 2: 19-20 "Consequently, you are no longer foreigners and aliens, but fellow citizens with God's people and members of God's household, built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus himself as the chief cornerstone."

Jesus Christ is the foundation at Whitworth, and He impacts both the people and the larger structure. Christ serves as the cornerstone for a group services and activities that have helped shape Whitworth. Christ is seen in the dorms through resident chaplains and in regular chapel services, as well as in outreach. These ministries include Diakonia mission trips, counselling services, and visiting Christians through the Staley Distinguished Lectureship Series, Focus Days, and the Weekend fall student retreat. Everywhere you look, Jesus is working, laying the foundation soon to leave the Whitworth community and enter the world.

"As Christians, we are not only citizens of this world, such as members of this academic institution. We are also citizens of heaven where we will live eternally. As a Christian institution, it is a good reminder for us to know that Jesus Christ is the chief cornerstone of the Whitworth family. That is, we labor and strive not only for our academic achievement and personal growing, but we have a solid foundation in Him to place our hope in." Amy J. Reid, Jenkins Resident Assistant

"I feel like the faculty and administration have a very close bond within themselves and the relationship they have with each other gives a strong witness to the rest of the campus. When you have a core group of people that is really strong and there's a strong relationship within them, and then other people are drawn to that core." John Jenkins, Arend Resident Assistant

Sunday Night Live draws Monica Martens and Mel Oshiro to the chapel.

"You can see how it is set up on the whole campus in that, in state schools, they have no chapel program, no R.C.'s in dorms. In many classes taught, compared to the state schools, we get a Christian perspective, typically." Mark Hawke

●Football●

Stacked with young players and raw talent, the Bucs matured throughout the season and laid the foundation for the future. The Whitworth football team finished the season on a positive note by beating Western Oregon 26-8. They ended with a 3-6 overall record, and 2-4 in the Mount Rainer League. Plagued by early injuries, the offense struggled but gained experience as the young players rose to fill the shoes of their predecessors. The veteran pirate defense, consisting of six senior starters, finished first in the Mount Rainer League in pass defense to round out the 1991 season. The Bucs graduate thirteen seniors - ten on defense and three on offense. Though their record didn't reflect the progress of the team, the Bucs grew as a team and gained experience to build on for the future.

● Women's Soccer ●

This year was the Women's Soccer team's third year as a varsity sport here at Whitworth and also marked the first trip to the District Play-offs for the team. The women, coached by Einar Thorarinsson and former Whitworth Men's Soccer team member Scott Downes, recored a 10-7-1 record to improve over the past two years. Their play and improved record allowed the team to participate in Districts at Pacific Lutheran University.

This year the team had "a lot more talent, since last year was a learning year, and this year we had a lot of returning people and the coaching situation was much better with Scott Downes and Einar was with us more," said sophomore Lisa Hobbs. Also, the team was much more aggressive than last year's team in which not many team members went for the ball. "Going for the ball everyone converged as a team instead of one person leading the attack," said Hobbs of this year's team.

So, in comparison with last year's team this year's is more thoroughly coached and more aggressive. Another improvement of the team was on the point of defense. Senior Jenni Buchanan said, "The whole team plays defense, we used to not do that. We are now more defensively orientated than last year." Also, most of this year's recruits and new players played defense.

With improvements as a team and in coaching, and new defensive strategies the women participated in the District Tournament. Though the women lost 2-0, their improvements proved that they are able to compete with the tougher teams and hold their ground.

● Men's Soccer ●

HEY, I'M SURROUNDED: Driving his way through defenders the Pirates' player moves down the field.

The Men's Soccer season began with high hopes of winning districts. They had gathered a mid-field which had been a hole in their game the previous year. As the team adjusted to a new style that involved more control of the game and less total offense and total defense, the season got under way.

The season began with the seniors looking to repeat the record of the previous year. Then the plague began. According to Coach Einar Thorarinsson the team suffered an unusually high number of injuries, some quite serious.

"Things were just falling into place," said senior Dave Chattergy. "we thought we were filling the holes. Then we lost our one returning defense player and the backfield started getting holes, too."

The team lost two forwards and part of their backfield to injuries and at one time had half of their starters out on injuries. After losing two games in the first half of the season, the season took on more of an attitude of a "building year."

