1993

The Whitworthian 1992-1993

Whitworth University
Enrollment appears up for '92-'93

Becky Klippeck
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Greater interest in Whitworth College for the 1992-1993 school year has sparked an 11 percent increase in new student enrollment applications. Last year applications totaled 1076, whereas this year's applications climbed to 1196.

Whitworth not only received 120 more applications this year, but also received 38 more deposits to secure enrollment than last year—a 10 percent increase. With an increased interest in Whitworth, entering enrollment is up. Dean of Enrollment Services Fred Plunkett said, "It won't be until after the 10th day of classes that exact numbers will be known and at that time we can take an official student count." In addition to enrollment figures rising, the quality of incoming students has also risen. The admissions personnel is more intentional in who they are recruiting. Students with high academic standing in high school and students with higher S.A.T. scores have been targeted. The admissions personnel has offered them scholarships for their academic achievement.

Plunkett said, "We have developed a very competitive merit scholarship program for incoming freshmen which is designed to recruit and attract highly qualified freshmen students. This balances quality with quantity."

Campus housing demands have also increased. Special arrangements have been made this year to accommodate all of the students' needs. Three dorms in the Village that were not opened last year are now open. Alli, Tik, and Shalom were opened to accommodate the need for housing.

Kathy Davis, assistant coordinator of Housing, believes there are two reasons why there was a need for housing this year. "Our guess is that rent has gone up in neighboring apartments. Plus we do have a two year resident requirement and there are more freshmen this year," said Davis.

The Financial Aid Office has been busy all summer working to get financial aid offers completed for new applicants and returning students. "Even though an increase in enrollment increases our work load, it is always a pleasant outcome," said Associate Director of Financial Aid, Marianne Hanson. Official enrollment figures will be published in next week's issue.
Students lack a living faith

Hilary Hoffman
Editorial Board

I know your deeds, that you are neither cold nor hot. I wish you were either one or the other! So, because you are lukewarm — neither hot nor cold — I am about to spit you out of my mouth. Revelation 3:15,16

The following words are meant to stir up the hearts and minds of the Christian students at Whitworth who are lukewarm in their faith. If you hold no claim to Christ as Lord or if you do not follow Jesus with a burning desire for obedience then please disregard.

Something is definitely wrong in the Christian commitment of students attending Whitworth. Last week the off-campus resident chaplain held an informational meeting for any students interested in campus ministries. The attendance for this meeting amounted to one person. There are over 300 off-campus students. At the same time as Midweek Worship, the faculty advisor of a major Whitworth club held a meeting. He probably thought it was a good time since no one does anything at 11:15 a.m. on Wednesday. Midweek Worship is described in the handbook as a time of celebration and worship of God's presence and love.

These two examples represent the overall lack of commitment to Christ by those who identify themselves as Christians. To you Christianity is only a label. That's not what Christ intended when he died on the cross. If you accept the grace of Jesus in his forgiveness of all your sins, then you must be committed to doing his will as it is written in the Bible and also as it is spoken directly to you by the Lord. Both the outer and the inner life must be transformed daily for a valid claim on following Christ. Your Bible sits dust-covered on a shelf while you spend the night sleeping with your girlfriend in her bed. You struggle to get up on Sunday morning to go to church, pained by a hangover from the night before. Usually you don't attend church at all. From your mouth comes lies, gossip, judgments and harshness. You love only those who love you. Your thoughts are evil and the passion you feel goes uncontrolled.

Look at what you live and see how worthless it is. Realize that if you only know God because you change your behavior in a Christ-like fashioned you stop calling yourself a Christian and start feeding the Holy Spirit within you.

Hilary Hoffman is a member of the editorial board and one of the resident chaplains in Warren Hall.

Eaton is great choice for Whitworth

Dear Madam Editor,

It was a surprise to many of us when Dr. De Jong decided to retire this past summer. I am glad that he was able to work this campus with the skills and vision that he brought to Whitworth through the centennial campaign and various other programs.

After his announcement that he would leave, there was a great deal speculation as to what the coming year would hold for Whitworth. I am excited that Dr. Philip Eaton was chosen by the trustees to lead us forward this year as we look to tackle a number of issues that face a college during the process of hiring a new president.

I am further encouraged by the level of involvement that Dr. Eaton has taken on campus with the students. I have seen him at a number of events including Mock Rock where he was one of the judges.

I am impressed by the energy and excitement that Dr. Eaton has shown to make this a successful and productive year rather than a year in which we are satisfied to sit back and wait for a permanent replacement to take up the slack and lead this institution forward.

He is a man who must have a great love for this college to be willing to take a year out of his life to come to Spokane from Phoenix (which is beautiful during the winter) to be the new president.

I would like to thank him for his willingness to serve Christ and this college community as we move forward to fulfill our mission and goals.

Samuel Tolson, Huson

INTERESTED IN JOURNALISM?

The Whitworthian meets every Sunday evening at 6:30 p.m. in the HUB chambers. Academic credit available.

#1 FUNDRAISING NATIONWIDE

Your fraternity, sorority, or other campus group can earn $500 or more in less than one week. It's easy, and you pay absolutely nothing.

Call 1-800-735-2077 Ext. 280

TYPING SERVICE

• Reports, notes, etc.
• Overnight service

$1 per page basic rate
Call or visit The Old Coin Shoppe, W. 411 Hastings Rd.

DO YOU HAVE AN OPINION?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR must be signed and submitted to The Whitworthian by 5 p.m. Friday. No anonymous letters will be published. A phone number must be included for author verification. The Whitworthian is not obligated to publish all letters and reserves the right to edit letters.
What is ‘family values’ anyway?

Editor’s Note: The following is a sample of opinions expressed about the “family values” issue on the editorial pages of college newspapers collected by College Press Service.

“Webster’s calls it an ‘attack or feast that draws the attentions and forces of an enemy from the point of principal operation.’ President George Bush and Vice President Dan Quayle call it ‘family values.’ They are experts. The breakdown of the American family has contributed to innumerable social ills in our nation. It sounds funny, but the family unit has always been the groundwork for society. When families fell apart, society suffered and other symptoms developed. Maybe we need leaders who will stop trying to diagnose the problem and start treating it. Leaders who will stop trying to pin the blame and start answering the need.”

The Florida Independent Alligator, University of Florida

“People rub shoulders with the wrong of the world so much that they’ve calloused. Homosexuality is wrong. Homosexuals having sex outside of marriage is wrong. Doing drugs is wrong. We’ve got to stop hiding ourselves in our own closets. We’ve got to come out, face the world and call a sin. Someone’s got to stick us with a pin and wake us up from our slumber. We’ve got to rub our eyes and see the world for what it really is, and then do something about it. We’ve got to stop accepting things the way they are, stop tolerating wrong.”

The Daily Nebraskan, The University of Nebraska

“Who let Dan Quayle off his government-issue leash? Who appointed him moral custodian of our country or the champion of the common people? His speech writers have him spouting the common mouthful thing again. First, he attacked ‘unwed’ mothers. It’s worth noting that ‘unwed’ isn’t one of the most value-packed words ever thought up to describe the state of being single. Do they ever say ‘unwed’ fathers? No sex education in schools, he says to the moral majority minds. Never mind that AIDS (that’s a Democratic disease, isn’t it?) kills and that sexually transmitted diseases are all over the place in a world where the education to combat them isn’t, he says. Homosexuals shouldn’t be parents, he says, and you know, that homosexuality stuff is all a matter of choice anyway, like whether you’ll have toast or tortillas for breakfast.”

The Daily Lobo, University of New Mexico

“Democratic presidential candidate Bill Clinton’s social policies, like his economies, are also not much different than those of past Democratic nominees. He favors unrestricted abortion rights, including opposition to popular items like parental notification. But what is really frightening is that he may take his cues from his tee-and-cookie-hating wife, Hillary Rodham. She isn’t just for helping the less fortunate, but rather, for ‘comprehensive programs’ that provide services for the entire child population.” Considering some of her other pronouncements – likening the family to slavery – one could imagine a Hillary-inspired child care program designed to turn out a cadre of government-trained PC heroes.”

The Daily Texan, University of Texas-Austin

Ask me no questions & I’ll tell you no lies...

Dear Ms. Kronebush,

My roommate is the biggest idiot. I don’t know what to do. She makes me so mad. When I ask her to clean up she just tells me it’s her mess and she’ll live with it. I can’t handle it anymore. She isn’t just a kid – she acts really stupid and never does anything. She is used to my friends and I don’t have roommates because my room is such an embarrassment. She is dead when I’m trying to study or sleep. I don’t know what to do.

Busted by my roommate

Dear Busted,

Have you tried to tell your roommate that it’s not just her mess? It’s affecting your life and has become your mess, too. The two of you should sit down with your RA and talk about how to solve this problem that is causing you great turmoil.

In the meantime, try spending more time in your friends’ rooms.

Helpful hint for the week: Ball point pen ink can be removed from your clothing by first spraying the stain with hair spray before doing your laundry.

Send your questions or helpful hints to: Ms. Kronebush, Quotations & Limes, The Whitworthian, #425, Laneary, can be reached by 2 p.m. Tuesday. The Whitworthian is not obligated to publish letters and reserves the right to edit all letters.

ATTENTION STUDENTS

VersaTel Checking: It’s Easy It’s Fast It’s FREE

With Seafirst’s new VersaTel Checking, there are no monthly service charges. And there is no charge for your first order of checks.

All we ask in return for these money saving features is that you do your routine transactions at any of 2,000 VersaTel cash machines.* or through the automated portion of our 24-hour Customer Service line.

For more information, stop by and see us or give us a call today.

1 SEAFIRST BANK Expect excellence.

*Terms and privileges are only made at Seafirst checking locations listed below:
Can be accessed from any telephone in the continental United States.
Whitworth student aids refugees, another studies the environment

Lisa Harrell
Whitworthian Feature Editor

As students arrived on campus the familiar questions were asked: "How was your summer?" "What did you do?" For some students it was the typical summer. It was fun. They played, worked and maybe took a short vacation. For Whitworth student Anna Schowengerd and Heather Colburn, summer vacation became a chance of a lifetime.

"Vacation" for Schowengerd began last January when she boarded a plane for Kenya. She and five other students went to Kenya as part of a four month African study program through Long Island University. Schowengerd had always wanted to go to a foreign country. She had studied the language of Swahili with the instruments," she said. Schowengerd explained that many of the people were starving and several were suffering from gun shot wounds.

"About 30 kids stayed that day from starvation while I was there. Some of them died in my arms," Schowengerd said that it was the most depressing, yet also the most exhilarating time of her life. "It was great because I found out what I want to do with my life, and that is work with refugee and displaced people," she said. Colburn was given a chance to make a difference as well. She was one of 300 applicants chosen to participate in the summer employment program at the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in Livermore, Calif.

Colburn worked on an environmental monitoring project. "We were finding ways of monitoring the radioactive waste in the soil around spill sites," Colburn explained. "In addition, some people picture work in a lab. They see black white lab coats and complete silence. Colburn explained that it was not like that. "It was a lot of fun. The laboratory was carpeted and really clean," Colburn was able to work with the scientific instruments rather than large quantities of chemical. She worked in the laboratory with other students and faculty. The worst part about the job was that Colburn had to be exposed everywhere because her security clearance did not come through. "The thing I liked best was being able to have the hands-on experience with the instruments," said Colburn. She explained that at school she learned about the theory behind the instruments but this experience allowed her to explore the practical use. "I really enjoyed my supervisor who was willing to spend extra time with me," said Colburn. Colburn said the opportunity has reinforced her desire to become an analytical chemist. She is hoping to return next summer.
Initiation builds community and stirs up controversy

Jamie Plisko
Whitworth Staff Writer

It was the best of times, it was the worst of times; it was Whitworth Initiation 1992. The four-day event, held Sept. 5-8, is a tradition that is adventurous for all freshmen and transfer students who decided to take the leap of courage and volunteer to initiate on campus.

Those who went through initiation had their reservations at first. One freshman said she imagined something out of Animal House, where the initiates wore togas and shaved their heads—all for the spirit of their school. Shlaegee Macchi, a freshman and student leader, assured them there would be no shaving of the head. All that students would get to wear areody clothes that are usually worn by undergraduates. However, they would be doing their best to make something that is embarrassing to others.

During the four days, the initiates were allowed to show their loyalty to their dorms by wearing something that was embarrassing to others. Whether it was the B.J. Beanie, a Frank Warren tie, or a Stewart根据 chief, all initiates agreed that it helped them form lasting friendships. Whether you did things that were embarrassing to others and wearing ugly ties, you can talk to the people around you, said Cindy Beale.

Activities were unannounced and unannounced. Students would have to wear the "Dreaded Hula Hoop" for as long as they could. Other songs that were lip-synched were "Beauty School Dropout" from the movie Grease, "My Ding-a-Ling" from Chuck Berry and "Macarena" from the Village People.

Another memorable moment for the initiates, including Ben Brueggemeier, a freshman, was the "Ice Bucket". The "Ice Bucket" is a tradition at Mac Hall that is attended only by the initiate going through the ritual. Fellow Mac Men, and alum of the hall.

Another controversy came when some alumni of Mac Hall were caught drinking, violating a campus rule. They were suspended, but they were not expelled. They were able to come back, but they were not expelled.

With all the controversy, Initiation '93 might be changed to fit Whitworth's mission statement of education in the heart and mind. Dick Mandeville, Associate Dean of Student Life, said "Initiation is student-run and it is up to the students."
Heather McHugh entertains, teaches at Whitworth

Heather McHugh, a teacher and published poet, travels to small schools such as Whitworth through the Lila Wallace-Reader's Digest Writing program.

Carley Burrell
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Heather McHugh cannot remember the first poem she wrote. She only recalls that she has been writing since she could first hold a pencil. Growing up, McHugh was very shy. She was someone who rarely ever spoke up in class until her late teenage years. For this reason, it seems astonishing that this same person would travel around the country sharing her poetry, skills and writing style with others. McHugh explains she overcame her shyness with the understanding that poetry is something "bigger than all of us and including all of us. It is a musical and a graphic art," an art that is meant to be shared. McHugh remarks that for her, now as a presenter and teacher of poems, "half of the art of poetry is writing and the other half is performing." McHugh is a published poet and teacher who, in connection with the Lila Wallace-Reader's Digest Writing program, travels to different colleges around the country. The program, sponsored by the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, allows small schools to host poets when they normally could not afford to do so.

The Lila Wallace-Reader's Digest Writing program allows writers to visit each school for a total of eight weeks over a period of two years. McHugh arrived at Whitworth College Sept. 13 and will remain in residence until Sept. 25. During this time, McHugh will give lectures and poetry readings, teach classes, and participate in writing workshops. McHugh will return to Whitworth March 28-April 13, 1993, and then again for a month in the fall of the 1993 school year.

McHugh is currently a professor of English and the Milliman Writer in Residence at the University of Washington. She teaches there when she is not traveling. Though teaching takes away a great deal of time from McHugh's personal work, she greatly enjoys it. McHugh describes teaching as "another part of poetry's music." When she teaches classes, McHugh reads her favorite works of other poets. The presentation of all different views allows for the richness of poetry to be exposed. McHugh teaches her classes to value the richest interpretation of poetry: the more views, the better.

McHugh is the author of five books and an assortment of poetry translations. Her first poem was published in the New Yorker when she was nineteen. Her poems cover all aspects of life. She writes poems "as a kind of singing about the world." McHugh believes that the reason she can write poetry is because she has a vertical sense of time. She tends to "see a century in a second."

McHugh attributes a lot of her success to her mother who greatly encouraged her. "She noticed what I loved," McHugh noted, "and she encouraged me."

McHugh is thankful for the opportunities she has received. Though she has won many awards including a Guggenheim Fellowship award in 1989, she does not dwell on her success. She considers herself lucky to have been given the job of traveling. "There are many good poets and I was lucky to be chosen," she said.

On Thursday, Sept. 24, at 7 p.m., in Room 1 of the Lindaman Center, McHugh will give a public lecture entitled "Seeing and Solitude: A Stranger's Way of Seeing." The lecture will concern McHugh's view of poetry and her life's work as a poet.

The campus bookstore is currently selling copies of two of Heather McHugh's books: Shades (1988), and To the Queb (1987).

---

ATTRACTIONS & DISTRACTIONS

Off-Campus

Now - Oct. 3 - Basement Drawing, Tuesday-Saturday, 11 a.m.-5 p.m., Art Downtown. Call 747-4843 for information.

Now - Oct. 16 - Nocnary, 8 a.m.-5:30 p.m., Chase Gallery. Call 625-6050 for information.

Friday, Sept. 25 - Opening reception for Faculty of Art, 7-9 p.m., Eastern Washington University.

On-Campus

Now - October 2 - Studio & Sketches of the Figure, 9 a.m.-Noon and 1-5 p.m., Koehler Gallery. Call 466-3258 for information.

Tuesday, Sept. 22 - Interest meeting for Jan Term in England and France, 5:30 p.m., Music Building Rm. 220.

Wednesday, Sept. 23 - Community Building Day, 10 a.m.

Wednesday, Sept. 23 - Graduate School Assistance, 12:30 p.m., Career Center.

Wednesday, Sept. 23 - Talk politics with Dr. Currie-McDaniel, 5-6 p.m., Lindaman Center. Call 455-8099 for information.

Wednesday, Sept. 23 - Dorm Decorating, 7 p.m.

Thursday, Sept. 24 - ASWC meeting, 5:30 p.m., HUB Chambers.

Thursday, Sept. 24 - "Seeing and Solitude: A Stranger's Way of Seeing" by Heather McHugh, 7 p.m., Room 1, Lindaman Center.

Thursday, Sept. 24 - Big Dog Adventure Games, 7 p.m., Loop.

Friday, Sept. 25 - Forum: Clarence Simpson, 11:15 a.m., Cowles Memorial Auditorium.

Friday, Sept. 25 - Bonfire Pep Rally, 8:30 p.m., behind the HUB.

Saturday, Sept. 26 - Homecoming Football Game, 1 p.m., Pine Bowl.

Saturday, Sept. 26 - All-You-Can-Eat Salmon Barbecue, after the game, Fieldhouse. Call 466-3799 for information.

Saturday, Sept. 26 - Hawaiian dinner, luau and reggae band, 6 p.m., Loop.

Saturday, Sept. 26 - Homecoming Dance by Sound Express, 10 p.m., Loop.

Monday, Sept. 28 - Matching Your Interests with Careers and Majors, 3:30 p.m., Student Life.

Do you have something to put in Attractions & Distractions? Send information to The Whitworthian at 4302 by 5 p.m. Friday.

---
The Novel

It was a dark and stormy night...

(YOUR WORK GOES HERE)

Write the next paragraph to our novel. Each week, we, the editors, will select the best continuation. Send your typed continuation to: The Novel, c/o The Whitworthian. If your writing is published in the next issue, you'll receive - drum roll, please - a free drink from Espresso Delights and glory of seeing your name in print.
Bucs earn split in Oregon
Whitworth defeats LC, falls to PU

Kevin Parker
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Whitworth’s women’s volleyball ball team traveled to Portland, Ore. to play Lewis and Clark College Friday and then to Forest Grove, Ore. to face Pacific University Saturday.

The Bucs defeated Lewis and Clark in three straight games 15-5, 15-11, and 15-3. “They weren’t a strong team so we ran a lot of different plays,” said middle hitter Julie Moisan.

The front line for the Bucs consisted of left front hitter Tara
Fredrickson, middle hitter Kim
MacDougall, left front hitter Amy Colyer, middle hitter Julie
Moisan, and right front hitter Lisa
Davis. Also playing in the front row was Sam Graham and Lisa Street, both playing right front hitters.

Tammy Jones and Julie Zaglow played as back row specialists.

Wendy Harrow is the setter for the Bucs, which is a new position for her this year. “Wendy’s setting is getting stronger and we are all connecting well right now,” said MacDougall.

Saturday’s matchup saw Pacific University defeating Whitworth in four games 15-6, 18-16, 15-3
and 15-12.

Whitworth came out strong in the first game, winning 15-6.

The second game proved to be a battle as both teams were unwilling to give up. The teams were tied at 16 when a controversial call was made on a ball. The down judge called the ball in bounds, but the linesman called the ball out. The down judge let the linesman overrule and Pacific closed out the game.

Feeling the effects of game two,
Whitworth lost the third 15-3.
The Bucs made an effort in the fourth but fell short 15-12.

TROPICANA DAYS ’92
WHITWORTH HOMECOMING
SEPTEMBER 25-26

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 25
10 a.m. Community Building Day
7 p.m. Dorm Decorating, “Tropic Spots” – Dorms

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24
7 p.m. Big Dog Adventure Games – Loop

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 25
8:30 p.m. Bonfire Pep Rally – TBA

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 26
1 p.m. Homecoming Football Game, Whitworth vs. Willamette – Pine Bowl (Half-time show, “Jungle Races,” and announcement of Hawaiian Tro­pic King and Queen)
6 p.m. Hawaiian Luau Dinner – Loop
7:30 p.m. Jammin’ Shammin Reggae band – Loop
10 p.m. Dance by Sound Express – Loop

Pirates down EOSC in second half comeback

Kevin Parker
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Whitworth College football took to the road for their season opener in La Grande, Ore. to face the Eastern Oregon State College Mountaineers.

The game was played on the opponent’s home field, but it was Whitworth who came with the home field mentality. The Pirates fell early, 6-0 in the first quarter, and by halftime they found themselves down 16-0.

The third quarter saw no change in the score, but with a large of­ densive output, the Pirates put gether a 19 point run to take the victory.

Offensively, the Pirates conmelled the ball for a short 13 minutes. Danny Figueroa was 33 of 34 passing for 314 yards of air attack. Jaron Tobyck led the team with nine catches for 106 yards.

Clayton Collins had five catches for 109 yards and one touchdown.

Tony Douglas came up with four for 59 yards and a touchdown while Steve House grabbed three catches and one touchdown.

Ara Balian contributed with two catches for 12 yards.

“There were a lot of heroes in the game,” said Tobyck. Players like Douglas and Collins contributed to the offensive thrust.

Collins, who fractured his nose in the Alumni game, returned to the first play of the game but was able to continue. Everyone believed, and never gave up,” said Tobyck.

Although Figueroa was sacked seven times, the offensive line played huge in picking up blues that sometimes consisted of eight players. Whitworth’s offensive and defensive lines were out­ weighted approximately 15 pounds per player.

The Pirates defense played a major role while they were on the field for 47 minutes. Derek Edwards and Ed Mayo both grabbed an interception while comeback David Thornhill had his hands full with the Mountains 6’9” wide receiver.

Thornhill “played like a king,” knocking down key passes and making big tackles, said Tobyck.

Scott Williamson, crossed over from offense to play as corner, and Jason Barton contributed to the strong defensive effort by recovering a Mountie fumble.

John Kamara, averaging 38.5 in pointing, came up big with two touchdowns clearing the end zone.

Special teams for the Pirates kept the Mounties in their own end for most of the game.

Offensive line man Ron Shafer said, “We complain that we run too much, but in the fourth quarter when they were walking on their lips, we could still give 100 percent and that’s the difference.”

“It was a blessed game. The way we all pulled together, someone was helping,” Shafer said.

Whitworth returns to the Pine Bowl Saturday for 1 p.m. homecoming battle with Willamette University.
Cross country opens season at Emerald City invite

Andy Sonneckland
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Whitworth's cross country teams opened the 1992 campaign at the Invitational at Emerald City Saturday.

Senior Melanie Kinin led the women's team over the 5000m course in 18:56, placing 2nd overall. Senior Amy Durrett worked her way through the pack to place second on the team, 29th overall, while improving her performance from last year by 52 seconds for 19:13, second only to Kinin on Whitworth's all-time list on the course (Since 1980). Durrett was named Athlete of the Meet for her outstanding performance and improvement over last year.

Sophomore Andrea Carlson finished in 19:56, cutting one minute, 42 seconds from her 1991 mark - sophomore Kim Huston, after moving into the second position on the all-time list at the team's fifth annual time trial Sept. 4, had an off race, coming in at 20:1'. She was followed by teammate Carny Wilson in 20:23 to round out the top five Whitworth finishers.

It was good news, bad news on the men's side. The top three men bettered the mark of last year's first finisher, but have a sizable gap to fill between the third and fourth men. Senior Steve Sund led the way over the 8000m course in 27:20, good for fifth place in the Open Race.

Classmate Jim Poit was in closer pursuit in 27:11, finishing eighth, as was freshman Brian Lynch in 27:16, finishing 11th. Senior Mark Thutman turned in a fine 31:34, with freshman Koshy Ward right behind in 31:34.

Head Coach Andy Sonneckland said that this is the best women's team Whitworth has ever had. "While not everyone had their best race Saturday, the team time trials and workouts indicate that both the talent and depth are better than ever." The women's team has essentially the same team back from last year.

Sonneckland said, however, that qualifying for nationals out of the district championship Nov. 7 will be no easy task.

"Our district is by far the best in the nation for women's teams. We have five or six teams that could place in the top 20 nationally," said Sonneckland.

As for the men, Sonneckland pointed out that the gap among the top five runners could hurt the team's chance of success. "Saturday's top three runners could do very well at the conference and district meets. But the fourth and fifth men will have to come along during the season if the team is to place well at the championship meet," he said.

The two teams will resume action Saturday, Oct. 3 at the Eastern Washington University Invitational at Spokane's Finch Arboretum.

Fourth ranked Pirates down Linfield 4-0

Ryan Leonard
Whitworthian Sports Editor

Whitworth's men's soccer team, ranked fourth nationally in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, extended its winning streak to seven games by defeating Linfield 4-0 Sunday in the Pine Bowl.

After a scoreless first half, Jordon Deysmon scored an unassisted goal one minute into the second half to give the Pirates a 1-0 lead. Moments later, Zone Hagans scored on an assist from Kieran Barton to extend the lead to 2-0.

Later in the half, Hagans would score again on an assist from Three Star Rio to take a 3-0 lead. Whitworth would secure the victory when Deysmon, on an assist from Jim Martinson, scored the game's final goal.

Barton said that the success of the team has been due to teamwork.

"We've given up too many goals in the past and have needed three or four goals to win," he said. "Our defense has been great in that we haven't given up many goals." Barton said.

Whitworth had 15 shots on the goal while the Wildcats were limited to three, and senior goalie John Nagel made two saves for the Pirates.

"I have to say we dominated this game, both offensively and defensively," said Head Coach Jim Thorarinsson. "Our goalie and the whole defense played well."

The win gave the Pirates a 1-0 record in the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges, the NAIA District 1, and the Northwest Collegiate Soccer Conference.

"We've exceeded our expectations so far," said Thorarinsson. "Our goal is to keep each game close and we've done that so far, and we've beaten three good teams."

Regarding the fourth place ranking, Thorarinsson said, "I don't know if I want to be there this point in the season. It could work against us."

Whitworth will travel to Walla Walla on Wednesday to face Whitman College at 4 p.m.
Library east wing now open, offers a variety of services

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworthian Staff Writer

After years of planning, development and construction, the east wing addition of the Harriet Cheney Cowles Memorial Library is now open and offers a variety of improvements that students and staff say have been long overdue.

The consolidation of major instructional and informational technology, a nearly doubled library collection capacity and a comfortable, inviting atmosphere are just a few of the many features with which the library is now equipped.

"It's a much more comfortable place to study now, as well as being attractive and well-lit," said senior Toben Heim.

Joan Spanne, reference librarian, agrees that this aspect is one of the most important.

"The enthusiastic reaction of the students really makes a difference," she said. "Not only is it more enjoyable, but they take more pride in their work."

Library Director and Planning Committee Chair Hans Bynagle stresses the new look to the people who built and designed the new building.

"I give a lot of credit to the architects, contractor and the furniture suppliers. They did a great job," said Bynagle.

Senior Beaux Bartron is very pleased with the outcome of the library as well. "It's pretty peaceful. I plan on coming here a lot more often now."

In addition to the more than double seating areas, the library will soon contain three separate computer labs and an extended audio visual section which will soon be moved from Dixon Hall where they are currently being used.

Six rooms for group study, a video production studio and media equipment storage rooms have all been added to various areas of the library. The Writing Center, which will be located at the top of the stairs, will be open to students beginning Oct. 1.

"There will be student internships as well as faculty volunteers available to students wanting help with any sort of a writing project," said Bynagle.

A larger and improved reference desk has been installed to aid students in any help they may need.

"I will be spending a lot of time there to help students, faculty or members of the community," said Spanne.

Also new to the library this year is Inland Northwest Library Automation Network (INLAN), a library automation system shared by Whitworth College, Gonzaga University, University of Idaho and North Idaho College. According to Bynagle, the system can very be beneficial.

Terminals will be located throughout the building so people can have access to Whitworth's library catalog, the catalog of other INLAN members and the catalogs of other libraries through the United States with CARL systems, which is INLAN's Supplier.

From the same terminals there is access available to other kinds of informational databases as well. These include: Educational Resource Information Center (ERIC), an index and abstracts database; Academic Index, indexing some 750 core and scholarly periodicals; and Uncover 2, a table of contents index to some 10,000 journals linked to an overnight delivery service of articles via FAX.

According to Bynagle, the public catalog and other databases should be on-line within two weeks, while the computerized circulation module is scheduled to be implemented in late October.

The 5.9 million dollar structure was funded primarily through donations.

"No tuition money went into this whatsoever," said Bynagle. There were three major donors and over 220 others who gave gifts or contributions. One of the primary donors was the Cowles family, a local family who owns The Spokane Review.

Harriet Cheney Cowles, wife of the founder William Cowles, first gave a library to Whitworth in 1949 and then an addition in 1968, thus the name of the current library.

The official dedication of the library will be October 23 at 1 p.m. It will be a half hour ceremony followed by an open house and a chance to tour the new building. The renovation of the east wing is scheduled to be completed by this date. If it is not, the dedication ceremony will be held regardless.

Community Building Day to unite Whitworth campus

Krista Vanquez
Whitworthian News Editor

Tomorrow, beginning at 8:30 a.m., students, faculty, administration and staff will come together to help clean up the campus Community Building Day.

ASWC President Chris Oswald said Community Building Day is a time when, "Whitworthians come together to help beautify the campus and that's one of Whitworth's oldest traditions."

ASWC has allocated $200 to buy the items necessary for each dorm, such as plants, trees and bark. An additional $400 has been given by ASWC to buy 11 Honeylocust Shademaster 2000 trees.

On campus residents are responsible for cleaning up the dorms in which they live. Off-campus students will be planting the trees around the library.

Community Building Day, which kicks off Tropicana Days on Sept. 92, will begin at 8:30 a.m. Continental breakfast will be served in each dorm. Dorm cleanup will begin at 9 a.m. and last until noon, when a picnic lunch will be held in the loop. Doug Dye will lead a devotional during lunch. Student Sarah Graham, President of Psychology Dr. Pat MacDonald, psychologist Marcie Voelker and Interim President Phil Easton will give speeches on what Community Building Day means to them.

A cash award of $100 will be given during lunch to the dorm that has the most participants. Extra points will be given to facilities administration and staff who help students clean their respective areas.

Sheen here is the outside of the library east wing.

MEET YOUR REPS.

Name: Chris J. Oswald
Position: ASWC President
Major: International Political Economy
Place of residence: On campus
Favorite cafeteria meal: No thanks!
Favorite cafeteria meal: I choose Whitsworth. God called me here.
 Favorite cafeteria meal: I go to be joking.
Favorite cafeteria meal: Yes, as long as I'm invited.

Name: Lowen Toben Heim
Position: ASWC Executive Vice President
Major: Communications
Place of residence: On campus
Vision for the year: 2012

Name: Eric M. Luther Position: ASWC Financial Vice President
Major: Business Administration
Place of residence: Off campus
Vision for the year: Spend the student's student fees on high involvement programs, projects and activities to benefit each member of the ASWC.
John Fischer inspires students during The Weekend

Rebecca Snelling
Whitworthian Staff Writer

A great time was had by all at this year's The Weekend retreat nestled comfortably in the majestic woods of Camp Spalding. Many Whitworth campers were swayed, at the beauty of the surroundings. John Fischer, well-known singer/songwriter/school speaker, gave talks that were captivating, captivating, and humorous. Student responses to Fischer were glowing and positive.

Many new friendships and acquaintances formed between people who might otherwise never have met. There were numerous opportunities to meet new faces and get to know familiar ones. A plethora of activities available during the Saturday afternoon free time provided these opportunities. No one was idle. CampSpalding sits in the woods, about 45 minutes north of the Whitworth campus. The camp is at the south end of Devil's Lake with forest and camp spreading to the east and west. Both Friday and Saturday nights were clear enough to see many stars and midnight cowing and hiking trips provided chances to star gaze. Campers found it difficult to go to bed at night and leave the gorgeous environment.

Many campers found the courage to sleep outside on Saturday night and were rewarded with rain on Sunday morning. The slight drizzle did not impede any spirits, however. It seemed to enhance the beauty of the surroundings and the beauty of the surrounding.Junior Josh Armstrong said, "It was good to get away from the stillness and beauty of Camp Spalding." This feeling summed up everyone's opinion of the camp.

Fischer's theme for The Weekend's topics was the letter "D." His four talks focused on distance, demand, discoveries, and dialogue, respectively. The combination of speaking and singing was effective. Fischer's songwriting ability was apparent from the beginning. His concert on Thursday night in Cowles Auditorium and his Forum presentation of Friday prefaced The Weekend appropriately. Many students were affected deeply by Fischer's words.

Junior Diana Cory said, "It helped me to question what was really important to me." Others were affected in a similar manner. Katrina Eilich, junior, said Fischer's talks were challenging, and that they "made me think about my relationship with God and others." The topics and delivery of Fischer's talks were concise and pointed. All campers were forced to think about varied aspects of their lives.

Through mixer games, Saturday afternoon activities, and Emaus walks, everyone met at least one person they had not met before The Weekend. Most campers made new and potentially lifelong friends. The Thursday night mixer game proved a very effective way to meet people. Nobody seemed to mind Kissing Rugby as a way to become acquainted.

"It was a good bonding experience with the upperclassmen," said freshman Stephanie Strohecker. "I brought all of us together." Senior Angie Fowler said The Weekend "allowed me to meet a lot of underclassmen I probably would not have been able to meet.

Socializing and mingling established new friendships between unlikely people. Emaus walks, where a person spends one hour alone with one other person, was a particularly special way to get closer to another. Saturday afternoon's free time was full of pool play and diverse options. Cliff diving, canoeing, swimming, hiking, singing, nap, and a small amount of studying, of course were a welcomed change to students who were not only taking a break from college, but especially in such a beautiful environment.

While the majority of the Whitworth student body stayed on campus or in town this past weekend, about 134 students attended The Weekend retreat at Camp Spalding. Senior Andrea Everson summed up The Weekend by saying "This proved to be an uplifting beginning to my last year in college." The Weekend proved to be an uplifting beginning to everyone's 92-93 school year. As Fischer put it, "wild and crazy!"

KWRS negotiates for new tower

Kriste Vasquez
Whitworthian News Editor
Christina Brower
Whitworthian Staff Writer

KWRS'S long awaited radio tower may not be built because of FCC regulations.

The tower, which would increase wattage from 150 watts to 500 watts, was supposed to be in place by the time school started. Said Laura Rush, general manager for KWRS, "The FCC said an increase in wattage would interfere with two locally existing radio stations. KWRS is negotiating for a new frequency on the air waves with Bill Corr, an engineer for a variety of Spokane radio stations. This project began in 1988 by Whitworth alumni Matt Wilson, Thomas Lynch, and Heidi Smith. At this time, KWRS is operating at 150 watts, which gives the station a five mile radius. The new tower would allow KWRS to be heard throughout Spokane and into Coeur d'Alene.
Election '92: The Issues

College Students Grapple With 'Family Values' Issue

John Williams
College Press Service

Editor's Note: This is one in a series of stories about the presidential candidates and election issues.

The economy and the state of higher education are important to college and university students, but "family values" is another hot-button issue in the presidential campaign that has provided heated discussion on campuses.

Although widely used, the phrase is not easily defined, especially in the context of what family values mean for college students.

"There are a lot of issues within that term that affect students' lives," said Stacey Lyster, president of the United States Student Association.

"Many are returning students trying to support their families by finishing the education. You will find single mothers and single fathers returning to school. They must have access to bettering themselves and their families as tuition goes up, child care is cut and programs are reduced."

Neither political party has succinctly been able to explain what is meant by family values in a time when single-parent households, single and divorced people, and gay and lesbian parents and other groups challenge the concept of what defines a traditional American family.

"Young people identify with embracing family values. I define family values as a lot of issues raised in the country about the breakdown of the American family," said Tony Zagotta, president of College Republicans. "The Republican view is to bring the family and show concern for the family. Young people are looking for stability. They may not want family life at 18, but they do want something for the future."

Jamie Hamron, president of College Democrats, said the term is "hard to define," but settled on calling it "traditional morality that young people think is important. Especially for young people, family values in the economy. It's hard to have family values when you don't have a home."

If there was a defining moment in this nebulous banner of values, it was perhaps when Vice President Dan Quayle assailed the plot of the TV show "Murphy Brown." Brown, a successful television personality is, single, gets pregnant and decides to keep the child when the father leaves town.

Quayle said the show made a mockery of the father's role in the family.

