

9-1-2017

Year in Review

Janet Hauck

Follow this and additional works at: http://digitalcommons.whitworth.edu/library_retreat

Recommended Citation

Hauck, Janet, "Year in Review" Whitworth University (2017). Library Retreat. Paper 8.
http://digitalcommons.whitworth.edu/library_retreat/8

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by the Library at Whitworth University. It has been accepted for inclusion in Library Retreat by an authorized administrator of Whitworth University.

Janet's Year in Review

2016-17

Q: Where do pirates like to go for coffee?

Seasonal Highlights

- Fall 2016

- Election to SAA/ARCS Chair-Elect and appointment to Alliance/DCWG Chair
- Exhibit for the opening of Cowles Music Building
- Major collections processed = First Covenant Church and Corpron Parker Papers
- Article accepted = “Exploring Motivation: Integrating the ARCS Model with Instruction”

- Spring 2017

- Alliance/DCWG User Testing Project for digital objects in Primo
- Article accepted = “From Service to Synergy: Embedding Librarians in a Digital Humanities Project”
- Rights management work!!!

- Summer 2017

- Scanning of Whitworth Today and Commencement Bulletins for Digital Commons
- Three amazing conferences!

FOR THE COMMON GOOD:
DIGITAL COMMONS MEETS THE ARCHIVES

*Janet Hauck
Whitworth University
Northwest Archivists
Boise, ID – May 18, 2017*

CURRENT SITUATION

In the past two years, Whitworth University and Whitman College have both deployed bepress's Digital Commons on their respective campuses.

At Whitworth the archivist and IR librarian collaborate.

At Whitman a committee takes the lead.

Both institutions have had to make decisions regarding:

- collection mandate
- metadata standards
- workflow efficiencies

IN AN IDEAL WORLD

Choose your IR with both current scholarship and archival content in mind

Write a mission statement

Write a collection policy

Perform outreach and in-reach

Determine rights statements

Define roles – who does outreach – who does uploading of content – which metadata should be assigned – who adjusts/ makes changes to metadata

YOU ADD YOUR OWN!

Doing Social History Research in Religious Collections:

