There are some men who work in the front ranks to get the applause of men. There are some who work in the front, but whose works are never applauded. But there are other workers, too: there are men who work in the background, never expecting applause, never working toward such a transient goal.

Prof. A. O. Gray is one of these latter men. He has worked tirelessly in his favorite field, the department of journalism. Almost single-handedly, he has built the department of advertising to the point where it is one of Whitworth’s chief drawing-cards.

But Prof. Gray has been more than a worker: he has taken time to be a friend. As advisor to both the newspaper and the yearbook, he has given advice only when he is asked, believing that the student will learn far more and will appreciate his learning more when he feels a certain freedom.

His advice, when sought, has always been sound and tempered with a common sense that one appreciates only from a backward glance.

To this man we owe our gratitude, our appreciation; yes, even our love.

We affectionately dedicate the 1958 edition of the Natsihi to

the sound of service
Once more it is my privilege to express to the students my appreciation for the year just closing. Increasingly, we are realizing that there are many facets to a college program. There must be buildings, a faculty and, yes, students. We are proud of our consecrated, well-trained faculty. Many of them have served sacrificially over the years and their influence has become world-wide. From time to time we are called upon to enlarge our faculty, but it is to the credit of the group that actually there are few who come who do not stay.

Then, of course, there are the buildings. It has been, and still is, a tremendous job to build a modern plant large enough to comfortably house a student body the size of ours. And then to erect attractive buildings that will complement the natural beauty of our campus is another problem. This past year marked the completion and dedication of Hardwick Memorial Student Center. And now, when you return next September, at long last, we shall have a beautiful, modern, fireproof dormitory for our men. Surely our students henceforth will be housed in quarters comfortable and attractive.

Today, as I think back on the year just closing, I am especially thankful for our students. Many of you could have gone elsewhere at less cost. But this is your college and you have helped to make this past year outstanding. Our school spirit has been good. You have had many ideas and plans and now, at the close of the year, we are indeed a team united in purpose and program. To you who graduate, there lies the challenge of the unknown. May you steer your craft wisely and skillfully into the uncharted waters that lie ahead. Remember, all of us need a master navigator, and there is One in whom you can trust. And to all undergraduates, may this be a profitable summer. I trust that I shall be here to welcome you in September when you return.

FRESHMAN

With fear in their hearts, both freshmen and upperclassmen squealed their greetings to friends and smiled boldly at faculty as school again creaked open its doors (also with some trepidation.) The freshmen feared because they didn’t know what it would be like: the upperclassmen because they did.

Registration progressed smoothly, although the best-laid plans went astray when confronted by the cold reality of a demanding bursar.
Scarcely had the introductory period begun before it was time for the time-honored 'orientation' of the freshmen.

Cries of 'Button, Frosh' became the rage, and soon freshman pens were scratching, "I've been dunked, skunked, and debunked, but I like it here. I think I'll stay. By the way, send money."
Dear Folks,

Boy, what a riot this college life has turned out to be. I finally had to drop all my classes so I could take part in the extracurricular activities.

And I mean riot. I got a little bruise up after the Cheney game but the cast comes off next week.

This school is really great. We have had all kinds of special feeds and entertainments of various sorts from pop concerts to a barber-shop quartet festival which was tops.

Besides the all-school parties, there are dorm parties, 'sings,' formal deals like the 'meet your faculty' line-up in the HUB, and other special occasions. We also held open dorms for both men's and women's dorms. They had to leave after 9:30 though, anyway.

So we're really having a lot of fun. One thing strikes me funny, though. Everybody's getting engaged. It's like Asiatic flu, which we've also had.

Oh, by the way, send money.

And this is my wife, Mrs. Johnson.

SNOW FROLIC

Although King Winter seemed in no mood to comply with the Frolic committee’s demand for snow, Whitworth held its celebration in honor of the white flakes in spite of his lack of co-operation. Traveling to Chewelah to find the snow served only to make the frolic more enjoyable for all.

Reigning over festivities were King Ralph Heritage (sophomore), and Queen Karen Girnus (freshman).

the sound of leadership
A kaleidoscopic din of voices was the constant companion of President Bob Gray as he tried to satisfy the requests of all Whitworthians. The rap of a gavel against wood probably echoed many times over in his brain, but through all the babble he remained calmly efficient.

Acting as a sounding board for Whitworth's governmental p e eves, the Student Council, composed of presidents of campus organizations, as well as o t h e r student representatives, worked for more efficient governmental practices.