"The media and Hollywood portrayed it as an attack on single mothers. The whole thing is that media exasperated by saying the vice president attacked single mothers. He was saying it was wrong to remain the role of fatherhood," Zagotta said. "I think what the vice president did was a good thing. If he encouraged people to take a second look at family and getting to the root of defining the country, it will lead to a better country."

Hamron said Democratic presidential candidate Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, and his running mate, U.S. Sen. Al Gore of Tennessee, believe their party upholds the belief that a family is "something inclusive, not exclusive. It means loving your family no matter what."

Rolling Stone endorses Clinton

New York
College Press Service

For the first time in 20 years, Rolling Stone Magazine has endorsed a presidential candidate. A portrait of Bill Clinton posed against a blue sky appears on the cover of the Sept. 17 "college special" issue. Inside, an editorial by the magazine's editor and founder Jane Wenner endorses the Clinton-Gore ticket.

"I plan to vote for Bill Clinton and Al Gore with feelings of great hope and excitement. It is time to end the greed and cruelty of Reagan era, to rid ourselves of the paranoia and meanness of George Bush and to obliterate the prospect of Dan Quayle as president," he writes.

The biweekly magazine, a favorite among the 18-34 age group, turns a paid circulation of 1.2 million copies per issue and features slick photos and stories on everything from rock 'n' roll to dance upon to profiles of fad movie stars.

In addition to Wenner's editorial, the magazine features an interview with Clinton at One's Eat Place in Little Rock, Ark., by veteran political writer Hunter S. Thompson, William Greider, P.J. O'Rourke and Wenner.

The last presidential candidate to be endorsed by Rolling Stone was George McGovern in 1972.
Tropicana Days ’92 revamps traditional homecoming

Juliana Lukasik
Whitworth Staff Writer

Tropicana Days ’92, the Whitworth College Homecoming, began Wednesday as students and faculty cleaned up the campus for the annual Community Building Day.

Dorm decorating began Wednesday night, as residents of each dorm transformed their hall into a tropical paradise. Warren Hall placed first in the competition with their version of the “Love Boat.” Each floor participated in decorating from the disco ball to the shuffleboard deck, from the Mermaid’s tail to the base-ment “down under,” complete with fish and sand dollars.

Stewart Hall placed second, with its swinging monkeys, waterfall, and fake dolphin in their version of the “Jungle Book.” Gilgillan, the Skipper, the Prof, and Mary Ann and the rest of the crew visited Aden Hall when the S.S. Minnow beached on “Gilgillan’s Island.”

Goshen swam in the sea sur- rounding the “Florida Islands” in Baldwin Jenkins dorm. The S.S. Jenkins and the Baldwin King Ship sailed by in the distance.

Toby Holdridge as Tarzan hobbled in the jungles of McMillan Hall. The Ballad Hall lounge became Bali Hai, from the movie “South Pacific,” in palm trees, sand, and a waterfall completely this paradise.

Each year, this tradition this year, Nate Stinton, T.J. Forman and Ed Duples received $50 in the search for the “second place.” Each day, clues in the HUB revealed information on the location of the necklace. Friday afternoon, Stinton, Forman and Duples found it in the fire- place at Peace’s Cove.

Thursday evening The Loop be-came an arena for the Big Dog Adventure Games. Stewart Hall placed first and the Warrens placed second.

The baseball team beat Willamette University 30-29 in the Homecoming game Saturday. For the halftime activities, each dorm decorated a sedan, then the residents raced around the track carrying a Whitworth professor in it. Mac-Ballard and Professor Dale Soden won the race and decorations with their flowery, ham-mock sedan.

McMillan resident Chad Reeves and Sandy Borwell from Stewart Hall, dressed in tropical attire, were crowned Homecoming King and Queen. Other events and priz- es included, Sitten from Stewart Hall, Betty Bresler from Ballard, Steve Radonich and Jen-nifer Vehal from Arden, Dean Harper and Alfi Lebo from Baldwin-Jenkins, Willy Lee and Quenby Menon from Warrens, and Lance Storm and Melisa Beus representing the off-campus residents and the Village.

Half time events concluded with a routine "performed" by the Whitworth cheerleaders. The tropicana theme continued with a luau in the loop Saturday evening. The band, Jimmy Fish, entertained while students ate Hawaiian food.

Jammies! Shammin’, a reggae band, continued the entertain- ment. Hammocks and paper boats came for a couple hours, left and had to be washed. It kind of went on all night.” The activities ended with a tropical dance in The Hub.

The traditional formal dance was cancelled because of the early date of Homecoming. Many students supported the idea of having more activities and an informal dance.

Senior Stacey Sawey said, “It’s better for the school; it doesn’t exhaust everyone. It gives everyone a chance to be involved.”

To replace the homecoming dance, ASUW was planning a Christ- mas formal Senior Elizabeth Brooks suggested this idea.

“Getting dressed up, going out to dinner and getting off campus is part of the fun. But it will be good to have it later. I love the Christ- mas spirit,” said Brooks.

Students full of enthusiasm for CBD

Rebecca Snowling
Whitworth Staff Writer

Great numbers of on and off- campus students gathered at vari- ous locations to build community on Community Building Day.

Improving the campus was the main goal of Wednesday’s activi- ties.

The dorm’s residents united to enhance the inside and outside of their dorm in specific ways.

Several dorms obtained truck-loads of bark to scatter around the outside of the dorm and the dorm’s gardens. Other dorms landscaped the dorm’s surrounding shrubbery.

Each dorm did “a fantastic job,” said Chris Oswald, ASWC Presi- dent and judge for Community Building Day. The dorm proud exhibit this year was impressive and excotic said he.

The dorms competed for the $100 prize announced at noon dur- ing the picnic lunch. McMillan and Ballard were this year’s win- ners, determined by a point sys- tem.

Each dorm received one point for each percent of the total num- ber of residents who came out to help. Another two points were given for each professor recruited by the dorm. And was awarded these points for ancluding Phil Eaton.

McMillan and Ballard came up with the combination of the high- est percentage points and the greatest number of professors in attend- ance.

In addition, they installed a bas- ketball hoop between McMillan and Leavitt Dining Hall, trimmed hedges surrounding both McMillan and Ballard, and planted a bloom- ing cherry tree outside the dorm hall.

McMillan and Ballard also col- lected several clues to help improve the English Department courtyard. The courtyard is be- tween Grieve, Westminster and Beyond.

One of the largest projects of this year’s Community Building Day was planting the eleven Honey Locust Shadetree that will be planted in the library plaza by off-campus students.

Baldwin-Jenkins raised nearly $370 through resident contributions to buy a new bed bath for their courtyard. Some Jenkins residents painted both the first and second floor girls’ bathrooms.

“It’s exciting to see freshmen get so worked up about Community Building Day,” said Oswald.

Large numbers showed up each dorm. Percentages ranged from about 35 percent participation in the Warrens to an astonishing 100 percent in Stewart.

“If Community Building Day is any example of the enthusiasm and spirit that we have this year,” said Oswald, “Whitworth’s future looks very bright.”

What is campus security? Joanne M. Heim
Editor in Chief

Campus security is a big issue among college students today. Fearing safe is an important part of deciding which college to attend. No one wants to feel afraid or threatened.

In upcoming issues, The Whitworthian will examine cam- pus security at Whitworth College. Specific campus security poli- cies and the services they offer you will be considered. We want to know how safe you feel on campus and deal with personal issues such as rape and burglary.

Our goal in running this series of articles is to both describe the reality of campus security, and to influence that reality by making stu- dents aware of the issues.

The Whitworthian is publishing the numbers of criminal of- fenses reported to campus security authorities or local police agencies from Sept. 1, 1991 to Aug. 30, 1992. These numbers do not reflect incidents reported to coun- selors or administrative staff, which are kept confidential at the request of the victim. Keep in mind that not all crimes are reported.

Title II of the Student Right-to- Know and Campus Security Act of 1990 requires that beginning Sept. 1992, colleges and universities distribute to all current students and employees, and to any applicants for enrollment or employment upon request, an annual security report that includes specific security poli- cies and statistics concerning crimes that occurred on campus and were reported to campus security authorities or local police agencies.

A copy of the complete report can be obtained from the Campus Security Office.

CRIME STATISTICS

Criminal offenses reported to campus security authorities from Sept. 1, 1991 to Aug. 30, 1992:

- Murder 0
- Rape 0
- Robbery 0
- Aggravated Assault 1
- Burglary 34
- Motor vehicle theft

Number of arrests for the following crimes:
- Liquor law violations 0
- Drug abuse violations 0
- Weapons possession 0

*These statistics reflect crimes that have been reported to the Campus Security Office. Not all crimes are reported.
Whitworth community responds to "Whitworth student aids refugees..."

Dear Editor,

I would like to begin by saying that it was a privilege to be featured in the Whitworthian on Sept. 22.

However, some clarification is needed regarding the pull-quote in the article entitled "Whitworth student aids refugees, another step in the environment." This quote was taken out of context by the reporter and assumed to contradict the point that I meant to convey.

In the interview I chose those words to communicate my understanding of Africa, and the quote was not intended to present an absolute picture of it. People need not to limit their understanding of Africa to the picture they are given by the media.

While I do believe that the African continent is full of problems and I am curious to know how more women in office will solve them, I think that more understanding and empathy will demonstrate the need for positive solutions and well-thought-out proposals.

In my opinion, electing candidates on the basis of gender is not necessary. Solving problems—especially our Congress—with positive solutions and well-thought-out proposals is the way to go.

Unfortunately, the meaning of and connections associated with the quote were drastically twisted when high-lighted apart from the article.

It was neither my intention nor my wish to be quoted anywhere, and I am sure that the article did not present the well-rounded portrait of Kenya that I had hoped. I trust that The Whitworthian’s editor and supervisor will watch more carefully for quotes pulled out of context which could misrepresent the interview and offend the reader.

Anna Schwengelung
Editor's Note: We regret that the quote in question, although accurately reported, was mistakenly taken out of context. We apologize to the readers whom it offended.

Dear Editor,

We wish to express our shock at the insensitivity of the feature editor, Lisa Hamill, who wrote the article, "Whitworth student aids refugees," another step in the environment, that appeared in The Whitworthian on Sept. 22.

We feel this article clearly expresses insensitivity and disrespect for people from other cultures. This article insults and supports stereotypes to people who may have no idea about the African culture and way of life. It portrays Africa as a continent of hunger, disease and death.

Some of the terms used, such as "Swahili people" and "natives," are terms that were used in the colonial days. "Kenyan nationals" should be used to show respect and to be polite.

We feel that the article is based on a one-sided, biased and seemingly negative perspective on Kenya, in particular, and Africa as a whole. We were unhappy that such an article was published in the Whitworthian.

Anna Schwengelung

DO YOU HAVE AN OPINION?

LETTERS to the EDITOR must be signed and submitted to The Whitworthian by 5 p.m. Friday. No anonymous letters will be published. A phone number must be included for author verification. The Whitworthian is not obligated to publish all letters and reserves the right to edit letters.
The WHITWORTHIAN • September 29, 1992

OPINIONS & NEWS

‘Judge not lest ye be judged yourself’

Dear Editor,

I would like to respond to the “Students lack a living faith” that appeared in The WHITWORTHIAN on Sept. 22. I take it that the impression is that an R.C.’s duty is to aid the spiritual guidance of the students, not to accost and condemn them of living sinful lives. To place a vague generality on the spirituality of the turn-out of one meeting, is wrong.

It is my impression that the first month of school is the hardest to adjust to. Worries of classes, homework and a job, in addition to the stress of the financial burden can tip up our priorities within the first month.

Dr. Hoffman wrote, “From your mouth come lies, gossip, judgement and hatred… Your thoughts are evil and the passion you feel is uncontrolled.”

What gives Hoffman the right to judge the spirituality of the school? She may be an R.C., but she is not God.

I see this to Hilary Hoffman judge you wish, but do not judge me. For the Judgement Day when you shall be judged, as you have judged, by Jesus Christ, our Lord.

Chris Homer

Ask me no questions & I’ll tell you no lies...

Dear Mr. Provost,

I am a freshman on campus and during my recent jamboree back and forth through the Jips, I noticed a group of people who hung out at front of the Lindamond Center. The group worships Japanese businessmen in business suits smoking cigarettes holding their pupils hands, to construction workers digging into their little Playmatics and chopping Popps. I want to be sure that I am not missing any portions on campus on cultural events of which I should be aware. Could you please tell me who these people are? Don’t they have anything better to do? Or is it a cool thing at Whitworth to hang out in front of the Lindamond Center? (Maybe we don’t even need a new HUB if that’s the case.)

Blandford regards,

1. The Poet

Dear Partners,

Yes, you’re missing out. You should hang out at the Lindamond Center so you won’t miss what’s happening at Whitworth.

I do know who those people are because I know everything. Different groups can rent the Lindamond Center for seminars, workshops, etc. Just so you know, for construction workers are our neighbors from Kaiser and the Lindamond Center for some of their employee training programs.

Helpful hint for the week: Peanut butter will remove the sticky left from price tags. Leave it on for a day and the wash it off.

ATTENTION STUDENTS

Versatile Checking: It’s Easy It’s Fast It’s FREE

With Seafirst’s new Versatile Checking, there are no monthly service charges. And there is no charge for your first order of checks.

All we ask in return for these money saving features is that you do your routine transactions at any of 2,000 Versatile cash machines* or through the automated portion of our 24-hour Customer Service line.

For more information, stop by and see us or give us a call today.

1. SEAFIRST BANK

Expect excellence

*Many ATMs are posted every where on campus. Look for the Seafirst logo beside the ATM.
If it is ineligible, please refer to your Versatile checking agreement.
Presbyterian families adopt college students

Kristen Nicholson
Special to the Whitworthian

Students begin to think of home when exams, roommate problems, and the holiday season rolls around. Although seniors Brett Shoemaker and Tracey W. 511 Boots King, sophomore, says "It's so nice to get off campus even for an hour," senior Dennis Smith was frustrated. Although there was a shortage of families for the Adopt-a-Student program last year, the families involved were very committed to their students and the ministry behind the program. "There are so many ways to express family relationships, and this program has added new dimensions to our family," said Whitworth Pres. member Joni Domanio. "My daughter invited our adoptive student, Betty Boyles, to her elementary school Christmas program, and it developed a special friendship."

In the program's second year, the response dropped to 24 students and 12 families. "I tried to put freshmen with upperclassmen when pairing students with families, if the families could take two students," said last year's leader Angie Markt.
Gabe's Real Words

Gabe Taylor
Whitworthian Staff Writer

"SLOW!: Children at Play!

Have you ever seen a road sign like this? There is one posted about half a block from my house. It has a bright yellow-orange background with bold black lettering. You cannot miss it. The sign's message is plain and simple: slow down because there are kids playing up ahead. But what use does this sign have if all 1:30 at right? The neighborhood kids are all stuck in their beds. Are signs like this only obeyed during the day, when kids are on the street? I was driving home last night and that familiar sign jumped out at me. I did not want it to be about the kids ahead - there were none - but it sent another message. Into my third week of school, I'm going through that process where I evaluate the groups I'm involved with, schedule in study time, and have a whole dinner conversation with friends about our individual stress loads. Sound familiar? Too bad I cannot describe my stress load on my resume. Potential employers would be able to see how much I could handle. I am sure I could get any job I wanted with the amount I pile on myself.

I read a book this summer called "Hope for the Flowers." It is one of those kidish books. You know the kind. It's like a children's book but has a message for an adult. There are caterpillars climbing up to reach the top of an unknown destination. They trap each other so violently that some caterpillars fall to their deaths. They do not know why the motivation to reach the top is so strong; they just know that everyone is doing it. As I began to wonder what was at the top myself, I even wanted to start climbing. But then I stopped to contemplate the reality of millions of caterpillars crawling over and under each other for no reason. What is so great about what some caterpillars fall to their deaths trying to reach it? Don't these caterpillars have backyards to explore, streets to cross and corners to spin? These are the worms that change into butterflies. Don't they want to change into butterflies?

I find that I see too busy with my stress load to consider the billions of the field. Sometimes I am too busy to ask myself why I am too busy. Where am I running to and why? Am I running? What is the goal - dead run? When people are running as fast as I am, they have to be making out something. Playtime is time to run as an adult.

"That 'SLOW! Children at Play' sign spoke a message to me last night. With its bright yellow-orange background and black lettering, it screamed, "Gabe, slow down. You need to play too!" The sign has another message for us. It expresses the value of playing, by telling us adults to slow down for the kids to play. The sign tells me to slow down and play like I used to when I was a kid. The next time I'm driving home and see the sign, I think I will park the car and play with the neighborhood kids.
Sports

Pirates win Homecoming game with second half rally, 30-29

Swim teams prepare for season with Alumni meet

The Whitworthian • September 29, 1992
SPORTS

Volleyball: Bucs win two out of three

!Volleyball match

Tara Fredrickson and Julie Moisan played against Central Washington University on Friday, Sept. 25.

Pirates extend winning streak to nine games

Ryan Leonard
Whittworth's Sports Editor

Whittworth's men's soccer team extended its winning streak to nine games by shutting out Whitman College 8-0 Wednesday, followed by a 2-1 double overtime victory over Seattle University Saturday.

In Wednesday's contest, Jim Martinson and Pam Lee each scored two goals against the Missionaries. Head Coach Einar Thorarinsson said, "We came out and played a decisive game. Our guys were due for a high scoring game, and Whitman was kind of flat."

Saturday's action saw SU jump out to an early 1-0 lead. Martinson and Lee proved to be the scoring threats, with Martinson scoring in the second overtime, when tension flared.

"That game was really intense all the way through and both teams were very competitive," said Aaron McMurray. Thorarinsson said the strong winds proved to be a factor in scoring. "Seattle was a snatched team, meaning they had plenty of talent. They had the wind at their backs when they scored, and we had the wind at our backs when we scored in the second overtime," he said.

Both overtime periods were shortened to seven minutes because of the winds.

The Pirates remain ranked fourth in the nation in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics poll.

These wins improved their record to 2-0 in the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges, the NAIA District 1, and the Northwest Collegiate Soccer Conference.

Whittworth returns to action Saturday when they take on Willamette University in the Pike Bowl at 1 p.m.

---

Women's soccer falls to Seattle University

Ryan Leonard
Whittworth's Sports Editor

After a 3-2-1 start this season, which included a 0-0 loss to Pacific Lutheran University Sept. 18 and a 0-0 tie at Simon Fraser University Sept. 20, the Whittworth women's soccer team traveled to Seattle Saturday, where they suffered a 3-0 loss to Seattle University.

Indecisive team morale, goalie Jenny Peterson said, "The teams that we've been playing are nationally ranked. We go into a game wanting to do the best that we can, and we try to live up to those losses."

The loss dropped the Bucs to 3-3-1 in the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges, District 1 of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, and the Northwest Collegiate Soccer Conference.

Whittworth returns to action Wednesday for a showdown against Community Colleges of Spokane at 1 p.m., followed by an 11 a.m. contest against Willamette University.

Both games are in the Pike Bowl.
Election '92: The Issues: Abortion Views

Karen Neudalt
College Press Service

If a single issue has deeply divided the country, split campuses, threatened friendships and fractured political parties, it is the issue of abortion.

"Pro-life" or "pro-choice," have become buzzwords this election year, peppering campaign speeches and churning up a frenzied debate. Some college students will be voting for the first time, many of them attracted to the polls because of personal convictions about abortion.

President Bush is the pro-life candidate, while Bill Clinton represents the pro-choice movement. Because more college-age women are affected by abortion than any other age group, both candidates have strong support on campuses throughout the nation.

President Bush supports a constitutional amendment that would outlaw abortion except in cases of rape, incest or when the mother's life is in danger. "President Bush supports the right to life and he believes it is a precious gift," said Darcey Campbell, assistant press secretary of the Bush-Quayle campaign. "He believes all human beings have intrinsic dignity and worth. He is opposed to abortion except when the life of the wife or mother is threatened."

The president clearly understands this a difficult and painful decision for most Americans," she added.

Bush has voiced legislation that would have overturned the "gag" rule, which bars abortion counseling by federally funded family-planning agencies. Bush has urged abortion rights activists, including some within his own party, with his opposition to abortion.

This summer, hundreds of thousands of activists marched past the White House with signs that read "George, Are You Ready to Babysit?" and "Free Barbara Bush."

The demonstrations took root in the streets when the Supreme Court, in a 5-4 decision, voted to uphold most provisions of a restrictive Pennsylvania abortion law, but stopped short of overturning Roe v. Wade, the decision that made abortion legal in 1973.

Clinton supports abortion rights, opposes the "gag" rule, supports federal funding for abortions for low-income women and opposes spousal consent laws.

"This is a chance to get out and discuss with students what they want to happen when they have a chance to campaign with others who are interested in the issues," said Karen Neudalt, College Press Service. "This is based on information provided by the New York Times."

Students will be looking at politics within the media and how it is dealing with issues about the campaign and the presidential candidates.

Additionally, students will discuss media coverage differences nationally as well as locally. Many of the students in the course have participated in the campaign and were able to provide an inside view.

A special meeting will be held for students who are interested in obtaining the paper for the group, the number is 455-8099.

The meeting will be held Wednesday evening, 6:30 p.m., in the Linderman Center basement.

NEWS CLIPS

President Bush declined to attend the presidential debate that was to be held last week at Michigan State University. The president objected to the format proposed by the Bipartisan Commission on Presidential Debates. Bush has said he would feel comfortable with (the accompanying person) not being limited to the parent, but possibly a counselor, or a minister, she said.

The choice is extremely clear. President Bush truly supports a strong defender of the right to life, she said. I don't consider myself a Republican. I'm really a frustrated Democrat.

She calls Bush a strong and eloquent defender of the right to life, and many of her college friends will also vote for Bush because he supports abortion.

"I will vote for someone who will take a stand in defense of the unborn because that is the principal, compassionate stand to take," she said.

BUSH WINS!

George Bush 52%
Bill Clinton 41%
ROSS PEROT 6%
Write-ins 1%

Three records set based on the "bulletin board" at the Michigan Presidential Forum.

Enrollment Figures for Fall 1992

Official student count: 1676
Full time: 1198
Part time: 478

Full time Freshmen 271—
12 percent increase

Do you like to dine out? Do you like to save money?

The Field Ecology students are earning money to go to Costa Rica for their Jan-Term class. They have Diner's Value books work $300 in discounts on sale for $19.95. Call Amy Harker at 468-3494 to purchase yours.

ASWC NEWS YOU CAN USE

- Trent House and Bob Barr were selected co-chairs of the Springfest Committee. Springfest will be held May 1, 1993, at Riverfront Park.
- Freshman class meeting will be held at 8 p.m. this Thursday in the HUB.
- Freshman class elections will be held this Friday.
- ASWC will begin what is called "ASWC on the Road" this week by meeting at 5:30 p.m. in the B.J. Lounge on Thursday. ASWC will vary its meeting locations.

Currie-McDaniel leads election discussion

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworth Staff Writer

"Let's talk politics," is the title and focus of a new discussion group that will be meeting weekly until the presidential elections.

This group, specifically developed last year, is designed so students can discuss the election at large.

According to Ruth Currie-McDaniel, political science and history professor and the group's discussion leader, there are several purposes for the group.

"It will increase interest in the elections, raise overall awareness of the importance of the campaign, and encourage people to exercise their privilege and rights to vote. But it is more than just politics, politics is fun!" Currie-McDaniel said.

"This is a chance to get out and discuss with students what they want to happen when they have a chance to campaign with others who are interested in the issues," she said. "This is based on information provided by the New York Times."

Students will be looking at politics within the media and how it is dealing with issues about the campaign and the presidential candidates.

Additionally, students will discuss media coverage differences nationally as well as locally. Many of the students in the course have participated in the campaign and were able to provide an inside view.

A special meeting will be held for students who are interested in obtaining the paper for the group, the number is 455-8099.

The meeting will be held Wednesday evening, 6:30 p.m., in the Linderman Center basement.
Positive balance a first since 1969

Julyane Lussier
Whitworthian Staff Writer

For the first time in 23 years, the unrestricted fund balance of Whitworth College is a positive number.

Since 1969, the unrestricted fund account of Whitworth College has had a negative year-end balance. The largest deficit was in 1977 when the balance was nearly negative $2 million. Since then the deficit has slowly decreased.

The current unrestricted fund account is used to meet the operational needs of the college. The college operates on five fund accounts, which contain the money invested in the college.

Thomas Johnson, Whitworth College vice president for business affairs, said the inflation rate during that time were one cause. Fixed tuition during those years was also another problem. The college did not bring in enough revenue to pay all the bills.

Along with some miraculous revenues, current operations generated $250,000 of the half million.

This money included revenue from students who returned for spring semester 1992. The number of students returning or attending is 6.5 percent more than what was budgeted.

The conference programs held this past summer also generated more revenue than was expected. The remaining $250,000 came out of the quasi-endowment fund.

The Whitworth College Board of Trustees controls this fund, which contains money set aside for future use in the college. In April 1992, the Board of Trustees decided to transfer the money to clear the deficit. Eliminating the deficit means reducing interest costs on loans to pay for the debt.

This action also cleared the financial statements of a deficit in the funds accounts.

Johnson said that by eliminating the deficit, the door is open to seek support for the college from foundations who would not otherwise consider giving money.

Another motivation in approving the transfer of money from the quasi-endowment fund to clear the deficit is that a $1 million trust will be added to the fund later this month.

Interim President Philip Eaton said removing the deficit is a really exciting and positive action on the part of the college.

Johnson said paying off the deficit is, "really a financial milestone for the college. It's very, very positive for the future of the college."

Johnson said the administration and board will be carefully monitoring the situation so a deficit does not happen again.

"ASWC on the Road" held its first meeting in the B.J. lounge. See story on page 8.

College president search underway

Christina Brower
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Since the resignation of Dr. Arthur J. De Jong, former Whitworth president, a national search has been underway to find a new president. Dr. Philip Eaton, interim president, said that a national search was formed to assist in the process.

The committee consists of trustees, three members of the faculty — Dr. Jerry Sittser, Dr. Dale Soden and Dr. Lois Kieffaber — administrators, alumni, Chairwoman of the Board Charles Boppell, Director of Human Resources Greg Hamann and student Toben Heim.

The committee's goal is to present a final candidate to the Board of Trustees by April 22 or 23, 1993, at the scheduled board meeting.

Eaton, who is acting president, said that "the committee is a very competent group and I am very optimistic about the outcome."

The forthcoming president "should possess qualities of leadership, must be understanding, enthusiastic about the college mission, must appreciate the history of Whitworth, have solid academic credentials and provide Christian leadership," said Eaton.

The board is in the process of redefining the criteria needed to be the new president. They hope to have the criteria established before the hiring process begins.

The committee has met Sept. 8 and they will meet again Oct. 21.

A national search firm will be on campus Tuesday, Oct. 6 through Thursday, Oct. 8 to achieve a better feel of the campus. This will help the search committee create an institutional profile of the college.

Additional responsibilities of the search firm include aiding the creation of a job profile and the finding and screening of applicants.

"This search is an exciting opportunity for us to take an active part in shaping the future of the college," said Heim.
OPINIONS

Vote with conviction

Chris Murphy

Editorial page editor

The upcoming presidential election should challenge Whitworth students, faculty, and staff to form strong beliefs. For many of us, this is our first opportunity to vote in a presidential election. We need to vote with conviction—not out of confusion.

Last week's forum, representing Democrat and Republican viewpoints, gave some of us the opportunity to vent anger and bitterness, if not our loud, wry in our hearts. We heard from Tom Heise and Melissa McCabe. They showed a deep understanding of the Republican and Democratic platform, and have strong backing for their beliefs.

Unfortunately, some of us don't have Whitworth don't have the knowledge of McCabe and Heise. We walk around with built-in judgments towards either party—based more on ignorance than truth.

The Democrats see Republicans as self-seeking impolites who know nothing about social conscience or the needs of the poor. The Republicans view Democrats as tax-happy liberals who discredit the end of the Cold War and ruin the economy.

Most of us don't express our beliefs until a political discussion arises. We then proceed to play into Bush and Clinton, or our friends who have different opinions.

Jesus calls us to love one another. That begins with relationships that involves listening, not judgment. Liberals should be listening to conservatives and conservatives to liberals.

Christians should not use faith as an excuse for being uncared. We should be looking for the underlying issues of both parties. When we listen to both sides, we're better able to form our own beliefs.

It's like Cote 250 all over again. The more we study, the more our assumptions are challenged, and the more we learn. If you're entering this election with built-in assumptions about Republicans or Democrats, study the facts.

All Democrats aren't liberal and all Republican aren't conservative. Not everything is simply laid out. But each party does have a strong ideology that should help us decide who to vote for this year.

Voting for Bush because your parents will is wrong. Voting for Clinton because they're from your home. Voting for Perot because you like neither of them is weak.

Not voting is a pitting on freedom not available in most countries.

We're adults now. We need to take seriously the consequences of our decisions. We need to respect each other and take responsibility for the United States.

In the end we must become vulnerable. We must learn from each other and not come to an informed judgment without adequate understanding of both the Republican and Democratic platforms.

No matter how you feel about Bush, Clinton, or Perot you must ask which person will best meet the needs of this country.

Determine your beliefs and vote.

Low grades, heavy drinking go together

WASHINGTON

College Press Service

College students with low grades consume an average of 11 alcoholic drinks a week, three times the amount that honor roll students do, say researchers from two universities.

The study, based on a survey of 56,000 students on 78 campuses during the 1989-90 school year, also found that students at smaller schools are drinking more than students at larger schools, and the male students are more likely than women to go on drinking binges.

Students who were getting D's and F's were averaging 10.8 drinks a week, while students with A's were consuming 3.4 drinks.

Researchers found that alcohol, as expected, is the drug of choice: 86 percent of respondents said they used it in the last year, and 45 percent said they drink on a weekly or more frequent basis.

Twenty-seven percent of students said they smoked pot in the past year, and 6.1 percent said they used cocaine.

Other drugs reported on campus included, steroids, opiates, hallucinogens, sedatives and inhalants. The most significant result is the link between alcohol and grades, say officials.

DO YOU HAVE AN OPINION?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR must be signed and submitted to The Whitworthian by 5 p.m. Friday. No anonymous letters will be published. A phone number must be included for author verification. The Whitworthian is not obligated to publish all letters and reserves the right to edit letters.
Security offers services to students
Rebecca Jensen
Whitworth Student Writer

The "Student Right-To-Know and Campus Security Act of 1990" is effective this fall on Whitworth campus. It requires that all colleges and universities distribute an annual security report including specific campus security policies and statistics concerning criminal offenses that occurred on campus and were reported to campus security, authorities or local police agencies.

According to Whitworth Director Keith Sullivan, "We've learned a lot since the first one. We think we need some changes, but there isn't anything new. We just need to maintain records of criminal occurrences to comply with the publication rules," he said.

The act contains five separate policies designed for the safety and well-being of students and staff on campus. These policies include the Criminal Activity Reporting Policy and the Alcohol and Drug Policy.

The Physical Plant provides 24-hour security coverage, to help maintain a safe campus community. There are currently six people employed specifically for security purposes: Supervisor Jim Gunter; two full-time and two part-time security officers; and one on-call.

The physical plant is in the process of hiring another security officer. The physical plant also employs students to take part in student security positions as well.

"Students are a great help," said Sullivan, "especially as a supplement to the full-time and part-time officers."

Sullivan said there needs to be additional help from Whitworth students and staff. "Because we cannot be everywhere at one time, there are some simple precautions students can take to help make the campus a safer environment," he said.

Some suggestions he gave are:

- Be alert. Always watch, listen and report criminal behavior, even if it is anonymously.
- Protect yourself and valuable belongings in your dorm by locking up at all times.
- Supervise Jim Gunter believes this is an important issue. "Every time we receive a theft report, the room was always unlocked."
- Be suspicious of strangers and acquaintances who demonstrate actions that make you feel uneasy.
- When going to or returning from a function, stay away from isolated areas.
- Always go with someone.

you are alone, call security and they will escort you.

The campus police plant is in the process of hiring another security officer. The physical plant also employs students to take part in student security positions as well.

"Students are a great help," said Sullivan, "especially as a supplement to the full-time and part-time officers."

Sullivan said there needs to be additional help from Whitworth students and staff. "Because we cannot be everywhere at one time, there are some simple precautions students can take to help make the campus a safer environment,

Some suggestions he gave are:

- Be alert. Always watch, listen and report criminal behavior, even if it is anonymously.

According to Sullivan, campus security and safety depends upon "everyone. Although everyone is ultimately responsible for themselves and campus property, the key is people working together with the right attitude. Collectively, we can do a lot to guard against it," he said.

Crime on college campuses raises fears, concerns nationwide
John Williams
Assistant Professor, Psychology

The image of a quiet college campus may just be that—image—as faculty, administrators and students are concerned with the reality that crime and violence take place in the most pastoral of settings.

"You will find crime on any college campus," says Whitworth Professor, "that is large enough to have a police force, and the 17-24 age group is the most highly victimized group in our nation."

According to the director of the Campus Safety and Security Institute, "Colleges can't prevent everyone from being a victim." Campuses nationwide have to cope with crime, from theft to murder, and only recently has the issue moved to the forefront of public awareness and acceptance that it does exist.

"The first thing to recognize is the campus is crime-free," said Clarinda Raymond, co-director of the Campus Violence Prevention Center at Towson State University in Baltimore.

The U.S. Department of Education has published new rules in the Federal Register that, if enacted, would require colleges and universities to release an annual security report containing campus security policies and procedures as well as campus crime statistics.

In a survey on college compliance with crime disclosure rules, Whitworth found "Colleges and universities no longer enjoy the unquestioned confidence of staff, students and parents when it comes to safety and security on campus."

There have been too many documented cases of deception and cover-up for institutions to expect the public to take them at their word."

Consider some national statistics:

- One out of every four college women has been raped or sexually assaulted.
- Ninety-five percent of violent crime on campus is related to drugs or alcohol.
- Eighty percent of campus crime involves student against student.
- The most dangerous places on campus are dorms, where more crime takes place than other areas on campuses, Raynor said.
- "There is a low level of crime, such as taking from dorm rooms, she doesn't get reported."
- In cases of sexual assault, there is also a low level of reporting by students and college.
- "I'm not going to report it."
- Sexual assaults are not being reported. The victim knows the assailant and many have never reported the crime to authorities.

Police are concerned that if reports of rape and sexual assault were filed, the assailant would be more likely to be identified and arrested.

"Friends may tell her she really wasn't raped."
- People may be afraid that their friends would take sides, and she wouldn't be believed.
- People may be afraid of being laughed at for being raped."
- "Friends may tell her she really wasn't raped."
- There may be pressure from her family or the institution not to report the assault because of reputation, either for the victim or the school.

There are no standard mechanisms to report crime on campuses. In some cases, the police may be involved, in other cases, the administration may get involved in the investigation. The campus police department, or city or county authorities, may be notified of any crime.

This lack of uniform reporting procedures is changing, however, at least in the area of rape and sexual assault.

The Higher Education Reauthorization bill, which President Bush recently signed into law, includes the campus Sexual Assault Violence Prevention Act.

The bill requires colleges and universities that receive federal funds to develop a campus sexual assault policy that mandates procedures to follow after an assault has occurred, educational programs to promote awareness of rape and counseling services.

Experts in campus safety maintain that only through education can students learn how to handle crime. It's not as much that crime on campuses is rising, but that college is seeing more violent crime, said Raymond, with the Campus Violence Prevention Center.

"Crackdown, colleges, parents and students are becoming more educated," said the "But until things change, students must remain vigilant."

Crime report statistics:

North 9107 Country Homes Blvd., 13
SPOKANE, WA 99218

CALL NOW! 400 minutes for $15

-- CRIME REPORT STATISTICS --

Tanning Salon
9111 Country Homes Blvd., Suite A
SPOKANE, WA 99218
(509) 467-8372

CALL NOW! 300 minutes for $15

If you are interested, call (509) 467-8715

SOLAR ECLIPSE

Tanning Salon
9111 Country Homes Blvd., Suite A
SPOKANE, WA 99218
(509) 467-8372

CALL NOW! 300 minutes for $15

Y O U C A N E A R N $ 3 5

If you are an undergraduate student planning a career in teaching, you can earn $35 for answering some basic skills questions on computers.

The 4-hour research sessions are being held at:

Sylvan Learning Center
North 9107 Country Homes Blvd., 13
SPOKANE, WA 99218

If you are interested, call (509) 467-8715

The WHITWORTHIAN • October 6, 1992
Jan Term trips allow students to travel, study, earn credit

Alicya Jones
Whitworth Student Writer

Study biology in a tropical rainforest. Play in Rome. Discover the history of Christian spirituality. Learn about world cultures in Tall Timber Ranch, a camp located near the Cascade Mountains.

These opportunities are among the 70 or so that are available during Jan Term this school year. Students can study and earn academic credit in such places as Guatemala, Paris, London, or even Leavenworth, Wash., to name a few.

"Whitworth is one of the only four- or four-and-a-half-month schools for Jan Term," said Kathy Cook, coordinator of off-campus study and cross-cultural programs. "Other schools only offer as many as two months for Jan Term. Not only are there exciting and innovative classes on campus, but a chance to travel as well," said Cook.

"Many of our students have never been to Europe or any other country before, so traveling gives them a chance to see the world," said Cook.