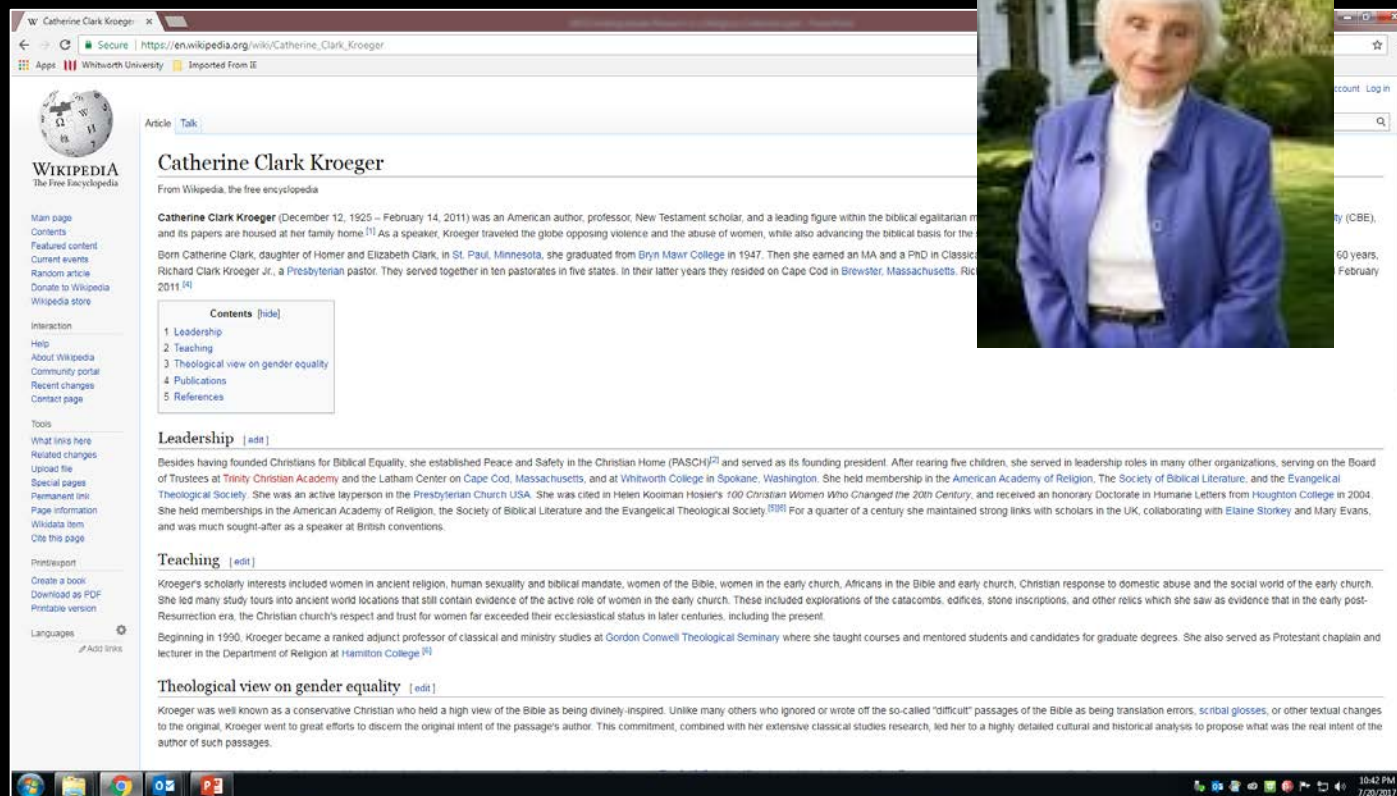

“Taking from Females what God has Given Them.”

Janet Hauck, MLIS, CA

SAA-ARCS Chair 2017-18

Christians for Biblical Equality

- Founded in 1988
- I received a call in 2008 from a founder and first president
- WU trustee in 1970's
- Cleaning out her files
- Founding documents
- “My children will throw these away.”

The image shows a screenshot of a web browser displaying the Wikipedia article for Catherine Clark Kroeger. The browser's address bar shows the URL https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Catherine_Clark_Kroeger. The article title is "Catherine Clark Kroeger" and it is identified as "From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia". The article text states: "Catherine Clark Kroeger (December 12, 1925 – February 14, 2011) was an American author, professor, New Testament scholar, and a leading figure within the biblical egalitarian movement. Her work and papers are housed at her family home.^[1] As a speaker, Kroeger traveled the globe opposing violence and the abuse of women, while also advancing the biblical basis for the Born Catherine Clark, daughter of Homer and Elizabeth Clark, in St. Paul, Minnesota, she graduated from Bryn Mawr College in 1947. Then she earned an MA and a PhD in Classics from Richard Clark Kroeger Jr., a Presbyterian pastor. They served together in ten pastorates in five states. In their latter years they resided on Cape Cod in Brewster, Massachusetts. Rick 2011.^[4]"

Below the text is a "Contents" table of contents with the following items:

- 1 Leadership
- 2 Teaching
- 3 Theological view on gender equality
- 4 Publications
- 5 References

The article also has sections for "Leadership" and "Teaching". The "Leadership" section states: "Besides having founded Christians for Biblical Equality, she established Peace and Safety in the Christian Home (PASCH)^[2] and served as its founding president. After rearing five children, she served in leadership roles in many other organizations, serving on the Board of Trustees at Trinity Christian Academy and the Latham Center on Cape Cod, Massachusetts, and at Whitworth College in Spokane, Washington. She held membership in the American Academy of Religion, The Society of Biblical Literature, and the Evangelical Theological Society. She was an active layperson in the Presbyterian Church USA. She was cited in Helen Kooman Hosier's 100 Christian Women Who Changed the 20th Century, and received an honorary Doctorate in Humane Letters from Houghton College in 2004. She held memberships in the American Academy of Religion, the Society of Biblical Literature and the Evangelical Theological Society.^{[3][6]} For a quarter of a century she maintained strong links with scholars in the UK, collaborating with Elaine Storkey and Mary Evans, and was much sought-after as a speaker at British conventions."