For veep, Olga Stray, sounds of socialization echoed from her office as she planned and organized activities and other all-school functions.

The clinquing of money entering and leaving the treasury resounds as treasurer, Lyman Benshoof, kept track of school funds.

The scratch of pen and peck of typewriter keys could be heard as secretary Robbie efficiently recorded the minutes and handled the correspondence of the student body.

The work of fifth exec Jack Rozell was accompanied by stir of campaigning as he administered voting routine.
The Associated Women Students, with Sandra Joseph in the Presidential position, spent the year working on a thorough evaluation program which looked into every phase of the organization's work. Ideas for more efficient operation resulted, as did many new events. Among the latter were a Christmas tea and fashion show, the sponsoring of movies, and an unusually different May Day program.

Ken Grissom held the place of top leadership for the Associated Men Students, and did an excellent job of bringing in new ideas for activities. For the first time, Men's Conference was held in the fall, and the traditional Dad's Day activities were expanded.

A.K.X.

Banded together by the common bond of off-campus living, the members of Alpha Kappa Chi made the HUB their "home-away-from-home" between classes.

Despite the fact that they are not in such close relationships as are dorm dwellers, the town students enjoyed some of the social activities usually associated with dorm life.

All-town-student parties were held at various students' homes. Through the associate dorm member program, the towners were able to participate in many of the dorm activities.

Gene Lorenson led the group as its president this year.
PIRETTE

Whitworth’s outstanding honorary organization for women, Pirettes, grants membership to those coeds who have displayed qualities of leadership and citizenship.

Although membership is honorary, Pirettes may be called-upon to serve in various capacities, but can most often be found ushering at programs, recitals, and such functions.

Peggy Connnon was Pirettes president for 1957-58, and Miss Marian Jenkins served as faculty advisor.
Since there are no more fair maidens needing immediate rescue from dragons, the Intercollegiate Knights have found occupation elsewhere, being especially useful in directing traffic and ushering at games.

As a service organization, the IK's are found on almost every campus, and Whitworth's "Lookout" chapter is as helpful as any of them. Membership to the Intercollegiate Knights is granted on the basis of citizenship, service, and devotion to duty.

PHI ALPHA

Membership in this organization is given to those seniors who have maintained a cumulative grade point average of 3.5 or better throughout their school years. Juniors who have maintained this grade average are given associate memberships. Members are:

TRI BETA

Words like “pericardium” and “Salix argiphylla” were bandied about freely whenever Beta Beta Beta met, since this is the local chapter of the national biological organization.

PRE-MED

One of Whitworth’s most specialized professional groups is the Pre-Med Club, whose members are fairly well prescribed by the club’s name.

Actually, membership is open to other than future doctors, since the club has been known to accept aspiring dentists as well.

F.T.A.

Perhaps Whitworth's largest professional group, F.T.A., stands for "Future Teachers of America" and is composed of all students majoring in education and/or planning to enter teaching as a profession.

Whitworth's chapter of the state organization has for many years been recognized as outstanding. This year has been no exception. With Dorothy Houck as its president, the club has concentrated on strengthening itself, both individually and collectively, to be better teachers following graduation.

Dr. Jasper Johnson of the Education department is the group faculty advisor.
Many languages may be heard in a meeting of the Cosmopolitan Club, for this group is the banding together of the many foreign students, also including the children of American workers in foreign lands.

Miss Dorothy Adams and Miss Mae Whitten were advisors to the group this year.

SKI CLUB

But sometimes we gotta help...

If we wanta ski!
"W" CLUB

A "W" Club member can be easily told by his dress, particularly the large letter "W" which signifies his participation in a major intercollegiate sport.

Russ Brown presided over the activities of the "W" Club this year.

W.R.A.

For the girls who wanted an opportunity to relax from the strain of continual study, the Women's Recreation Association provided various sports throughout the year. Competition was held between dorms, and individually. President was Bev McLaurin.
YOUNG DEMOCRATS

Membership in the Young Democrats Club was a mark of individuality, for enthusiasts were a bit out-numbered on a primarily Republican campus. Nevertheless, the aspiring politicians spent the year learning, and talking, about their favorite candidates and officials.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS

Adding its wave of opinion to the general Republican tide of the campus was the Young Republican club. Members, with enthusiastic Dr. Cunningham as advisor, got together to hash and re-hash platforms, candidates and opinions, as well as to plan any possible propagandizing.