"I think that seeing Paris and London can be an important boost to a student's self-confidence. You get a far better feeling for what the two cities are about," said Cook.

For those students who play jazz, Dr. Dave Hick has a program in mind for you. "For those students who play jazz, Dr. Dave Hick is planning a trip to South America," said Cook.

"We've always been big on international travel and making contacts with other universities," said Cook.

"There is still time to participate in a Jan Term trip. Applications and additional information are available in the Alder Hall," said Cook.

"There are so many different opportunities, some international. It's a wonderful, stretching, growing experience to explore another culture," said Cook.

"I don't care if you're Serb, Muslim, American, Russian; I don't care if you're an anti-X... What matters is what's in your heart and soul," said Marijana Ilincic, Yugoslavian student.

"I think that the government is trying to preserve its own culture and national pride. At the same time, it's trying to maintain peace. The violence is caused by.bgays and Muslims." said Tita Nada Bogdan, Yugoslavian student.

"They have nothing to lose by trying to keep their own. They can destroy the Serbs, and the Serbs will destroy them, but that's a way of life," said Bogdan.

"I care if you're an ant. What matters is what's in your heart and soul," says Ilincic. "I hope peace comes soon."
ARTS

Gabe's Real Words

There's something comforting about routine. Routine is a reminder that life goes on.

As I walked with a friend the other day, I found myself wanting more routine in my life, more scheduled activities. I find routine comforting, even if it is a bit predictable.

My schedule for the day was filled with appointments and meetings, but I found comfort in the familiarity of the routine.

I think it's important to find what brings us comfort in our daily lives. Routine can be a source of comfort and stability.

Do you have something to put in Attractions & Distractions? Send information to The Whitworthian at #3402 by 5 p.m. Friday.
Soccer: Pirates extend winning streak, advance in polls

Ryan Leonard
Whitworthian Sports Editor

The Whitworth men's soccer team extended its winning streak to 11 games by defeating Williamette University 2-0 Saturday, followed by a 13-1 thumping of Willamette College Sunday. In the process, the Pirates moved from fourth in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics to third.

Jim Martinson and Zane Higgins proved the scores against Willamette.

"They came at us with an off-side trap, but we beat them in the first 10 minutes with a goal from Zone," said Head Coach Elmar Thorarinsson of the Pirates' game plan. "Their other game plan was to come out and play aggressively," he added.

In contrast, the Pirates failed to convert on several scoring opportunities and began to fall apart in the second half.

"We got our first two goals in the first and second minutes and were able to keep them on their heels," said Thorarinsson. "After that, they didn't recover." Martinson and Higgins led the Pirate scoring attack with three goals each, while goalie John Nagel had one shutout.

The wins improved Whitworth's record to 11-0 in the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges, the NAIA District 1, and the Northwest Collegiate Soccer Conference.

Kristopher Peterson

Whitworth women's soccer team's record dropped to 3-3-3 in the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Division II, and the Northwest Collegiate Soccer Conference.

Whitworth returns to action Oct. 14 when they travel to CSS for a 4 p.m. rematch with the Susquehanna.

The Pirates will then return to the Pine Bowl Oct. 21 to take on the Gonzaga Bulldogs in a 3 p.m. showdown.

Pirate Football: PLU Lutes crush Pirates 49-7

Kevin Parker
Whitworthian Staff Writer

The Whitworth football team has enjoyed two come-from-behind victories this season. But that came to an end Saturday when the Pirates lost 49-7 to Pacific Lutheran University.

This was the Columbia Football Association, Mt. Rainier Division opener for both teams. Pacific Lutheran is ranked fifth nationally in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Division II.

The Pirates first possession was a short one as the Lutes intercepted a Danny Figuera pass, giving them the ball on the Pirates 30 yard line. This set up the Lutes first touchdown of the game.

The snowball effect began to roll as the Lutes put up 21 first quarter points and 35 first half points.

Figuera, who has completed 64 percent of his passes this season, finished the game completing 12 of 24 passes for 145 yards.

The "air force" included leading receiver Jesus Tobeck, who had four receptions and one touchdown. Clayton Colliton also had four receptions, while Tony Dougall had two and Abe Ramitas had one.

"Danny really kept his poise out there, even though he was getting hit just about every play," said Mike Hofhiens.

The Pirates rushing attack was stumped for most of the game, only managing -14 yards rushing on 22 carries. The Lutes produced a defensive attack of 524 total yards. PLU controlled the ball with 21 first downs, compared to only three for the Pirates.

"They (the Lutes) were much faster than we were. They were really tough," said Dave Snyder.

The defense had a rough day with the Lutes. Free safety Derek Edwards and linebacker Jeff Edmondson played well for the Pirates.

Scott Williamson came up with some big tackles and one interception.

A scoring opportunity came with 1:43 left in the game when Figuera connected with Tobeck on a 25 yard touchdown pass, giving the Lutes their only points of the game.

The last dropped Whitworth to 0-3 in the Mt. Rainier division of the CFA, and 2-1 overall. The Pirates schedule doesn't get any easier as they travel to Arcadia, Calif. to play Humboldt State on Saturday, Oct. 10th.

Men's soccer: Brian Frey evades the opposing defense.

Support the Pirates -- go to games and yell your face off.

CALLING ALL SPORTS FANS
Are you interested in sports writing for The Whitworthian?
If so, call Ryan Leonard at 466-9879.

THIS WEEK IN SPORTS
Oct. 6-12

CROSS COUNTRY
Friday, Oct. 9 at Central Washington Invitational, Ellensburg, Wa.

FOOTBALL
Saturday, Oct. 10 at Humboldt State University, 7 p.m.

MEN'S SOCCER
Wednesday, Oct. 7 at Seattle Pacific University, 7:30 p.m.

VOLLEYBALL
Tuesday, Oct. 6 Lewis-Clark State College, 7 p.m.
Saturday, Oct. 10 Simon Fraser, 7 p.m.
SPORTS

Cross Country competes at Eastern Washington U. Invite

---

Andy Sonneland

Cross Country Correspondent

It was a mixed bag for Whitworth's cross country teams last Saturday at the Eastern Washington Invitational at Finch Arboretum in Spokane. The women's team placed fourth of eight teams, just a point behind the University of Calgary. The Whitworth women downed NCAA Division I schools Gonzaga and Eastern Washington, as well as North Idaho College and the Community College of Spokane. Montana-judged Washington State University for the team title.

Seniors Melanie Kosin and Amy Duree again led the way for the Pirates, Kosin taking sixth place in 19:08 minutes for Division I schools.

The women's team placed fourth in the 1992 District Championship, with all the district teams expected to qualify for the crown.

The squad will train through the next week in preparation for the N-C-I-C Championships in Salem, Ore., on Oct. 24, with the District I meet in Ellensburg on Nov. 7.

"It's hard to assess how we match up against NAIA competition at this point," Sonneland reported.

The coach said the women's team, which just missed a trip to nationals a year ago, is looking stronger than last year's squad. "But it looks like a couple other teams have improved too. Friday's meet should give us a better fix on what it will take to qualify," he said.

Sonneland also said that the women's team hopes to turn in a strong performance at the Northwest Conference meet, where they have placed second the past two years.

On the men's side, Sonneland believes any of the top three could qualify to nationals as individuals if they have their best race.

---

Volleyball: Bearcats sweep Bucs

Kevin Parker

Whitworth Staff Writer

A tall front line and a scrappy defense allowed the Willamette Bearcats to defeat the Whitworth Pirates in three straight games on Saturday, with scores of 15-3, 15-11 and 15-7.

"They were young, but very tall," said Head Coach Gail Scharfe. The height of the Bearcats front line made it difficult for the Whitworth hitters to put the ball away. The Pirates are suffering with injuries to front line hitters Kim McDougall and Amy Coffey.

"We weren't able to get much of a block, and when they did block us, we had problems picking it up," said Scharfe.

Tara Fredrickson finished the game with nine kills, and Kim McDougall finished with eight. Lisa Steele scored her first game at right front hitter.

"And they were beatable, but we wouldn't have a chance on the lack of depth," said Fredrickson. The Pirates will face Lewis-Clark State College Oct. 6, starting at 7 p.m. in the Fieldhouse.

---

International Progressive Dinner

Featuring cuisine from:
- Germany
- Japan
- Mexico

$3 per person
Saturday, October 10, 1992
5 p.m. – Arend Hall
Tickets sold 9/30 thru 10/7
Contact Sara Revel (x3649), Cindy Oswald (x3652), or Bob Barr (x3744) for further details.

DON'T MISS IT!
Election '92: The Issues — Higher education

John Willname
College Press Service

Financial aid is emerging as a major campaign issue for college and university students as President Bush and his Democratic rival Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton actively court the youth vote.

Representatives of college organizations for the Democratic and Republican parties agree that student loans and funding for higher education are fundamental issues facing both candidates. What they disagree about is how to make college more accessible to more people.

"The biggest problem students face right now is funding and student loan debt," said Jamie Harmon, president of the College Democrats. "We now have a situation where some people aren't able to go to their school of choice or school at all because of lack of money. If they can get through, they're burdened with debt."

Tony Zagota, president of the college Republicans, agreed that loans are a major issue facing students, but defended Bush's administration and its higher-education programs. Bush has proposed increasing the availability of student loans, but wants to cut back on the subsidies for graduate work.

"Democrat charge that this administration has been unfavorable to student loans. This is simply false," he said. "More is being given out than (in) any other administration."

Zagota also slammed Clinton's proposed national loan for higher education.

Clinton has proposed a two-fold program to make higher education affordable. Students taking out government-guaranteed loans could pay them off through payroll deductions, or they could perform community service for two years.

"These don't have a lot of appeal. Young people want to enter the job market when they get out of college. They want choices and opportunity," Zagota said. "While community service may sound fine, many would want to do other things."

Harmon described Clinton's plan as "revolutionary," saying the plan was "very close to a socialist idealism."

"If the plan is enacted, students could get jobs they really need to take after graduating from school, rather than feeling pressured to take a high-paying job they don't want in order to pay off school debt," Harmon said.

"Debt affects their first jobs," he said.

Also looming for Bush and the Republican Party are national polls that indicate young people are favoring the Democratic ticket, although some of the president's supporters refute those findings.

With five weeks left in the campaign, polls showed that Clinton had pulled ahead of Bush in popularity. Polls among young people showed between 18 and 24 — show strong support both for the Democratic Party and Clinton. Some of the result include:

- A Washington Post-ABC poll found that 61 percent of the respondents between the ages of 18 and 24 described themselves as Democrats, while 31 percent called themselves Republicans.

- A pool of registered voters under the age of 25 for The New York Times and CBS found that 53 percent of 18- to 24-year-olds polled called themselves Democrats and 37 percent called themselves Republicans.

In the Washington Journal and NBC conducted a survey in August and found that 53 percent of 18- to 24-year-olds polled called themselves Democrats, compared with 26 percent who called themselves Republicans.

Mike Dubadin, a project director for Winthrop Groups in Washington, which is a survey firm that works for conservative groups and the Republican Party, acknowledged that Clinton is ahead in every age group polled. However, he said Bush is getting the most support from the 18-24 age group.

"There is no question that many people think our nation is off in the wrong direction," he said. "But data indicates younger voters identify with conservatism."

The WHITWORTHIAN • October 6, 1992
Reception kicks off reopening of Writing Center

Gary Whisenand ‘interested in student input’

Becky Kilpatrick
Whitworthian Staff Writer

With the opening of the 1992-93 school year, Whitworth College welcomes Registrar Gary Whisenand. Whisenand officially began working at Whitworth since Oct. 1, but was here to observe during this year’s full registration. “It’s been great so far,” said Whisenand. “Everyone’s been very nice and friendly.”

Whisenand replaces former Registrar Melanie Belf who left Whitworth in June for a job at Gonzaga.

Whisenand, 42, has a bachelor's degree from Whittier College, Whittier, Calif.; a master’s of divinity and master of theology from Talbot Seminary, La Mirada, Calif.; and a master’s of philosophy from the University of California at Riverside.

After seven years as registrar at Western State University, College of Law in Fullerton, Calif., Whisenand is pleased at the opportunity to work at Whitworth.

“Where I was before,” said Whisenand, “was entirely focused on lawyers. Here at Whitworth I really enjoy the liberal arts setting and the diversity of students.” Whisenand also worked for six years at his alma mater Talbot Seminary, one of the schools of Biola University in La Mirada, Calif.

“Basically here at Whitworth,” said Whisenand, “I’m coming into a great staff of knowledgeable people.”

Whisenand said he has no immediate plans to change anything. He believes registration and the registration office is running great, and with his 13 years of experience in the field, he just wants to try and enhance the situation.

“It’s a beautiful campus too,” said Whisenand, “a real park-like setting.”

A family and church oriented man, Whisenand has been married to Hanah, and they have two children, Amy, 6, and David, 20 months old. They have been staying in a hotel for nearly a week, but on Oct. 8, they bought a house and are very anxious to get moved in.

“Where I was before... it was entirely focused on lawyers. Here at Whitworth I really enjoy the liberal arts setting and the diversity of students.”

Gary Whisenand

Rebecca Snelting
Whitworthian Staff Writer

A reception for the invocation of the new Writing Center was held from noon to 1:30 p.m. Monday, Oct. 5, 1992. The Writing Center is located on the upper floor of the new wing in the library.

The purpose of the center is so “students will have a chance to think of writing as a skill they develop as they do it more,” said Marty Erb, professor of English, and director of the Writing Center. Erb said that she wanted the center to be accessible so that “all students are aware of the resource on campus.”

The center is run by consultants. The consultants are both members of the student body and the faculty. Students can make appointments to meet with either a student or faculty consultant at designated times during the day.

Sophomore student consultant Sara Revell said the consultants are available to discuss any aspect of writing. Revell said that the center is “for everyone, whether you are a good writer or if you have trouble writing.”

All, except one, of the student consultants for this year are new to the center. Revell said she was asked last spring, and that students were nominated and asked to apply by requests from the faculty.

Erb said that she has a positive outlook. She said that she is excited about the possibilities, after participating in the training sessions of the new student consultants.

“We find that students in all class levels use the center,” Erb said. She also said that the Writing Center is not just for English or communications majors. “We have wide use across the major,” said Erb.

Erb said that she hopes “the Writing Center will be a center for a variety of writing activities.”

Erb cited several reasons, and ways to use the Writing Center. She said that people use the center for different steps in the writing process such as focusing ideas, thesis, organisation, steps of development, revision, research, and mechanics.

Students and faculty are available for consultation on term papers, essays, a variety of other assignments students may have.

Erb said that the center is a good place to come for advice on fellowships, scholarships, and graduate school applications. Since the faculty consultants work with these types of applications frequently, they are a credible authority on the etiquette of such forms.

The reception was informal and informative. The new center is on the second floor of the library, in the “fishbowl” room. The room is adorned with fish decor, including a painted sign complete with an underwater scene. The center served aquatic treats of gummis fish, gummy sharks, and sea water (7-Up). Professors Gordon Jackson, Leonard Oakland and Kathy Storm were among those visiting the center.

Erb eagerly spoke about her excitement for the center this year.

INrSIDE THIS ISSUE

PRO-CHOICE DOES NOT MEAN PRO-ABORTION
HOW SAFE DO YOU FEEL?
FALL PLAY PREVIEW
GABE'S REAL WORDS
WOMEN'S SOCCER BEATS CWU
ELECTION '92: JOBS VS. ENVIRONMENT
Pro-choice does not mean pro-abortion

Laura T. Rush
Editorial Board

In the coming election, one of the important issues being discussed is the ever-controversial topic of abortion. Some will have their votes on this issue alone because of strong personal values and experiences, while others will take time to look at the candidates as a whole. In any case, we all agree that this subject is not something to be taken lightly.

"There is a place for you and this group whom you will serve..." This passage found in Isaiah is a challenge for all people. God gives us the choice to follow Him or to go our own way. The same principle can be applied in other areas of life, like whether or not abortion should be legal.

God has given us the ability to make choices, and that is our right. Some choices are better than others and more glorifying to Him, but the choice is ours.

This is why it is not fair to call women what to do with their bodies without giving them the choice.

Throughout life we make choices that are displeasing to God, but we learn from them and in His eye they are equal. No one choice is greater than another. (Besides, God has this great way of making things we've done wrong and turning them into something good.)

Who are we to pass judgement on what another human does? Has America supposedly been about freedom of choice?

So now you're saying, "What about the unborn? We should just sit back and let them die and make it seem we agree with what is happening?" No way!

You can state your views and at the same time listen to others and what they have been through. Respect them and they will do the same for you.

Christians shouldn't sit back and judge, while their brothers and sisters are hurting. Instead of being so apathetic and6 have no reason to keep up and be hearing. Think of other options for them and take full advantage of the time we have to work on their behalf.

Those of us who have never been in that situation can never imagine the pain, hurt and struggle one goes through. For those of us who have, we all agree that this subject is not something to be taken lightly.

If you're not part of the solution, you're part of the problem. The only way to make abortion illegal is if health care is provided for all classes and adopting homes are guaranteed. At the same time, we would need more education and volunteers to help when women are making decisions.

Keep in mind that pro-choice is not pro-abortion. Pro-choice means exactly that. It supports the choice to do as you wish, just like in any other aspect of life.

We believe in pro-choice or pro-life, remember that you are given the right to believe as you wish and let your vote this November reflect that right.

---

The Whitworthian Staff

Jeanne M. Hain - Editor in Chief
Julietta Maguire - News Editor
Dani Harnell - Features Editor
Ryan Goodno - Sports Editor
Diana Bannon - Photo Editor
Julie Beffington - Advertising Manager
Dee Hart - Circulation Manager
Jocelyn Gage - Copy Editor

---

Course project turns out badly

LAKE FOREST, Ill.

Poor Lake Forest students who called in a bomb threat as part of a class assignment were found guilty of conduct charges.

The case began with an assignment in a class on deviant behavior. According to interviews with students, Professor Jennifer Wallace told the class that their first assignment would be to commit an act of deviance, the Lake Forest Star reported.

One student noted that the professor warned students, "You guys will have to suffer the consequences." Although she didn't specifically mention the assignment for being illegal, another student said it was clear the deviant acts were not supposed to be malicious.

The bomb threat was made Aug. 28 to the Dean of Students Office. On Sept. 16, a student was found guilty of phoning in the bomb threat by the school's Conduct Board and was given an administrative warning and a judicial citation. Three other students were found guilty of conspiracy and received administrative warnings.

According to Don Craft, director of security, the assignment was made in the class before and resulted in some trouble in previous years.

Last year, "someone went to the president's home and parked a car on his front lawn," Craft said.

Questions raised about Al Gore

Dear Editor,

Recently I have come across an article in Flashpoint that describes some of the views of Vice-President Al Gore. You may be startled at what is revealed. Following are excerpts from "The Blasphemy of Senator Al Gore" by Texe Marrs, a respected authority on the New Age movement.

Speaking of Gore, Marrs says, "He's mean, bossy, photogenic, and young. He's now Bill Clinton's vice-presidential running mate — and he's a fervent, committed New Age believer!"

Marrs says, "Gore is a pal of the Dalai Lama, the Tibetan Buddhist who claims to be a reincarnated god on earth. Uncounted numbers of these people are his favorite speakers at New Age conferences, last year he gave a seminar on the environment and spirituality of Common Boundary, a global New Age group. At the same meeting were speakers promoting witchcraft and goddess themes."

Al Gore's new book, Earth in the Balance: Ecology and the Human Spirit, is possibly one of the worst evil and blasphemous books Marrs says he has ever read.

"In the book, he endorses Hinduism and Mystery Religions, the worship of the ancient goddess, Hinduism, Buddhism, and Islam. Gore claims that 'ignore Christian',' who he says, 'are afraid to open their minds to the writings from outside their own system of belief.'"

Marrs says, "According to Al Gore, by refusing to accept that the earth is our sacred mother," these (fundamentalist) Christians have become a dangerous threat to the survival of humanity. They are blights on the environment. To believe in Bible prophecy is unforgivable.

"Not only is this idea heretical, he [Gore] writes, 'It is an appealingly selfish and hateful proposition for a world that needs love and compassion."

When writing to tell you how to vote, but as Bible-believing Christians we must seriously analyze those kinds of beliefs before supporting presidential candidates. Please remember this before you cast your vote in November.

Will Mount

LETTERS to the EDITOR must be signed and submitted to The Whitworthian by 5 p.m. Friday. No anonymous letters will be published. A phone number must be included for author verification. The Whitworthian is not obligated to publish all letters and reserves the right to edit letters.

DO YOU HAVE AN OPINION?

#1 Fundraiser Nationwide Your transacts, savings, or other campus group can earn $100 or less than one month. It is easy and you pay absolutely nothing.

CALL 1-800-735-2071 Ext. 280

TYPING SERVICE

*Sports, notes, etc.

*Great as a gift - per page basic rate

Call or visit The Cool Cloche Shoppe, W. 4111 Hastings Rd. 467-9522
Feelings of safety vary on campus

Juliette Lusak
Whitworth Staff Writer

Do students feel safe on the Whitworth College campus? When you first step foot on the campus, everything seems safe. However, ask some of our students and they will tell you that they feel safer if they stay in a small group and don't even think about it.

Freshman Ellie Martino, who grew up in Spokane, said, "I feel more comfortable because we're in our little secluded campus." Stephanie Shinin, freshman, shared this idea. Because of the type of community at Whitworth, she said, "I feel more comfortable here than I would at any other school."

A few female students said they felt nervous walking alone at night. Senior Kristine Renner said, "In the loop I feel fine, but I wouldn't want to walk in the parking lot by the Village alone."

Junior Holly Grissem felt more scared now than she used to. She said, "Now we're more aware that there is something to fear. I never had to think about if before."

A Arend sponsors self-defense class

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworth Staff Writer

Being prepared and aware in unexpected situations is the focus of a personal safety class that will be held in the Arend lounge Whitenay Oct. 16 from 5 to 6 p.m. Amy Wood, a resident assistant in Arend, is coordinating this self-defense class because she feels it is an area where women need to be prepared. "It's important for people to know how to protect themselves if they ever come into a situation that they didn't want to happen," said Wood.

Wood became interested in sponsoring a class after several rapes occurred near her home last summer. "It really scared me knowing that potential danger was close by and I felt I wasn't prepared to handle that sort of situation.""

Crime prevention practitioner Sandy Richards, a civilian employee of the Spokane Crime Prevention Center, will be teaching the class. "My job involves anything that educates the public about crime prevention, whether it be commercial or residential."  The class will cover common sense advice and practical tactics for various situations that could arise. "Creating an awareness of what's constantly going on in your surroundings and how to protect yourself if necessary, are the lessons I would like to teach students through the class," said Richards.

Wood commented that awareness is a very important aspect of protection. "Because Whitworth is a small Christian School, students often feel a false sense of security," she said.

Although this class is targeted at women, Wood welcomes everyone. "Anyone who is interested is encouraged to attend." Currently the class is scheduled for one night only but Wood says she would like to see it happen consecutively if all goes well.

How to stay safe(r) on campus

College Press Service

While there is no way to be completely safe on campus, experts in campus security said that one measure a student can take to minimize the threat of crime. They also stress that the school setting - rural, urban or suburban - doesn't matter in terms of crime. It can happen to any campus.

Bill Whitman, director of the Campus Safety and Security Institute, gave these tips:

• Open your own checking account, preferably at a hometown bank, and don't take a lot of cash with you to school. You will cash your checks for cash and other needs, he said, and it's not a good idea to have a large amount of money in your dorm or fraternity or sorority house.

• Keep your roommates and decide who will provide common items; don't double up on equipment as thieves and intruders. Engrave your driver's license number or Social Security number on your belongings.

• Don't take valuable jewelry with you to school.

• Lock your door, for instance if you're going down the hall just for a few minutes. That minute can add up to an hour, which is more than enough time for someone to do something wrong.

• Put your name somewhere in your textbooks other than the front and back. Whitman suggests an inside page near the spine. Books are stolen all the time, he said, and several students have been arrested trying to sell the books to bookstores.

• Don't leave valuables out in the open.

• If you go out at night, let someone know where you're going. If your school has an escort service, use it. Don't go alone at night.

• Go to parties with a group of friends, and make sure you leave with the same group. Don't get into a situation where you're vulnerable.

• Avoid alcohol, suggest Andrea Parrott, professor in English at Whitworth University. Since it is involved in almost every date rape, having a clear head will help you avoid a potentially dangerous situation.

Aske no questions & I'll tell you no lies...

Dear Ms. Knowsholl,
I've been feeling lonely lately and need someone to give me affection and to listen to. Men don't seem to do the deed. I'm not asking for much just... Do you know anything and anyone that could help me? -Desperate and Dated

Dear Desperate,
I know how you feel. It sucks when you need a snuggle and there's no one around to help.

I have a pedestrian to keep people away. His name is Basil and he's great. He listens without talking back and doesn't mind being cried on.

Do you have a teddy bear? If not, buy a pet. (As my friend says, if your pet makes you upset, don't forget that you control the food supply. It's advice, but I wouldn't take it.)

Helpful hint for the week: Don't let your bunny outside if it's cold or wet, as she might get a chill - from Your First Rabbit, by Louise Verrier.

Faculty Development Day means more than no classes

Christine Brewer
Whitworth Staff Writer

Fifteen years ago, Whitworth College received a grant from the Lilly Foundation that enabled the college to begin Faculty Development Day. One day per semester is allotted for special programs and activities designed to enrich faculty research. This semester is falls on Friday, Oct. 16.

Faculty Development Day is a day when faculty join together to learn about individual fields of study and how to reflect it in their teaching.

Tammy Reed, Dean of Admissions, said "Faculty Development Day is a time to Mongo ideas and look at the larger issues."

This year's theme is "Celebrating Faculty Scholarship." Michael Bowen, organizer of the research and development committee, said, "It is a chance for faculty to learn about the research being done and what comes of it."

The day, beginning at 8 a.m. and ending around 3 p.m. will consist of three sessions with different topics to choose from, and a plenary session on the new computer catalog in the library.

Faculty Development Day is a time for teachers to become students once again and gain knowledge through the work of their peers. Faculty Development Day teaches them about contributing in their individual fields and encourages them to do research.

Bowen said "It keeps us fresh and interested so that we can be better role models for you (students)."

University of Dubuque Theological Seminary

Do you want to make a difference in the world and make a theological education part of that plan? Do you need some money to make it work?

Visit John Hillel on Oct. 22 in the HUB.

$5.95
Reg $12.00
Reg $12.00
Reg $12.00
Reg $12.00

$5.95
$5.95

$5.95
$5.95
$5.95

Quick Fix For A Bad Day

Hot Locks

Presents

Mens Haircuts

With Melodie

Harvest Village at the 'Y'
FEATURES

'Narnia' evokes nostalgia

Matt Woodruff
Special To The Whitworth

The Whitworth Theater Arts program will turn you into a child again when they produce "Narnia," a musical adaptation based on C.S. Lewis' beloved tale "The Witch and the Wardrobe.""Narnia" follows only the outline of the book. "The audience can't go too far with this (musical) production, except to see the book acted out perfectly, time consuming to do that," said Wardrobe." The Whitworth Theater Arts program will turn you into a child again when they produce "Narnia," a musical adaptation based on C.S. Lewis' beloved tale "The Witch and the Wardrobe." "Narnia" follows only the outline of the book. "The audience can't go too far with this (musical) production, except to see the book acted out perfectly, time consuming to do that," said Wardrobe.

Russian student experience new freedoms and troubles

Alyssa Jones
Whitworth Staff Writer

In the United States the existence of freedom is unquestionable. In Russia, however, that has not been the case until recently.

Sophomore Marina Tsiklaouri, from Moscow, lived under communism. She experienced firsthand the explosion of democracy in Russia, as well as the results of that dramatic change.

Although the fight for democracy continues to wage in nearly every Russian republic, the freedoms that were unknown to Russians in the past, now exist.

"The change is great. In the past, if you were considered to be revolutionary, you could be thrown in prison," said Tsiklaouri.

Tsiklaouri said she experienced the newfound freedom in Russia, but she believes her country will continue to struggle for many years to come.

"It's good that the changes took place, but for life now, it is not better," said Tsiklaouri.

Game show is coming, students can win cash

Carley Burnett
Whitworth Staff Writer

Could you sell $500? Students will be given the chance to win cash Saturday at 8 p.m. in the HUB, through a game show called "The Original Blazeird of Buck!" According to the Campus Activities Coordinator, explained that students interested in playing the game must fill out a short form in the HUB the night of the game. The forms will then be placed in a box and 10 students will be randomly selected to be contestants in the game show.

The chosen contestants will then be called up on the stage to participate in a series of crazy, wild and easy games said Fowler. For example, contestants might be asked to stuff their mouths full of crackers and then engage in a race to see who could be the first to whistle or bounce a rubber ball and try to catch it in the brim of a cowboy hat.

The contestants compete until one person is left standing, said Fowler. The final contestant is then taken to stand inside of a bright and dazzling box called "The Incredible Money Machine."

In this machine, money is blown around and the final student to catch as much as possible in the time allowed wins. In the past, people have caught up to $1000, she explained.

The Top Drawer
Buy and sell men and women used clothing
N. 10th Street
Tues. - Sat. 10 a.m. - 4 p.m.
466-5504

Greeks & Clubs
RAISE A COOL $1000 IN JUST ONE WEEK!
PLUS $1000 FOR THE MEMBERSHIP PROGRAM! No obligation. No cost.
You'll win! Win a new Headphones Radio just by canceling.
- 1-800-932-8289 Ext. 65
Now-Oct. 16 - "Noctuary" by Wendy Frankland Miller, Chase Gallery. Call 625-6050 for information.
Now-Nov. 13 - "The Human Condition," Spokane Center Gallery, EWU
Now-Nov. 28 - "The Dick & Jane Show" with paintings and collected antiques, Spokane Art School/Center for the Visual Arts. Call 328-0900 for information.
Tuesday, Oct. 13 - Shirley Valentine," Spokane Civic Theatre. For information, call 325-2507.
Friday, Oct. 16 - World Food Day
Saturday, Oct. 17 - Mother's Day, Malawi.
Saturday, Oct. 17 - "From Broadway with Style" with Hal Linden and the Spokane Symphony SuperPops, 8 p.m., Spokane Opera House. Call 624-1200 for information.

On-Campus
Tuesday, Oct. 13 - "Interview Techniques," 1:30 p.m., Student Life.
Tuesday, Oct. 13 - Leadership Development, 6 p.m., Young Life Office.
Tuesday, Oct. 13 - Recital: Gale Coffee, 7:30 p.m., Music Building Recital Hall.
Tuesday, Oct. 13 - Young Life, 9:17 p.m., Baldwin-Jenkins.
Wednesday, Oct. 14 - Midweek Worship: History/Political Studies, 11:15 a.m., Seeley Mudd Chapel.
Thursday, Oct. 15 - "Effective Job Search," 2:30 p.m., Student Life.
Friday, Oct. 16 - Faculty Development Day - No Classes.
Saturday, Oct. 17 - Recital: Elaine Woodbury, 4 p.m., Music Building Recital Hall.
Saturday, Oct. 17 - "Blizzard of Bucks," 8 p.m., HUB.
Sunday, Oct. 18 - Sunday Night Live, 6:30 p.m., Seeley Mudd Chapel.
Monday, Oct. 19 - Forum: "C. S. Lewis on Stage" by Tom Key, 11:15 a.m., Cowles Memorial Auditorium.
Monday, Oct. 19 - "How to Utilize the Career Center," 12:30 and 4 p.m., Student Life.

Do you have something to put in Attractions & Distractions? Send information to The Whitworthian at #4302 by 5 p.m. Friday.
Football: Pirates fall to Humboldt State Univ. Lumberjacks, 38-36

Kevin Parker
Whitworth Staff Writer

Arcata, Calif., NCAA Division II, best defense against the run, and 14th in overall defense all spelled trouble for the NAIA Whitworth Pirates as they fell to the Humboldt State University Lumberjacks 38-36 on Saturday.

The Saturday night game was a David vs Goliath confrontation of sorts, or so it seemed.

The Pirates came out just one play short of defeating "Goliath," but the Lumberjacks dropped the Bucs first score.

Humboldt flexed their muscles on the ground at halfback Rodney Dickerson scored two touchdowns, amassing 216 yards offensively. The Lumberjacks also used some trickery to take a halftime lead 26-13.

As Whitworth's special teams warned for a John Karau punt to settle at midfield, Humboldt returnman Byron McMorris scooped up the ball and ran into the end zone.

The comeback kings scored 17 fourth quarter points, including a 10-yard pass from Danny Figueroa to Jason Toebck, which made it 36-36 with 1:32 left to play.

Karau and the Pirates then atoned for the mistake, but the Lumberjacks recovered and ran out the clock.

Ryan Leonard
Whitworthian Sports Editor

The Bucs first score came 24 minutes into the game, only allowing 30.2 rushing yards per game (best in NCAA Division II). Whitworth nabbed for 88 yards on Ara Balkian's 20 carries for nine yards, including a yard touchdown run, Blake Tucker's 10 carries for nine yards and Danny Figueroa's six carries for 12 yards. Figueroa completed 21 of 39 passes for 240 yards and three interceptions.

Toebck had seven receptions for 74 yards, Tony Dougherty caught five for 89 yards, including touchdown receptions of 31 and 43 yards. Clayton Colliton caught five for 52. Steve Haus caught three for 23 yards, including a 15-yard pass for a touchdown. Balkian caught one for three yards.

Women's soccer: Pirates fall to Wildcats 4-1, qualify for District I tournament

Ryan Leonard
Whitworthian Sports Editor

Lisa Hobbs helped the Whitworth women's soccer team get back on the winning track by scoring two goals Wednesday in the Bucs defeated Central Washington University 4-1.

The Bucs scored two goals in the first half, eight minutes into the game. Classmate Andrea Carlson, who finished 21st with a time of 20:05, and sophomore Caryn Wilson, who finished in 21st, and placed 33rd in the race.

Junior Keala Kendall took 38th place, finishing with a time of 20:46.

Whitworth's women is ranked 17th nationally.

In men's 8000m, senior Steve Sund took 6th place, finishing with a time of 26:33, while freshman Brian Lynch finished in 26:47 to finish 10th.

Senior Jim Post finished in 27:39, taking 34th place, while classmate Marc Thielman finished in 38th with a time of 30:09.

Freshman Paul Emmans finished with a time of 30:41, running 91st.

Sueie backed up what he proved last spring in track—he's one of the top few distance runners in the district," said Head Coach Andy Sandmel.

It was good enough for 2nd place.

"Steve backed up what he proved last spring in track—he's one of the top few distance runners in the district," said Head Coach Andy Sandmel. It was good enough for 2nd place.

"Steve backed up what he proved last spring in track—he's one of the top few distance runners in the district," said Head Coach Andy Sandmel.
Volleyball: Pirates fall to LC State, defeat SFU

Kevin Parker
Whitworthian Staff Writer

An early week matchup between Whitworth College and Lewis-Clark State College produced a four set victory 15-13, 15-7, 15-12, 15-6 for LC State.

The Pirates came in following an early season improvement," said Head Coach Gail Scharfe.

"We knew they were tough because they did well in our tournament, but I felt we played three strong games, that shows we are improving," said Head Coach Gail Scharfe.

Game one was a close battle as both teams were still tied at 13 all before LC State closed the game with two quick points to win 15-13.

Whitworth, knowing game one was won, turned game two into an onslaught as the Pirates cruised to a 15-7 win.

The third game was a mirror image of game one as both teams produced long rallies, keeping the score tied throughout the game. Again the game was tied until LC State took the last three points to close the game 15-12.

Game four was the final game as LC State controlled the action as they finished the match 15-6.

Tara Frederickson finished with 10 kills to lead the Pirates. Julie Moisan finished with eight kills and a team high 19 blocks. Kim MacDougall finished with 13 blocks.

Intensity and confidence were two key factors in the Pirates five set victory Saturday over Simon Fraser University, winning 15-7, 15-3, 15-13, 15-6, 15-7.

Momentum played a large role for both teams in the match. The Clanmen came out in game one ready to play, controlling the net to take game one 15-9.

Whitworth came out firing in game two, with Amy Colyar and Moisan taking control of the game by hitting past blockers and placing key shots on the open court. The Pirates knew we would win, we just needed to concentrate," said Lisa Strode.

Game three saw the momentum switch again as SFU used a defensive display and back-court hitting to shoot past the Pirates 15-7. The Pirates high-power hitting found a Clanmen defense behind every dig. It seemed as if the ball could not find the court as every ball was played back.

With a concentrated effort, the Pirates found the holes in the defense and a rhythm in the rotation that produced a 15-6 closing of the Clanmen. The rotation included the 5'9" Tammy Jones, whose defense and leaping ability helped the Pirates in getting the momentum back.

The match was then tied at two games a piece and the momentum setting on the Whitworth bench. With the crowd supporting them, the Pirates came out roaring in game five. "I feel it is important for me to keep the crowd going," enthusiastically said Chad Reeves.

Game five was a fast-paced game, with hard hitting and complete control of the net, as well as big blocking from MacDougall, who finished with a team high 11 blocks and Julie Moisan with 12 blocks.

"Our team really supported us and pumped us up. That really helps you play hard," said MacDougall.

Confidence boosters in game five were big blocks from setter Wendy Harrow and right front hitter Tammy Jones.