The team will lose four senior players to graduation this year including Chattergy, Kevin Moon, Dean Miyama and Jeff Robbins. In building the team up for future seasons, Thorarinsson sees a great deal of potential in the sophomore players.

The season's highlight was a once in a lifetime shot by Shawn Clegg against Wilamette which won that game 1-0. Although they finished the season 9-9-1 Thorarinsson sees a good team building with Most Valuable Player sophomore Jason Waymire and improved sophomore John Nagel and freshman Sean Hendrickson.

SETTING THE PACE: Brian Frey dribbles away from his opponent.

AIRBORNE: Pirates go up for the block.

GROUNDING: Trying to block leaves Pirate sliding to a stop.

GOOD: The Pirates score and one celebrates.

Cross Country

This past cross country season was similar to the one for the fall of 1989. The teams consisted of many freshmen. For the women's team these new faces competed with three sophomores and two upperclassmen and did very well for another young women's team which last year placed 19th in the nation at Nationals in Kenosha, Wisconsin. As for the men, the freshmen competed with two returning juniors and one junior transfer, thus making a very young team, which did well. So for both cross-countrys here at Whitworth, which in turn should create even better teams than 1989 men's team and the women's team of 1990.

Women's captain Melanie Kosin said, "overall this year's team was more enthusiastic than last year's team and the only reason they didn't make it to Nationals was because of the harder competition at this year's District race." The women's team finished 2nd at conference and just missed going to Nationals, but still sent Melanie Kosin for an eleventh place finish at Kenosha. "The team this year had a much stronger pack than last year's team," said Stephanie Schenk, returning sophomore. The pack consisted of three new freshmen, Cristy Carlson, Kim Huston, and Caryn Wilson.

The men's team, however, was laced with injuries to at least one of their top seven in every race this season, but still had a good, if not learning year this year. As commented by freshman Brent Corbaley, "This year's team had lots of potential it didn't realize, but it was a good team of unique individuals and they were great to work with." The men's best finish this season was at Conference, where they place 3rd overall, but missed 2nd by two points.

AN UPHILL BATTLE: Up, up and to the finish go Christy Carlson with Amy Duryee hot on her heels with a 1/4 mile to go.

OFF AND RUNNING: Men and Women's cross country teams try to break away from the crowd.

● Volleyball ●

This year's Whitworth women's volleyball team had a respectable season. Lisa MacDougall said, "This year's team was better than the record showed." The ladies won the conference meet and did respectable at the district meet. "We had a real special team. We got together very well, even though we had lots of different backgrounds," said Beth Knutson, "and worked well on the court, even though we didn't make it to Nationals, we did well."

How about next year? "With the right recruiting, we'll do great," said Lisa MacDougall. "The team was great, we did OK, and we are ready for next year," said Tara Frederickson.

● Women's Basketball ●

The 1991-92 Women's Basketball team had a great season. Their goals were set high, as they should've been with five returning seniors as veterans. In addition to the seniors the team consisted of a junior, two sophomores, and two freshmen. The small team was plagued with some injuries early in the season, but the team used these setbacks to pull together and become more united. The two new coaches, both of whom played basketball for the UW, brought some new ideas and added a little spice to the team. Overall, the Lady Pirates had a good season and came out on top with a 500 season.

TEAMWORK: The womens basketball team gets words of advice and encouragement from their coach.

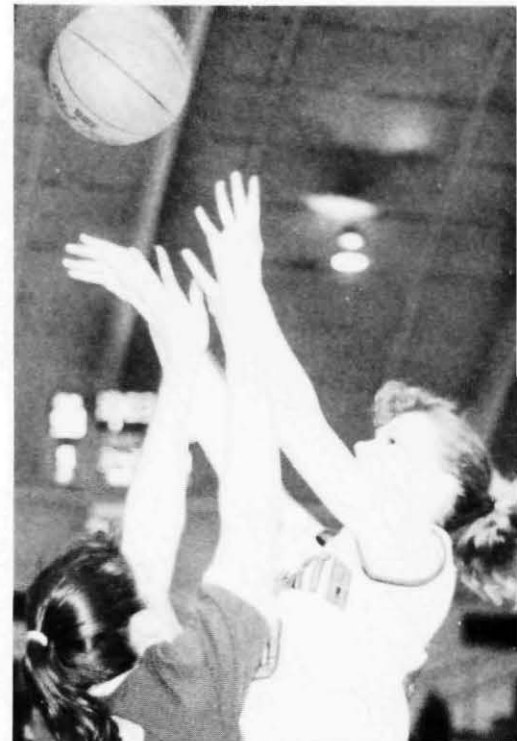

"At first the team thought we were going to be the track team, but as the season progressed our hard work on and off the court paid off. We became a closer team because of all the battles we overcame to win the war...right Lisa"