ENGINEERS

Math and Science are necessarily the main subject of concern to these men of the engineers club.

WRITERS

"I think this is pretty fair, but I'd like to know what the rest of you think," seemed to be the password toward Writers' Club membership. Student writers presented their "brain children" for their colleagues to use for sharpening critical tongues.

Alice Brubacher presided, with Prof. Leon Arksey as faculty advisor.

AND THE PINES

No author prefers anything to seeing his own creations in print and Whitworth's writers are no exception.

As the official publication of Whitworth's Writers' Club, "The Pines" made its fourth appearance this year, with the 1958 edition under the editorship of Gary Heilsberg. Of course, all the Writers' Club executive staff managed to lend a hand to the publication.
Copy-reading can be fun. Editors Holly Bartges and Nancy Donner.

THE WHITWORTHIAN

A newspaper office is usually a mad, wild noisy hole in the wall. Except for its beautiful new office in the HUB, The Whitworthian is no exception.

This year's editions of the Whitworthian were split between Holly Bartges and Nancy Donner, the former taking the paper during the fall semester, the latter following in the spring. Ralph Kingma handled the paper's finances when Bill Wuerch dropped out at the semester.
JoAnne Greene proved a capable snoop as she wended her way among the pines on the track of stories. As assistant editor, she proved she had a nose for news.

On the sports desk, George Carpenter took over the reins, at the semester, from the retiring Joe Cross. Peggy Heathers pasted many stamps, as she took charge of subscriptions and exchanges.

Pat O'Donahue kept the campus laughing with her wry comments on life and liberty among the "Peanuts" readers. Dave Henderson displayed a notable insight into international relations with his commentary on current news.
One disagreement coming up—Co-Editors Alice Brubacher and Gary Heilsberg.

This is an ad. Wes Brubacher instructs Peggy Cowles.
"It's an old Indian word, meaning 'From among the pines';" Alice Brubacher and Gary Heilsberg did not expect to be in a position to explain this book's name when they arrived on campus last fall. Then the roof fell in: the appointed editor had not returned and the job was on them. They fell to and here's the book.

Help came from all sides. Linda Bruns and Jan Owens proved to be invaluable section editors and were quickly advanced to assistant editors.

Handling the business end of the book was Wes Brubacher, assisted by Peggy Cowles, who was assisted by Tom Gedosch.

Luckily, the Natsihi was not handicapped by a lack of photographers, drawing from the talents of three. But somehow, pictures were what they always lacked.

The Natsihi offices are now located in a beautiful room in the HUB, which it shares with the Whitworthian, and a mysterious, blocked-off space which looks like a mimeograph room.

PUBLICATIONS COUNCIL

Typewriters click in the minds of these press-conscious students. With Prof. A. O. Gray as advisor, the Publications Council performs the task of co-ordinating the work of all three major campus publications—The Whitworthian, Natsihi, and Pines.

The Council is also responsible for naming the editors and business managers of the publications. Membership is given to editors, business managers, and three student council appointees.

CALENDAR

Faced with the monumental task of keeping straight all the many social and professional activities of the college, the Calendar Committee managed to avoid as many conflicts as possible.

The group had to keep one finger on student wishes, one on college rules, and another on their own blood pressure.
PUBLIC RELATIONS

A necessary part of the college is the broadcasting to neighboring areas, as well as to those greater distances away, the merits of its program. In charge of letting the public "in" on Whitworth's many fine areas of opportunity were these hard-working people.

Ron Rice, JoAnne Greene, Mr. Grey, Nancy Donner.

ACADEMIC

Promoting higher academic standards for Whitworth is the aim of this committee. With Helen Bengtson as its chairman, the group met to discuss such things as the purpose of college, and how to achieve a more "studious" atmosphere on campus.
RALLY

Generating pep and enthusiasm from the student body to the team was partly the responsibility of this committee, which planned such things as half-time stunts and new music and yells. Sound in plenty was their goal!

Members were Chuck Hayden, Pat Beaber, Sharon Nechanicky, Gordon Morse.

BETTER GOVERNMENT

"By the people, for the people, and of the people" was kept in mind by this group as it tried to make campus government more efficient through such things as clearly conceived constitutions.

Seated: George Scott, Sandy Gillis, Bob Welles, Glenn Ditmore. Standing: Jack Christensen, Gary Heilsberg.

HANGING OF THE GREENS

Responsibility for the Christmas festivities was placed with these people. Co-Chairmen Marilyn Burkhart and Gary Maxson proved that talent and brains do result in good ideas.