Also, the Pirates front line broke down the Clanmen defense, with Frederickson finishing with 19 kills Colyar 16 kills, Moisan 13 kills and MacDougall 10 kills on route to a 15-7 victory.

"Key factors in our win were good passing that led to good setting, which allows you to hit to open court," said Harrow.

The Pirates five set victory was a confidence booster as they head into next week.

"We're communicating better, which adds to the confidence that is growing in ourselves," said MacDougall.

Kim MacDougall battles an LC player for the ball in Wednesday's game.

Kim MacDougall past a Simon Fraser defender Saturday.
MAGAZINE RATINGS

College Press Service

Harvard University has been named the nation's top-ranked university for the third year in a row, according to U.S. News & World Report.

Princeton, Yale and Stanford trailed behind Harvard for the past two years, and this year was no exception. The only university to break the monopoly in 1992 was the California Institute of Technology, which placed fifth.

Williams College (Mass.), a 200-year-old liberal arts school, was voted best small college in the issue. Williams was followed by Amherst College (Mass.), Swarthmore College (Pa.), and Wellesley College (Mass.) in the small liberal arts category.

Worcester Polytechnic Institute (Mass.) was selected the best regional university in the North; Wake Forest University (N.C.) in the South; Illinois' Wesleyan University (Ill.) in the Midwest; and Trinity University (Texas) in the West.

St. Mary's College in Maryland was selected the best regional liberal arts College in the North; Spelman College (Ga.) the best in the South; Wisconsin-River University (Ohio) the best in the Midwest and Southwestern University (Texas) took the honors in the West.

Juliette School (N.Y.) was selected the best specialty school in the arts; Barnard College (Mass.), the best business school, and Harvey Mudd College (Calif.) won top honors for American engineering schools.

The 450 colleges and universities listed in the magazine were ranked on reputation, selectivity, faculty resources, financial resources and student satisfaction.

John Williams
College Press Service

The presidential candidates differ sharply in how they would deal with the specter of global warming, the declining ozone layer, air pollution and other environmental issues that are of obvious concern to you people.

The Republicans charge that Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton and his running mate U.S. Sen. Al Gore of Tennessee would put the environment first and jobs second with their proposals in dealing with environmental concerns.

On the flip side of that argument, the Democrats maintain that President Bush and Vice President Dan Quayle are more concerned with appearing big businesses and pushing environmental issues aside in favor of lesser controls.

"The environment is really important to young people. We have to make sure there is something left for us," said Jamie Harmon, president of the College Democrats. "Bush's claim to be the environmental president is just a campaign tactic."

Bill Spadea, who is the national youth director for the Bush-Quayle campaign, said the Democrats and Republicans are "blowing out of proportion" environmental concerns such as the ozone hole and other issues.

"The two huggers are trying to dismantle programs. They are so radical in protecting the environment they have forgotten the idea of protecting individuals," he said. "They put more value on an animal's life than a human's life on someone's table."

Clint Johnson, automakers to improve fuel mileage in all areas, a change the Republicans say would cost 300,000 jobs at risk. The Bush administration wants industry to investigate the use of alternative fuels and give incentives to develop clean air emissions.

"Clinton has talked about recycling and better car mileage and has caught some heat for it," Harmon said. "We need to raise fuel efficiency standards. This is a good example of pushing the environment just because it's popular because it's needed."

The Republicans also attack Gore as a "radical environmentalist." Gore, who wrote the book "Earth in Balance," said that between combustion engines are causing great harm to the environment.

"This frightens young people," Spadea said. "Bush wants balance between protecting the environment and having businesses thrive in this world."

However, Harmon said the telling difference between the parties is the fact that Gore, a well-known environmentalist, is on the Democratic ticket.

"The most basic issues would be Clinton's choice as a presidential candidate, his history as a senator, his decision to support Al Gore as his running mate," Harmon said. "Vice President Dan Quayle has had the way in getting environmental legislation."

And, in other issues in this election year, the arguments and counter arguments run hot and heavy on what to do about cleaning up the environment.

Said Clinton in a policy statement: "As the threat to nuclear holocaust erodes, the future of the earth is challenged by the gathering environmental crisis. As governments around the world have sought the path to concerted action, the Bush administration has been more of an obstacle than a leader for change, practicing isolationism on an issue that affects us all."

Bush has defended his record, saying his administration has led the way in improving the environment.

"Through our firm commitment and our substantial investments, we have improved significantly the quality of our air, land and water resources," the president said. The United States leads the world in environmental protection and we intend to keep it that way.

Magazine rates nation's best colleges

College Press Service

Harvard University has been named the nation's top-ranked university for the third year in a row, according to U.S. News & World Report.

Princeton, Yale and Stanford trailed behind Harvard for the past two years, and this year was no exception. The only university to break the monopoly in 1992 was the California Institute of Technology, which placed fifth.

Williams College (Mass.), a 200-year-old liberal arts school, was voted best small college in the issue. Williams was followed by Amherst College (Mass.), Swarthmore College (Pa.), and Wellesley College (Mass.) in the small liberal arts category.

Worcester Polytechnic Institute (Mass.) was selected the best regional university in the North; Wake Forest University (N.C.) in the South; Illinois' Wesleyan University (Ill.) in the Midwest; and Trinity University (Texas) in the West.

St. Mary's College in Maryland was selected the best regional liberal arts College in the North; Spelman College (Ga.) the best in the South; Wisconsin-River University (Ohio) the best in the Midwest and Southwestern University (Texas) took the honors in the West.

Juliette School (N.Y.) was selected the best specialty school in the arts; Barnard College (Mass.), the best business school, and Harvey Mudd College (Calif.) won top honors for American engineering schools.

The 450 colleges and universities listed in the magazine were ranked on reputation, selectivity, faculty resources, financial resources and student satisfaction.

John Williams
College Press Service

The presidential candidates differ sharply in how they would deal with the specter of global warming, the declining ozone layer, air pollution and other environmental issues that are of obvious concern to you people.

The Republicans charge that Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton and his running mate U.S. Sen. Al Gore of Tennessee would put the environment first and jobs second with their proposals in dealing with environmental concerns.

On the flip side of that argument, the Democrats maintain that President Bush and Vice President Dan Quayle are more concerned with appearing big businesses and pushing environmental issues aside in favor of lesser controls.

"The environment is really important to young people. We have to make sure there is something left for us," said Jamie Harmon, president of the College Democrats. "Bush's claim to be the environmental president is just a campaign tactic."

Bill Spadea, who is the national youth director for the Bush-Quayle campaign, said the Democrats and Republicans are "blowing out of proportion" environmental concerns such as the ozone hole and other issues.

"The two huggers are trying to dismantle programs. They are so radical in protecting the environment they have forgotten the idea of protecting individuals," he said. "They put more value on an animal's life than a human's life on someone's table."

Clint Johnson, automakers to improve fuel mileage in all areas, a change the Republicans say would cost 300,000 jobs at risk. The Bush administration wants industry to investigate the use of alternative fuels and give incentives to develop clean air emissions.

"Clinton has talked about recycling and better car mileage and has caught some heat for it," Harmon said. "We need to raise fuel efficiency standards. This is a good example of pushing the environment just because it's popular because it's needed."

The Republicans also attack Gore as a "radical environmentalist." Gore, who wrote the book "Earth in Balance," said that between combustion engines are causing great harm to the environment.

"This frightens young people," Spadea said. "Bush wants balance between protecting the environment and having businesses thrive in this world."

However, Harmon said the telling difference between the parties is the fact that Gore, a well-known environmentalist, is on the Democratic ticket.

"The most basic issues would be Clinton's choice as a presidential candidate, his history as a senator, his decision to support Al Gore as his running mate," Harmon said. "Vice President Dan Quayle has had the way in getting environmental legislation."

And, in other issues in this election year, the arguments and counter arguments run hot and heavy on what to do about cleaning up the environment.

Said Clinton in a policy statement: "As the threat to nuclear holocaust erodes, the future of the earth is challenged by the gathering environmental crisis. As governments around the world have sought the path to concerted action, the Bush administration has been more of an obstacle than a leader for change, practicing isolationism on an issue that affects us all."

Bush has defended his record, saying his administration has led the way in improving the environment.

"Through our firm commitment and our substantial investments, we have improved significantly the quality of our air, land and water resources," the president said. The United States leads the world in environmental protection and we intend to keep it that way.

Magazine rates nation's best colleges

College Press Service

Harvard University has been named the nation's top-ranked university for the third year in a row, according to U.S. News & World Report.

Princeton, Yale and Stanford trailed behind Harvard for the past two years, and this year was no exception. The only university to break the monopoly in 1992 was the California Institute of Technology, which placed fifth.

Williams College (Mass.), a 200-year-old liberal arts school, was voted best small college in the issue. Williams was followed by Amherst College (Mass.), Swarthmore College (Pa.), and Wellesley College (Mass.) in the small liberal arts category.

Worcester Polytechnic Institute (Mass.) was selected the best regional university in the North; Wake Forest University (N.C.) in the South; Illinois' Wesleyan University (Ill.) in the Midwest; and Trinity University (Texas) in the West.

St. Mary's College in Maryland was selected the best regional liberal arts College in the North; Spelman College (Ga.) the best in the South; Wisconsin-River University (Ohio) the best in the Midwest and Southwestern University (Texas) took the honors in the West.

Juliette School (N.Y.) was selected the best specialty school in the arts; Barnard College (Mass.), the best business school, and Harvey Mudd College (Calif.) won top honors for American engineering schools.

The 450 colleges and universities listed in the magazine were ranked on reputation, selectivity, faculty resources, financial resources and student satisfaction.
The WHITWORTHIAN
October 20, 1992 • Volume 83 • No. 5 • Whitworth College, Spokane, Wa. 99251

Whitworth student dies from car accident injuries

Krista Vasquez
Whitworthian News Editor

A memorial service will be held Wednesday, Oct. 21 at 11:15 a.m. in the Chapel for Kentaro Tsuji, an international student from Japan, who died Saturday morning from injuries received in a car accident.

The accident occurred Friday morning when Tsuji and Attila Bogdan, an international student from Yugoslavia, were seven miles west of Ellensburg.

Bogdan's vehicle overturned five times after hitting the center divider, a Washington State Patrol spokesman said.

Tsuji was taken to St. Elizabeth's Medical Center in Yakima. Bogdan was taken to Kittitas Valley Community Hospital, where he was treated for injuries and later released.

Tsuji, a 19-year-old freshman and journalism major was an avid photographer and hiker.

"He bought a bike the second day he was here," said Diane Tomhave, director of multicultural student affairs. She said he loved photography and he would always carry his camera with him.

He was a "hug loving, wonderful, joyous person... he loved life," she said.

Janye Yoder, coordinator of campus international programs and Tsuji's adviser, said he was an "extremely gregarious, sociable person who was full of vitality."

Tsuji and Bogdan were close friends who hoped to be roommates next year in McMillian Hall, Tomhave said.

Tsuji's mother and uncle arrived Saturday and are staying with Dr. Shipsa, president and dean of the faculty. Other relatives are expected for the memorial service.

Tsuji's family is part of a small minority of Japanese Christians, Yoder said.

In a memorandum to students, Dr. Kathy Storm, vice president for student life, said, "In accordance with Japanese custom, we ask that any flowers sent be only white, cut flowers, that no gifts be given to the family unless they wish to give money (which should be given as a crisp, new bill, wrapped in white tissue paper, inserted in an envelope and directed to the family through the Chaplain's Office) and that black be worn to the service."

Storm also said in the memo that the Chapel will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. this week for silent prayer. She invited students to come speak with Chaplain Doug Dye, counselors Pat Coleman or Jawelle Thayer, faculty members, or members of the Student Life staff, during this time of sadness.

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworthian Staff Writer

With the $4.9 million library project nearly complete, a dedication ceremony of the newly expanded and refurbished Harriet Cheney Cowles Memorial Library will be held on Friday, Oct. 23.

Hans Bynagle, director and library professor, said the purpose of the dedication ceremony is to thank and honor all donors to the project, provide a time of celebration for the Whitworth community and to acknowledge the completion of the Centennial Campaign.

"It represents a culmination of something that began eight years ago," said Bynagle, "it really pretty exciting."

The ceremony will begin with music performed by the Whitworth Jazz Combo. Introduction by Dr. Philip Eason will immediately follow the performance. A review of the Centennial Campaign will be given by Chairman of the Board of Trustees Chuck Roeppl. A presentation of a $1 million check from the Whitworth Foundation to the college is also part of the program.

"We need to involve the board, president, community and a student speaker with this ceremony," said Timothy Reid, associate dean for academic affairs and the coordinator of the dedication planning committee.

Senior Kyrsty Lee, representing "the voice of the students of Whitworth" will thank those who made the library possible. "Kyrsty represents the past, present and future," said Reid. "She represents the third generation of Whitworth students, and consequently both her parents and grandparents attended Whitworth."

An open house and tours of the library follow the ceremony and ribbon cutting.

The library now provides nearly double the square footage and shelving space, as well as volume and seating capacity of the pre-existing facility. On-line catalog and database systems, now available, will enable students to access information from other research libraries in the region and throughout the country.

Computer and instructional labs, a writing center, and expanded study space are also recent additions to the library. "This library will provide Whitworth students, faculty and community with state-of-the-art library facilities to deal with," said Bynagle.

Reid is looking forward to the ceremony. "It's always fun to celebrate," she said, "especially something so central to the campus community."

The dedication will be held in the library plaza at 1 p.m. on Friday, regardless of weather.

Attila Bogdan and Kentaro Tsuji enjoy ice cream in the dining hall.

Brian Coddington
Special to the Whitworthian

Over the years, the soft jingle of quarters and the low and monotonous rumble of washers and dryers have become the trademark of Sunday nights at Whitworth College.

However, this fall the rumble has turned to grumble. Many students were angered to find a 25 cent increase in the price of both the washers and dryers waiting for their overflowing laundry baskets, and without any noticeable improvement in quality.

Students have seen the price of doing a load of wash jump 50 percent for washers and 100 percent for dryers as a result of an agreement with Cozetco. Cozy, said Keith Sullivan, director of the physical plant.

"Cozetco is a private laundry contractor which supplies Whitworth with washers and dryers and maintains the existing machines. "We have an agreement with Cozetco supplying us with washers and dryers. In return, they take a certain percentage of the revenue from the machines," said Sullivan.

"As part of our contract negotiations we agreed to let them

Please see Laundry, p. 4

Cost of laundry increases

PAGE 2
PAGE 4
PAGE 5
PAGE 6
PAGE 7
PAGE 8
PAGE 9
PAGE 10

INSIDE THIS ISSUE
INDIVIDUALISM IN AMERICA
RAPE ACQUAINTANCE TASK FORCE
PARENT'S WEEKEND
MOVIE REVIEW: "HERO"
TATTOO'S GAIN IN POPULARITY
GABE'S REAL WORDS
MEN'S SOCCER IN PLAYOFFS
Individuality is too prevalent in America

By GREG NEUMAYER

"Questions raised about Al Gore" answered with primary sources

Dear Editor,

In the last issue of The Whitworthian there was a letter about vice presidential candidate Al Gore. I found the letter disturbing and have decided to investigate Gore for myself.

In the letter there was a statement that said, "Gore blames Christians who he says are afraid to open their minds to teachings first offered outside their own system of beliefs."

The actual words in Gore's book, Earth in the Balance: Ecology and the Human Spirit, are on page 258 and say, "The richness and diversity of our religious traditions throughout history is a spiritual resource long ignored by people of faith, who are afraid to open their minds to teachings first offered outside their own system of beliefs."

Gore's wording in no way blasts Christians.

Another quote said, "To believe in Bible prophecy is unforgivable, says Gore."

The next paragraph went on to say, "Not only is this idea heretical, he [Gore] writes, it is an appalling self-fulfilling prophecy of doom."

In the actual words in Gore's book, (page 263), tell a different story. "For some Christians, the prophetic vision of the apocalypse is used in my view, unfortunately - as an excuse for isolating their responsibilities to the good stewardship of God's creations."

"Former Secretary of the Interior, James Watt was once quoted boasting concerning the environmental protection in part because it would all be destroyed by God in the apocalypse. Not only is this idea heretical in terms of Christian teachings, it is an appalling self-fulfilling prophecy of doom."

The information in last week's letter was based on the second-hand information offered by Tex Marm, rather than on the actual words of Al Gore.

Christianity Today, in its Sept. 1992 issue, asked Gore in a personal interview, "What motivates you to work on environmental issues?"

Gore responded, "The foundations of all my work on the environment is my faith in Jesus Christ and my conviction that the purpose of life is indeed as I learned in Baptist Sunday school so many years ago: to glorify God."

As college students we have both resources and knowledge which enable us to research things ourselves and to come up with our own interpretations.

We shouldn't rely on second- or third-hand information, or accept it as the truth when we have the ability and knowledge to come to our own conclusions using primary source materials.

Paula Milligan
Church must begin to realize its responsibility for the environment

Dear Editor,

In response to last week's editorial regarding Rush, I would like to say that I appreciate her concern for respect between people in the community and her constructive critique. She addressed the topic with gentle spirit, which helps when we try to live up to the call of the issue with objectivity and openness.

Rush quoted a passage from John White with whom you will surely agree: "...as a human, we have the means to make choices that glorify God or to satisfy self. The right to believe just as you wish is a blessing, the ability to choose as you wish is a gift."

We have confused the meaning of choice. In the context of Christ, we should believe not with a self-serving choice, but with a choice that is pleasing to God and is beyond our control. We should have the ability to hear the call of God, which is a gift not just to ourselves but to our neighbors. A call to say yes or no to God's will is the first step to becoming fully human.

If the call is to be made as a self-will choice, it may not be pleasing to God, but if we respond to the call, then we are giving our best to God. Therefore, we have to listen to the call of God.

Rush quoted a passage from John White with whom you will surely agree: "...as a human, we have the means to make choices that glorify God or to satisfy self. The right to believe just as you wish is a blessing, the ability to choose as you wish is a gift."

We have confused the meaning of choice. In the context of Christ, we should believe not with a self-serving choice, but with a choice that is pleasing to God and is beyond our control. We should have the ability to hear the call of God, which is a gift not just to ourselves but to our neighbors. A call to say yes or no to God's will is the first step to becoming fully human.

If the call is to be made as a self-will choice, it may not be pleasing to God, but if we respond to the call, then we are giving our best to God. Therefore, we have to listen to the call of God.

Rush quoted a passage from John White with whom you will surely agree: "...as a human, we have the means to make choices that glorify God or to satisfy self. The right to believe just as you wish is a blessing, the ability to choose as you wish is a gift."

We have confused the meaning of choice. In the context of Christ, we should believe not with a self-serving choice, but with a choice that is pleasing to God and is beyond our control. We should have the ability to hear the call of God, which is a gift not just to ourselves but to our neighbors. A call to say yes or no to God's will is the first step to becoming fully human.

If the call is to be made as a self-will choice, it may not be pleasing to God, but if we respond to the call, then we are giving our best to God. Therefore, we have to listen to the call of God.

Rush quoted a passage from John White with whom you will surely agree: "...as a human, we have the means to make choices that glorify God or to satisfy self. The right to believe just as you wish is a blessing, the ability to choose as you wish is a gift."

We have confused the meaning of choice. In the context of Christ, we should believe not with a self-serving choice, but with a choice that is pleasing to God and is beyond our control. We should have the ability to hear the call of God, which is a gift not just to ourselves but to our neighbors. A call to say yes or no to God's will is the first step to becoming fully human.

If the call is to be made as a self-will choice, it may not be pleasing to God, but if we respond to the call, then we are giving our best to God. Therefore, we have to listen to the call of God.

Rush quoted a passage from John White with whom you will surely agree: "...as a human, we have the means to make choices that glorify God or to satisfy self. The right to believe just as you wish is a blessing, the ability to choose as you wish is a gift."

We have confused the meaning of choice. In the context of Christ, we should believe not with a self-serving choice, but with a choice that is pleasing to God and is beyond our control. We should have the ability to hear the call of God, which is a gift not just to ourselves but to our neighbors. A call to say yes or no to God's will is the first step to becoming fully human.

If the call is to be made as a self-will choice, it may not be pleasing to God, but if we respond to the call, then we are giving our best to God. Therefore, we have to listen to the call of God.

Rush quoted a passage from John White with whom you will surely agree: "...as a human, we have the means to make choices that glorify God or to satisfy self. The right to believe just as you wish is a blessing, the ability to choose as you wish is a gift."

We have confused the meaning of choice. In the context of Christ, we should believe not with a self-serving choice, but with a choice that is pleasing to God and is beyond our control. We should have the ability to hear the call of God, which is a gift not just to ourselves but to our neighbors. A call to say yes or no to God's will is the first step to becoming fully human.

If the call is to be made as a self-will choice, it may not be pleasing to God, but if we respond to the call, then we are giving our best to God. Therefore, we have to listen to the call of God.

Rush quoted a passage from John White with whom you will surely agree: "...as a human, we have the means to make choices that glorify God or to satisfy self. The right to believe just as you wish is a blessing, the ability to choose as you wish is a gift."

We have confused the meaning of choice. In the context of Christ, we should believe not with a self-serving choice, but with a choice that is pleasing to God and is beyond our control. We should have the ability to hear the call of God, which is a gift not just to ourselves but to our neighbors. A call to say yes or no to God's will is the first step to becoming fully human.

If the call is to be made as a self-will choice, it may not be pleasing to God, but if we respond to the call, then we are giving our best to God. Therefore, we have to listen to the call of God.

Rush quoted a passage from John White with whom you will surely agree: "...as a human, we have the means to make choices that glorify God or to satisfy self. The right to believe just as you wish is a blessing, the ability to choose as you wish is a gift."

We have confused the meaning of choice. In the context of Christ, we should believe not with a self-serving choice, but with a choice that is pleasing to God and is beyond our control. We should have the ability to hear the call of God, which is a gift not just to ourselves but to our neighbors. A call to say yes or no to God's will is the first step to becoming fully human.

If the call is to be made as a self-will choice, it may not be pleasing to God, but if we respond to the call, then we are giving our best to God. Therefore, we have to listen to the call of God.

Rush quoted a passage from John White with whom you will surely agree: "...as a human, we have the means to make choices that glorify God or to satisfy self. The right to believe just as you wish is a blessing, the ability to choose as you wish is a gift."

We have confused the meaning of choice. In the context of Christ, we should believe not with a self-serving choice, but with a choice that is pleasing to God and is beyond our control. We should have the ability to hear the call of God, which is a gift not just to ourselves but to our neighbors. A call to say yes or no to God's will is the first step to becoming fully human.

If the call is to be made as a self-will choice, it may not be pleasing to God, but if we respond to the call, then we are giving our best to God. Therefore, we have to listen to the call of God.

Rush quoted a passage from John White with whom you will surely agree: "...as a human, we have the means to make choices that glorify God or to satisfy self. The right to believe just as you wish is a blessing, the ability to choose as you wish is a gift."

We have confused the meaning of choice. In the context of Christ, we should believe not with a self-serving choice, but with a choice that is pleasing to God and is beyond our control. We should have the ability to hear the call of God, which is a gift not just to ourselves but to our neighbors. A call to say yes or no to God's will is the first step to becoming fully human.

If the call is to be made as a self-will choice, it may not be pleasing to God, but if we respond to the call, then we are giving our best to God. Therefore, we have to listen to the call of God.
One of four women and one in five men between the ages of 15 and 24, can expect to become victims of rape. This statistic is the national average, but it is not just a national problem. It does happen at Whitworth.

Last year the idea of an Acquaintance Rape Task Force was first introduced to the Student Life Committee. Kathy Storm, vice president of student life, said the task force is concerned with educating people about the vulnerability of acquaintance rape and to offer definitions of what constitutes rape.

The committee also wanted to provide a support network for victims. The committee has already met and undergone training on how to deal with situations of acquaintance rape.

In an article in the Chronicle of Higher Education, acquaintance rape and date rape are defined as, "...instances of sexual assault by men who know their victims, whether or not they have been introduced to the victims by arrangement and set up by the aggressor..."

Storm said one of the problems with date rape is that it is a difficult crime to get accurate numbers on. She said it is probably the most under-reported crime. "No matter what the numbers, it's an event that should be brought into the open," she said.

Marie Dahlstrom, coordinator of emotional and sexual abuse in Spokane Sexual Assault Center said, "The majority of crimes against women are committed by someone they loved and trusted." She said acquaintance rape is embedded in our society, which makes it difficult to identify as a crime.

To help ease the pain for students at Whitworth, new programs have been implemented. These programs were designed to provide information as to where victims can find medical assistance, where legal advice, and rape counseling services are available.

Storm said that because Whitworth is a Christian community, "we have the responsibility to provide support and help to students when they are in circumstances of great pain."

Another area the task force wanted to address was alcohol use in connection with rape situations. A brochure produced by the task force last year reported, "The use of alcohol and/or drugs is present in about 40 percent of acquaintance rapes."

Storm and Dick Mandeville, associate dean of students and director of residence life, said it is probably the most vulnerable time for students to be raped, in the first few weeks of their freshman year. This year the vice dorm showed a videotape which included accounts from rape victims.

Storm said Student Life should be praised for the programming that is provided in the first few weeks of school. A tribute from the Spokane County Sheriff's Department was also on campus to talk particularly to males.

In addition to the brochure published last year, a more informative brochure on campus was released. Storm said the new brochure may possibly be distributed to students and faculty and be available in the health center.

One of the most evident services implemented because of the task force is the Peer Advocacy Program. It was designed as a support program for students to help their peers.

Dahlstrom said, "Helping begins when you talk about it."

The program is staffed by student and faculty volunteers. It includes eight weeks of training to help counsel rape victims and what legal processes are necessary.

Pat Coleman, director of the counseling center, said this is an important program for rape victims.

Alcohol and drugs are major factors in incidents of sexual assault

John Williams
College Press Service

Men and drinking can be a potentially tragic mixture. Recently, researchers of sexual assault said recently in a conference on campus that they see more cases of rape.

More than 500 deans, faculty members and campus security personnel met for a three-day conference in early October to discuss sexual assault on campuses.

"Rape is an emotionally charged issue that colleges can deal with," said Bernice Sandler, who works at the Center for Women Policy Studies in Washington, D.C. "Campus rape and date rape are real issues that have never been raped. All women are vulnerable. It also has an impact on men. They need to have better relationships with women."

Indeed, there were several presentations that focused on men and why they rape. Mary Koss, who works at the College of Medicine at the University of Arizona, presented some statistics from a poll done at an upstate New York college.

The survey found that 80 percent of the male respondents wanted to deal with women they loved the conquest of sex; and had the extra to date some women looked like they were "asking for it."

"Men are attracted to the idea of those being the sexual aggressor," she said.

Men negotiate relationships based on myths, to men can misinterpret information," she said. "Rape is an anger crime. Rape can refer to a desire to dominate."

There are demographic characteristics in males who rape, including being hostile to women, hyper masculinity, aggressive behavior, and a lower level of alcohol/drug education, and rape occurring.

Storm said that because Whitworth is a Christian community, "we have the responsibility to provide support and help to students when they are in circumstances of great pain."

One of the most evident services implemented because of the task force is the Peer Advocacy Program. It was designed as a support program for students to help their peers.

Dahlstrom said, "Helping begins when you talk about it."

The program is staffed by student and faculty volunteers. It includes eight weeks of training to help counsel rape victims and what legal processes are necessary.

Pat Coleman, director of the counseling center, said this is an important program for rape victims.

"Rape is a felony that must be handled differently from other campus judicial procedures," she said. "Rape is not a sex act."

Last Chance
For Your Best Chance

GRI Prep Course

STANLEY H. KAPLAN
The Kaplan & Or Take Your Classes

LIVE CLASSES FORMING NOW. CALL (800) 723-PREP

Important phone numbers

Whitworth Security
323-6280
Health Center
323-6290
Spokane Sexual Assault Center
624-RAPE
Spokane County Police Dept.
535-2313
Counseling and Testing Service
324-1640

Laundry, from p. 1

Raise the price of the laundry so they would keep them on campus."

Part of the price increase goes into covering the cost of installing new machines, said Sullivan. "The machines see a lot of use during the nine months of school and the summer conferences. Generally, they last about five years, but we had to replace four or five machines this year, he said."

Stephen Halton, resident director of Warner residence hall, said, "People don't mind the increase in price. Basically, it's just the dryers — they still take double the time to dry."

Halton pointed out that the problem of the dryers is not a new one. "The problem was there last year, but people were only paying 25 cents and were willing to put up with it. Now the price has doubled for a dryer and the problem is still there." said Halton.

Greg Neumayer, a junior, shared Halton's opinion of the dryers. "The dryers take a couple of sims to get your clothes dry. If they would make them as dry, the price would be no big deal.

The problems with the dryers and the increase in price has forced students to find other alternatives to deal with the situation. Some have made the best of a bad situation."

"We always hang our clothes around the room everywhere because we don't want to spend the extra money to dry them again," said sophomore Esther Davy."

"We, however, have chosen to take their laundry elsewhere. "I will take my laundry to a friend's house if I know I am going to be there a while," said Halton. "And I know others have done the same or gone to local laundromats," she said.

Students have found local laundromats offer more competitive prices. They shared their experiences. "It's probably the same except it dries in one dryer cycle," said Davy.

"One student even said so as to offer a solution. "It seems like adding five or ten minutes to the drying time would solve the problem," said sophomore John Adams.

Prices at other local universities vary. Gonzaga also charges 75 cents for a washer and 50 cents for a dryer, while Eastern Washington University charges 50 and 35 cents, respectively.
Large turnout expected for Parent's Weekend

Arend self-defense class well attended

Becky Kilpatrick
Whitworth Staff Writer

Approximately 25 students turned out at Arend Hall's personal safety class on Wednesday, Oct. 14, at 8 p.m. to hear Sandy Richards, crime prevention practitioner from the Spokane Police Department.

Many of the ideas Richards presented were new to students. "Parking lots are obvious places for you to become victims," said Richards, especially at grocery stores, because you are more comfortable there.

The main points of Richards' presentation were that students need to be more aware of their surroundings and everything happening around them. Richards prepared to handle situations as they arise. "Hopefully, I come out and talk to students before they become victims," she said. "I don't like to hear people tell me stories that begin with 'I didn't understand the thing'."

Richards used humorous anecdotes portraying very serious situations to help inform students of the dangers of being alone on campus every day. Richards said there have been nearly 1800 home burglaries this year in Spokane. She said Whitworth students need to be more prepared to prevent pickpocketing, purse snatching, and car prowling. She attributes the growth in the use of this crime to the lack of knowledge or want to know about the crime. Richards said students are often more likely to feel comfortable in their homes and not to be on the lookout for suspicious characters.

"We're aware of everything around you at all times. If you're walking alone and someone walks up to you, that person is probably a criminal," she said. Richards' presentation included:

- Use eye contact to let potential aggressors know you're there.
- Never walk alone. If you have to walk alone, be sure to walk with conviction and authority.
- Keep a key between your fingers to use like a thimble if you are outdoors.
- If you are walking alone and feel threatened by a person you are not familiar with, stay away from them.
- Never leave anything at all in your car at night. What may not be valuable to you, may be of value to someone else and you may have a broken window to replace.
- Lastly, back your purse against the back of your body when walking on crowded sidewalks, preferably with someone else and never alone.

"I am not able to walk alone. If you are walking alone and someone follows you, turn around and say, 'What do you want? I'm just walking home with my keys.'"

"I don't like to think about it, but I feel like someone is following me or watching me."

"I don't like to think about it, but I feel like someone is following me or watching me."

"I don't like to think about it, but I feel like someone is following me or watching me."

Richards also points out that people make noise, they are less likely to become a victim. If you are walking alone and feel like someone is following you, running around and saying, 'What do you want?' can be intimidating to them. "They are looking for easy targets, quiet victims," said Richards.

Student response was very positive. "I learned that I need to be more confident and look people in the eye and let them know I wasn't put up with anything," said Freshman Jessie Terrie. "I thought it was very informative," said Sophomore Tessa Oliver. "In this day and age, women don't need to be scared — they have many options.

Amy Wood, a resident assistant in Arend and coordinator of Wednesday night's meeting, was pleased with the turnout and the presentation. "Everything the (Richards) had to say was very applicable and useful. Maybe students will walk away knowing that they need to be prepared at all times — after all, we learned that the places you look most like a victim is where you are most comfortable," said Wood.
Barr's new position helps R.A.s

Carley Barrett
Whitworth Staff Writer

The amount of student activities has increased this year due mostly to the new Assistant Resident Director of Students, Bob Barr. The former residence director R.D. at Whitworth originated last year on the Whitworth campus. However, this year the position was changed to R.D. in order to assist the current R.D. at Whitworth, assistant director of student life, Barr's main goal for the year was to increase resources for the upcoming month. They also must include whether they will need Barr's help contacting parents or getting the money necessary to hold the event.

Barr meets once a week with the R.A.s to coordinate all of the activities. "He just fits in all of the little holes when R.A.s don't have time," Joy Young, a second-year R.A. in Jenkins Hall, said. Barr has helped her with programming ideas and promotion of activities. "Young summed up her appreciation of Barr by saying, "he just fills in all of the little holes when R.A.s don't have time." Laure Mead, currently an R.A. in McMillan, said that Barr is "an awful help in organizing projects." Mead recently held an event at the Garland Theater and he credited Barr for making it easier to get the project underway.

Although Barr describes the job as being the busiest he has ever had, he said he "totally loves it." As an R.A. last year in Stewar, the programming part of the job was what he enjoyed the most. Barr's main goal for the year is to get "more students aware of what is going on and to increase participation in on-campus activities." This is mostly the role of the R.A.s, but to inspire them, Barr plans to develop a point system among the R.A.s and award prizes to the ones with the most points. To increase resources for the R.A.s, both Barr and the R.A.s have used some of their ideas. For example, Baldus—Jenkins Hall hosted an informational dance rape meeting in September. Later in the year, R.A.s plan to hold awareness meetings as well as author programs. According to Mandeville, Barr and the R.A.s are doing a great job. In one weekend alone, students were able to participate in a dorm dance, a museum trip featuring the art of Spokane, an international progressive dinner, a tennis-golf tournament, scavenger hunts and Fermi head making. In all, at least 200 students participated.

"However, the numbers themselves aren't the main thing. What is important is that students are having so many opportunities outside of the classroom to build relationships, meet people and have fun. There is some learning that is going on. It makes for a more complete, quality college experience," said Mandeville.

Marriott satisfies campus dinners with new meal plan improvements

Jamie Fiorino
Whitworth Staff Writer

What's new at Marriott? The newest thing is the meal plan. Normally you try to get your food for less, but you may also choose where to get your food for more.

Last year, Marriott's Director of Food Service, Jim O'Brien, and the Food Service Manager, Duane Ochoa, listened to the concerns of Whitworth students and created a better meal plan for the 1992-1993 school year. "There are less complaints and students are much more happy," said Schwen. O'Brien agreed, "The reaction is positive. They [the students] like their options.

The cost for all three meal plans has been set down. For plan A last year (Fall, Jan term, and Spring) the total cost was $2162, this year it is $2137 for 52 meals, a savings of $25. For plan B last year the total cost was $2022, this year it's $1974 for 415 meals, a savings of $48. For plan C last year the total cost was $1975, this year it's $1759 for 295 meals, a savings of $116.

Additionally, Ochoa thought that having one plan during the week will carry over until you use them. Or if you have meal plan A and B, you can save your meals until the end of the semester and use all of them on good days in the Snack Bar.

Those people with plan B and C may use their I.D. cards at the Snack Bar in the HUB.

Charotte Ochoa, the Snack bar manager, says that the Snack bar has become a popular place now that students are allowed to use their meal cards. "Some students live here," she said. The Snack bar does not take any meal cards between the lunch hour of 11:00 to 1:00 due to overcrowding, she explained.

Ochoa says that "they [the new meal plan] are marvelous. The kids seem much more happy now that they have more options, and they keep us busy!"

O'Brien said that because people with meal plan B and C like using the Snack Bar so much, the idea of allowing people with meal plan A to use the Snack Bar is being considered for next year.

Ochoa disagrees. "I don't think they [people with meal plan A] should be allowed to use their cards here all the time. Maybe special occasions, but not all the time." Ochoa explained that she feels the facility is not large enough to accommodate those extra people.

If you have any comments on the meal plans, please direct them to the Marriott office.
FEATURES

Twentysomething generation searches for new directions

Shawn Emery
College Press Service

Each generation fervently strives to succeed, yet it is the young and old. In the 1950s, it was the Beat; in the 1960s, the mod; in the 1970s, the punk. Now there is a generation searching for recognition in the 1990s.

The twentysomethings, shun materialism, yet they seek the comfort that it brings; they are suspicious of the status quo, but uneasy about revolution, and conscious of materialism yet they seek the money. They are the Beats; the ’70s generation searches for new directions.

To establish the separation between them and their predecessors, Gayley brought together the best and the brightest. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.

In that decade, college degrees won’t quench their thirst for knowledge. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.

The young and old. In the 1950s, it was the Beat; in the 1960s, the mod; in the 1970s, the punk. Now there is a generation searching for recognition in the 1990s.

The twentysomethings shun materialism, yet they seek the comfort that it brings; they are suspicious of the status quo, but uneasy about revolution, and conscious of materialism yet they seek the money. They are the Beats; the ’70s generation searches for new directions.