The "Teaching" section states: "Kroeger's scholarly interests included women in ancient religion, human sexuality and biblical mandate, women of the Bible, women in the early church, Africans in the Bible and early church, Christian response to domestic abuse and the social world of the early church. She led many study tours into ancient world locations that still contain evidence of the active role of women in the early church. These included explorations of the catacombs, edifices, stone inscriptions, and other relics which she saw as evidence that in the early post-Resurrection era, the Christian church's respect and trust for women far exceeded their ecclesiastical status in later centuries, including the present."

The "Theological view on gender equality" section states: "Beginning in 1990, Kroeger became a ranked adjunct professor of classical and ministry studies at Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary where she taught courses and mentored students and candidates for graduate degrees. She also served as Protestant chaplain and lecturer in the Department of Religion at Hamilton College.^[4]"

The article also has a section for "Theological view on gender equality" which states: "Kroeger was well known as a conservative Christian who held a high view of the Bible as being divinely-inspired. Unlike many others who ignored or wrote off the so-called "difficult" passages of the Bible as being translation errors, scribal glosses, or other textual changes to the original, Kroeger went to great efforts to discern the original intent of the passage's author. This commitment, combined with her extensive classical studies research, led her to a highly detailed cultural and historical analysis to propose what was the real intent of the author of such passages."

To the right of the screenshot is a portrait of Catherine Clark Kroeger, an elderly woman with short white hair, wearing a blue jacket over a white top, standing outdoors in front of a white house with a porch.

Vision – Then and Now

Minutes of the Founding Committee of Men, Women, and God: Christians for Biblical Equality

August 27, 1987 Brewster, Mass. Home of Catherine Clark Kroeger

Present: Jim Beck, Elizabeth Kroeger Elliott, Deborah Lunde, Alvera Mickelsen, Berkeley Mickelsen, Faith Martin, Alice Mathews, Catherine Kroeger, Diane Chynoweth, Dorothy Meyer. Recorder: Susan McCoubrie. Presiding: Catherine Kroeger

Meditation: Looking to the Past and to the Future, an example from Scripture. Daniel's ministry went through three kingdoms, upheaval after upheaval in his life. He was concerned as to how to do and know God's will, and was called upon to interpret the future. He was discredited, thrown to the lions as an aged man over 80 years old. Read the Book of Daniel when you think there is no hope, no answer. Daniel kept faith, he kept looking to God. Daniel 12:2-3. A season of prayer followed.

- CBE envisions a future where all believers are freed to exercise their gifts for God's glory and purposes, with the full support of their Christian communities.