-Molly McLaughlin

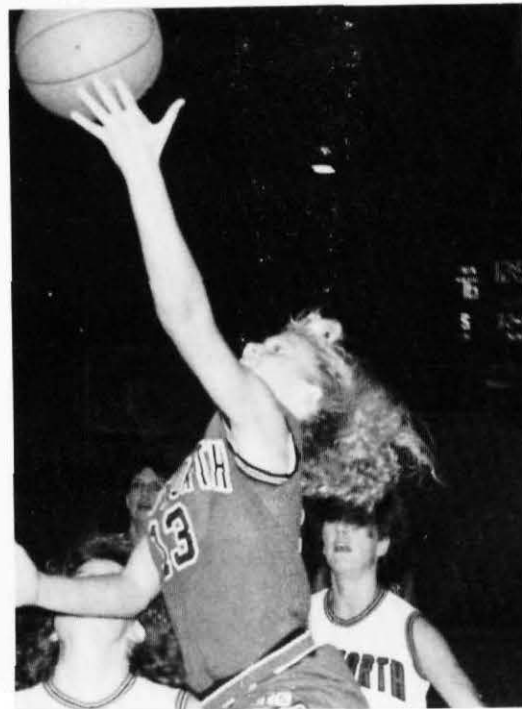

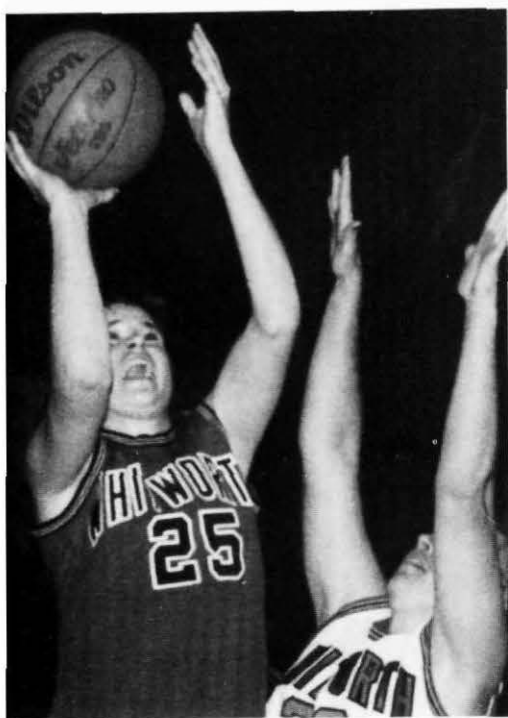

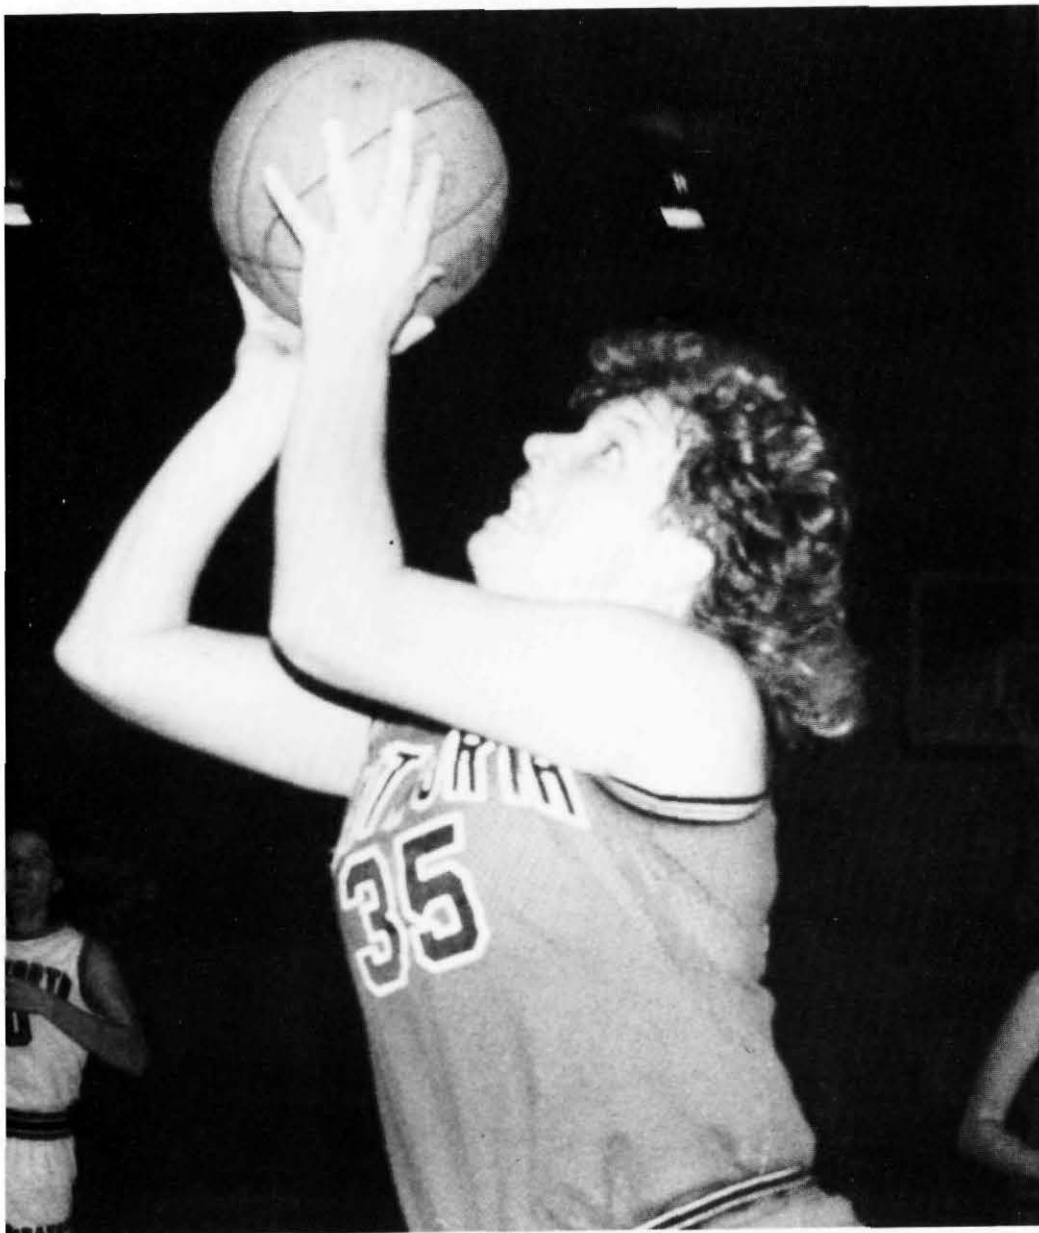

"Our teamwork and friendships go far beyond just the season. We support each other year round in every way, whether it's academics or other sports." Darci Kummer

"We haven't been very predictable, but that has made us a little more exciting to watch. Our season has been an eventful one, we all have a lot of fun when we're playing to our potential." -Kim McFadden

GET OUT OF THE WAY: Sophomore Annette Sweeny goes up for two against a very physical alumni player.