They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.

In that decade, college degrees won’t quench their thirst for knowledge. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.

The twentysomethings shun materialism, yet they seek the comfort that it brings; they are suspicious of the status quo, but uneasy about revolution, and conscious of materialism yet they seek the money. They are the Beats; the ’70s generation searches for new directions.

They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.

In that decade, college degrees won’t quench their thirst for knowledge. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.

The twentysomethings shun materialism, yet they seek the comfort that it brings; they are suspicious of the status quo, but uneasy about revolution, and conscious of materialism yet they seek the money. They are the Beats; the ’70s generation searches for new directions.

They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.

In that decade, college degrees won’t quench their thirst for knowledge. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.

The twentysomethings shun materialism, yet they seek the comfort that it brings; they are suspicious of the status quo, but uneasy about revolution, and conscious of materialism yet they seek the money. They are the Beats; the ’70s generation searches for new directions.

They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.

In that decade, college degrees won’t quench their thirst for knowledge. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.

The twentysomethings shun materialism, yet they seek the comfort that it brings; they are suspicious of the status quo, but uneasy about revolution, and conscious of materialism yet they seek the money. They are the Beats; the ’70s generation searches for new directions.

They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.

In that decade, college degrees won’t quench their thirst for knowledge. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.

The twentysomethings shun materialism, yet they seek the comfort that it brings; they are suspicious of the status quo, but uneasy about revolution, and conscious of materialism yet they seek the money. They are the Beats; the ’70s generation searches for new directions.

They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.

In that decade, college degrees won’t quench their thirst for knowledge. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.

The twentysomethings shun materialism, yet they seek the comfort that it brings; they are suspicious of the status quo, but uneasy about revolution, and conscious of materialism yet they seek the money. They are the Beats; the ’70s generation searches for new directions.

They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.

In that decade, college degrees won’t quench their thirst for knowledge. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college. They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.

The twentysomethings shun materialism, yet they seek the comfort that it brings; they are suspicious of the status quo, but uneasy about revolution, and conscious of materialism yet they seek the money. They are the Beats; the ’70s generation searches for new directions.

They are the best-educated generation in history, with 59 percent of 1988 high school graduates in college.
Popularity of tattoos rises, past stereotypes fade

Alyce Jones
Whitworth Staff Writer

"The only difference between tattooed people and non-tattooed people is that tattooed people don't care if you're not tattooed." — mother unknown

This was taken from the wall of River City Tattoo, one of Spokane's tattoo shops.

It used to be that the only people who had tattoos were Harley-Davidson bikers and female mud wrestlers. But times have changed, and more people have begun expressing themselves through the art of tattooing.

"Stereotypes are breaking down and more and more people are discovering that our differences are good," said Constance Eller-Doughty, owner of River City Tattoo.

"I personally have seen an increase of people in the United States differentiating themselves from other people," said Kris Kilbourne, a tattooist at Tiger Brat Tattoos in Spokane. Kilbourne said these changes have come about during a 15-year cycle.

With the rising popularity of acquiring tattoos, Whitworth students have not remained untouched. The stereotypes of past generations are beginning to fade, and many students have begun realizing this.

Sophomore Heather Maltaagle has a tattoo of an eye on her calf near her ankle. "It's just one of those crazy things I always wanted to do. I love it! It's a part of me!" said Maltaagle.

Freshman Jennifer Langloss doesn't have a tattoo, but plans to get one. "It symbolizes a person and who they are. It's an artistic expression," said Langloss.

In a survey of approximately 400 Whitworth students, 40 people claimed to have tattoos. Those 40 students spent a total of $1,710 on their tattoos.

Senior Bob Cummings spent $100 for his tattoo, a ring of diamonds encircling his ankle. "I got a tattoo because in 20 years I will be able to look at it and remember those crazy times in college," said Cummings.

Twenty-nine percent of the students surveyed said they have considered getting a tattoo or plan to get one. Thirteen percent said they weren't sure, but that it wasn't beyond the realm of possibility.

"I think they're personal and different and it's kind of catchy people's eye off. It shows a different twist to your personality," said Freshman Cindy Brem. Brem said she doesn't have a tattoo, but would get one.

Sixty percent of the students said they didn't even plan on getting a tattoo. Freshman Sarah Marsh said, "I think they're totally disgusting. They are permanently damaging and mark your body."

Sophomore Ana Balkian said he wouldn't get a tattoo, "not even if my life was threatened. It's too permanent for me," said Balkian.

Although the idea of permanence is a drawback for some, others are drawn to tattoo art for that reason. "A tattoo is like permanent body jewelry one picks and wears," said Eller-Doughty.

For many, a tattoo represents some aspect of their personality. The tattoo signifies a trait they associate with themselves and makes it into something tangible. "A tattoo is almost how people see themselves already," said Kilbourne.

For others, a tattoo carries emotional significance. Sophomore Jeremy Johnson has the same tattoo as three of his close friends, one of whom is Elizabeth Melendez who was killed in a car accident last year. "My tattoo signifies a piece of my life, an emotion and character that is inside of me. It is just an expression of circumstances that have and will continue to shape my ideals and personality."

In years past it has been tradition for Whitworth's football players to get tattoos. Typically, the tattoo is a cartoon character.

Approximately 10 players have tattoos this year. Senior Adam Brood has a tattoo of Bart Simpson on his left calf. "It's just something I could remember my college days by. I haven't regretted it once," said Brood.

The tattooing process involves sterilizing the area of skin you want tattooed. Then a needle, the basic outline of the design you choose, is applied. An electric machine Kilbourne calls a tattoo machine, which consists of a solid needle, is used to apply the tattoo. Ink is placed on the end of the needle and pushed into the skin. It takes approximately two weeks for the tattoo to heal. In that time, the area scales over and the ink becomes set permanently into the skin.

There are several aspects that must be considered when getting a tattoo. Although the element of chance exists, both Kilbourne and Eller-Doughty agree that style and location are weighty considerations.

It is also important to recognize the permanence. "You have to look at the longevity of your design. How are you going to feel 20 years down the road?" said Eller-Doughty.

There are basically three options for the removal of an unwanted tattoo. The two options that do not require surgery are covering the area with another tattoo or the daily application of derma blend make-up. Tattoo can be surgically removed by a plastic surgeon. If the tattoo is small enough it can be cut from the skin and closed with stitches. If the tattoo is large, a process called derma-ablation, the removal of four to six layers of skin, can be performed.

Desiree Yake, assistant to Reconstructive and Cosmetic surgeon Dr. James Trinkman said the cost of laser removal of tattoos starts at $1200. Some surgeons provide the option of laser surgery to remove a tattoo, but most offices do not have access to this technology, and the cost is much higher. Another aspect that should be considered.

Please see Tattoo, p. 6
Gabe's Real Words

by Gaby Taylor
Whitehtharian Columnist

I came across a verse in the Bible as I was studying for a class a few days ago. This verse jumped out at me and has stuck in my mind ever since. The verse is one of those that you know it is in the Bible but did not realize it. You know what I mean? When you were growing up, adults would use this famous saying as a rebuff to your plea for fairness: "Thus the saying, one hand makes another clean, is right; John 4:37. Which when juxtaposition occurs, life is unfair."

I remember arguing with my dad about the fact that my older brothers got to stay up longer or night than I did. I had no idea thirty minutes earlier just because I was younger. This did not make any sense to me (especially when I was not even sleepy). It just was not fair. I also remember being upset because I could not understand why our family had to go to church every Sunday morning while the neighboring kids never went. It just was not fair. This was a long time ago, though, and I am big now. I can handle unfair situations better.

"RIGHT!"

It is not fair that I study a week in advance for a midterm, while another student only studies the night before, and we get the same grade. It is not fair that a drunk gets behind a wheel of a car and kills an innocent family. Where in the world is the fairness when you consider the starving children in Somalia and the amount of wasted food at the neighborhood McDonald's? These issues do not sit well with me. If life was fair I would get the better exam grade; innocent families would not die in a car accident because of a drunk driver; and starving kids would not go to bed hungry.

I have come to accept that life is not fair. Every morning when I read the paper I am forced to come to grips with this reality. Talking with friends reminds me that life is unfair. Unfairness is in my daily routine. Sometimes it is easy and sometimes it is hard to accept the concept of fairness. I honestly feel OK with that now. You might have guessed that I was not always comfortable if I am now with hard times that seemed unfair.

So I happen to stumble upon John 4:37 where it says "one soweth and another reapeth." Life is unfair is THE RULE! In fact, Jesus said it. I am so relieved that God knows how unfair everything is down here. I feel like I just finished my final exams and I am home for the Christmas break. I may encounter some unfair circumstances in the future. No, I WILL encounter unfair circumstances in the future. But, I can look John 4:37 and be reminded that life has been unfair for 2,000 years and God knows it.
Men's soccer: Pirates bounce back from PU loss to defeat Wildcats 3-1

Ryan Leonard
Whitworth Sports Editor

Following last week's 3-0 loss to Seattle Pacific University, Whitworth's men's soccer team got back on the winning track with a 3-1 victory over Central Washington University's Wildcats on Saturday.

The Pirates jumped out to an early lead as Brandon Devers scored on an assist from Lam Le just two minutes into the contest. But the Wildcats presented another scoring opportunity, forcing Whitworth to settle for a one-point halftime advantage.

The second half displayed a well-balanced scoring attack. Leading the way was Jim Martinson, who converted on a goal three minutes into the second half, giving the Pirates a 2-0 lead. Le and Brandon Devers were each credited with an assist. But any hope of shutting out the Wildcats disappeared when Jeff Vanden scored an unassisted goal ten minutes into the period, cutting Whitworth's lead to 2-1.

With five minutes left, the Pirates were able to put the game away on a goal from Devens, with the assist going to Brian Frey. Goalie John Noggle finished the game with five saves, while the Wildcats had eight. Whitworth edged CWU in shots on goal, attempting 12 compared to seven attempted by the Wildcats.

"They weren't as tough as I expected, but they were a good team," said Martinson. "We didn't play as well as we could have," he added.

With the win, Whitworth's record improved to 12-1 in the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Division I, and the Northwest Colleges Soccer Conference. The win also gave the Pirates a berth in the District I playoffs.

"We know that if we win this game we'll get a playoff game," said Martinson. "We put them away, which is what we wanted to do."

The Pirates will return to action Wednesday, Oct. 21, when they will travel to Gonzaga for a 3 p.m. game, followed by the Bulldogs. On Saturday, Oct. 24, they will travel to Forest Grove. One for ten at 11 a.m. battle with Pacific University.

Women's soccer: Pirates earn 4-0 shutout

Ryan Leonard
Whitworth Sports Editor

A team effort in scoring enabled Whitworth's women's soccer team to shut out the Community College of Spokane in a non-conference match up Wednesday.

The Pirates' first score came 28 minutes into the first half on a goal from Joey Rein, giving the Pirates a 1-0 lead. But the CSC defense played aggressively, keeping Whitworth from making any other first half goals and forcing them to settle for the one point halftime advantage.

"They played a more staggered defense, which took time for us to get used to," said Lisa Hobbs. "The second half opened with the Pirates displaying a well-balanced scoring attack and waiting no time to extend their lead as Amy Blegy scored just two minutes into the period, giving Whitworth a 2-0 lead."

Sixteen minutes elapsed before the Pirates made their third goal, by Kari Matson, 18 minutes into the period. With 20 minutes remaining, the Bucs' final score came on a goal from Hobbs, who came off a game-high two-goal performance.

"We had people running up the middle who were willing to step up and take more shots," said Hobbs. "Senior Laura Rush had foursaves for the Pirates, while Veronica Hagemann had 17 for CSC. The Pirates more than tripled CSC's number of shots on goal, amassing 28 while the Spudnaches only managed eight."

The win improved Whitworth's record to 5-3-3 in the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Division I, and the Northwest Collegiate Soccer Conference.

The Pirates will return to action Wednesday, Oct. 21, when they will battle the Gonzaga Bulldogs at 3 p.m. in the Pine Bowl. They will follow up with a two-game road trip to take on Linfield College Saturday, Oct. 24, and Pacific University Sunday, Oct. 25 at 3 p.m. and 11 p.m., respectively.

INTRAMURAL
MEN AND WOMEN - GET INVOLVED AND PLAY!

INDOOR SOCCER (COED)
ONE-ON-ONE BASKETBALL
FIVE-ON-FIVE BASKETBALL PONG
AEROBICS

Get your team signed up now! Entries due on Oct. 24.

For more information, call the School of Education at (509) 466-3229 or attend an informational meeting Nov. 7, 1-3 p.m. at the Lindaman Center, Room 1.

The WHITWORTHIAN • October 20, 1992
Football: Pirates fall to SFU, 41-30

Ryan Leonard
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Simon Fraser scored 24 points in the second quarter against Columbia Football Association, Mt. Rainier division rival Whitworth, on Saturday. The Clanmen then held on for a 41-30 victory, despite an intense Pirate comeback.

"The loss dropped the Pirates to 0-2 in Mt. Rainier League play and 2-3 overall. SFU is 2-0 and 3-3 overall.

Pirate quarterback Danny Figuera completed 35 of 61 passes for 633 yards and four touchdowns, but the Pirates' defense allowed 259 yards rushing and 258 passing to the Clanmen.

"We had the offense to win with our passing, but our running got stuffered," said Mitch Olsen.

Volleyball: Frederickson gets 38 kill in losing effort

Kevin Parker
Whitworthian Staff Writer

The Whitworth Volleyball Team played host to the Linfield Wildcats last night in a NCIC contest only to be defeated in five sets.

The Pirates found the Wildcat tribe a tough team as they took the five set victory 14-16, 25-16, 14-16, and 15-12.

"This is one of the best games we have played all year," said Head Coach Gail Scharfe.

Linfield is leading the conference and should continue to be a stop loose fixture heading into the tournament November 7.

The match consisted of long limbs and long periods of sitting out on both sides of the court.

The Pirates front line was definitely on as Tara Frederickson connected for 38 kills. Scharfe thought that Frederickson might have set a record and will check with NAIA records.

Amy Colyar had 18 kills and Julie Moisan and Kim MacDougall both had 15 kills and 24 blocks.

"We made some errors, but they seemed to come in clumps," said Lisa Steele.

The loss dropped the Pirates to 0-2 in league play and 7-10 overall.

The season does not get any easier for the Pirates as they face Eastern Washington University on Tuesday before leaving for the coast to take on St. Martin's and the University of Puget Sound.

"We have some tough marches ahead of us but we should do alright," said Scharfe.

WEDNESDAY

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>OCT. 21</th>
<th>OCT. 23</th>
<th>OCT. 24</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>RHYTHM</td>
<td>FLOP</td>
<td>COFFIN BREAK</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>COLLISION</td>
<td>WITH GUESTS</td>
<td>M-99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FUMES</td>
<td>ANOTHER</td>
<td>(FROM PORTLAND)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MORAL CRUX</td>
<td>GROBAL PRODUCTION</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

SATURDAY

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>OCT. 31</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>MOTHER LOAD</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NICE WORLD</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

FRIDAY

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>OCT. 20</th>
<th>OCT. 22</th>
<th>OCT. 23</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>COSTUME PARTY</td>
<td>200 IN PRIZES</td>
<td>DJ MIKE</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SOUL PATCH</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

MOTHERS

DJ DAREN EVERY THURSDAY NIGHT, 8 P.M. TO CLOSING

OPEN 7 NIGHTS A WEEK WITH HAPPY HOUR FROM 4 TO 6 P.M.

THE WHITWORTHIAN • October 20, 1992

SAVE UP TO $100!

Order your college ring NOW.

Jostens

Oct. 20-21 Time: 10-3 Deposit Required: 30

H.V.B.

Football: Pirates fall to SFU, 41-30

The Whitworth Volleyball Team played host to the Linfield Wildcats Saturday night in a NCIC contest only to be defeated in five sets.

The Pirates found the Wildcat tribe a tough team as they took the five set victory 14-16, 25-16, 14-16, and 15-12.

"This is one of the best games we have played all year," said Head Coach Gail Scharfe.

Linfield is leading the conference and should continue to be a stop loose fixture heading into the tournament November 7.

The match consisted of long limbs and long periods of sitting out on both sides of the court.

The Pirates front line was definitely on as Tara Frederickson connected for 38 kills. Scharfe thought that Frederickson might have set a record and will check with NAIA records.

Amy Colyar had 18 kills and Julie Moisan and Kim MacDougall both had 15 kills and 24 blocks.

"We made some errors, but they seemed to come in clumps," said Lisa Steele.

The loss dropped the Pirates to 0-2 in league play and 7-10 overall.

The season does not get any easier for the Pirates as they face Eastern Washington University on Tuesday before leaving for the coast to take on St. Martin's and the University of Puget Sound.

"We have some tough marches ahead of us but we should do alright," said Scharfe.

WEDNESDAY

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>OCT. 21</th>
<th>OCT. 23</th>
<th>OCT. 24</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>RHYTHM</td>
<td>FLOP</td>
<td>COFFIN BREAK</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>COLLISION</td>
<td>WITH GUESTS</td>
<td>M-99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>FUMES</td>
<td>ANOTHER</td>
<td>(FROM PORTLAND)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MORAL CRUX</td>
<td>GROBAL PRODUCTION</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

SATURDAY

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>OCT. 31</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>MOTHER LOAD</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>NICE WORLD</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

FRIDAY

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>OCT. 20</th>
<th>OCT. 22</th>
<th>OCT. 23</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>COSTUME PARTY</td>
<td>200 IN PRIZES</td>
<td>DJ MIKE</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SOUL PATCH</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
Election '92 — Student interest high for election

John Williams
College Press Service

With just a few weeks until the presidential election, student interest in the race between President Bush and a Democratic contender Bill Clinton is keen, political observers said, helping the notion that young people don't care about government.

"There is more interest in this election than we've probably seen in the last three elections," said Ralph Bolen, a political science professor at Ball State University in Muncie, Ind.

With the economy in the doldrums and issues such as abortion and the environment in the forefront of the campaign, this year's presidential election has captured the interest of thousands of college and university students, activists say, pointing to the number of young people who are registered to vote.

"Smart politicians are refocusing efforts on campus, especially to bring in a new and empowered electorate," said Mike Dolan, field director for California-based Rock the Vote, a non-profit, non-partisan organization that organized student voter registration drives nationwide. "The thematic reason is that the youth vote has become a target, a real opportunity for change."

The opportunity to register to vote for the Nov. 3 election is over in most states. However, representatives of several organizations that held voter registration drives said they registered hundreds of thousands of students in time for the election, indicating that interest in the election is high.

Rock the Vote has registered 225,000 students as voters, Dolan said. Rock the Vote, based in Beverly Hills, was founded in 1990 by leading record labels and musicians in response to perceived threats to artistic expression. It was broadened to include registering the youth and getting them to vote.

"Something is percolating on college campuses among the voters," Dolan said. "Young people are mad and eager to take back the system from the politicians as usual."

The Center for Policy Alternatives and the National Civil Rights held a voter registration drive Oct. 1-11 through colleges, community colleges and universities. Although a final count hasn't been tabulated, some of the results included registering 4,300 students at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, 2,000 at the University of New Mexico, 800 at the University of Colorado at Boulder, said Burk Smith, a program assistant for the center.

"I think there is a resurgence of youth interest in politics again. The issues are imposing," he said. "All the talk about the national debt and the environment is at the core of the young people's mind. They look at the job market and there's not much available. College students say the environment and other issues are starting to hit home."

While Texas billionaire Ross Perot is back in the race after dropping out in July has caused some alterations in campaign strategies, national polls suggest his re-emergence will do little to change the outcome.

"Perot is not a charismatic figure who would appeal to the young," said Joe Lucey, who teaches American government at the University of Wisconsin. "It don't thing he's excited the young especially since he quit and jumped back in again."

According to the latest CNN/Bruce survey figures available, 26 million men and women in the 18-24 age group are eligible to vote, and about 40 percent of this group is registered. In contrast, there are 40.7 million people ages 25-44 years, and 58 percent are registered to vote. The highest percentage of those registered to vote is 76 percent — those age 65 years old and older.

"Students are less cynical, less than in the last four to eight years," Lucey said. "They talk of change, but they're pretty sure they can't make much hope in change. Maybe they are lines of the same people running the country.

The next step is to get registered voters to the polls, Dolan and Smith said. An all-party coalition made up of Rock the Vote, the Center for Policy Alternatives, the United States Student Association, the Americans for Democratic Action and the Campus Green Vote is working on a plan to get out the vote.

Tony Zagora, president of the College Republican, said his group's registration drive was a success. College Republicans registered 13,000 students at Texas A&M, 500 students at Memphis State University in Tennessee and 3,000 young people in Colorado. "Both campaigns are reaching out to young people. There is anxiety about the future of our country," he said. "America is in a transitional period. This election will decide what path the U.S. will take into the 21st century."

The College Democrats also have registered thousands of students, although exact figures are not available yet, spokesman Jamie Hanson said. "Students are worried about the future, but hopeful they can change this," he said.

Campus Special

CAMPUS SPECIAL
GET A MEDIUM PEPPERONI PIZZA FOR ONLY $3.99 (PLUS TAX)

CALL NOW!
468-2000

OPEN: SUN.-THURS., 11 A.M.-1 A.M. FRI.-SAT., 11 A.M.-2 A.M.

COCOA-COLA CLASSIC OR DIET COKE AVAILABLE IN 12 OZ. CANS EACH. PRICE INCLUDES DEPOSIT.

COCA-COLA DIET COKE AND THE DYNAMIC DESIGN DEVICE ARE TRADEMARKS OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY.

The WHITWORTHIAN • October 20, 1992
Trustees celebrate library, discuss new HUB, athletic field

Becky Kilpatrick
Whitworth Staff Writer

The Board of Trustees' annual fall meeting focused on the dedication of the library and a basic celebration of hard work, said Interim President Philip Eaton.

The Board of Trustees, composed of 58 men and women from as far away as Philadelphia to as near as Spokane, meet twice a year — once in the fall and once in the spring. "This fall meeting is more for business, or status meeting. No great decisions were made...but it was one of the most positive meetings we've had," said Chairman of the Board Charles Boppell.

Boppell has been a board member since 1983 and has been chairman of the board for three years.

Boppell, a business man from Santa Barbara, Calif., is a graduate of Whitworth College as well as his parents and daughter. "Whitworth is more than just a college to me. It is very unique by staying true to its mission and I take great comfort in the fact that Whitworth is very strong," said Boppell.

Other important issues discussed at the Oct. 22 and Oct. 23 meetings were plans for building the new HUB and the new athletic field. "We are committed to finishing these two projects," said Boppell.

Trustees also discussed the issues of student recruitment as well as student retention. The academic endeavors, including the Thunderbolt-American Graduate School of International Management. It is the most widely recognized school of its kind on the United States.

It is the first time Whitworth has held a Graduate/Seminary Fair. Thomas said the goal of the fair is "to plant the seed in students...that graduate school is an option open to them."

A post-graduation survey shows that 30 percent of Whitworth students attend graduate school within five years of graduation from Whitworth. Thomas emphasized that it is important for students to visit the graduate school application process early. The application deadline for most graduate schools is in December or January.

Members of the Whitworthian community celebrate the library completion.

Rally encourages reading, writing skills

Rebecca Snelling
Whitworth Staff Writer

Whitworth's ninth annual Writing Rally was held on Saturday, Oct. 24, in Cowles Memorial Auditorium. Nearly 800 children and their parents showed up to develop the children's writing skills.

The Writing Rally encouraged children from kindergarten through grade five to develop and improve their writing skills in several different methods.

Parents and children spoke with a children's author, Robert Munch, met in small groups, and participated in creative exercises.

Each child was required to bring at least one parent or guardian. The purpose was more for parent supervisions of adults.

"The supervisions are more of a business, or status meeting," said Melissa Thompson, son, 7-year veteran of the rally.

"This fall's rally is a good experience for the older children. Because the parent-child relationship was emphasized over the teacher-child relationship, the rally encouraged the parents to be more involved in their child's education in the home.

The children and their parents spent time during the first part of the rally, with Munch. Munch has written various children's books including "Love You Forever," "The Paper Bag Princess," and "The Snowman." During the second part, the children and their parents broke up into small groups. They each created and illustrated a story under the supervision of adults experienced in these areas. There were authorities on the subjects of Graduate/Seminary Fair offers opportunities after graduation

Juliana Lussier
Whitworth Staff Writer

Attention: Seniors, juniors and sophomores who do not know what lies ahead after graduation. To provide information about graduate school and seminary options, Whitworth Career Advising has organized a Graduate/Seminary Fair, October 27-29, in the HUB, from 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

Diane Thomas, director of career advising, said the fair will be an informal event where students can come and speak to representatives from schools throughout the United States.

She said it will offer an opportunity for students to learn about requirements, admissions tests, and the application process.

Representatives from 14 schools will attend the fair, including the Thunderbolt-American Graduate School of International Management. It is the most widely recognized school of its kind in the United States.

It is the first time Whitworth has held a Graduate/Seminary Fair. Thomas said the goal of the fair is "to plant the seed in students...that graduate school is an option open to them."

A post-graduation survey shows that 30 percent of Whitworth students attend graduate school within five years of graduation from Whitworth. Thomas emphasized that it is important for students to visit the graduate school application process early. The application deadline for most graduate schools is in December or January.

Nearly 800 parents and children attend ninth annual Writing Rally.

"Though the younger children may not yet be able to read or write, they have the opportunity to dictate the story to their parent to write it down."

"This is actually better for the younger children because it encourages "a lot more parent involvement," said Thomas Thompson, 7-year veteran of the rally.

The main goal of the rally is to promote education in the home. Thompson said the rally was also a good experience for the older children because it "encourages reading through writing."

After the children finished their books, the students and parents spent the remainder of the rally at a reception where they were encouraged to share their books and spend time with Munch. "He said the children enjoy the chance to talk to a published author, and the rally gives them a head start."

Several teachers attended the rally in order to bring some of the ideas with them back to the classroom.

The rally was held in Cowles Auditorium, from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., or from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

The rally was sponsored by Whitworth Cloud, the North East Washington Elementary School Principal's Association and the Spokane Area Council of the International Reading Association.

Francis said, "The Whitworth Writing Rally is a fast-paced, high-energy event with lots of smiling children."
OPINIONS

Int'l students offer opportunity to learn

Hilary Hoffman
Editorial Board

Imagine yourself in a strange and distant country. You have traveled far from your homeland to attend college. You left behind everything familiar. Family and friends are not around to provide the support you need to adjust to your new surroundings. The food is different and the language you once spoke constantly is just as you concentrate on new words.

You pass a woman on the stairway who lives in your dorm. She smiles and says, "How are you?" You are confused because the answer she awaits is only a simple "okay" or "fine" or "good." You don't understand that she is only saying "hi," and she doesn't expect to find out how you are really doing.

At the dining hall you get your food and look around for someone you know to sit by. No one you know is there, so you sit alone. The strangers around you notice you are sitting by yourself, but they make no effort to join you or invite you to join them.

You can speak their language and probably know more specific about the mechanics of it then they know themselves. If they would only have a conversation with you they would know you don't mind if they ask you to repeat a sentence or explain something in more detail.

The weather is different from anything you've ever experienced. You become sick and wish they would take time to comfort you.

You struggle in a class and would like to study with another person.

You suffer through grief and depression, and though you may have support, more would always help.

Sounds a little frightening, doesn't it?

As much as there are many students from different countries, we need to welcome these students into our community by spending time creating close friendships.

We need to emphasize with those students who are adjusting to a totally new environment. We have a great opportunity to discover many things about others, their cultures and countries, and most importantly about ourselves.

Whit. grows in awareness of int'l issues

Dear Editor,

It is with great pleasure that I express my gratitude to the Whitworth community for the concern, love, comfort and support shown to the international students and to the family of our late friend, Kensauro Tuju.

Seeing the number of people who gathered at Ken's memorial service made me realize how grief and love are universal and they bring all people together. I truly feel this unity during this time of great loss.

Since I came to Whitworth, I have seen the community struggle with multicultural and interational issues. Often I felt like I wasn't a part of the community or an international student.

Now I can confidently say that as a community, we have grown tremendously in our awareness of these issues.

I hope and pray that this trend continues to blossom and flourish.

Mary Mutia

Executive propaganda overshadows diversity

Dear Editor,

This letter is addressed to the executive officers of the Associated Students of Whitworth College. We are concerned about the political propaganda displayed in the windows of the executive offices in the HUB.

We would like to point out that the student body is not allowed to display any material on the windows of the HUB.

The executive officers are not only members of the student body, but our representatives. They should abide by the same restriction as the student body.

This propaganda displays a one-sided political preference. It is our understanding that the duty of executive officers is to represent the Associated Students of Whitworth College as a whole and be sensitive to their many views.

We believe diversity is not only being united, but the same interests and purposes. The students at Whitworth are not united with one political party.

The executive offices are the property of the college and associated students. The Free Expression needs to be confined to your own property. In the executive offices all opinions need to be represented—not just those of the individual.

The true diversity of the campus is not being reflected by our officers, instead it is being overshadowed.

Ryan Tru and Amy Smoot

OPINION LETTERS should be signed and submitted to The Whitworthian by 5 p.m. Friday. No anonymous letters will be published. A phone number must be included for author verification. The Whitworthian is not obligated to publish all letters and reserves the right to edit letters.
Discrimination is never moral - based on sexual orientation or not

Dear Editor,

I am writing in response to two initiatives put before the voters of Colorado and Oregon.

Initiative 2 in Colorado and Initiative 9 in Oregon are proposed laws which would legislate discrimination based on sexual orientation.

The voters of Colorado and Oregon here at Whitworth in look at these laws a little skeptically.

Both of these initiatives would make it illegal to discriminate against people based upon their sexual orientation.

The 14th Amendment to our Constitution says, "No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property..." I felt compelled to ask people why they would vote for such a law, and they cited the Bible. Any person can make the Bible say what they want it to say.

I ask these people to read the intent of the words, not their literal meaning, and look at the Bible in the context in which it was written.

Most of us would balk at reporting the commencement of our monthly menus to our minister; and we would also balk at the laws about what foods can be eaten.

We realize these texts are proper in the context in which they were written. Why can we not do the same with the texts on homosexuality? Why do people take a few verses so literally, why not them all the same?

The Bible contains adultery as many, if not more, times as homosexuality.

The issue here is not whether homosexuality is moral. The issue is whether discrimination is moral. Please uphold our Constitution.

Sincerely,

Carol Ann Green

Whitworth blessed with talent 'Narnia' and 'Fanfare for Five' appreciated

Dear Editor,

I just got home from the opening of "Narnia" and wanted to let the cast and crew know how tremendous it was. Whitworth is blessed to have so much talent! The play moved me to tears and evoked laughter and great memories.

The casting was perfect, the set was super, the music wonderful, and the production as a whole was a true delight.

Thanks to all involved. My friends and I are planning on attending again. If you missed this play, you missed the experience of a lifetime.

Sue Ann Keener

Career Advising Center makes finding a job easier

Juliana Luscher
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Is the "real world" approaching quickly and the job market breathing down your neck? One solution to this dilemma is to take advantage of what the Whitworth Career Advising program offers. Diane Thomas, director of career/field advising, said the goal of the program is to educate students concerning which opportunities lie outside the pipe cone curtain.

One service available to students is setting up a placement file in Student Life. This file can be sent to potential employers or graduate schools at the student's request. The file includes a resume, transcript, letters of recommendation and a personal letter. A $10 fee covers set-up charges, postage to cover mailing the file to days.

University testing will vary from school to school. Schools participating in the computerized testing include ETS, Arizona State University, University of Arizona, Miami-Dade Community College, Xavier University in New Orleans, University of Houston, and Norfolk State University.

About 1,200 students participated in field trials earlier this year, and aspects of the results, Kuh said. These were no significant differences in results from field computer tests and paper-and-pencil tests, she said.

The scores will be reported to institutions within three weeks, rather than the four to six weeks with the traditional test.

"We are really excited about this. It will be a nice alternative," said SMU's Trevarash.

Editor's Note: For more information about computerized G.R.E. in computer, contact Sylvan Learning Center located at 9107 North Country Homes Blvd. or call 467-8713.
Ecclesia finds mentors for students

Carley Burrell
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Did you select Whitworth College to grow closer to Christ? Do you wish your classes were surrounded by a complete Christian community? The Ecclesia project was founded precisely for these purposes.

In the Spring of 1989, former President Dr. Art De Jong had an idea he had with a group of faculty and administrators. His vision was to nurture others for the church and Christian leadership.

According to Chaplain Doug Dye, he and many others present at the initial meeting began dialoging about the proposal, and formed a task force to develop an initiative to meet the needs. The task force then submitted a proposal to the Presbyterian Church in the Spring of 1990.

As part of their ministry, the Presbyterian Church funds programs for Presbyterian colleges.

Whitworth was granted the small amount of money needed and Ecclesia came to life this year.

Ecclesia is a Greek word meaning church, but its modern meaning is a "God's called out community," said Dye. "Dye calls the project "the Ecclesia Covenant Community." Students can join at any time as long as they are willing to keep the covenants.

"To follow the covenant, one must attend all of the meetings (which take place every other week), regularly attend a local church of the student's choice, enter into a mentor relationship with a faculty member, and attend once 24 hour retreat per year. Dye stated the purpose of the retreat is "to build community and to have a more intense experience together.

The Ecclesia leadership team includes Dye, students Devon Klinefelter, Arno Studebaker, Chris Beale, Jeremy A. Recently, the Ecclesia leadership team has met regularly to collaborate on feedback received from the members of Ecclesia. The team decides "the direction that Ecclesia should go" said Brueggemeier. "Because it's the first year, we're still experimenting," she said, "but overall, I really feel it is going well.

"Approximately 60 students have joined the Ecclesia Covenant Community this semester," said Dye. "The main goal is to become a cohesive, caring, empowering community where people can come to be encouraged and understand what it means to follow Christ and to be empowered to serve Christ." Dye adds that the Ecclesia students are "to become encouraged, to be supported and filled with more love and more power so that they can live for Christ across campus, and in the other pursuits," Dye concluded.
British Tour stresses on-site study

Lisa Harrell
Whitworth Features Editor

Would you like to be taught in the same school room where William Shakespeare wrote? Have you ever dreamed of staying in a castle? These are some of the adventures Whitworth students can experience during the British Isles Tour of 1993.

Art Instructor Barbara Filo, Assistant Professor of European History Dr. Carla Slack, and Assistant Professor of English Michael Bowen will teach students for a semester in the British Isles. "It's a grand experience. Students form lifelong friendships on the tour and take away a growing experience," said Filo.

"People think—England, Scotland, Ireland—they speak English so it's not that different, but it really is a different culture and it's quite eye-opening to everyone," said Filo.

The tour, offered every three years, will begin on Sep. 16, 1993 when students fly from Seattle to Northern England. Filo will take students to York and Durham in England, and then to Scotland and the Island of Iona, which is the vacation spot of music group U2 said Filo.

Filo's students will be reading "Ruthering Heights" by Emily Bronte. "We will actually take a trip to Haworth where the Bronte sisters lived, and we'll walk along the same path they did. We will read sections of the book describing the terrain and look at it in the actual place it is describing," said Filo.

Students stay in bed and breakfasts, and have houseasts, high-lighted by a night at the University Castle which was built in 1083, said Filo.

Slack will join the group in the lake district of Northern England and go on to Wales, Ireland and back to England. "Most of the time the students are on the move; in other words they are looking at castles or art museums or they're going to the theater," said Slack.

I'm particularly interested in churches and cathedrals, but there are a lot of monuments. Stuff that you can't have in the United States, such as pre-historic remains, Roman remains or medieval remains," said Slack.

Bowden leads the group to Stratford-upon-Avon, Oxford and London, where they will see various art and historical museums. "I'm a museum hound and theater hound. And then of course every night I plan to pay my money and try to see as many plays as possible," said Bowden.

While in Stratford, students will visit Shakespeare's grammar school. "I plan to arrange what I think is an interesting opportunity to observe an American, that is, all probability Shakespeare himself learned in a boy's-grammar grammar school," said Bowden.

So far, there are about 20 students who plan to go, explained Slack. In the past the cut off limit was 25 people. Slack said she expects to keep it down since it is no longer a bus tour. "Now that we use public transportation...25 isn't as manageable," she said.

To those applying, Slack said, "academically you have to be pretty sound."

Typically the first question students ask is how much will it cost me? Filo explained that for $3000 more than room, board, tuition, you get airfare and a semester in the British Isles while earning five credits. Slack said two things affect the cost: the exchange rate and the rate of the pound. "Right now the exchange is ranging between $250-$400. That is really good. It can be as much as $1500," she said.

Any student interested in going must take a special Jan Term course, HU201. The course is being taught by all three professors and will give students a basic background of British history, literature and art. Bowen said, last year, people did not bone up on British history, literature and art before the tour and later experienced regret. Bowen explained this helps students commit to the tour earlier. "I think all students who possibly can should get off campus and preferably out of this country. I just think they need to get out of the United States because this is a great time to go. You are young, free of entanglements, you have more money, believe it or not, and it's really cheap to go to Europe," said Slack.

Bowden said studying abroad "helps give light ethnocentrism. Students repeatedly go, foreign cultures and see for oneself an increased appreciation of what they have here, but they also learn the culture here. For the American way is not the only way to do things," he said.