CAMPUS CHEST

In charge of the annual all-campus fund-raising campaign was Dick Liniger.

The Campus Chest drive is conducted each spring to raise money for worthy causes both within and outside of the church.

As in past years, the major portion of this year's funds went to the World University Service, with church workers and missionaries each gaining a share of the remainder.

SNOW FROLIC

Faced with the frightening task of planning and presenting the annual mid-winter fling, Jane Rogers and Mike Mayer coached their committee members along Scandinavian lines.

Hampered by a lack of snow, the committee forged ahead with most of the plans, being forced to cancel the snow sculpture contest.
STUDENT CHAPEL

As part of the effort to obtain better chapel programs, a student committee was organized to arouse interest on the part of student organizations in sponsoring programs.

Stan Mumford, Caludette Reiser, Chairman Tim Dalrymple, Nancy Blackman.

CHAPEL

Providing programs in the chapel services which would be more profitable and interesting to a larger group of the students was the aim of the chapel committee.

Members of the group were, seated: Dr. Schlauch, Mrs. Carrel, Dr. Dilworth, Mary Latimer. Standing: Frank Bates, Professor Yates, Mr. Lee, Tim Dalrymple.

SEFELO

Providing the organizing link between the execs of the women's dorms is the purpose of the Sefelo Council (SErvice, FEllowship and LOve).

Co-Chairmen Marilyn Krumm and Fred Glandon had the great responsibility of Whitworth's biggest social event of the year, and with a good committee made it a great success.

As well as the usual job of trying to keep Whitworth's socialization at least somewhat co-ordinated, this year's social committee also kept the students informed of events by publishing a calendar of the year.

the sound of silence
Although a comparatively young organization, with only three year’s history, the Whitworth Christian Fellowship has done a remarkable job of knitting together the various Christian activities of the campus.

The group takes charge of both the Wednesday night and Sunday evening Vespers services. As the college’s major religious body, W.C.F. also sponsors Spiritual Emphasis Week in the fall and Religious Advance Days in the spring.

Because the job of co-ordinating all Christian activities is such a large undertaking, separate leaders are placed in charge of each of the smaller organizations, with responsibility toward the parent group.
Come before Him with joy in your hearts and a song on your lips.

Dr. David Dilworth, faculty advisor to W.C.F., offers his friendly words of wisdom.
Led by Ed Randal, the Gospel Team division of W.C.F. was a great public relations work for the college, as well as a powerful work of witness for the Lord.

Groups were sent out to different churches in the area, each group consisting of a leader, a songleader, pianist, special music, and scripture. The groups were in great demand to serve in Sunday evening services as well as other special services.

The Gospel Team program is a relatively new segment of W.C.F., and has this year undergone a heavy revamping process to raise the quality of the groups sent out.
Missions is the title of this group, and the study of the work of the church abroad is the function. With Marilyn Travaille as its leader, the Mission Fellowship gathered each week to hear outstanding speakers on the subject of work being done in the outposts of the church, and problems peculiar to that area of Christian service.

Each evening's service took a different form, with such things as movies, discussion on some foreign or home service, or an informative message on a particular country or area.

The devotional life of the campus was under the leadership of those students who banded together in the Devotional fellowship. This group included not only the dormitory chaplains and Bible study group leaders, but also interested students who might find themselves in such a situation later in life.

Tom Phillips led the group in training sessions on witnessing or study group leadership, with special speakers often giving advice on particular problems.
"And Jesus increased in Wisdom, in Stature, and in favor with God and Man" provided the beginning of study as the women of Whitworth sought to press into the UNLIMITED HORIZONS of Christianity. The event was the annual fall retreat, held this year from October 4 through 6.

Special speakers for the event were Mrs. Dawson Trotman, wife of the late head of Navigators, and Mrs. David Dilworth, wife of the college chaplain.

General Chairman was Mary Latimer.

Site for the conference was Deer Lake, located north of Spokane. The lake provided boating, and surrounding grounds made a perfect setting for recreation as well as outdoor antiphonal sing.

These girls met at 7:00 a.m. every Thursday morning for months before the conference, planning the inumerable details.

ONference

A feature of every conference has been a superabundance of good eating, and this year was no different. At conference, the girls could forget diets, as most of them readily did.

Life was rough for some, with the thermometer touching freezing most of the weekend, but these girls look as if they went prepared. Left to right are Barb Walker, Lola Latimer, an unidentified head, Peg Strathie, Carolyn Fox, Barbara May, and Pat Williams.