*I Want My Digital Objects and I
Want Them Now: Can Primo Keep
Up with Demand?*

JANET HAUCK, DCWG CHAIR
WHITWORTH UNIVERSITY
ALLIANCE PRIM
AUGUST 14, 2017

DCWG 2017 ACTIVITY

USER TESTING NEED

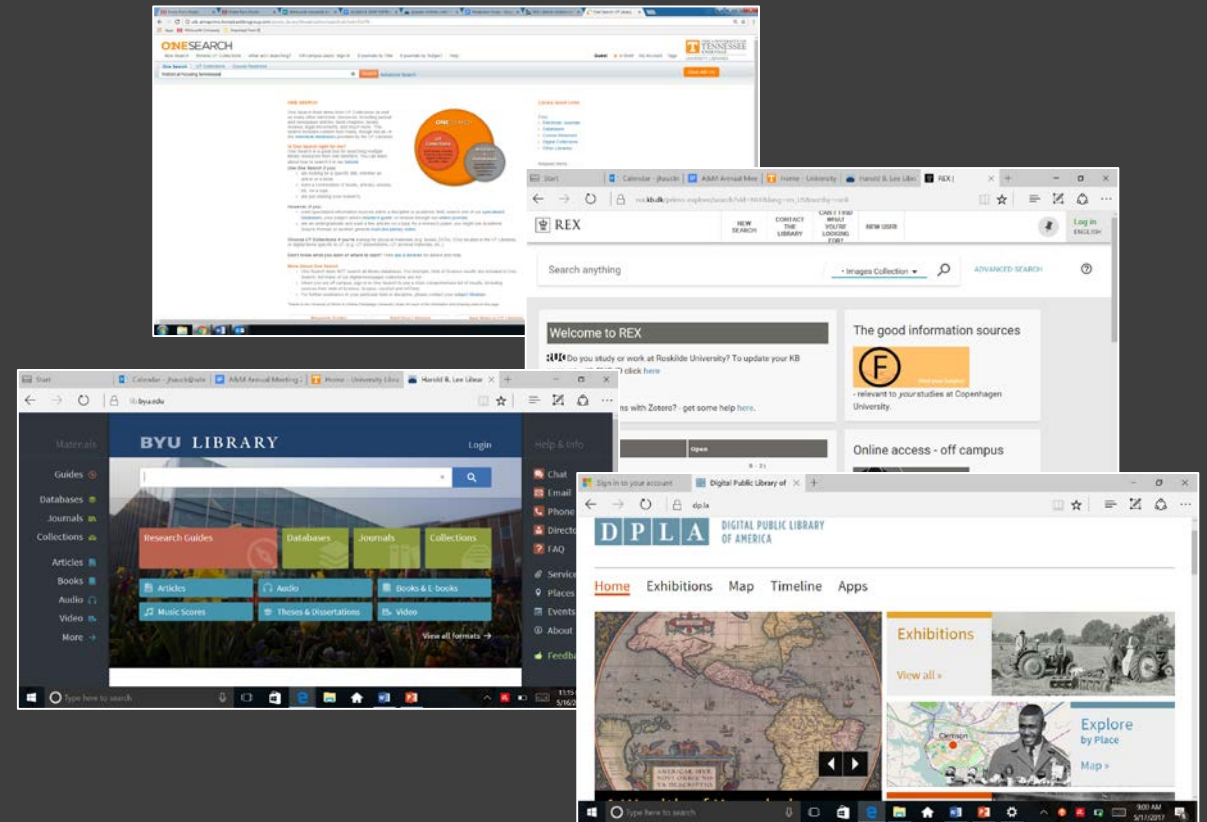

- Needed to determine how researchers prefer to locate and use digital objects once they are harvested and ready for discovery

USER TESTING EXERCISE

- We chose four institution websites for testing
- Three sites utilized Primo to provide access to digital objects
- Two aggregated digital content from multiple institutions

USER TESTING REPORT

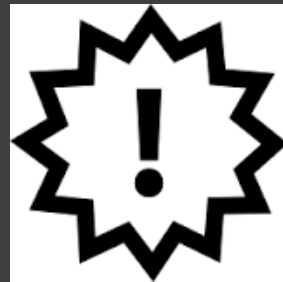

- Process, findings, conclusions, recommendations, next steps!

Interesting UT Observations

TYPE FACETS

- Images
- Image Collections
- Online Images
- Primary Source Documents
- Digital Collections
- Digitized Collections
- Special Collections
- Statistical Data Sets
- Photographs
- Group Portraits
- Portrait Photographs
- Eye-level Views

TESTER OBSERVATIONS of USERS

- Yes, seemed to inspire confidence.
- Yes, reacted positively.
- Yes, liked that.
- Yes, found this display clearer than the last.
- Yes, reacted as expected.
- I suspect so, but he didn't elaborate on it.
- Never really completed it.
- User remarked: “I would have gone to Google Images long ago, except that I had agreed to do this user testing exercise for you!”

Exciting Things Ahead

- Fall 2017

- Teaching with primary sources = HI 241 and GE 125
- Collections “in the queue” = Roger Mohrlang Papers and Core Program Records
- Chair of Alliance/DCWG and SAA/ARCS
- Articles underway:
 - “MPLP Ten Years Later: Reflections on Being the First!”
 - “Go to the Source: Applying the New ‘Guidelines for Primary Source Literacy’”