Do you have something to put in Attractions & Distractions? Send information to The Whitworthian at #402 by 5 p.m. Friday.
Cross Country: Sund captures 8000m title

Ryan Leonard
Whitworth Sports Editor

Senior Steve Sund captured the men's 8000m title in the Northwest Conference Independent Colleges Championship on Friday. He finished in 25:33, three seconds best. Sund was also awarded the Athlete of the Year Award by the conference cross country coaches.

Freshman Brian Lynch placed sixth in the race, finishing with a time of 26:02. Other highlights in the race include senior Marc Thulain, who finished with a time of 28:59, taking 33rd place, followed by freshman Kerby Ward, who finished 37th with a time of 29:26.

Paul Emantis captured the 41st spot in the race, finishing in 30:14, while freshmen Rick Figueira and Grant Rasmussen tied for fifth. In women's events, the Pirates doubled their high marks as Jamey Dunn Saturday's contest against Whitworth.

Whitworth wasted no time in capturing the game. They defeated the Wildcats 3-0, with assists from Kim Huston and Pacific University on Sunday.

A Gonzaga player tries to stop Lisa Hobbes during Whitworth's 7-0 win on Wednesday.

Volleyball: Pirates lose two

Kevyn Parker
Whitworth Staff Writer

The Whitworth Pirates volleyball team traveled to play St. Martins on Friday, winning the first game 16-14, but losing the last three 15-13, 15-12, and 15-8. They then traveled to Tacoma to battle the University of Puget Sound on Saturday, losing 13-15, 15-3, and 15-6.

The first match was against St. Martinis, where the Pirates came out early in game one, a game which consisted of rallies and side outs to force the game to go over 25 points.

The Pirates battled the game by scoring two straight points to finish off game one 16-14 and lead the match 1-0.

St. Martins controlled most of the action in game two, which had many long points and side outs. The Pirates tied the game at 13 a piece before falling 13-15. Game three was another battle, but St. Martins came out on top 15-12.

The final game was another victory for St. Martins as they win game four 15-6 to take the match 3-1 and hand Whitworth its fourth conference loss.

"Kim MacDougall had a great game at the net with her big blocking," said Head Coach Gary Scharf.

Scharf mentioned that Tera Fredericksen was sick before the game, but still played good defense. The PLLU Loggers are one of the top teams in the conference, and they showed their strength and experience as they dismissed the Pirates in just under an hour.

"They are a good team but I expected to play with them. They have quick plays and shots that are pushed fast outside to catch us without blockers," said Scharf.

The Loggers controlled the pace of the game as they took the Pirates' homecoming to win the match 3-0. Fredericksen and MacDougall both finished the match with seven kills.

The Pirates will travel and face Central Washington University's Wildcats on Wednesday, beginning at 7 p.m. The Pirates will then be back in the Pavilion to play host to Pacific Lutheran on Friday and Western Washington on Saturday. Both matches are scheduled for 7 p.m.
Northwest Conference of Whitworth.

Figueira

The WHITWORTHIAN. October 27, 1992

broke and gave the rates.

74 yards

on

96

and 34-13

McCurty.

41 victory over the Whitworth

UPS

were

by around resulting in a fumble and a end zone.

The 'drive

in just 29

ticks

in the first one minute, was stalled as the Pirates

led by Jason

Tobede. "Blne

was a one-yard

the comebade

in just 12 plays.

It was the fourth quarter in which 34-19.

scored 27 points. 21 points

And

Gary

scored

Two

ups

run followed by two

UPS

touchdown run cutting the than a minute, was stalled as the turn for

Pirates

Tight end

was led by Jason

Figueira

in the fourth quarter come- back by the Loggers, the Pirates led in most statistical categories.

Leading the offense for the Pirates was freshman running back

Jeff Meyer, who had four carries for 139 yards. Tony Doughty was five for 73 yards and Clayton Colliton caught four for 50 yards. Tight end

Steve Haug caught four passes for 65 yards. Ale Rams caught just one ball for 10 yards on an important fourth down conversion set up by a fake punt.

Quarterback Danny Figueira finished the game 21 of 35 for 352 yards with one touchdown and two interceptions. Figueira ran the ball five times for 19 yards.

The Pirates produced an impressive 570 yards of total offense. Defensive leader for the Pirates was Craig Stone, who was credited with two tackles for losses and one quarterback sack. Jesse Barton was also credited with one sack. John Kanus averaged 54.3 on his punting for Pirates. Kanus is currently second in the nation and is looking to move up.

Kevin Parker

Whitworthian Staff Writer

The silenced Pine Bowl crowd watched as the University of Puget Sound Loggers celebrated a 42-41 victory over the Whitworth Pirates Saturday.

It was the fourth quarter in which UPS scored 27 points. 21 points were scored in the first one minute, 44 seconds. Two touchdowns came in just 29 ticks of the clock.

A one-yard Gary McCurry TD run followed by two UPS scores off Whitworth turnover tied the score at 34-34 and turned the momentum for good.

The Pirates last drive, with less than a minute, was stalled as the Loggers intercepted the ball in the end zone. Whitworth led halftime 23-7 and 34-13 at the end of three quarters.

UPS scored just 17 seconds into the fourth quarter on a McCurry touchdown run cutting the Pirate lead to 34-19.

On the ensuing kickoff, David Thornhill, who had 3 returns for 96 yards, handed off on an end around resulting in a fumble and a five yard TD scramble by the UPS special teams. A two point conversion was then added on closing the gap to 34-27.

Danny Figueira was intercepted on the Pirates explay from scrimmage, resulting in another TD by McCurry.

The Pirates seemed unaffected by the comeback as they marched 74 yards in just 12 plays.

The drive was fueled by a 70 yard completion and run from Figueira to Jason Tobede. Blake Tucker powered it in with 2:41 left and gave the lead back to the Pirates 34-27.

UPS, on the verge of defeat, broke a big play on third-and-ten with Jason Olsen finding John Blucan for a 36-yard reception, keeping the Loggers hopes alive as they scored and held on for the win.

"We just have to forget this game and focus on Central," said Receiver Mike Hofheins.

The locker room was silent after the game as players tried to understand what had happened and where to go from there. Parents consoled players. But the loss was a deep one, not easily forgotten.

Despite the fourth quarter comeback by the Loggers, the Pirates led in most statistical categories.

The leading offense for the Pirates was freshman running back Jeff Meyer, who had four carries for fifteen yards.

Meyer filled in for injured running back Ara Balkian, who left the game in the first quarter with a strained hamstring.

The backfield was led by Meyer’s 152 yards on 18 carries and one reception for 11 yards. Tucker carried 10 times for 32 yards and three TD’s and had one reception for eight yards.

The "air force" was led by Jason Tobede, who had five catches for 139 yards. Tony Doughty was five for 73 yards and Clayton Colliton caught four for 50 yards. Tight end Steve Haug caught four passes for 65 yards. Ale Rams caught just one ball for 10 yards on an important fourth down conversion set up by a fake punt.

Quarterback Danny Figueira finished the game 21 of 35 for 352 yards with one touchdown and two interceptions. Figueira ran the ball five times for 19 yards.

The Pirates produced an impressive 570 yards of total offense. Defensive leader for the Pirates was Craig Stone, who was credited with two tackles for losses and one quarterback sack. Jesse Barton was also credited with one sack. John Kanus averaged 54.3 on his punting for Pirates. Kanus is currently second in the nation and is looking to move up.

Men’s soccer beats GU, is now 13-1 in ranking

Ryan Leonard

Whitworthian Sports Editor

The Whitworth men’s soccer team geared up for the upcoming National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics District I Tournament by shutting out cross-town rival Gonzaga 4-0 on Wednesday. The Pirates then traveled to Forest Grove, Ore. on Sunday to battle Pacific University. Results of the PU matchup were unavailable at press time.

The contest was scoreless until the seven minute mark, when Jim Martinson scored on an assist from Kieran Barton to take 1-0 lead.

Thirty-three minutes would then elapse before Whitworth extended its lead to 2-0, when Zane Higgins scored on an assist from Martinson. The Pirates would take that lead into halftime.

This Week in Sports

Oct. 27-Nov. 2

FOOTBALL

Saturday, Oct. 31

at Central Washington University, 1:30 p.m.

MEN’S SOCCER

Saturday, Oct. 31

at Pacific Lutheran University, 1 p.m.

Sunday, Nov. 1

at University of Puget Sound, 1 p.m.

WOMEN’S SOCCER

Wednesday, Oct. 28

at Gonzaga University, 3 p.m.

VOLLEYBALL

Saturday, Oct. 31

vs. Western Washington University, 7 p.m.

CAMPUS SPECIAL

GET A MEDIUM PEPPERONI PIZZA
FOR ONLY $3.99 (PLUS TAX)

CALL NOW!

468-2000

OPEN:

SUN.-THURS., 11 A.M.-1 A.M.

FRI.-SAT., 11 A.M.-2 A.M.

COCA-COLA CLASSIC® OR DIET COKE® AVAILABLE IN 12 OZ. CANS 56¢ EACH.

(PRICE INCLUDES DEPOSIT)

COCA-COLA, DIET COKE AND THE DYNAMIC BUBBLE DESIGN ARE TRADEMARKS OF THE COCA-COLA COMPANY.

BUILD YOUR OWN

SMALL MEDIMUM OR LARGE

ORIGINAL CHEESE PIZZA $5.00 $7.45 $10.46

EACH ADDITIONAL TOPPING .74 .93 1.34

PEPPERONI MUSHROOMS BLACK OLIVES

ONION SAVAGE GREEN PEPPERS

HAM GROUNDBEEF TOMATOES

SAUSAGE PINEAPPLE MUSHROOMS

BACON EXTRA CHEESE

NEW STRIKE OUT SALAD 18.99 ORG. SIDES

TRY OUR PIZZA SAUCE 39¢/PINT
Election '92 - A summary of the debates

Diana Smith
College Press Service

The gloves came off during the presidential and vice-presidential debates when Republican and independent candidates finally got a chance to face each other directly for a few rounds.

General reaction to the debates was that the Perot-Stockdale ticket scored high on charm but low on political experience, while College Republicans and independent candidate Ross Perot stressed the importance of economic prosperity and jobs. Many felt the debates were unexciting and that the candidates failed to make clear-cut differences in their platforms.

For many voters who are wavering about which candidate to support, the debates provided an opportunity to weigh the arguments and personalities. Voters who woke up at the last minute may be important in the election, said Bob Sonic, associate director of finances at Emory University in Atlanta, said he believed college students were more active and interested in this year's presidential election because many are worried about the stagnant economy and jobs after graduation.

"Students feel a stronger need to control what the future holds," he said. "There is a greater response on the students part than I've seen since the mid-'70s. They seem more interested in the political system," Newsmen said.

The debates kicked off on a fairly high plane on Oct. 11 in St. Louis. President Bush, Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, and independent candidate Ross Perot each delivered major policy speeches, and Perot's campaign service to civil society and although there were no major disagreements, there were sharp differences at times.

Perot won over some voters with a series of departures on liners and down-home talk about the "nation's recovery." He defended his deficit-reduction plan and brought down the house by saying, "I'm a fair man, I'm neither a liberal nor a conservative." A tense-clinton Clinton backed at Bush's statement that the Cold War was over and we must do more to make the world a safer place.

"Your father was right to stand up to Joe McCarty," Clinton said. "You were wrong to attack my patriotism. I was opposed to the war in Vietnam.

Bush won points for his quick comeback on the economy. "Gov. Clinton, he talks about the reaction of the market. There was a momentary fear that he might win and the markets went off." But the tone changed with the debate between Vice-Presidents Dan Quayle, Tennessee Sen. Al Gore and Perot running mate, retired Vice-Adm. James Stockdale. Fingerpointing, accusations and interruptions highlighted the combative discussion on Oct. 13 in Atlanta.

Quayle repeated charges during Clinton about his distant political past. "It is the way the General reaction to the debates and interested in this year's presidential election because many are worried about the stagnant economy and jobs after graduation.

"Students feel a stronger need to control what the future holds," he said. "There is a greater response on the students part than I've seen since the mid-'70s. They seem more interested in the political system," Newsmen said.

The debates kicked off on a fairly high plane on Oct. 11 in St. Louis. President Bush, Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton, and independent candidate Ross Perot each delivered major policy speeches, and Perot's campaign service to civil society and although there were no major disagreements, there were sharp differences at times.

Perot won over some voters with a series of departures on liners and down-home talk about the "nation's recovery." He defended his deficit-reduction plan and brought down the house by saying, "I'm a fair man, I'm neither a liberal nor a conservative." A tense-clinton Clinton backed at Bush's statement that the Cold War was over and we must do more to make the world a safer place.

"Your father was right to stand up to Joe McCarty," Clinton said. "You were wrong to attack my patriotism. I was opposed to the war in Vietnam.

Bush won points for his quick comeback on the economy. "Gov. Clinton, he talks about the reaction of the market. There was a momentary fear that he might win and the markets went off." But the tone changed with the debate between Vice-Presidents Dan Quayle, Tennessee Sen. Al Gore and Perot running mate, retired Vice-Adm. James Stockdale. Fingerpointing, accusations and interruptions highlighted the combative discussion on Oct. 13 in Atlanta.

Quayle repeated charges during Clinton about his distant political past. "It is the way the Presidential search continues

Julane Lussier
Whitworthian Staff Writer

The search is on for the next Whitworth College President, but it is a slow and carefully thought out process. It is the task of the Presidential Search Committee to conduct a search for a person qualified to lead the college. This committee is faced with the task of selecting the best person to fulfill the position.

The 15 person Presidential Search Committee was set up according to the bylaws of Whitworth College. Interim President Dr. Eaton said the committee is a great group of people. "There is good balance and good representation." The people involved are "eager and insightful," he said. Committee members include representatives from the Board of Trustees, the faculty, the students and the alumni.

Thus far, the committee has reviewed company profiles of executive search firms. Academic Search Consultant Services (ASCs), a national company which helps organizations find executives, will be consulted in the presidential search for Whitworth. In last Wednesday's meeting, the committee began to establish a set of characteristics they want to see in the next President of Whitworth to have. They will work along with the qualifications, to various businesses and organizations. Eaton said it will be sent to, "a very large network of people who know about and understand Whitworth" and who will be able to make recommendations for people interested in the position.

The next step is the application and screening process. Eaton said it is the committee's goal to establish the pool of applications by January.

Eaton emphasized the desire to have this process communicated to the Whitworth community. He said the committee is representative of the different groups of people involved in Whitworth, and he encouraged students to bring their ideas to him or the students representative, Executive Vice President of ASWC, Teben Hein.

New changes for financial aid

Becky Kilpatrick
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Financial aid is an issue that touches nearly everyone on campus and this year it may touch you. For the 1993-1994 school year, the Higher Education Act has made some important changes. Depending on your situation, you may be positively or negatively affected by these changes.

Every five years the government re-evaluates and re-authorizes the financial aid process. The previous changes have been outlined and the financial aid office is waiting to hear from the Department of Education to see how and which of these changes will be implemented.

"Most students will be most concerned with the independent status issue," said Director of Financial Aid Wendy Olson. Olson said the requirements for independent student status have changed. Students can only be claimed independent from their parents if they fit into six categories:

- Age: if you were born before January 1, 1970.
- Veteran— if you are a veteran of the U.S. Armed Forces.
- Graduate student—if you are a graduate or professional student.
- Marriage—if you are married before the time in which you apply for aid.
- Ward of the court—if you are a ward of the court or if both your parents are dead.
- Dependents—if you have legal dependents that fit a specific definition.

It is much more difficult to qualify as an independent student. It is no longer an option to be declared independent from your parents if they didn't claim you for two years on their income tax.

Secondly, there have been many changes in "need analysis." These changes will affect every student.

- Home and family farm equity will be excluded.
- No minimum student contribution from families whose income is high.
- Automatic zero contribution from families whose income is below the maximum earned income credit on tax return (currently $1,125).
- "Student earnings" taxed at 50 percent rather than 70 percent with the first $1,750 "protected."
- Medical/dental expenses excluded.

These changes in need analysis will help many students especially those whose parents have high value homes.

The forms for financial aid will be different this year also. Students will receive a "Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA)". Whitworth may also compose a booklet, it can be picked up at the library, the dining hall, the HUD or the registrar's office.

Students must register on the day and time scheduled according to their last name initial and class standing. If students are unable to attend registration during their regularly scheduled day and time, they can register any time the office of the Registrar is open after their scheduled time. In order to make this an easier process, Registrar Gary Whitworth recommends that students follow all the guidelines in the registration booklet and register as early as possible to get the classes they need or want.

"It is important to understand that course availability is limited. Freshman should have all alternatives in case courses fill, and suppenschners should register as early as possible to get the classes they need or want."

"It is important to understand that course availability is limited. Freshman should have all alternatives in case courses fill, and supppenschners should register as early as possible to get the classes they need or want."

"It is very important that seniors get priority because there are certain classes that we really need to take. A couple of years back there really wasn't an organized security system." he said.

January and spring registration will begin next week

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Registration for January and Spring terms begins will begin on Nov. 9 with early registration in McFachlan Hall.

Before that date, students need to meet with their academic advisors and select first choice courses as well as two or three alternate course choices. Then they must complete the registration form that is contained within the Announcement of Courses publication.

If students do not already have this booklet, it can be picked up at the library, the dining hall, the HUD or the registrar's office. Students must register on the day and time scheduled according to their last name initial and class standing. If students are unable to attend registration during their regularly scheduled day and time, they can register any time the office of the Registrar is open after their scheduled time.

In order to make this an easier process, Registrar Gary Whitworth recommends that students follow all the guidelines in the registration booklet and register as early as possible to get the classes they need or want.

"It is very important that seniors get priority because there are certain classes that we really need to take. A couple of years back there really wasn't an organized security system." he said.

A change in policy regarding the payment plan has been instituted by the Business Office. For several years, the college had a pre-registration time when students would turn in a list of non-binding classes and then pay their bill. This would confirm intended classes. This year, students register and then must pay their bills by a specific date. Students who do not make the required payment by Jan. 22 will forfeit their spring classes. It would then be necessary to make the payments at the Business Office on Monday Feb. 2, or Tuesday Feb. 2.

After payment is made one would need to register again for classes. It is important to note that when classes are dropped they will not be held open for the student.

"The problem with the old payment policy was that there was no time in between to add or drop classes," said Associate Registrar Marcellie Shagool. "With online registration as we are doing this year, people have a lot more time to do that. The purpose of the new system was to have classes disrupted as much with add/drop activity. This way, students have a lot longer time to take care of these things," she said.

Students will have from Nov. 9 until Feb. 9 to make a $12 change fee is assessed to any add/drop activity. "We are hoping that this long time period will decrease the amount of adding and dropping that is so disruptive to classes," said Shagool.

Whitworth hopes the extra time will help. "I'm hoping students will avail themselves of this opportunity and get registration done early so they have nothing to worry about," Whitworth said.

Registration Schedule

Monday, Nov. 9:
- Seniors (90 credits and up) PAGE 2
- Tue., Nov. 10: Juniors (75-89 credits)
- Wednesday, Nov. 11: Sophomores (62-63 credits)
- Thursday, Nov. 12, and Friday Nov. 13: Freshman (1-31 credits)

Nov. 1-7:
- Graduates and TOSBaccalaureates
- Check course announcements for exact times
Our electoral college is outdated, undemocratic

Trent House Editorial Board

We all may not be satisfied with the outcome of the presidential election, but at least we can be pleased with fairness of the process. Wrong!

As a country bountiful of its democratic process, we should be ashamed that the electoral college is still the official means of electing the president and that we still allow the media to spoon-feed to the body politic with its amassing of bogus polls and "undemocratic" predictions.

If you look up the phrase "electoral college" in your PO 101 textbook you'll find that it is a synonym for "outdated" and "undemocratic." The premise the founding fathers based this institution upon was general ignorance. The basis for ignorance was founded upon a lack of electronic media and immediate communication. Today's voter has a myriad of voting mediums (despite their bias) to turn on and reach a conclusion.

The winner-take-all notion flies in the face of one person one vote" and places a premium on where you live. A Bush supporter from Washington can expect to waste his vote because the second place finisher receives no compensation in the electoral college.

We can feel fortunate that our state received an adequate number of electoral votes relative to other northwest states and, therefore, can at least expect a visit from the presidential candidates.

Critics of electoral reform suggest that a new system will breakdown the two party system because it will encourage third party candidates. What happened to the notion that anyone can become president? If any conclusion can be drawn from this particular election cycle, it would be that voters are not satisfied with politics as usual.

Don't you find it a bit bizarre that each major media organization conducted their own polls this year—and then reported it as news? Which poll should you believe? This is an intricate stepchild to a time that can't possibly be considered as newsworthy.

The voting process is supposed to be a personal decision. Why then is it necessary to know how others plan to vote? Unfortunately, everyone wants to go with the winner. We must break ourselves from the media unconditional cord and make a personal decision based on issues and not on others' intentions.

Don't paralyze the west coast by discouraging their vote. By predicting the outcome of presidential elections before votes have had the opportunity to vote you discourage not only the presidential race but every local, state and federal race. Just ask west coast democratic candidates in 1980 what effect the Reagan landslide had on their race.

Washington D.C has very little room for radical ideas. Therefore, it will take public outrage to change the process as it stands. So with all of your might stand up and shout, "I'm a voter, I'm fierce, here me roar!"

The Whitworthian Staff
Joanne M. Heim * Editor in Chief
Krista Visagay * News Editor
Dan Howard * Features Editor
Ryan Denard * Sports Editor
Diane Brennan * Photo Editor
Julie Huffington * Advertising Manager
Erik Hurst * Circulation Manager
Judy Cage * Copy Editor
Gordon Jackson * Adviser

Virginia Brzoz, Casey Barrett, Jamie Torsino, Bill Ginn, Rebecca Jensen, Nigita Jones, Becky Ridgfield, Juliane Dusker, Heather Mackielski, Heather Parker, Kevin Parker, Rebecca Smidling

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly, except during summer and student vacations. Opinions expressed are those of the editor and do not necessarily reflect the views of The Associated Students of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity in education and employment in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Titles VII, IX, and X of the Education Amendments of 1972 and Sections 504 and 901 of the Public Health Services Act.
ASWC officers: what do they do?

Rebecca Smelling
Whitworthian Staff Writer

If you have ever wondered what your Associated Students of Whitworth College officers really do, here is your chance to find out.

The executive leaders of ASWC are president, executive vice president, and financial vice president. ASWC President Chris Oswald runs all of the council meetings. He sits on committees as the student representative, and represents the student body of Whitworth College as well.

Executive Vice President Toben Heim has slightly different duties than those of Oswald. He said that his duties include "working with the different media, radio, newspaper, and yearbook and making sure they are providing a high quality level of service to the students." He also co-chairs the assembly meetings. When asked what he likes about his position, Heim said "I feel like I am learning a lot. I am getting to use the stuff I learned at Whitworth." Heim co-chairs the assembly meetings.

Financial Vice President Eric Luther said his duties include allocating the student fees, chairing the club council, and chairing the finance committee. His favorite part of the job is "all of the new people I've met."

The executive officers of ASWC cannot do all of the coordinating for the council. Therefore, Whitworth has various coordinators.

The coordination each have different duties specific to their titles. Teresa Sines is the coordinator of student fund-raising. He raises money towards the development of the campus. The "brick" project is one of his duties. This is a fund-raising where people can purchase a brick for the outside of the new HUB. The money goes towards the constructing of the new student union building.

Angie Folwer coordinates campus activities, hence, her title - campus activities coordinator. Fowler organizes events on campus for the entertainment of the students. She organized the Blitzard of Bucks activity, and facilitates other activities such as coffee houses and dances.

The Outdoor Recreation Coordinator is Adam Brooks. His duties include organizing recreation activities for Whitworth students, and running out sports and recreation equipment. Though the recreation department has a large amount of equipment on hand, Brooks is currently in the process of getting more and improved equipment.

Whitworth's SERVE coordinator is Becki Traut. SERVE stands for Students Eager to Respond to Volunteer Endeavors. Traut's main objective is to "get people involved in service as a way of life," by offering students volunteer opportunities. Students can serve the homeless, elderly and underprivileged. She said that the likes her position because "it is a neat way to serve God and serve the Whitworth campus."

Cultural and Special Events Coordinator, Devon Singh, organizes the formal dances for the student body. It is her job to make the students culturally aware, through multi-cultural events. She has organized a time for students to speak with women faculty on various subjects.

Spirit Coordinator is Josh Armstrong. Armstrong's duties are similar to those of the campus activities coordinator. Armstrong's objective, however, is to promote spirit on campus. "I promote Whitworth athletics through pep bands, basketball half-time games, bonfires, tailgate parties, and various spirit activities," said Armstrong.

Whitworth in the process of searching for a new promotions coordinator whose duties will include publicity assistance, making posters, and promoting various campus activities. The executive officers gain office by running in a student election.

The coordinators apply for their positions, are then reviewed, and interviewed by Dayna Coleman. Now that you have learned all you need to know about ASWC officers, you may want to consider one of these positions for yourself. Watch for the open positions in the spring.

Ask me no questions & I'll tell you no lies...

Dear Readers,

So many people that I talk to are burned out on school and work. Since I'm one of those people who is ready to quit everything, I went to a seminar entitled "Booked Up and Burned Out."

The speaker made some good points about why people are burned out and ready to quit. Consider this my helpful hint for the week.

Burnout is not the cause of burnout but adds to the problem. Being busy means scheduling every minute of your day and then feeling guilty when you're not doing anything.

Unrealistic expectations cause burnout. Expecting perfection is expecting too much. You need to set a level of quality that is obtainable - not strive toward a goal you can never reach.

Relationships are vital. Having relationships is not enough - you must take time to work at them or they will add to stress.

Not being prepared gives the feeling of being behind. Plan ahead.

Encourage those around you. Being a friend can pay you back in their encouragement.

Delegate and share responsibilities to avoid burnout.

Overcommitment adds to stress. "No" is a simple word but hard to learn. You have to learn to say no to survive. Being active often means that people come to you first and ask favor because they know you'll get things done. Helping others is not always healthy for you.

Underplanning must be avoided. This ties in with planning ahead. The only way to get things done is to plan for them.

Time management is one of the best solutions to avoiding burnout. Buy a daybook, week, and schedule free time for yourself.

Feeling guilty for having personal time will wear off as it becomes a part of your routine.

The most important part of avoiding burnout is learning to accept yourself. You are a human being full of imperfections. Learning to accept those imperfections and working with them is easier than pretending they don't exist. Accepting yourself is the first step in becoming a happy person.

BRANFORD MARSALIS

"I Heard You Twice The First Time" The album from Branford Marsalis with Robert Hurst, Jeff "Tain" Watts, and special guest John Lee Hooker, Linda Hopkins, Wynton Marsalis, Vaih Taukeri, Russell Malone, and others.

$8.99 / $12.99

$8.99 / $12.99

hastings

We're Entertainment, Inc.

7304-04 N. Division · East 11324 Spokane Ave. · East 8805 W. Ph Ave.
Features

Whitworth ROTC students train to serve their country

Jamie Florio
Whitworth Staff Writer

Every Wednesday morning, shouts of "HOOAH!" can be heard at Gonzaga University along with the sounds of drums, horns, and marching ROTC cadets. Whitworth freshmen Matthew Douglas and Timothy Slemp, sophomore Sarah Pipkin and junior Douglas Schmidt are members of the ROTC cadets who have enrolled to become officers of the United States Army. Though their reasons for enrolling are different, they all are there for the same purpose—leadership training. "The army provides discipline lead to a successful future and is ideal for my major, law enforcement," said Slemp. Pipkin agreed, "I've been in the real world doing my job anyway, so why not serve my country...I gain leadership and the connections (for my future career)."

Another reason they are interested in is the scholarship money. Pipkin said, "I was offered $70,000, so that's a huge incentive. (The army) pays for my books and housing. How can I go wrong?"

But it isn't so easy to receive a ROTC scholarship. All the cadets agreed that you need to have certain qualities to make it. "Leadership is a very important self-confidence, you can't be wishy-washy," said Pipkin. Integrity, respect, and the ability to take direction and follow through were also characteristics needed. "You can't tell who'll be good for the program," said Slemp.

"Anyone can receive a ROTC scholarship for two, three, or four years," said Pipkin. Adviser: Dr. Richard Evans

The American Club

This year, there are signs all over the campus with long lists of clubs urging students to join. There are dozens of clubs to choose from, each with its own distinct purpose. There are signs urging students to "Catch the Sounds of Grunts, Groans, and Slogans by Enrolling in the ROTC." But even if the sound of the ROTC isn't appealing, there are other clubs that are.

One such club is the American Club. Matthew Douglas, Sarah Pipkin and Timothy Slemp attend American Club meetings at Gonzaga University every Wednesday.

Carley Burrell
Whitworth Staff Writer

"There are signs all over the campus with long lists of clubs urging students to join. But without a knowledge of what the club stands for, how is one to know which organization to join?"

Anatomy International Advisor: Ron Martinez

This is a united club of people whose purpose is to try to free prisoners of conscience (those arrested for political views, gender, race, etc.) around the world and to oppose capital punishment in any way, shape or form. The club tries to accomplish these goals by writing letters of support to governments where human rights violations are taking place. Anyone can join at any time. The club meets Tuesdays at 9:40 p.m. in the Blue Room of the HUB. One upcoming event is a benefit concert with Gonzaga University at a date not yet announced. For more information contact club president Ryan Frey at 467-2109.

Asian International Advisor: Doug Sagan

This club meets monthly in the Whitworth Lounge to plan activities that will incorporate some of the aspects of the Asian culture into life on campus. They also provide fellowship and support for one another said senior Tina Wong. In December, the club is planning to have a Karaoke concert. The money made will be used to support an Asian child through Compassion International. For more information call Wong at 468-3586.

Black Student Union Advisor: Diane Tomhase

The B.S.U. puts on several events during the school year to show

Amnesty International club members meet in the HUB. The club is planning a benefit concert. The date and time is to be announced.

Whitworth African and Afro-American culture. Approximately 25 people are currently members, but anyone can join. "You don't have to be black or African, you just have to want to learn about culture and history," said junior Monce Hamlin. B.S.U. meets in the HUB snack bar every other Tuesday at 9:30 p.m. Upcoming events for B.S.U. include Martin Luther King Junior Day and Cambodia. For more information call Hamlin at 468-3346.

Collegiate Democrats

This is a group of students who have an interest in the democratic party and wish to get together and discuss issues and candidates. Where and when the club meets is yet to be announced. For more information call Bill Ginn at 468-3849.

En Cristo

Adviser: Dr. Richard Evans

This club is centered on serving Christ. According to director Mark Terrell, "anybody who is in love with Christ can join." En Cristo has been divided into three sections: lunch-making, outreach, and discipleship. The lunch-making group meets Saturday mornings at 11 a.m.

Matthew Douglas, Sarah Pipkin and Timothy Slemp attend ROTC classes at Gonzaga University every Wednesday.
The WHITWORTHIAN • November 4, 1992

ARTS

Gabe’s Real Words

Gabe Taylor
Whitworth Columnist

Last weekend I went to Seattle to visit my Grandma. I drove over on I-90, leaving Spokane at about three o’clock in the afternoon. As you know, the sun sets in the West. For a good part of the way the sun sat right in my path of vision. I caught myself trying to block the sun that glaring in on me through the left side of the windshield. It was so bright; I could not stand to look at it. It reminded me of Christ’s blinding truth.

I went to see the play “Nanja” before I left. It was a huge success in our very own auditorium, with our very own students. There was a scene in the play where Aslan, (the lion), tells Edmund, (the little boy visiting the land of Narnia), “to look into my eyes.” Edmund immediately jerks his head away because Aslan’s eyes are too bright.

They seemed to pierce Edmund’s being. He was in pain when he looked directly at Aslan because the brightness of Aslan’s eyes convicted Edmund about something in his character. Edmund needed change.

In the play, Aslan symbolizes Christ. Christ desires growth in us. He wants us to keep changing, day in and day out, so that we will become more like him. He wants us to look at Him and see our own shortcomings. My desire to have a broadened world view is so strong. So why do I quickly run away when I see the real me mirrored right in front of me?

Sometimes I wonder if people like being ignorant of the habits they have established. As soon as someone attempts to point them out, a new conversation topic emerges. It seems like we are hesitant to see the blinding truth.

When someone finally gets the guts to convince us of our character, we push the knowledge away.

As I kept driving to Seattle an amazing thing happened. The sun became a noontime circle and its color changed to a much deeper yellow-orange. Then it dipped behind the Cascade mountains passed by. The sky turned purple, blue, pink, yellow, and red all at the same time. I found myself staring at the sun and admiring the gorgeous scene that was created. Then I became aware of what had just happened.

Two miles back I could not stand the piercing rays of the sun. Now, I was seeking the sun and could not get my eyes off its glorious picture.

The sun, two miles back, had been trying to get my attention, just like the truth tries to speak in my own life.

I quickly turn away when a friend brings the truth to the forefront of our relationship. This pain it brings causes me to run. And I am running from the sun that will soon turn into a beautiful work of art. Now, when I see the sun glaring in at me as I drive, I am reminded of what is to come if I keep driving toward it.

ATTRACTIONS & DISTRACTIONS

Off-Campus

Now-Nov. 27 - “Book Reports” by Heidi Geen, Chase Gallery at Cuy Hall. Call 625-6050 for information.

Now-Nov. 30 - Photography by Whitworth alumnus Brian Gage, Art downtown. Call 747-4843 for information.

Now-Dec. 4 - Sixth Annual Northwest Poets & Artists Calendar, Gallery of Art (EWU).

Wednesday, Nov. 4 - “A Breath of Fresh Air,” a Health Talk presented by the Rockwood Clinic; 7 p.m., Rockwood Clinic (East 400 Fifth Avenue). Call 838-2531, ext. 6200 for reservations.

Nov. 5-7 - “Death Quilt” by Spokane Civic Theatre, $7, Spokane Civic Theatre (North 1020 Howard). Call 325-2557 for tickets and information.

Friday, Nov. 6 - “Music for a Gothic Space” by the Spokane Chamber Choir and the Washington State University Faculty Brass Quintet, 8 p.m., the Cathedral of St. John, $8. Call 838-4277 for tickets and information.

Sunday, Nov. 8 - Post-Election Blues Concert, 8 p.m., Fort Spokane Brewery, $5 cover to benefit Peace and Justice Action League of Spokane. Call 923-5542 for information.

On-Campus

Wednesday, Nov. 4 - Chapel: Ken Shippis, 11:15 a.m., Seeley G. Mudd Chapel.

Wednesday, Nov. 4 - Faculty Recital by Gale Coffee, Cheryl Rand Carney and Leslie Straton Norris; 7:30 p.m., Music Building Recital Hall.

Thursday, Nov. 5 - Resume/Cover Letter Writing, 12:30 p.m., Student Life.

Thursday, Nov. 5 - “Reproductive and Sexual Wellness in the ’90s: Merging Fact, Morality and Desire” by Jan Murray, 9:45 p.m., Ballard Lounge.

Friday, Nov. 6 - Forum: Glandion Carney speaks about his work as the director of InterVarsity Missions Fellowship, 11:15 a.m., Cowles Memorial Auditorium.

Friday, Nov. 6 - Coffee House, 8 p.m., HUB.

Saturday, Nov. 7-Monday, Nov. 9 - Great Escape.

Saturday, Nov. 7 - Senior Theatre Performance: Beth Bloomquist, 8 p.m., Stage II, Cowles Memorial Auditorium.

Saturday, Nov. 7 - Dance: International Chinese Club, 7 p.m., HUB.

Saturday, Nov. 8 - Recital: Sylvia Baker, 4 p.m., Music Building Recital Hall.

Monday, Nov. 9 - Registration begins.

Monday, Nov. 9 - Forum: Cash Matthews speaks about multicultural diversity, 11:15 a.m., Cowles Memorial Auditorium.

Monday, Nov. 9 - Second Wind Fellowship, Noon, Seeley G. Mudd Chapel.

Do you have something to put in Attractions & Distractions? Send information to The Whitworthian at #4302 by 5 p.m. Friday.
Football: Pirates struggle and lose to CWU, 66-7

Jeff Meyer gets shoe-string tackle by a CWU defender during their game on Saturday.

Swimming: Women’s team opens season, loses to UPS

Ryan Leonard
Whitworth Sports Editor

The Whitworth women’s swim team opened the 1992-93 season with a loss to the University of Puget Sound’s Loggers.

The top finisher for the Pirates was Nani Blake, who took first place in both the 100m freestyle and the 100m backstroke, as well as taking second in the 100m butterfly.

Other finishers included Mindy Radke, who completed the 100m freestyle in a time of 57 seconds, as well as the 200m freestyle in a time of two minutes and four seconds. Lori White competed in the 200m freestyle, finishing with a time of 2:23, and the 100m backstroke, where she finished in 1:07.2.

Both teams will be in action next weekend as they travel to Tacoma for a 6 p.m. meet with the Loggers of Pacific Lutheran University on Friday, Oct. 6, followed by an 11 a.m. meet with Evergreen College in Olympia on Saturday, Nov. 7.

Men’s Soccer: PLU defeats Pirates, 2-1

Kevin Parker
Whitworth Staff Writer

Approximately 50 supportive fans watched as the Pirates struggled through the mud and rain as they were soundly defeated by the Central Washington University Wildcats on Saturday afternoon.