Peggy Williams and Joyce Ellis had the mistaken idea that conference was to catch up on sleep.
Wheels squealing around the Loop signified a definite goal Friday, October 4, when most of the men ‘re-treated’ from the feminine influence. They led a firmly masculine existence until Sunday at Ross Point camp in Idaho.

Rev. Palmer, not so serious.

'Sing ye Praise and Joy . . .
George Carpenter was general chairman for the affair, sponsored by Associated Men Students. The planning committee sent the 'call' to Rev. Earl Palmer of Seattle's University Presbyterian. Palmer 'brought down the house' with a wry wit. But his most memorable statements were those with real spiritual import.

Brrrrrr . . . Water-skiing! Brave Waddell.

I wonder how Mrs. Green is doing.

Harry Cobb, Joe Black, Dale Burgesson.

Great Gobs gulped down gullets.
SPIRITUAL EMPHASIS

Satellite signals being recorded on oscilloscopes all over the earth provided an appropriate background for a week of deeply serious thought concerning "The Living Christ in a Satellite Age."

The creatively challenging speaking of the Rev. Bryant M. Kirkland of Tulsa, Oklahoma, sharply accented the futility of neutral thought and life in an age needing dynamic action. Through descriptions of experiences on many college campuses, as well as from such countries as India, Thailand and Lebanon, Dr. Kirkland gave graphic evidence that action both in daily living and in world affairs is an essential part of vital Christianity.

As the week progressed, voices were often united in song, and sometimes interacted in discussions of questions which many students had asked. The climax of the week came in a dedication service held in the new HUB.
Although Chi Epsilon and Philadelphians are two different organizations, they share a like goal. The former is the organization of students planning to enter Christian Education work; the latter includes those students planning to enter the ministry following graduation.
the sound of color
Introducing himself to the Whitworth campus through the medium of music was Professor Milton E. Johnson, new head of the music department. Coming to Whitworth from the University Presbyterian Church in Seattle, Professor Johnson brought many years of varied musical experiences upon which to base a musical program for Whitworth’s year.

The choir was used more extensively in the Spokane area, including several high school concerts and chapel programs. And the annual tour sent the members journeying by bus into the southern land of California, where the music was well-received by all listeners.

Also included in a busy schedule for the choir were the performance of the Messiah at Christmas, and of Brahms' Requiem (along with the college chorus and orchestra) in the spring fine arts festival program.
The turn of the semester saw almost a complete change-over in the Varsity Quartet. Clarence Wisecup was replaced by Bill Moss, Jim Osborne by Kent Werges, and Caroline Decker replaced Jackie Stahl as pianist.

But more was changed than the personnel. The quartet took on a new sound this year as its new director and coach, Prof. Milton Johnson, dug up some new and different arrangements of both familiar and not so familiar music.

As one of Whitworth's most popular ambassadorial groups, the quartet was in demand both near and far, not only with church groups, but with secular organizations as well.

CHORUS

Under the direction of Professor Milton Johnson, the College Chorus was seen in many public performances. The group participated in the annual Coliseum presentation of the "Messiah," as well as campus programs and Chapel performances.
CONCERT BAND

With Professor James Carlsen as its director, the concert band, a comparatively new organization in the Whitworth department of music, had a varied year. Included in the programs given were "pops" concerts, which made use of the favorite "lighter" music of students.

The sounds accompanying the practices of the group were always many and varied—including such things as crashing music stands, rustling music, an occasional squeak from a clarinet. But when performance time came, and the final note of tuning had died away, the band proved that Whitworth could have a successful organization of its type.

For a moment of relaxation, many students headed for the newly-installed hi-fi room in the music building.

Students could either bring their own records or choose from the school's library.

Alice Brubacher, Rosalie Scott, and Carol Read try the facilities.

"Ah, here's the smell of greasepaint still."

Pardon, Mr. Shakespeare, but grease-paint seems to run in the blood of Alpha Psi Omega members.

Composed of participants in college plays or dramatic activity, Alpha Psi Omega is advised by Prof. Loyd B. Waltz of the speech department. Dick Waddell was the club president this year.
On hand faithfully for every Chapel and almost every major program held in the auditorium, were the operators of the extensive lighting and stage control panel.

INTERCOLLEGIATE FORENSICS

With two "full-time" coaches, Whitworth’s program of intercollegiate debate and individual events grew in stature and participation in 1958. The first major event was the Seattle Pacific invitational tournament in January.

