SPOKANE

June 28, 1910.

Mrs. John B. Dodd,
610 Sharp avenue,
Spokane, Wash.,

Dear Madam:

The accompanying letter explains itself.

Will you please send to me one of your photographs and a statement concerning the movement to make the third Sunday in June, "Fathers' Day," a national holiday.

Mr. Earle Hooker Eaton is managing editor of the American Press association in New York, which supplies items and illustrations to more than 4,500 newspapers in various parts of the United States, and thus presents a medium to bring your plan directly before the people of the country.

Will you please give this attention at your earliest convenience, so I can forward the photograph and statement before the end of the week.

Thanking you in advance for your courtesy and wishing you every success, believe me,

Sincerely

Secretary Publicity Committee

August Wolf,