Central, ranked 12th in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics coaches poll, is looking for a berth in the NAIA nationals.

The loss dropped the Pirates to 0-3 in the conference and 2-5 overall.

The Wildcats running back Joey McCanna on the ground for 173 yards and two touchdowns, along with quarterback Jon Kirkman’s five of 10 pass completions for 234 yards and one touchdown, to collapse the Pirate defense.

Leading the Pirates offensively were Jason Toebke and Danny Higgins.

In the second half, the Lutes of Whitworth traveled to Tacoma for a commanding lead four minutes after Marriotton’s goal. Smart顺德 competed on a goal 20 minutes into the period, with the assist going to Barton. However, the Pirates tied the game at the 30 minute mark, when Kieran Barron scored an unassisted goal to give Whitworth its first point of the game. The first half ended with the score tied at 1-1.

UPS took a 2-1 lead in the first three minutes of the second half, a goal from Davis, which then took halftime.

Skueker opened the second half scoring with a goal 18 minutes into the period, with the assist going to Blake Bolding. Whitworth avoided being shut out with just five minutes remaining when Kieran Barron scored an unassisted goal.

Whitworth and PLU matched up evenly in terms of shots on goal as each team had seven. Goalie John Nagel had four saves for the Pirates, while goalie Adam White also had four.

Sunday’s contest against UPS got off to a slow start. Twenty-five minutes elapsed before Marc Berry scored an unassisted goal, giving the Lutes an early 1-0 lead.

The Pirates tied the game at the 30 minute mark, when Kieran Barron scored an unassisted goal to give Whitworth its first point of the game. The first half ended with the score tied at 1-1.

UPS took a 2-1 lead in the first three minutes of the second half, a goal from Davis, which then took halftime.

Skueker opened the second half scoring with a goal 18 minutes into the period, with the assist going to Blake Bolding. Whitworth avoided being shut out with just five minutes remaining when Kieran Barron scored an unassisted goal.

Whitworth and PLU matched up evenly in terms of shots on goal as each team had seven. Goalie John Nagel had four saves for the Pirates, while goalie Adam White also had four.

Sunday’s contest against UPS got off to a slow start. Twenty-five minutes elapsed before Marc Berry scored an unassisted goal, giving the Lutes an early 1-0 lead.

The Pirates tied the game at the 30 minute mark, when Kieran Barron scored an unassisted goal to give Whitworth its first point of the game. The first half ended with the score tied at 1-1.

UPS took a 2-1 lead in the first three minutes of the second half, a goal from Davis, which then took halftime.

Skueker opened the second half scoring with a goal 18 minutes into the period, with the assist going to Blake Bolding. Whitworth avoided being shut out with just five minutes remaining when Kieran Barron scored an unassisted goal.

Whitworth and PLU matched up evenly in terms of shots on goal as each team had seven. Goalie John Nagel had four saves for the Pirates, while goalie Adam White also had four.

Sunday’s contest against UPS got off to a slow start. Twenty-five minutes elapsed before Marc Berry scored an unassisted goal, giving the Lutes an early 1-0 lead.

The Pirates tied the game at the 30 minute mark, when Kieran Barron scored an unassisted goal to give Whitworth its first point of the game. The first half ended with the score tied at 1-1.

UPS took a 2-1 lead in the first three minutes of the second half, a goal from Davis, which then took halftime.

Skueker opened the second half scoring with a goal 18 minutes into the period, with the assist going to Blake Bolding. Whitworth avoided being shut out with just five minutes remaining when Kieran Barron scored an unassisted goal.

Whitworth and PLU matched up evenly in terms of shots on goal as each team had seven. Goalie John Nagel had four saves for the Pirates, while goalie Adam White also had four.

Sunday’s contest against UPS got off to a slow start. Twenty-five minutes elapsed before Marc Berry scored an unassisted goal, giving the Lutes an early 1-0 lead.

The Pirates tied the game at the 30 minute mark, when Kieran Barron scored an unassisted goal to give Whitworth its first point of the game. The first half ended with the score tied at 1-1.

UPS took a 2-1 lead in the first three minutes of the second half, a goal from Davis, which then took halftime.
Volleyball: Pirates defeat PLU, then fall to Central and Western Washington University

Kevin Parker
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Whitworth's volleyball team dropped a mid-week match to Central Washington University and split two at home, defeating Pacific Lutheran University and falling to Western Washington University.

The Pirates came out fired up against the visiting Bulldogs and led the Western Washington at No. 15-13. But the Bulldogs got warmed up and took the next three set 15-5, 15-9, and 15-10 to win the match 3-1, handing the Pirates their sixth conference loss.

The Pirates returned home to take on the Lutes of Pacific Lutheran University. The Lutes faced an inverse split at the Holiday Inn back court as they went down 15-5, 15-13, 15-13, and 13-15, giving the Pirates a 3-1 victory.

"We sustained our intensity throughout the match," said Head Coach Gail Scharfe.

The Pirates were led by Tara Frederickson's 15 kills and five blocks. Amy Cohler finished with 14 kills and five blocks; Julie Mosian had 11 kills and a big 18 blocks. Kim MacDougall had eight kills and 11 blocks.

"We hit hard from the get go, not giving them a chance to get into the match," said Scharfe.

Sister Wendy Harrow finished the game with 30 assists and seven blocks.

A key substitution came in the fourth game when Lisa Davis entered the game and came up with four huge kills. Davis seemed to put everything the Lutes hit back in their face.

Fresman Erin Lewis entered the game when MacDougall injured her right ankle. Lewis added to the strong front line of the Pirates, contributing on big blocks.

"I believe the fans support contributed to the win," said Petttori Chad Rovens.

Saturday, the Pirates faced Central Washington University. The Pirates defeated the Bulldogs 3-1 in the second set of their third game, winning the third set 15-9, and the Bulldogs defeated the Pirates 15-9.

The Vikings then rebounded, taking the fourth and final game 15-7 to finish the match 3-1.

The Pirates were led by Amy Cohler, who finished with 194 kills, along with Tara Frederickson, who had 131 kills. Kim MacDougall contributed with five kills.

"We hit hard and played a lot of intensity and played good throughout the match," said Scharfe.

Like many other schools, USM requires that a team have a certain number of sports offered for men and women at USM, and the budgets for comparable teams are equal, it would appear that the school would be in compliance.

Arthur Hurd, of the Trial Lawyers for Public Justice of Washington, D.C., says that USM could be forced to comply with the ruling.

Because USM's population is 66 percent women, and there are more male athletes at the school, a large number of women want to play on an ice hockey team, the school could be forced to grant them varsity status since there is a men's program in place.

"We sold that USM has field hockey for women and ice hockey for men, Bryant replied, "Field hockey and ice hockey are not comparable under Title IX."

Like many other schools, USM requires that a team have a certain number of sports offered for men and women at USM, and the budgets for comparable teams are equal, it would appear that the school would be in compliance.

Paula Hodgdon is quick to echo the sentiments that there would be some problems at the club level.

"We got scored on early, and everybody was kind of shocked," said Julie Elrod. "Things were downhill from there and we tried to score in a hurry," she said.

"The thought of losing stings in people's minds," said assistant coach Kevin Moon. "We didn't lose our game and that's the main reason we lost," he added.

The Bulldogs put the game away when they scored their final goal later in the half.

The loss dropped the Pirates to 7-4-3 in the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics District I, and the Northwest Collegiate Soccer Conference.

Whitworth will begin post-season play on Saturday, Nov. 7 when they will travel to Tacoma to face the University of Puget Sound's Logger in the first round of the NAIA District I Tournament.

"From what I hear, they're a very strong team defensively. But if they're not careful, the same thing that happened to us against Gonzaga can happen to us. Our women will be ready to play," he added.

This"gender equality"issue has been closely scrutinized lately. According to Sports Illustrated.

Like many other schools, USM requires that a team have a certain number of sports offered for men and women at USM, and the budgets for comparable teams are equal, it would appear that the school would be in compliance.

Arthur Hurd, of the Trial Lawyers for Public Justice of Washington, D.C., says that USM could be forced to comply with the ruling.

Because USM's population is 66 percent women, and there are more male athletes at the school, a large number of women want to play on an ice hockey team, the school could be forced to grant them varsity status since there is a men's program in place.

"We sold that USM has field hockey for women and ice hockey for men, Bryant replied, "Field hockey and ice hockey are not comparable under Title IX."

Like many other schools, USM requires that a team have a certain number of sports offered for men and women at USM, and the budgets for comparable teams are equal, it would appear that the school would be in compliance.

Paula Hodgdon is quick to echo the sentiments that there would be some problems at the club level.

"We got scored on early, and everybody was kind of shocked," said Julie Elrod. "Things were downhill from there and we tried to score in a hurry," she said.

"The thought of losing stings in people's minds," said assistant coach Kevin Moon. "We didn't lose our game and that's the main reason we lost," he added.

The Bulldogs put the game away when they scored their final goal later in the half.

The loss dropped the Pirates to 7-4-3 in the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics District I, and the Northwest Collegiate Soccer Conference.

Whitworth will begin post-season play on Saturday, Nov. 7 when they will travel to Tacoma to face the University of Puget Sound's Logger in the first round of the NAIA District I Tournament.

"From what I hear, they're a very strong team defensively. But if they're not careful, the same thing that happened to us against Gonzaga can happen to us. Our women will be ready to play," he added.

Whitworthian Sports Editor

After the Whitworth women's soccer team pounded Gonzaga 7-0 earlier this season, the Bulldogs took revenge by shutting out the Pirates 2-0 on Wednesday.

Gonzaga took an early 0-1 lead as the Pirates appeared to be unprepared. "We got scored on early, and everybody was kind of shocked," said Julie Elrod. "Things were downhill from there and we tried to score in a hurry," she said.

"The thought of losing stings in people's minds," said assistant coach Kevin Moon. "We didn't lose our game and that's the main reason we lost," he added.

The Bulldogs put the game away when they scored their final goal later in the half.

The loss dropped the Pirates to 7-4-3 in the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics District I, and the Northwest Collegiate Soccer Conference.

Whitworth will begin post-season play on Saturday, Nov. 7 when they will travel to Tacoma to face the University of Puget Sound's Logger in the first round of the NAIA District I Tournament.

"From what I hear, they're a very strong team defensively. But if they're not careful, the same thing that happened to us against Gonzaga can happen to us. Our women will be ready to play," he added.

Whitworthian Staff Writer

Whitworth's volleyball team dropped a mid-week match to Central Washington University and split two at home, defeating Pacific Lutheran University and falling to Western Washington University.

The Pirates came out fired up against the visiting Bulldogs and led the Western Washington at No. 15-13. But the Bulldogs got warmed up and took the next three set 15-5, 15-9, and 15-10 to win the match 3-1, handing the Pirates their sixth conference loss.

The Pirates returned home to take on the Lutes of Pacific Lutheran University. The Lutes faced an inverse split at the Holiday Inn back court as they went down 15-5, 15-13, 15-13, and 13-15, giving the Pirates a 3-1 victory.

"We sustained our intensity throughout the match," said Head Coach Gail Scharfe.

The Pirates were led by Tara Frederickson's 15 kills and five blocks. Amy Cohler finished with 14 kills and five blocks; Julie Mosian had 11 kills and a big 18 blocks. Kim MacDougall had eight kills and 11 blocks.

"We hit hard from the get go, not giving them a chance to get into the match," said Scharfe.

Sister Wendy Harrow finished the game with 30 assists and seven blocks.

A key substitution came in the fourth game when Lisa Davis entered the game and came up with four huge kills. Davis seemed to put everything the Lutes hit back in their face.

Fresman Erin Lewis entered the game when MacDougall injured her right ankle. Lewis added to the strong front line of the Pirates, contributing on big blocks.

"I believe the fans support contributed to the win," said Petttori Chad Rovens.

Saturday, the Pirates faced Central Washington University. The Pirates defeated the Bulldogs 3-1 in the second set of their third game, winning the third set 15-9, and the Bulldogs defeated the Pirates 15-9.

The Vikings then rebounded, taking the fourth and final game 15-7 to finish the match 3-1.

The Pirates were led by Amy Cohler, who finished with 194 kills, along with Tara Frederickson, who had 131 kills. Kim MacDougall contributed with five kills.

"We hit hard and played a lot of intensity and played good throughout the match," said Scharfe.

Like many other schools, USM requires that a team have a certain number of sports offered for men and women at USM, and the budgets for comparable teams are equal, it would appear that the school would be in compliance.

Arthur Hurd, of the Trial Lawyers for Public Justice of Washington, D.C., says that USM could be forced to comply with the ruling.

Because USM's population is 66 percent women, and there are more male athletes at the school, a large number of women want to play on an ice hockey team, the school could be forced to grant them varsity status since there is a men's program in place.

"We sold that USM has field hockey for women and ice hockey for men, Bryant replied, "Field hockey and ice hockey are not comparable under Title IX."

Like many other schools, USM requires that a team have a certain number of sports offered for men and women at USM, and the budgets for comparable teams are equal, it would appear that the school would be in compliance.

Paula Hodgdon is quick to echo the sentiments that there would be some problems at the club level.

"We got scored on early, and everybody was kind of shocked," said Julie Elrod. "Things were downhill from there and we tried to score in a hurry," she said.

"The thought of losing stings in people's minds," said assistant coach Kevin Moon. "We didn't lose our game and that's the main reason we lost," he added.

The Bulldogs put the game away when they scored their final goal later in the half.

The loss dropped the Pirates to 7-4-3 in the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics District I, and the Northwest Collegiate Soccer Conference.

Whitworth will begin post-season play on Saturday, Nov. 7 when they will travel to Tacoma to face the University of Puget Sound's Logger in the first round of the NAIA District I Tournament.

"From what I hear, they're a very strong team defensively. But if they're not careful, the same thing that happened to us against Gonzaga can happen to us. Our women will be ready to play," he added.
Twenty college cafeterias listed for worst food

Karen Huesladi
College Press Service

Twenty cafeterias earned the dubious distinction of serving the worst college cuisine in the country, according to a recent survey of 38,000 students at 245 campuses.

The survey was conducted by the Princeton Review, a firm that offers test preparation for the SAT, medical and law school, for its book, The Student Access Guide to the Best Colleges.

"Bringing a Bag Lunch" advises the headline over the worst grub list, which includes the State University of New York at Albany, the University of Wisconsin at Madison and Rice University. Twenty others were listed under "Great Food."

"We are not saying the schools are bad, we are saying that the food is terrible," said Karen Kattman, president of the Princeton Review in New York.

The "worst food" schools listed are SUNY Albany; Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, N.J.; Eckerd College, St. Petersburg, Fla.; New Jersey Institute of Technology, Newark College at University of South Florida in Tampa, Fla.; Worcester Polytechnic Institute, Worcester, Mass.; Reed College, Portland, Ore.; Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.; Smith College, Athens, Ga.; St. Bonaventure University, Bonaventure, N.Y.; Lake Forest College, Lake Forest, Ill.; Simon's Rock of Bard College, Great Barrington, Mass.; Rice University, Houston, Texas; Fisk University, Nashville, Tenn.; St. Mary's College of Maryland, St. John's College, Annapolis, Md.; University of Wisconsin at Madison, Clemson University, Clemson, S.C.; the University of Massachusetts at Amherst; and Oberlin College in Atlanta.

Kattman admits he has "taken some flak" for the listings from some college officials, but in several cases, food service directors have written to him asking for further information:

"Could we get a copy of the survey giving the time of year it was done... also, if you know whether the people surveyed were freshmen, sophomores, juniors or seniors."

"It is important that the kids understand that we are not the very last word on a given college. It is a survey, so the book, visit schools, talk to friends. This was fun stuff from the kids," Kattman said.

Club review, from p. 4

Fellowship of Christian Athletes
Advisor: Rick Richardson
This club meets Thursday evenings at 7 p.m. in the Field House classroom (upstairs). FCA is a way to meet other Christian students who are not necessarily on the basketball or an athlete. FCA meetings consist of prayer, singing, games and either a speaker or devotional. The program membre a college youth group. To reach out to others, FCA plans to fix food and serve the needy families for Thanksgiving. For Christmas, FCA will adopt a family in need and bake dinner for them. "We're their Santa Claus," explained Lisa Davis, club president. To learn more about FCA contact Davis at 468-3205.

FORESNICS
Forensic Adviser: Mike Ingraham
The Forensics team is open to everyone who wishes to improve their speaking abilities and to compete inter-scholastically. The team meets in room 216 every Monday and Wednesday afternoon at 3:35 p.m. The 15 Forensics team members prepare for speech events against other colleges. The members practice speeches which range from interpretations of poetry, prose and plays, to discussions of quotations and current events to public addresses which are informative, persuasive, or rhetorical criticism. This year, the Forensics team will be competing at Northwood College in Powell, Wyo. This will be their first tournament of the year. To find out more about the Forensics team, contact Paul Spencer, the club president, at 468-3409.

Habitat for Humanity
This is a club designed specifically to help the community. Habitat for Humanity is a non-profit organization that builds homes for people in need. Volunteers are needed every Saturday morning from 8:30 until noon in front of the Marriott Entrance. They then go downtown to build houses for low-income families. Everything is volunteer and all materials are donated. Anyone can join the club and need not possess any experience necessary. To learn more call Ryan Frey at 467-2109.

Look in next week's issue for review of nine more Whithworth clubs.

NEWS CLIPS

• A Japanese patrol boat rescued 142 people last week that had run out of food and water after drifting for two weeks in the Pacific Ocean. The boat suffered engine trouble on Oct. 13. The boat had been drifting since then.

• Recently separated from her husband, Mary Barnaby, 27, killed herself and her five children with car exhaust fumes in Mexico. The children ranged in ages from 8-years-old to 6-months-old. Barnaby left a note saying she was going to kill herself and her children and requested certain funeral arrangements.

• Sixty-one years after his death, Thomas Edison finally received his college degree from Thomas Edison State College. The college gave him a Bachelor of Science degree for lifetime achievement.

SPORTSCARDS/CARDS
• 1992 World Series Official Commemorative Card (baseball)
• 1992 World Series Official Card (baseball)
• 1992 Topps Baseball Card (football)
• 1992 Topps Baseball Card (basketball)
• 1992 Topps Baseball Card (soccer)

DOMINO'S PIZZA ANNOUNCES
MEGA-WEEK
ANY PIZZA, UNLIMITED TOPPINGS
$8.99 PLUS TAX (NO DOUBLE TOPPINGS)
NOVEMBER 6-15, 1992
CALL NOW! 468-2000

LATE NIGHT SPECIAL
GET A MEDIUM ONE TOPPING PIZZA FOR ONLY $3.99 (PLUS TAX)
CALL 468-2000
LATE NIGHT OFFER VALID AT 9329 NORTH DIVISION AFTER 9 P.M. ONLY.
Students think President-elect Bill Clinton can relate to them

John Williams
College Press Service

Americans voted for change last week when Bill Clinton was elected president of the United States. Clinton will begin his four years in office in January when he will herald a new direction for the nation.

Now matter the outcome, the 1992 presidential election proved to be a watershed for college and university students as president George Bush and President-elect Clinton, actively sought the youth vote.

In turn, thousands of student registrants to vote as partisan and non-partisan organizations moved to empower 18- to 24-year-olds who traditionally have had the lowest voter turnout of any age group.

Bush and Clinton offered radically different views that affect students.

"Students are thinking about their future and seeing that there are no jobs," said Evan McKenzie, who teaches political science at Albright College in Reading, Pa. "They're concerned about jobs. They have debts to go to school. They know what's going on."

What Clinton has to do, experts said, is have an effective first few months of his administration in which he creates and then pushes through Congress legislation that was discussed during the campaign.

"He must decide to do intelligent things during the honeymoon period. He should make an aggressive presentation for his ideas and get them passed," McKenzie said. "Then he has a chance for succeeding. He is up against tremendous odds because our economy is in a desperate, desperate shape. He has to strike while the iron is hot, in the first six months.

"If he doesn't do that, he'll be out on his rear end," McKenzie said.

Jamie Harman, president of College Democrats, and Clinton "will have a tremendous impact on our generation. Clinton's victory will represent hope and change," Clinton related an economic morass that will have to be dealt with immediately, said Dean Keith Simonet, a professor of psychology at the University of California-Davis.

I don't envy Clinton's position at all," Simonet said. "The problems the next president of the United States inherits are a mess. Nobody can solve the problems overnight."

Many students were drawn to Clinton because he can relate to them better than Bush, said Don Freeman, professor of political science at the University of Evansville in Indiana. "The most important change is that he will be a better teacher and effectively communicate to the American people. I think this will be his downfall, down-home style that Clinton has can make him relate to the average person," said Freeman. "My hunch is that he will be lucky. The economy will begin moving again."

Sexuality month addresses issues of sex, relationships

Julene Lusisier
Whitworth Student Staff Writer

To encourage students to be open to talking about sex, Sexuality, Wholeness and Holiness is the theme for November at Whitworth.

Rich Lang, director of the Spokane Lay Ministry Center and the Institute for Human Dynamics, kicked off the month by speaking at Forum on Monday, Nov. 2. He spoke about the sexual movement, and specifically, "What does it mean to be a man in our time?"

He addressed subjects men deal with that may not be acceptable or considered normal within masculine stereotypes. The topics included being in touch with emotions, recognizing the need for a father figure and how these can be helpful development. He said one solution to these problems could be of men mentoring the younger male generation.

Lang also spoke about identity, values, new relationships and vocations as issues men confront and how these can be intertwined within a Christian context. He said men need to "become leaders who make a difference in our world for Jesus Christ."

During Forum, students were asked to fill out a sex questionnaire. The results will be published in The Whitworthian and included in the panel discussion at the end of the sexuality month.

Tuesday, Nov. 3, a film, "Peter Jennings: Men and Rape" was scheduled, but the screening was postponed until Wednesday, Nov. 4.

"This month many issues concerning sexuality and sexual behavior are to be discussed. It's a time for reflection and a time for us to be more comfortable in discussing these issues," said Murray.

Reid, Migliazzo attend Lilly Fellows Program

Becky Kilpatrick
Whitworth Student Staff Writer

Associate Dean for Academic Affairs Dr. Tammy Reid and Dr. Arlin Migliazzo, associate professor of history, attended the second annual Lilly Fellows Program, held Oct. 16-18 at Valparaiso University, Valparaiso, Ind.

The Lilly Fellows Program is a national conference on spirituality and higher learning funded by a grant from the Lilly Endowment, an Indianapolis-based private foundation. The program is a national project that addresses two problems faced by church-related colleges and universities: church-related institutions have no sustained national communication and few opportunities for young scholars who wish to pursue their theological commitments at

Please see Lilly Fellows, p. 8
Change begins with us

President elect Bill Clinton, President George Bush, and Ross Perot ended this year's election by encouraging United States citizens to join together and work for change. Unless individual Americans take the challenge for change, our government will have little impact over the next few years. The social problems of the United States run much deeper than those of our government. The underlying problem of our nation is selfishness. Americans care more over good than love. We preach God bless America, equal rights, and freedom for all, but this is not our identity. The American Dream today stands for self-security and isolation. Clinton and Gore ran a campaign to tell us, "We must, the twain."

True reform is the United, but between us (not between political parties). The church is a whole people and becomes more active in missions overseas and in our own community where divorce, abortion, drugs, and an enormous lack of love breaks down the structure of the family. As individuals, we must begin focusing on the needs of others. We must not look too far into the future, but live in the present.

Opinions rather than action need to exist. We must understand our own poverty in order to truly help each other. If we are realistic, we may lose hope and live by self-interest. If we turn to Jesus, true social change will occur. Prayer is very strong because the Holy Spirit is an activist. The election is done, but we must not assume that it is time to be secure. Being a united people, we take no part in reforming our society. The change in the United States must begin with a change in the heart. True reform begins with self-reflection, on a personal and national level. Jesus provides the strength for social change. He calls us, not just the government, to be vessels for healing the problems in our society.

Our society forgets that the principal democratic ideas of freedom and equality are founded on Christian tradition. Our nation will not change if American culture continues to turn away from God.

The Whitworthian Staff

Jeanne M. Heim • Editor in Chief
Krista Vaugney • News Editor
Sean Horrell • Features Editor
Ryan Leonard • Sports Editor
Dana Brown • Photo Editor
Jodie Bunting • Advertising Manager
Dee Hunt • Circulation Manager
Judy Gage • Copy Editor
Gordon Jackson • Advisor

Mary Hoffman, Fred House, Chris Murphy, Laura Rush, Anna Schwarzenegger • Editorial Board

Virginia Brown, Casey Bennett, Jaime Johnson, Bill Ginn, Rebecca Johnson,Action Jones, Bevly Patrick, Juliee Quaid, Heather Madliker, Heather Parker, Kevin Parker, Rebecca Smidig

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly, except during January and student vacations. Opinions expressed are those of the writers and do not necessarily reflect the views of the Associated Students of Whitworth College, Whitworth College administration, or any organization or publication in accordance with Title III of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 and Sections 504 and 503 of the Public Health Services Act.
Students provide friendship and support to those at The City Gate

Jennifer Langlois and Michelle Smith visit with Randy L and The City Gate.

Ask me no questions & I'll tell you no lies...

Dear Readers,
I had some free time all to myself this past week. I stood in the middle of my living room, knowing that this was my time to do with what I pleased. I had no idea what to do. I promised myself that I wouldn't do any homework or anything that I absolutely had to get done.

I wandered around my house and found an old journal. I used to journal almost every day but haven't for over a year now. It was something that I started when I was about 13 — I was a locked diary where I used to write about how I felt about everyone. I thought he was.

My journal changed to a comparison book when I was in high school. What I wrote wasn't about what I did that day or about Michael J. Fox but about me and questions I had about who I was and what I wanted to become.

I don't know why I stopped keeping a journal. I don't think it was because I found all the answers to my questions. Maybe I just got tired of asking.

I started a new journal the other night. I found myself asking more questions about who I am and who I want to become. Even though I didn't find any answers, I know what the questions are.

Helpful Hint for the Week: Buy a journal and write in it.

This is a really rewarding service to be involved in,” said Jolicoeur. “It’s kind of ministry you don’t need to be an expert at. In fact I learned a new Bible verse last week from a man who was there. So you not only minister to others but learn about ministry as well,” she said.

Jolicoeur encourages anyone who is interested in traveling to City Gate on Fridays to contact her at XJJ54.

News

Students provide friendship and support to those at The City Gate

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworth Staff Writer

In the center of crime, prostitution and drugs sits The City Gate. An inner-city fellowship providing a variety of services to the homeless and low-income families of Spokane. Once a week several Whitworth students join these people to offer their hands and hearts.

Becky Truitt, the SERVE coordinator, has been volunteering for City Gate for two years. Sherise Jolicoeur, a resident assistant in Baldwin-Joelke, founded this year’s group who will be volunteering at City Gate on Fridays.

“Initially, there weren’t a lot of people to go down, but I think it is an important program to keep alive. Because I’m an RA, I was in an easier position to spark interest among students,” Jolicoeur said.

The City Gate was officially opened in March of 1988 when Pastor Kevin Ch’en recognized the need for some sort of inner-city fellowship. “There really was a big need down here, and since nobody else was doing anything I took the initiative,” he said.

The fellowship operates primarily on a donation/volunteer system. There are an average of 100 volunteers monthly, not including the 200-250 excess volunteers that are used during the holiday season. Included in this number are approximately 60 student volunteers, some regular, some periodic, who come in during the year.

“I think it’s good to have a spread of both elderly and youth helping out,” said Ch’en. “While some enjoy the wisdom the older volun-
}

Ch’en said there are many cases similar to Buckner’s. “Our primary purpose down here is to bring these people back into a relationship with the Lord and get them functioning in society,” he said. “We have people on our staff that used to have very destructive personalities, prior drug dealers or drug and alcohol abusers. Testimonies come out monthly about people’s lives that have changed because they see that there’s hope and people do care,” said Ch’en.

However not all cases are that extreme or drastic. David Wayne is an ex-convict who despite his past continues to serve the Snoqualmie Food Bank on Tuesday or sorting clothing and blankets,” Buckner said.

“People have very destructive personali-

After developing arthritis in his hand and shoulder, Wayne was forced to cease his job as a self-employed mechanic and mechanic and receive public assistance. “Despite the aid I get from the government I am barely able to cover my bills. If it weren’t for this place I would not be able to eat at all towards the end of the month,” Wayne said.

Wayne said City Gate is not only helpful in providing food but in the Christian attitude it displays. “The people here show the fruits of the spirit before they tell about them. They have given me clothes for job interviews, helped with resumes, I mean they really care. For me, this is a lot closer to what a church is suppose to be,” he said.

Last Sunday Wayne began a job as a disc-jockey at KSUY, a local classical radio station.

Jennifer Langlois and Michelle Smith visit with Randy L and The City Gate.
Whitworth club review; part II

Carley Burrill
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Circle K International Adviser: Paul Merkel

This is a service club for college students, sponsored by Kiwanis International. The club emphasizes service, leadership development and fellowship. "The activities we participate in are aimed at the interests and talents of the members," said club president Diana Bell. Upcoming events for Circle K include working with the Special Olympics, visiting Hawthorne Manor, and running kids at Hurton Settlement children's home. Anyone can join. The club meets at 7:30 p.m. in the HUB. For more information contact Bell at 468-3510.

Hawaiian Club
Adviser: Dr. William Johnson

There are over 65 Hawaiian and non-Hawaiian students which make up this club. The purpose of the club is to share the Hawaiian culture with the Whitworth community through activities and crafts such as hula dancing, luaus, and lei-making. Meetings are held on the last Sunday of every month at 7 p.m. in the Warren lounge. The club president, Ray-ann Liscum, can be reached at 468-3940 for more information.

International Club
Adviser: Diane Toman

The International Club was created to bring foreign and American students together. This is done through events which integrate various cultures. The club was also created to help international students adjust to being away from home. Anyone can join the International Club at anytime. The club meets in the Warren lounge every Monday through Friday morning. For more information contact Schaus at 468-3510.

Psi-Chi
Adviser: Dr. James Waller

Psi-Chi is Whitworth's national psychology honor society. It holds monthly meetings to discuss psychological topics and plans for the future. The club provides academic recognition to the members, and designs activities to enhance psychology's regular curriculum, explained Schaus. Psi-Chi is in charge of an ongoing fundraiser selling muffins and coffee in the psychology lounge Monday through Friday morning. Applications to the club are accepted, but only five submissions are allowed per person. Short stories must be five pages or less and poems no longer than one page. All submissions must be in by Feb. 19, 1993. The Script is sponsoring a poetry reading Nov. 14 at Espresso Delizioso. The theme will be "Celebration of Literature then and now". For more information contact Jennifer Jenkins at 468-9926.

Sports Medicine Club
Adviser: Russ Richardson

"This is the first club at Whitworth to provide new topics not covered in the regular curriculum," said president Joey Jensen. The club meets most Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. in the training room. At the meetings members learn about different therapies and listen to past speakers. Anyone can join the club at any time. For more information, call Jensen at 332-7919 or vice-president Heather Walter at 468-3804.

Volleyball Club

The main purpose of the volleyball club is to help people develop their skills. Later in the year, the club plans to do tournaments as fundraisers to pay back ASWC for the sand volleyball courts. Currently, the club meets in the Fieldhouse Saturday nights from 7:30 p.m. -11:30 p.m. Anyone interested in volleyball can join. For more information, contact Paul Merkel at 468-3740. Name all string games and "their skills. Later in the year, the club plans to do tournaments as fundraisers to pay back ASWC for the sand volleyball courts. Currently, the club meets in the Fieldhouse Saturday nights from 7:30 p.m. -11:30 p.m. Anyone interested in volleyball can join. For more information, contact Paul Merkel at 468-3740.
Volleyball: Pirates unite and win

Kevin Parker
Whitworth Staff Writer

The Pirates' new unity came at the "tail" of the season, but not too late as the Whitworth women's volleyball team came through the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges Volleyball Tournament with a 4-2 record and in top form for the District and National playoffs.

The Pirates, entering the tournament 3-3 in the conference, 7-5 overall and fourth in the league, carried new confidence of their "ups" as they dismissed Lewis and Clark, Whitman and Linfield before falling to Pacific on Saturday.

Whitworth opened the tournament against Lewis and Clark, 0-6 in conference and 1-11 overall. The Pirates had an easy time and beat the Pioneers 15-4 and 15-7.

Whitworth then faced a tough Pacific team and fell in parallel fashion 15-10 and 15-10.

The Pirates swept the loss as they demonstrated a front line attack against the Whitman Missionaries. The Pirates produced 30 kills on 68 attempts, ending Whitman's mission 15-2 and 15-7. The Pirates served clear through with five service aces.

The final match on Saturday placed the Pirates against the Linfield Wildcats, 5-1 in conference, 11-6 overall and second in the league.

The Wildcats proved to be tough in the first game coming out on top 15-11. However, with the homecourt advantage and a spirited crowd the "carts" by the rail and caged them 15-0 and 15-6, providing the Wildcat with an upset and the Pirates with their third victory of the day.

The Pirates overpowered the blocking of the "carts" as Tara Frederickson finished with 16 kills and Amy Colyar finished with 12. "We had nowhere to go but up," said Frederickson.

"This was a big confidence booster," said Wendy Harrow.

The tournament resumed Sunday as the Pirates took on the top team, the Willamette Bearcats. The Bearcats, 6-0 in the conference, 12-0 overall and undefeated in the tournament, proved to be tough as they scratched the Pirates in game one 15-10 and then finished them in game two 15-3.

The final game for the Pirates was a rematch of last week's game against Pacific Lutheran University. The Lutes were defeated for the second time as Amy Colyar and Tara Frederickson unloaded their guns as Wendy Harrow controlled the网攻 with 35 assists. Colyar led the Pirates with 19 kills, with Frederickson adding 15. The Lutes didn't have much success against the defense as Kim MacDougall and Julie Moisan put up a wall, finishing with a combined 18 blocks.

"I'm happy with the way we played in the tournament and with the unity we have right now," said Frederickson.

"We're peaking at the right time and competing with the top teams," said Head Coach Cecil Schaefer.

The Pirates finished third in the NCIC tournament. The Pirates are also celebrating as Tara Frederickson and Amy Colyar were voted to the NCIC All-League First Team. Kim MacDougall was named to the honorable mention list.

Swimming: Men beat PLU and Evergreen; women split the two

Ryan Leonard
Whitworth Sports Editor

Week two of the 1992-93 Whitworth swimming season saw the Pirates across the state with Pacific Lutheran University on Friday, followed by Evergreen College on Saturday.

The men won Friday's meet with the Lutes by a score of 106-99. Matt Bois, P.J. Pedroni, Matt Snow, and Ben Beomeyer won the 200 medley relay for the Pirates.

Individual performances included Steve Schultz, who won both the 1000 and 500 yard freestyle races with respective times of 10 minutes, 38.82 seconds, and 5:12.58. Other winners were Snow, who won both the 200 and 100 freestyle, finishing with times of 1:53.4 and 56.09 seconds.

Beomeyer won the 50 freestyle, finishing with a time of 22.65. Bois won the 100 back stroke in 57.17, and Pedroni won the 100 back stroke in 1:04.87.

"That was a close race," said Head Coach Tom Dodd. "I didn't win, we would have lost the meet," he added.

On the women's side, the Pirates lost by a score of 128-72. Individual performances included Nani Blake. She qualified for nationals in both the 1000 and 500 freestyle. She finished with times of 10:56.67 in the 1000, and 5:24.72 in the 500.

Other strong performances included Mindy Radke, who competed in the 100 and 200 freestyle. Radke finished the races with times of 56.78 (second fastest but her best time) and 2:07.2, respectively.

Low Wilson completed the 100 butterfly in 1:04.61.

"The women made significant improvement," said Dodd of the Lutes, who are ranked fourth in the nation.

Against Evergreen on Saturday, the men won by a score of 137-59. Turning in a strong performance was Carey, Lantner, who won the 100 butterfly with a time of 59.96. Matt Snow won the 100 back stroke, finishing the race in 57.97, Steve Schultz won the 50 freestyle with a time of 58.27, and Pedroni finished the 100 breast stroke in 1:06.34.

In women's events, Mindy Radke completed the 100 back stroke with a time of 1:05.63. Angela Cash swam in a time of 1:14.95 in the 100 breast stroke, and Susan Keller finished the 100 butterfly with a time of 1:08.71.

"But we're still a fun team," said Dodd. "We had some strong performances, and we had some people scratch and 2:07.2 isn't normal don't swim," he added.

The meet will return to action on Saturday, when they will travel to McMinville. The meet is 4 p.m. with the Linfield Wildcats.
Sports

Women's Soccer: Season ends with loss to University of Puget Sound

Ryan Leonard
Whitworth Sports Editor

The University of Puget Sound's Loggers eliminated the Whitworth women's soccer team from post-season play on Saturday, shutting out the Pirates 2-0.

"We totally dominated them in the first half," said assistant coach Kevin Moon. "James Drown and Joey Rein both had an incredible goal, and we defense also played well," he added.

The game's first forty minutes were by without a score. But Lob­ger Tiffany Ross scored an un­ steadied goal at the 40:11 mark to give UPS a 1-0 lead. The game's final goal came at the 49:12 mark, when Clarice Hughes scored on an assist from Stacie Mayfield.