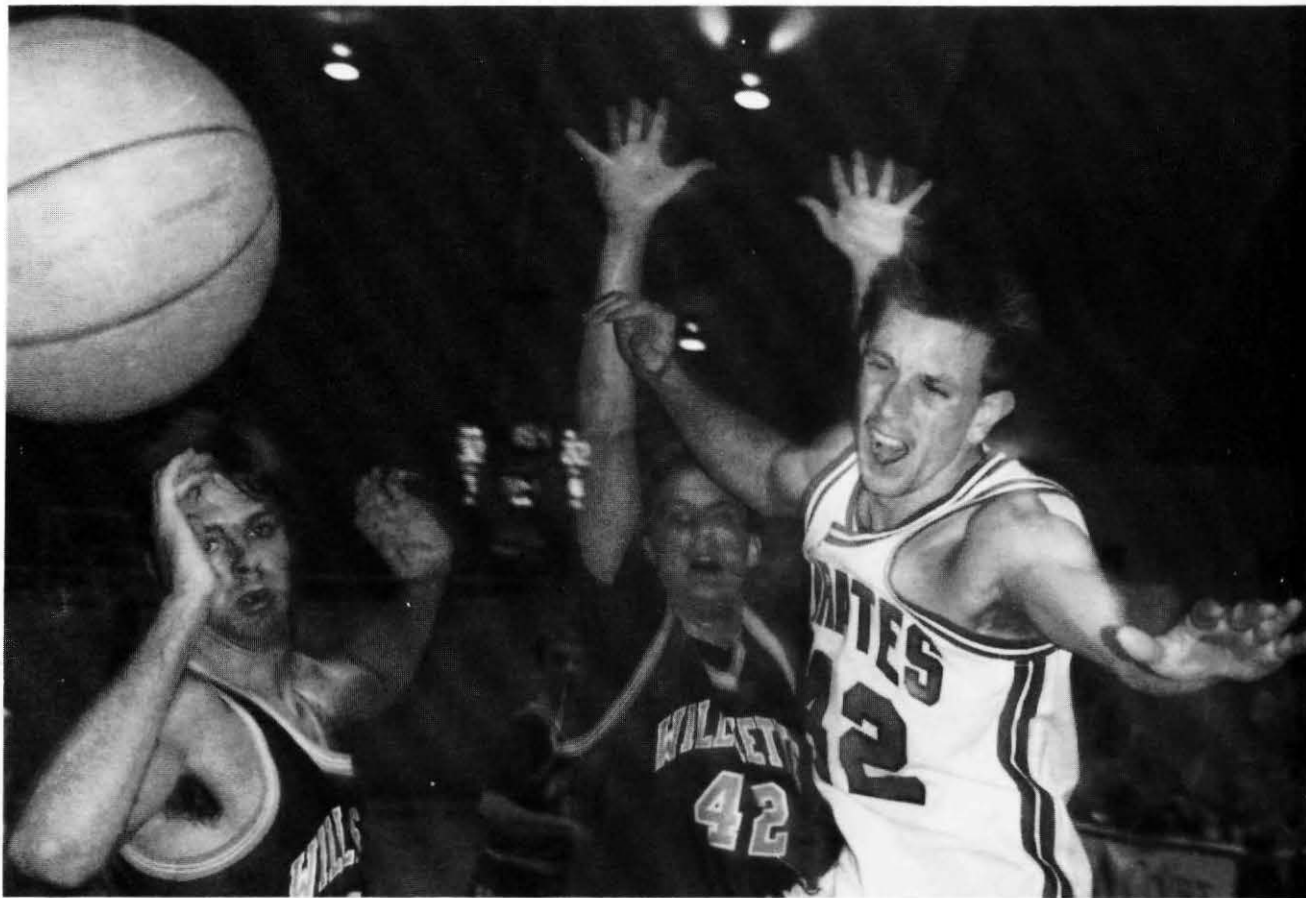

UP FOR THE SHOT: Tara Flugel shoots for two at the annual alumni game.

FROSH POWER: Amy, a freshman, tries to take a shot over the top of a defender.

SNEAK ATTACK: Doug Loiler jumps in front of a Willamette player.

The 91-92 men's basketball team combined intensity, teamwork, and enthusiasm to earn their way to districts. The team was guided by exceptional leadership from four seniors. The bucs started the season slowly with a record of 3-6, but proceeded to come up with a 10 game winning streak against teams like Seattle Pacific and Willamette. In the end the team was rewarded for all its work and dedication with another winning season.

Dan Smith: "We started the season out 3-6 and we all knew by the end we would be two legit to quit."

Doug Lolier and Kevin Smith: "We knew the season would start off slow but once we were in the conference things started to look up."

Mark Wheeler: "We started out the season by making a commitment to play as a team and we have done exactly that. It pays off in the end."

● Swimming ●

The 1991-92 season for the swim team was a good one. The team worked hard and it showed in their performances. The swim team is made up of a group of dedicated, hard-working individuals, who with the help of Tom Dodd, their coach, have striven to be the best they can be. Swimming is a year round sport which involves a commitment far beyond the call of duty. Just imagine trudging through a foot of snow in 10 below weather at five o'clock in the morning to swim for two hours. Sounds like fun? Well, at least they think

TOUGH COMPETITION: PJ Pedroni competing hard in the 200m breaststroke.

"Basically it's been a stupendous, colossal, outstanding season. We've proven ourselves against other teams even though we only have eight men compared to other teams with thirty or so." -Kris Coleman