Further participation for speakers was available at the annual Linfield Tournament, held in March at Linfield College in McMinnville, Oregon.

Advisors and coaches for the contestants were Prof. Robert Cleath and Prof. Mark Lee.

Seattle Winners—Prof. Robert Cleath presents trophies to John Lagos (93) as Gary Heilsberg watches.
The whir of opening curtain and the muffled clicks of light switches being pulled were the signals which performers in "The Late Christopher Bean" learned to know. The play, a comedy involving the paintings of a dead man, and a very-much-alive maid who, in spite of their greed, would not allow her "family" to be swindled, was a part of the festivities which celebrated Homecoming.

Direction was given by Professor Loyd B. Waltz, assisted by Gary Heilsberg.

Working backstage were Steve Judd, Harland Gilliland, Ken Grissom, Dave Crockett, Ted Clark, and Dave Ratts. Glee Lago headed the publicity and working with properties were Peggy Cowles, Linda Bruns, and Jan Owens. Original paintings were done for the play by John Waltz, Daisy Henry, and Gail Schlictig.
ORATORY

Oratory can be a strain on the ears as well as the nerves if not done correctly. To counteract the developing of unhealthy oratorical habits, Prof. Robert Cleath began, two years ago, an all-school oratorical contest.

Again this fall, John Lagos proved himself a superb orator by taking the cup a second year. Winners, at right, were Mary Wells, Lagos, Evan Otteson, and Carolyn McCaw.

INTERPRETATION

Literary Interpretation is the field of forensics which emphasizes a wider understanding of literature and an ability to impart that understanding to an audience.

Prof. Loyd Waltz’s class in Lit Interp presented a widely varied program of readers, with the theme “Sidewalks.” The presentation included not only solo readers, but choral group readings of “Boots” and “Pirate Don Durke of Dundee.”

Marilyn Krumm jazzed up “Miss Muffet.”

Shirley Collins directs the choral readers.

the sound of people
As usual, the girls of Warren managed to supplement the study diet with several social events, including a dorm party at the Francis Lester Hotel, with a theme centered around the dorm mascot, "Gunny." East also provided several exchanges for the entertainment of the men.

"Go West, young man, go West ..."

A dorm party which featured an ice hockey game and the exclusive Spokane Country Club highlighted West's social calendar. And, joining with their Eastern companions, the girls of Warren received one of the trophies for outstanding "Hanging of the Greens" decorations.
A dorm can never be distinguished by its continuing silence, particularly regarding its own merits, and the girls of Ballard are traditionally known for "sounding off" on unity and dorm spirit. These two qualities were demonstrated this year as the girls supported parties, exchanges, and sports. And the girls won first prize for Homecoming decorations, women’s division, with a scene depicting rival players being pushed into the pot "at the end of the rainbow."
McMILLAN

McMillan Hall was this year distinguished as the home of Queen Connie I, who reigned over Homecoming festivities. Dorm unity was also fostered by enthusiastic support of women's sports (many of the members of the varsity women's basketball team were from this dorm), and by several parties and exchanges, including a dinner, and an informal chili feed.

WHITWORTH

Although located on the "fringe" of the campus, Whitworth Hall put itself in the center of all college activities.

Under the guiding hand of proctor Bob Gray, student body president, along with his wife, Marilyn, the fellows of Whitworth planned and carried through a number of social functions, as well as participation in intramurals.
WASHINGTON

Using the dominating dormitory in intramural athletics, Washington Hall kept up its reputation this year.

However, a note of sadness crept into all their activities: with the new men’s dorm being built, this was the last year of Washington’s existence.

Sic Transit Gloria something!
WEST WING

Claiming the distinction of being a "dorm within a dorm," West Wing split off from Westminster a number of years ago and set up housekeeping on its own.

Since declaring their independence, the residents of West Wing have made quite a name for themselves and this year has been no exception.

Their first notoriety of the year came as the sponsors of Honor Princess Ruth Jutila at Homecoming time. Special note has also been given them for their admirable contributions to all-campus dorm decorations contests.

They were also successfully active in the intramural program.
As the largest men's dorm on campus, Westminster was also responsible for some of the most active, and most notable contributions to a spirited social life.

Gaining their first major recognition of the year, Westminster sponsored Connie Bates, the winning candidate for Homecoming queen. The residents made it a clean sweep by taking the dorm decoration prize as well.

Decorations were Westminster's pride, as they also won individual "Open Dorm" awards.
Taking their cue from their long-standing nickname of "The Monks," the Nason Hall dwellers began their year with an outstanding initiation plan.

Following through with their reputation, they excelled in scholastic activities, with side excursions into the field of an outstanding "Open Dorm" display.
GOODSELL

Looking back on a glorious, if somewhat hectic history, Goodsell Hall will this year breathe a frantic sigh of relief. Then, as the last resident rips through its halls and out the door, it will probably collapse, giving way to the new men's dorm.

Discussion runs rampant in Goodsell. Topics may range from cars to hi-fi, encompassing en transit, philosophy, poetry, athletics, horses, religion, music, and women; although not necessarily in that order.

One thing has always marked a Goodsell man—he is first and last an individualist.

Leon the Leonine likes limpid lyrics.
LANCASTER

Perhaps the only dorm on campus that observes fairly strict study quiet hours, Lancaster is also the smallest dormitory, from which almost any conclusions can be drawn.

Other facts leading to hypotheses: Lancaster is located near both Whitworth Tree and Ball-and-Chain Lane.

Another of the dorms slated for extinction next year, Lancaster deserves a salute for having served faithfully for, lo these many years.

We stand on those there unalienable rights, especially the one about pursuit.
The noise is worth it—

One of Whitworth's finest additions, in the idea of the men students, is the new men's dorm, which is planned for occupancy in the fall of 1958.

Made possible by a government loan, the building will accommodate 153 students.

With the new dormitory in existence, the campus will probably see the elimination of three of its present dorms—Goodsell, Lancaster, and Washington.

The structure is located near the new "Center" of the campus—north of the HUB and just east of the library.
LETTERMAN — LANNING

The sound of studies is a quite different one to these girls of Letterman-Lanning Hall. Their days consist of doctors’ (and nurses’) orders, of rattling food trays, of rustling sheets, muted voices, and rubber soles going quietly down the halls. Their days consist also of a bus trip to and from the campus, and of a very heavy schedule of studies. In spite of all this, however, these nurses turned in 100 per cent donations on the Blood Drive, sponsored a chapel, decorated for Hanging of the Greens, and had several parties.

The Officers of the class are Nancy Miller, Secretary; Edna King, Veep; Shirleen Wallace, Parliamentarian; Delores Kiel, President; Deanna Lawson, Treasurer.
BALL-AND-CHAIN LANE

A baby’s wail in the middle of the night tells you that you’ve come to Whitworth’s most practical institution—Ball-and-Chain Lane, the home of the married students.

Here, in these cozy cottages, those with their dreams fulfilled watch as the future generation scampers about the lawns, screaming and shouting the games of children.

It’s no castle, but it’s home.
the sound of progress
Each year, Whitworth awards its outstanding senior students membership in the national listing, "Who’s Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Fourteen 1958 graduates were named to the list. They are:

Margaret Arildson, senior counselor for West Warren Hall.

Marilyn Burkhart, co-chairman of 1958 Hanging of the Greens and Homecoming princess.

Peggy Connon, Natsihi co-editor and state F.T.A. vice president.
Nancy Croyle, public relations worker.
Larry Deal, outstanding musician
Bob Gray, A.S.W.C. president.
Gary Heilsberg, actor, author, and journalist.
Sandra Joseph, A.W.S. president.
Mary Latimer, Women’s Conference head.
Marilyn McCaw, Phi Alpha luminary.
Pat O’Donahue, author and artist.
Jane Sheppard, musician.
Reuben Stueckle, monetary leader.
Robert Welles, English instructor.
SENIOR CLASS

During the year which was the culmination of all those spent in college, the Class of 1958 found itself in a whirl of activities which seemed to speed faster and faster as graduation time drew near. It was difficult for the group to feel any unity, due to such factors as cadets who scattered around the countryside.

The class seemed to enjoy eating, for its activities together centered around this all important area. A banquet in the fall served to acquaint the members with each other, and for the first time a Junior-Senior Banquet was held in the spring. Also in the “eating” area was a luncheon class meeting.

A comparative newcomer to political and official ranks, class president George Carpenter demonstrated many times that he had both capability and ideas. Beginning with a barbecue in the fall, the class participated in many events, as well as holding meetings at breakfasts and luncheons.

Notable among the class projects was the construction of an outdoor chapel in the vicinity of the barbecue pit, to be used for gatherings such as "sings." Work was done by class men, and financed by social events sponsored by the class.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

Recovering from the haze of Frosh year, the sophomores discovered that there could be more than trembling attached to a school year. Letting studies slide a bit, the members demonstrated their ability to really enjoy the year.

Part of the enjoyment was derived from the sponsorship of a Christmas banquet which imported Earl Palmer as speaker and feature Robert McGrath, well-known tenor; a part was derived from after-games socials. President Peterson kept the class alive with his leading ability.

In his first year at Whitworth, Coach 'Wally' Uphoff added a new word to adjectives for athletes—'respect.' In a year when charges of 'de-emphasis' flew thick and heavy, Uphoff forged ahead to build a team of which Whitworth could be proud, even though they did not finish first.

Trumpets blared for the Pirates' first game of the season, but the cheers turned to sighs as the Bucs bowed to the Bearcats.

Western 20

Emerson of Western may have been the star of the game but the big yell was for the spectacular Lashua-to-Grissom pass that counted for 65 Pirate yards.

Whitworth 6
Central 7

Although Central got possession of the Conference Championship, their game with the Pirates was closer than any of the savants cared to predict.
The highly-rated CPS Loggers got an unexpected battle in the Pine Bowl. The Pirates, spurred on by Niksich and Lockhart, put up a spirited battle before surrendering.

'What a score,' cried the rooters, and the Thunderbirds cried 'Uncle,' asking to be allowed to play a half-schedule next season.

Preparations to play under all conditions are needed.

Muddy and bloody but unbowed!
Ferguson keeps the option.

WHITWORTH  20

Expectancy was high for this, the big Homecoming game, played to a capacity crowd of students and alumni.

Coming from 20 points behind, the Pirates thrilled the crowd by tying the Pioneers in the fourth quarter.
Fourth year in a row... tradition intact.

'The Pirates' best game of the year,' said some.

Paul Ward's best defensive game of his career.
The ‘grudge game’ of the year was on everyone’s lips as the traditional foes snarled and fought their ways through a nasty battle.

Playing their last game of their college careers were Dan Niksich, Don Price, Bernard Rakes, and Daryl Squires.

Student support of the teams contributed much of the sound of college this year.

Leading the singing were, left to right: Connie Bates, Ruth Jutila, Robbie Dayton, Sharon Nechanicky, Joanne Shaner, and Barb Walker. Gordie Morse and Rod Fendall kneel at the 'Victory Bell.'

But an active Pep Squad is nothing without active student body support. During a tense fall game and throughout the year, Whitworthians displayed the necessary vocal prowess.

A traditional part of the 'away-from-home' game is the early-morning send-off for the team.
In his first year at Whitworth, Coach Bill Knuckles was hard put to match the accomplishments of past seasons. He accounted very well for himself and for his team, which had spirit but lacked the height and ferocity of its opponents.

Although the team managed only five wins in the whole season, the Pirates finished out of the basement in Evergreen conference play.

The sounds connected with editing an annual are not poetic in any language, but they are certainly descriptive!

Photographers Ron Rice, Dick Hamilton and Chuck Strawn lived with shutter clicks and yells of “Where’s that group shot?” for about five months of the year, and still managed to survive. To them goes the audible acclamation of the staff.

Section editors had the toughest time of all—they had to manage people enough to make them show up at a certain spot in a group long enough to be recorded on film. Bulletin announcements were the haunting guides for these kids! Many thanks to Jan Owens and Lynn Richardson for bridging the gap between Administration and students for a time; to Audrey Wendlandt and Nancy White who discovered that student Activities are numerous; to Jane Mincks who must feel by now that Whitworth is too Organized for any section editor’s good; To Marilyn Travaille who captured the spirit of the Religious Life; to Cecile Foy who tried to learn the Fine Art of scheduling pictures with people who were never there; to Linda Bruns who managed to keep the Living Groups at home for portraits; to Mary Jane Porret and Ann Fawley who decided that the enrollment was entirely too large in the Classes; and to John Chatalas and Chuck Purcell who chalked up the score in the Athletic department.

Tom Gedosch and Peggy Cowles discovered that making friends with the businessmen around Whitworthia could be done. To them goes the Advertisers’ Award of the Year for Speedy Salesmanship!

To Wes Brubacher goes appreciation for balanced (well maybe!) books, or at least for books!

And us? Oh, we just edited this thing. It’s been great fun, but just one of those things. Our final sound is a small (really, just a tiny) sigh of relief.