"We were pretty evenly matched," said Lina Hobbs. "As a team, I didn't think they were better than us. We just had some bad circumstances," she added.

"We had our chances (to score) early in the first half, and we hit every corner outside of the goal, and we were playing against the wind in the second half," said Moon.

Whitworth finished the game with five shots on goal, compared to four for the Loggers. Goalie Laura Rush had 11 saves for the Pirates, while UPS goalie Liz Judkins had just three.

The Pirates finish the season with a record of 7-5-3 in the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics District 1, and the Northwest Collegiate Soccer Conference.

Football: Pirates fall to Western Washington University in Whitworth's new 'mud bowl'

Kevin Parker
Whitworth Staff Writer

The Whitworth Fine Bowl turned into the "mud bowl" as did the hopes for the Pirates third win of the season.

The Pirates fell behind early to Western Washington as the Vi­ kings turned out a 39-14 victory in a Columbia Football Association, Mt. Rainier League contest.

It seemed as though the mud would derail all chances of a run­ ning attack. But Jon Brunaugh (who had 26 carries for 147 yards) had no problem finding a footing for his two touchdown runs.

Western's rushing finished the game with 50 carries for 232 yards, compared to the Pirates rushing with 27 carries for 27 yards.

Whitworth took to the air to score four of the mud at quarterback Danny Figueira threw 12 of 39 passes for 242 yards and two touchdowns.

Figueira continued his domi­ nance in the league, as did receiver Jason Tothok, who caught 10 balls for 69 yards, which resulted in the Pirates two touchdowns.

"Tony big play" Doughty had a big day as he came down with eight balls for 136 yards.

Doughty left the game late in the fourth quarter due to a pinned neck. Doughty is recovering and will continue to practice through the week.

The Defense put out a big effort, stopping the Vikings on big plays, recovering a fumble, and intercepting a pass.

Derek Edwards led his big game at safety with eight tackles and four assists. Eric Nasburg finished with seven tackles and Jonny Barton came up with four tackles and one assist.

The Pirates will bring the season to a close as they face the Wolves from Western Oregon State College at 1 p.m. in the Fine Bowl on Saturday.

Men's Soccer: Post-season ends in 37-minute overtime

Ryan Leonard
Whitworth Sports Editor

The Western University Vikings put up a hard fight to reach the men's soccer post-season on Wednesday, beat­ ing the Pirates 1-0 in overtime. The contest went 37 minutes into the overtime period before the Vikings scored the game's only goal.

"I felt we were the stronger team out there," said Jim Mantrone.

"But the size of the field was extremely larger than ours. We've not used to being spread out, and our breakdowns were longer," he added.

They played well in their field," said assistant coach Brandi Hous­ ton. "We had our chances early on, but we failed to capitalize on them," she added.

"I think Western is a core, said Mantrone, "and the Northwest Col­ leges, the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics District 1, and the Northwest Collegiate Soccer Conference.

Cross Country: 14th ranked women move on to nationals

Ryan Leonard
Whitworth Sports Editor

Whitworth's cross country teams traveled to Ellensburg on Saturday to compete in the National Association of Intercollegiate Championships.

In team scoring, the women finished in third place in the 5000m., while the men placed seventh in the 8000m.

In individual results, senior Melanie Knox took fifth place in the 5000m., finishing with a time of 18 minutes, 40 seconds. Senior Verin D'Arcey finished the race with a time of 19:44, which was good for 17th place. Kim Houston took 29th place, finishing with a time of 20:22.

Junior Kebra Kendall finished 15th in a time of 20:33, giving her 35th place, and Caryn Wilson was only 1 second behind, tak­ ing 46th place with a time of 20:44.

In the men's individual re­ sults, freshman Brian Lynch led the way for the Pirates, with a victory in the 8000m, placing him the 17th place finish.

Other highlights included Jim Post, who took 43rd place by finishing with a time of 28:27, while Rick Figueira finished 48th, with a time of 30:16, while Paul Emans finished in 30:43 to take 58th.

The final three finishers for Whitworth were Kerry Ward, who took 40th place with a time of 32:03, while Rick Figueira fin­ ished the course just nine sec­ onds behind Ward, completing the course in 32:12 to finish 64th.

Grant Reasoner crossed the Fine finisher by taking 69th place, completing the course with a time of 34:03.

This year's season will con­ clude in two weeks with the NAIA National Championship in Kenosha, Wisc.
Great Escapees invade Whitworth

Rebecca Snelling
Whitworth Staff Writer

All of those younger-looking people running around campus this past weekend were not brand new transfer students. They were Great Escapees. This past weekend was Whitworth's annual preview weekend, the Great Escape.

Andrea Everson, campus visits coordinator, was excited about the prospect of the weekend. Everson was in charge of organizing the entire weekend in which 130 high school juniors and seniors came to preview the Whitworth campus, downtown Spokane, and every other element involved in choosing a college.

The jump from last year's 100 students to this year's 130 is encouraging. Since about 45 percent of those students who attend the Great Escape will ultimately enroll at Whitworth, Everson's job was even more challenging.

Last year, information about the Great Escape was sent to a limited number of prospective students in the west and northwest which included Washington, California, Oregon, Idaho, and Montana. This year, information was sent to every prospective student on Whitworth's mailing list. Students were offered the opportunity to fly from locations in Washington, Oregon, Hawaii, Alaska, California, Colorado, Utah, Idaho, Montana, and Illinois.

The modifications of this year's program were large. Students had the option of flying into Spokane when last year, students had to take the bus. Previously, students had to pay for the trip. This year the students had the opportunity to participate in the "Airfare Tuition Credit Plan." Whitworth will automatically refund the airfare into the student's first year of tuition if the student attends Whitworth.

Everson said the Great Escape is "a weekend program where any prospective student can see everything about Whitworth in one weekend." She said students had the opportunity to attend one class of their choice, a sample Core 150 lecture, and Forum. In addition, they had the opportunity to go downtown to the skyswalk and to Riverfront Park.

Previous Escapees said the opportunity to meet other prospective students was an advantage of the weekend.

Michelle Smith, a freshman, said, "I liked it a lot. More because of the people I met than what I did, but it really felt like I was at home."

Other freshmen had mixed feelings about the Great Escape. Laura McClain, another freshman said, "I felt like being a freshman, but worse." She said she wished she had come on a regular weekend without an organized program, but the Great Escape was a good opportunity to view the school.

Everson's main goal for the Great Escape was to "give students a firsthand look at Whitworth College as a whole." She wanted the Escapees to have a well-rounded picture of the school. She accomplished this by providing a range of activities.

On Saturday, the students arrived between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. They had the option of attending the football game Saturday afternoon, and had optional campus tours throughout the afternoon. After dinner there were "ice-breaker activities," a campus movie and dance. Sunday, the students were invited to attend the church of their choice, travel to downtown Spokane, and attend a student panel. Monday, "Mini-sessions" such as Financial Aid at Whitworth, and Academic Planning and Advising at Whitworth were offered. They were followed by the Core presentation, class visitation, Forum, lunch and departure.

Lily Faklorw, from p. 1.

be a church-related college in the Northwest.

"Over 100 years, some colleges have moved away from their original position," said Migliari. "We take our relationship to the church seriously, but not all, church-related institutions," she said.

Both Migliari and Reid believe that Whitworth is very strong because the college hosts Christian faculty who will work with upholding the mission.

Reid said that church-related institutions come together as a coalition to "build a common goal - shared goals, share experiences, clarify goals and bring back many new ideas."

"In the past, I have tried to build an intellectual base in understanding how Christianity affects our lives," said Migliari. "Now, I also want to explore what role, the heart has in Christianity...how spirituality and intellectual tie it together," he said.

NEWS CLIPS

"Over 108 pro-life were arrested at medical clinics in Chicago because of demonstrating against President-elect Clinton's pro-choice position on abortion. The protesters were members of the group Operation Rescue and College Students for Life. They were charged with mob action and resisting arrest."

"Republican party insiders and political observers said Dan Quayle will charge ahead for the nomination for running for president. Those also expected to run in 1996 are HUD Secretary Jack Kemp, White House Chief of Staff Jim Baker and Texas Sen. Phil Gramm."

"Erwin "Magic" Johnson re- signed from the L.A. Lakers. His return prompted several NBA players to say they felt at risk by playing against someone who has the AIDS virus."

"Robert Jones, 61, who was declared dead by firefighters, was found to be breathing when he reached a funeral home. Firefighters found Jones pulseless and very cold. She was taken to a funeral home where a funeral-home employee purchased a fan to keep the body from becoming too hot while he was unloading Jones' sheet-covered body from a stretcher."

"A student from Austria ran up a $30,000 phone bill making over 10,000 long-distance calls to Harvard students. The Austrian student, who has yet to be identified, began making calls not been charged with the crime, called at random an average of 10 Harvard students a day over the last three years. The student said he had no close friends, no hobbies and nothing else to do."

ASWC NEWS YOU CAN USE

- It was suggested that $99.99 be used from unallocated funds toward a laser printer for the ASWC computer.
- Jim O'Brien addressed the assembly about refurbishing the snack bar dining area. The Marriott corporation will donate up to $1,000 if additional funds can also be raised. He is asking for $1,000 from ASWC.
- College Bowl is coming in December. Watch for it.
- If you are interested in being involved with Springfest, let your dorm presidents know.

GREEKS & CLUBS

RAISE A COOL $1,000 IN JUST ONE WEEK!
PLUS $100 FOR THE MEMBER WHO CALLS IN NO Obligation. No coast. You get a FREE HEADPHONE RADIO just for calling 1- 800-312-0288, Ext. 65

DOMINO'S PIZZA ANOUNCES

MEGA-WEEK

ANY PIZZA, UNLIMITED TOPPINGS $8.99 (PLUS TAX) NOVEMBER 6-15, 1992

CALL NOW! 468-2000

LATE NIGHT SPECIAL
GET A MEDIUM ONE TOPPING PIZZA FOR ONLY $3.99 (PLUS TAX) CALL 468-2000

LATE NIGHT OFFER VALID AT 9329 NORTH DIVISION AFTER 7 P.M. ONLY.
 Whitworth hosts 4th annual Eastern Wash. Jazz Festival

Rebecca Swanland
Whitworthian Staff Writer

The Eastern Washington Music Educators' Association is sponsoring the fourth annual Eastern Washington Jazz Festival this Wednesday, Nov. 18, 1992. Whitworth is hosting an event for a record number of 15 jazz choirs and 24 jazz bands.

EWMEA is an organization of music directors to which most junior and high school music directors belong.

Dr. Dan Kebeler, director of music, said students associate professor of music here at Whitworth is the director of the festival.

Kebeler is excited about the turnout this year. He said this is the largest turnout ever for this very popular festival.

This festival differs from most others in that it is being held early in the school year rather than in the spring. Since this conference is early, it gives the directors an opportunity to hear feedback and new ideas for the rest of the year.

Though most are competitive, this one is not. Kebeler said this is an especially cooperative concept of this festival because the groups are not worried about "Are we going to beat so-and-so this year?"

Each choir and band will be judged by a panel of three judges. The judges will give written and verbal assessment of each ensemble.

Kebeler said "Just as a very complex art form, it requires a very high level of skill." He said the judges will look for a group that can swing well, and one that has good solos and improvisations.

The judges will visit the directors and ensembles on "how to be more authentic to the jazz idiom," said Kebeler.

The site judges, three choirs and three for bands, are all well-respected jazz educators from around the Northwest.

Each group will have a 20- to 30-minute time slot to perform for the judges. The choirs will perform in the recital hall in the music building, and the bands will be performing in Cowles Auditorium. The performance will be from 8:30 a.m. until 6 p.m. with a break for the judges in the afternoon when the Whitworth Jazz Band will perform.

Kebeler said hosting this festival is a good opportunity for Whitworth. Each group has between 20 and 30 students. With almost 40 ensembles attending, there will be over 1,000 high school students from all over Eastern Washington who will see the Whitworth campus, jazz band, poster, and facilities.

Quite a few departments will be affected by the festival's activities. Kebeler said each has been very cooperative and understanding.

The Coos 350 has agreed to move the music recital hall for the festival.

The Theater Arts department, the auditorium and stage crew have also sacrificed. The Stage Crew will be organizing sound and running set-up for the bands in the auditorium. Kebeler said that the crew "does a lot of work and have always done a great job.

The festival is open to the public and there is no admission charge.

Physical Plant pays tribute to veterans; lays wreath near flag

Becky Kilpatrick
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Veterans Day was a day of remembrance and "a time to reflect and honor friends that didn't make it back," said veteran Dan Nevadahl of the Physical Plant.

Nevadahl, along with 27 other veterans, will represent the Physical Plant at a luncheon at Granny's Buffet for Wednesday, Nov. 18. At 11 a.m., a red, white and blue wreath was placed at the base of the flag in front of the auditorium.

Veterans Day is a holiday proclaimed to honor former members of the States armed services and to recall their sacrifices in war and contributions in peace.

Nov. 11 was first proclaimed as Armistice Day in 1919 to commemorate the signing on Nov. 11, 1918, of the armistice that brought an end to World War I. Armistice Day was honored until 1953. In 1954, President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed an act of Congress setting Nov. 11 as a legal holiday.

The event is being held in the Whitworthian Student Union and will represent veterans. The wreath near Physical Plant pays tribute to those who served in war and contributions in peace.

The Physical Plant has a campus-wide celebration, "We call it Veterans Day because people need to remember and honor veterans on the eleventh day of November of each year. A day dedicated to world peace."

"We have a tradition of giving a wreath to the first drop of snow. We honor veterans on the eleventh day of November each year. A day dedicated to world peace."

"We are proud of everyone in the Physical Plant and how our event turned out," said Nevadahl.

Nevadahl gives special credit to Pat Bailey, secretary of the Physical Plant, for tying up the memo and sending them out. He said next year they want to expand the event campus wide.

"Next year we hope to be bigger and better and have a campus wide celebration," he said.

A.S.K. gives career information

Juliana Luaher
Whitworthian Staff Writer

If you have wondered what life is like outside of the daily routine of studying, going to class and eating campus food, talking to alumni may help you get a clearer picture of what life is like after Whitworth.

The A.S.K. program (A.S.K. Career Night) will be honored up until 1953. In 1954, President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed an act of Congress setting Nov. 11 as a legal holiday.

An Alumni Office/Careers Life Advising is co-sponsoring the annual Alumni Sharing Knowledge (A.S.K.) Career Night event. The event will be Nov. 13, at 7 p.m., both upstairs and downstairs at Leavitt Dining Hall.

Stephanie Halton, career counselor and resident director of Warren Hall, said 25 alumni will be available to speak to students. They will sit at designated tables, depending on their field of work.

Students will receive a map when they enter the dining hall and can choose to sit at the various areas represented.

Halton encouraged all students to attend. She said, "It's a really good night for everyone. If you know what you're interested in, come with questions about your field. If you're undecided, come with an open mind and listen. Come and talk to several people and find out what your liberal arts degree will do. She added that four alumni will be sitting at the "no clue" table for students who have no set career plans.

The event is being held in the dining hall to keep it casual but informative. Halton said it's a good opportunity for students, because with busy schedules, it's hard to take extra time to talk about future career plans. Off-campus students will need to purchase their dinner that night.

Director of Career Life/Advising Diane Thomas said, "This is an opportunity for current students to gather information about careers, develop contacts, learn about future trends in their areas of interest, and learn how to approach the job search."

Thomas said the event may also open possibilities for internships, summer positions, part-time work and permanent employment for students.

"Alumni often tell us that they wish they had taken advantage of career oriented programs offered while they were on campus," Thomas said.

"The Alumni will represent the following areas: business, arts, law, banking, insurance, real estate, health care, nursing, social services, communications, and no clue.
OPINIONS

How far does freedom go before abuse begins?

Laura T. Rush
Editorial Board

Have you ever taken a moment to think about where you stand on the freedom issue? The thought may have crossed your mind during the recent debate over Stephen O'Connell's act of tearing up a picture of the Pope on Saturday Night Live.

We allow the freedoms of expression in this country, but should we allow that kind of expression? What implications does this leave for American values if we do allow such expression?

America has always stood for democracy and freedom. How far does this freedom go? At what point does it abuse begin? It seems absurd to some people to be outraged at O'Connell for her actions and not be upset about Ice-T's song, "Cop Killer.

In both cases, we must look at the background before making accusations and complaints.

O'Connell has a right to voice her opinion and to be heard. She probably could have been more tasteful and not caused controversy, but controversy made people hear her message.

Ice-T has a background that accounts for his song, too. Being around cops in the "hood" gave him reason to write a song like "Cop Killer." It may not be what you want, but he has the right to say it.

The music industry is affected by these questions of freedom. Many radio stations wondered which judgment to make, if any at all. In O'Connell's case, some stations pulled her album, while others thought her actions on television were separate from her music and are separate:

Music does not need to be affected by actions of the artist.

O'Connell's new album is a compilation of old songs that are favorites from her childhood.

O'Connell is a great artist who should not be penalized for her stand on an issue. You don't have to agree with her actions to enjoy the music she produces. Her actions and her music are two separate things.

This country is about the freedom to express views and values. This freedom is one of the things that America is unique. We don't always agree with others and their views. We do need to respect them as part of God's creation.

As a close friend of mine would say, "We don't have to condone it, but we can't condemn it either. It's not our place to condemn -- only God's." It's best for us to try to deal with our own lives, rather than judge others. We must be thankful for the freedoms we have.

The Whitworthian Staff

Joanne M. Heim • Editor in Chief
Krisi Veragay • News Editor
Sara Harrell • Features Editor
Ryan Leonard • Sports Editor
Diane Brennan • Photo Editor
Julia Bogdinsel • Advertising Manager
Sue Heart • Circulation Manager
Judy Gaye • Copy Editor
Gordon Johnson • Adviser
Alicia Hoffman, Teen House, Chris Murphy, Jamie Rush, Anna Schwaegergel

Editorial Board

Maryann Brown, Charity Russell, Sarah Totten, Bill Eden, Rebecca James, Alycia Jones, Rochelle Upchurch, Julianne Davis, Jennifer Mielke, Jonathan Parker, Kevin Parker, Rebecca Sinding

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly except during summer and school vacations. Opinions expressed are those of the students, and do not necessarily reflect the views of The Associated Students of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity in admission and employment in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title VII of the Education Amendments of 1972 and Sections 504 and 508 of the Public Health Services Act.

The Whitworthian is not obligated to publish all letters and reserves the right to edit letters.

How far does freedom go before abuse begins?

 Labrador: Moving?

 CRUISE JOBS

MUSICIANS WANTED

Need talented, committed Christian drummers, guitarists (bass, rhythm and lead), keyboardists, and vocalists (male and female) for high school/college evangelical ministry teams. Partial support must be raised. One year minimum commitment. Opportunity for tons of experience, growth musically, and outreach. Contact: ARC MINISTRIES, P.O. Box 181, Allegan, MI 49010. (616) 422-4363.

CRUISE JOBS

Students Needed! Earn $2,000+/month working for cruise ships or tour companies. Holiday, Summer, and Full-Time employment available. For your 92/93 employment program call: Cruise Employment Services (212) 634-0148 Ext. 4698

NOTICE:

Because of Thanksgiving Break, The Whitworthian will not be published again until Tuesday, December 8.

The Whitworthian Staff

Joanne M. Heim • Editor in Chief
Krisi Veragay • News Editor
Sara Harrell • Features Editor
Ryan Leonard • Sports Editor
Diane Brennan • Photo Editor
Julia Bogdinsel • Advertising Manager
Sue Heart • Circulation Manager
Judy Gaye • Copy Editor
Gordon Johnson • Adviser
Alicia Hoffman, Teen House, Chris Murphy, Jamie Rush, Anna Schwaegergel

Editorial Board

Maryann Brown, Charity Russell, Sarah Totten, Bill Eden, Rebecca James, Alycia Jones, Rochelle Upchurch, Julianne Davis, Jennifer Mielke, Jonathan Parker, Kevin Parker, Rebecca Sinding

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly except during summer and school vacations. Opinions expressed are those of the students, and do not necessarily reflect the views of The Associated Students of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity in admission and employment in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title VII of the Education Amendments of 1972 and Sections 504 and 508 of the Public Health Services Act.

The Whitworthian Staff

Joanne M. Heim • Editor in Chief
Krisi Veragay • News Editor
Sara Harrell • Features Editor
Ryan Leonard • Sports Editor
Diane Brennan • Photo Editor
Julia Bogdinsel • Advertising Manager
Sue Heart • Circulation Manager
Judy Gaye • Copy Editor
Gordon Johnson • Adviser
Alicia Hoffman, Teen House, Chris Murphy, Jamie Rush, Anna Schwaegergel

Editorial Board

Maryann Brown, Charity Russell, Sarah Totten, Bill Eden, Rebecca James, Alycia Jones, Rochelle Upchurch, Julianne Davis, Jennifer Mielke, Jonathan Parker, Kevin Parker, Rebecca Sinding

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly except during summer and school vacations. Opinions expressed are those of the students, and do not necessarily reflect the views of The Associated Students of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity in admission and employment in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title VII of the Education Amendments of 1972 and Sections 504 and 508 of the Public Health Services Act.

The Whitworthian Staff

Joanne M. Heim • Editor in Chief
Krisi Veragay • News Editor
Sara Harrell • Features Editor
Ryan Leonard • Sports Editor
Diane Brennan • Photo Editor
Julia Bogdinsel • Advertising Manager
Sue Heart • Circulation Manager
Judy Gaye • Copy Editor
Gordon Johnson • Adviser
Alicia Hoffman, Teen House, Chris Murphy, Jamie Rush, Anna Schwaegergel

Editorial Board

Maryann Brown, Charity Russell, Sarah Totten, Bill Eden, Rebecca James, Alycia Jones, Rochelle Upchurch, Julianne Davis, Jennifer Mielke, Jonathan Parker, Kevin Parker, Rebecca Sinding

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly except during summer and school vacations. Opinions expressed are those of the students, and do not necessarily reflect the views of The Associated Students of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity in admission and employment in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title VII of the Education Amendments of 1972 and Sections 504 and 508 of the Public Health Services Act.

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly except during summer and school vacations. Opinions expressed are those of the students, and do not necessarily reflect the views of The Associated Students of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity in admission and employment in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title VII of the Education Amendments of 1972 and Sections 504 and 508 of the Public Health Services Act.

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly except during summer and school vacations. Opinions expressed are those of the students, and do not necessarily reflect the views of The Associated Students of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity in admission and employment in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title VII of the Education Amendments of 1972 and Sections 504 and 508 of the Public Health Services Act.
Westminster House residents reach out to the neighborhood

Lisa Harrell
Whitworthian Feature Editor

Monica Martens lives in the "Sunshine Room." Her wood-floor is green and the walls are yellow. It was not always that way. When Martens first saw the room, it was bare. The walls were black - the walls, the floor and the ceiling. Martens believes it was used for satanic activities.

Martens lives with four other Whitworth alumni who have similar stories. They call their home the Westminster House. Their neighborhood is the poorest in the state and is nick-named "Satan's Flats."

When the house was first bought, it had boarded-up windows and junk knee-deep covering the floor. After scrapping dirt off walls for months and hauling three tons of junk from the house to the dump, the house is shaping up.

The house, which was once used for evil, now has chalk drawings by neighborhood kids lining the sidewalk. Paige Baker, Mark Mcintosh, Martens, Kristy Parsons and Steve Watts moved into the Westminster House to minister to the people in the neighborhood with the support of the Westminster Presbyterian Church and other local Presbyterian churches.

Dr. Don Liebert, professor of sociology, introduced the Westminster group to Sandy Brockway, the pastor at Westminster Presbyterian. "Sandy got us working with Legion of Christ, which we had not been able to do," explained Parsons.

"Everything just kind of happened. It was too good to be true," explained Parsons.

The group is involved in a lifestyle ministry, explained Watts. "This means we are focused on building relationships with people," he said.

Parsons explained that she and Baker work with 80-90 kids who attend the after school program at the local community center.

"We have a really unique situation," said Parsons, "because we are really a part of their lives. In some respects, like youth group, you spend maybe two hours a week with the kids. But we spend two or three hours a day."

An initial goal of the Westminster group was to be involved in pre-evangelistic programs, explained Parsons. They wanted to be able to meet the neighborhood kids and have them over for dinner or have a craft day at their house in order to know the kids better.

"Now, we don't really need to do that because we do that at the community center," said Parsons. Many of the kids that attend the center live in the neighborhood.

"We bring a lot of those kids to church," she said. "There is a bus that drives through the neighborhood that picks up kids for church and it puts Paige up at the community center. At first we invited a couple of kids and one or two came. But, the week before last, the bus was full - just at the first stop! We had to drop them off at church and then go back and pick up the kids we usually pick up," said Parsons.

"The numbers are getting so large that it's almost too much to handle, expressed the Westminster group.

Steve Watts, Mark Mcintosh, Paige Baker, Monica Martens, and Kristy Parsons form a community which witnesses and attracts children and adults to the Westminster Church.

"We have never been able to really live in the neighborhood that we want to be there all the time. This house is chaos all the time!" said Baker.

Richie Lane, a friend of Watts, said, "They don't just minister to the kids in the community but to each other too. They are allowing God to work through them to reach the community," he said.

Baker said, "There are a lot of people from Whitworth that help. "But we still need more," said Parsons. Martens added, "Without help I don't think we will be able to allow this many kids in the youth group."

It is not just kids that are ministered to by the Westminster group. "We had a homeless family here a couple weeks ago. We have people dropping by all the time. This house is chaos all the time!" said Baker.

Helpful Hint for the Week: Save enough room for lots of pumpkin pie (with whipped cream, of course).
Jazz pianist Gene Harris comes to entertain Whitworth

Jenny Gregory participated in the lesson and described Johannis as being very encouraging. "He just wanted to have a good time," Gregory said.

Steve Johannis, a contemporary funk dance instructor at Class Act, a dance studio in downtown Spokane, was hired to teach the first lesson. Johannis taught the students the "running man" and the "electric slide." He ended the lesson by explaining that combined the two dances.

Johannis described his style of dance as "the kind of dance that you can do anywhere, anywhere, and at the same time, express how you react to the music.""}

Jenny Gregory participated in the lesson and described Johannis as being very encouraging. "He just wanted to have a good time," Gregory said.

Steve Johannis, a contemporary funk dance instructor at Class Act, a dance studio in downtown Spokane, was hired to teach the first lesson. Johannis taught the students the "running man" and the "electric slide." He ended the lesson by explaining that combined the two dances.

Johannis described his style of dance as "the kind of dance that you can do anywhere, anywhere, and at the same time, express how you react to the music."
ARTS

Vegetarianism, an alternative diet

Alycia Jones
Whitworth Staff Writer

In grade school you were taught the importance of nutrition through the five basic food groups. As you grew older, such issues as cholesterol and heart disease re-emerged. People began focusing on the foods they eat because they are concerned with the risk of an unhealthy diet. This concern has materialized into an idea that has existed since the beginning of time: vegetarianism.

Although, historically, the term "vegetarian" has meant different things to different cultures around the world, there are races throughout the world who relied upon a diet of plant foods in order to survive. Dr. Lee Anne Chaney, associate professor of biology, said, "Record would suggest that more people throughout history have been vegetarians if not exclusively so."

In the past, when little awareness of health problems existed, people relied on a vegetarian diet to survive. Very often there was little or no meat to be found.

The reasons for one becoming a vegetarian today are many and varied, ranging from philosophical to health reasons. Perhaps the most common reason is health, the environment and philosophy. It's the relationship of animals and consuming their flesh.

There are two types of vegetarians. A "pure" vegetarian is someone who eats no meat products, and a vegetarian lacto-ovo is a person who eats no meat, but will consume dairy products and eggs. Some people refuse to eat red meat or pork. Although there is no documented research on the eating patterns, many consider it a form of vegetarianism.

Sophomore Meredith Juncker has been a vegetarian lacto-ovo for four and half a year. "I feel like I'm helping the world out by being a vegetarian. For instance, if you took the amount of grain it takes to feed one cow for a year, you could feed a small village," said Juncker.

There are two benefits and risks involved in being a vegetarian. When you remove meat from your diet, you are taking away a vital source of protein and amino acids. There are ways to supplement the diet as a vegetarian. This is especially important for the "pure" vegetarian who cannot eat cheese as a protein source. Consulting Nutritionist Jari Serra of Healthworks Associates said, "I support the whole idea of a vegetarian diet. You can have a perfectly healthy diet, but you have to do it right," said Serra.

Vitamin B12 and the mineral folic acid are two items a vegetarian diet lacks, Chaney said. B12 is generally found in meat and dairy products, and can be provided through a daily vitamin supplement. Iron can be supplied by plants grown near the ocean.

Serra said vegetables, fruit, whole grains, protein and water are essential to the vegetarian diet. "Learn how to add dry beans and peas and raw nuts to your diet. If you add these things and chew your food thoroughly it improves the nutritional quality of the diet," said Serra.

The benefits of a vegetarian diet generally include lower fat content, lower cholesterol content, potential for better dietary intake of vitamins and minerals and an almost guaranteed higher fiber content, said Chaney.

Another benefit of vegetarianism is that many people are more environmentally conscious, said Serra. "There is a vegetarian population that is involved in environmental and animal rights. Some of them are even vegans," said Serra.

Although there are two positive and negative aspects of vegetarianism, it is important to keep the risks in mind when planning your diet. Some people are convinced that being a vegetarian will give them a perfect, healthy diet. "If Whitworth expects each student who lives on campus to buy a meal plan, then they need to ac-

You can have fun and earn credit too!

Write for The Whitworthian next semester. You can write features, news or sports stories, be an interested reader, contribute. Joanie Haim (x270) or Dr. Gordon Jackson (x3740)

Gabe's Real Words

Gabe Taylor
Whitworth Columnist

In the book of Romans, Paul asked himself why he continued to do what he knew he did not want to do. I ask myself this question a few times a day. I do not know if I am just more conscious of what I do not like about my pattern and habits, or if I just don't like what I am doing and how I am acting. Why do I do those things I do not want to do?

Consummation is one of my favorite topics of conversation. There are many times when one of these conversations leads me to believe that my interactions are not as direct as I would like them to be. The other person would probably like it if I were more direct about what I want to say. I find that I do not have to open my mouth as much as I do. The same message could be received with less words and more listening. If only I could speak to be understood, and if only I would listen actively.

How often are we aware of whether or not our message is being understood by the other person? I tend to get so excited about the conversation that I forget how it is being interpreted. What kind of body language am I conveying? How do his feelings come across in the tone of his voice? How can I see the pain behind her words? These questions tend to race through my mind, AFTER the actual interaction. Then I ask myself, why do I do the things I do not want to do? That question, "How are you doing?" is asked many times a year. There, I think about my situation, and then wonder why I did it again. Why do I ask that question without thinking beforehand?

Sometimes I will be in a conversation with someone and their remark will spark a thought in my mind. I will concentrate on that thought so that I will not forget it, while I miss what that person is saying. I want to be sensitive to contribute my point to our conversation that I miss part of the conversation. After the person is finished, I speak my thought. It is as if I have stolen the basketball from my opponent and then driven to the hoop. I have given the other person the chance to speak, then I anticipate the moment when I can jump back in with my words.

Like I said earlier, conversation is one of my favorite topics. I love it when I can have a quality conversation with someone. When I say quality, I mean when these kinds of come across the conversation, feeling like they have both been. Whatever I fail to listen actively and fail to speak and be understood. I create a win-loss situation. I have taken back many animal and even hit my own transmitter. I hope that in this continue to ask "the question," I will be able to change some of my communication patterns.

You can have fun and earn credit too!

ATTRACTION & DISTRACTIONS

On Campus

Tuesday, Nov. 17 - Career Planning. 8:15 a.m., Student Life.
Tuesday, Nov. 17 - Blood Drive, 9 a.m.-6 p.m., HUB.
Tuesday, Nov. 18 - Second Wind Brown Bag Luncheon, Noon, HUB.
Tuesday, Nov. 18 - AIDS Awareness of women and men. 7 p.m., Warren's Lounge.
Wednesday, Nov. 18 - Midweek Worship: Corliss Slack, 11:15 a.m., Seeley Mudd Chapel.
Wednesday, Nov. 18 - "Reproductive and Sexual Wellness in the '90s: Merging Fact, Morality and Desire," 9:45 p.m., Stewart Lounge.
Thursday, Nov. 19 - Effective Job Search, 12:15 p.m., Student Life.
Thursday, Nov. 19 - Interview Techniques, 4 p.m., Dunn Hall, Room 215.
Thursday, Nov. 19 - "Reproductive and Sexual Wellness in the '90s: Merging Fact, Morality and Desire," 9:45 p.m., Arden Lounge.
Friday, Nov. 20 - Forum: Brian Perl brings the movie of the Australian aboriginals, 11:15 a.m., Corliss Mudd Auditorium.
Friday, Nov. 20 - Movie: "Bill and Ted's Excellent Adventure," 8 p.m., Corliss Mudd Auditorium.
Saturday, Nov. 21 - Senior Performance: "The Nix," 2 p.m., Stage II.
Saturday, Nov. 21 - Whitworth Jazz Ensemble with Gene Harris, 8 p.m., Corliss Mudd Auditorium.
Saturday, Nov. 21 - Dance: Thanksgiving Dance-Up, 9 p.m., HUB.
Sunday, Nov. 22 - "Messing with the Trees", 4 p.m., Music Building Recital Hall.
Monday, Nov. 23 - Second Wind Fellowship, Noon, Seeley Mudd Chapel.
Monday, Nov. 23 - "Messing with the Trees", 4 p.m., Music Building Recital Hall.
Monday, Nov. 23 - "Still Killing Me Softly," discusses how advertising portrays women, sex and relationships, 9:30 p.m., Ballard Lounge.
Wednesday, Nov. 25 - Thanksgiving Day break.
Monday, Nov. 30 - Classes begin.

Do you have something to put in Attractions & Distractions?
Send information to The Whitworthian at #4302 by 5 p.m. Friday.
Pirate Football: 1992 season ends with seventh straight loss

Whitworth's football team ended the 1992 season with a 36-22 loss to Western Oregon State College, the team's seventh straight loss.

WOSC scored early and held on for a 21-19 halftime lead. The Wolves balanced offense moved up and down the field, giving the Pirate defense trouble.

WOSC quarterback Bryan Campbell passed for three touchdowns, all in the first two quarters. Blake Tucker added his first of two touchdown plunges in the second half (21-9), only to see the Wolves answer 29-9.

Quarterback Danny Figurita moved the Pirates down the field in a hurry to set up Tucker's second TD plunge, cutting Whitworth's lead to 29-15. The Wolves added one more TD after an interception on the Pirates 30, making it 35-15. The Pirates then came back on a 37-yard pass from Figurita to Tony Doughty, setting it up for Ara Balkian to punch it in from three yards out.

Figurita tried to score once more on the Pirates last gasp drive, launching four throws of 50 yards or more to receivers looking into the darkness of the sky.

The defense was led by Eric Nashub who sacked Campbell for safety and gave the Pirates two more points. Nashub finished with nine tackles and three assists.

Leading the Pirates on offense was Figurita, who completed 23 of 44 passes for 280 yards. Leading rusher for Whitworth was Jeff Meyer, who had 11 carries for 91 yards, followed by Balkian in eight carries for 31 yards. Tucker had seven carries for 12 yards and Figurita rushed seven times for two yards.

The receiving core was led by Clayton Colliton with eight receptions for 100 yards, Jason Tobeck with eight receptions for 91 yards, Tony Doughty with five for 72 yards, Balkian with one for 12 yards and Steve Haug with one for five yards.

Women's Basketball: Season begins with a victory over Alumni

The Whitworth women's basketball team opened the 1992-1993 season with an 81-79 victory over the Alumni on Saturday.

The contest remained close from start to finish with the two teams exchanging baskets most of the way.

Despite the hot hand of Tony Flugel in the early going, the Pirates displayed a strong offensive attack. It provided some clutch baskets and rebounding to grab the locket right hanging around on one point, 39-38 halftime lead.

The Alumni continued to keep things close in the second half with an aggressive defense, but forward Amy Roberts and transfer Sara Chamberlin hit the Pirates scoring attack, keeping the momentum from shifting to the Alumni's favor.

"I think we have some good offensive players, and so we're going to have some high scores," said Roberts. "The night before we scored 90 (in a scrimmage against North Idaho College)."

She added, "The Alumni held the shooting advantage, connecting on 31 out of 67 shots from the floor (46 percent) and hitting 14 of 29 from the free throw line (48 percent). The Pirates hit 34 out of 60 from the floor (56 percent) and 5 for 7 from the free throw line (71 percent)."

But rebounding proved to be the key in the final minutes as Whitworth pulled down 55 boards, compared to 44 for the Alumni.

Roberts and Chamberlin led the Pirates scoring attack with 16 points each, followed by Melly Haff with 13. Chamberlin led the Pirates in rebounding, pulling down 13.

"We're intense," said Chamberlin. "I think we're going to have a good team this year, even though we're real young," she added.

Roberts led the Alumni with 32 points, followed by Beth Knudson with 14 and Lisa Rose with 11. Knudson finished in the leading rebounder for the Alumni, pulling down 14.

The win gave the Pirates a 1-0 to start the season. Whitworth will travel to Chico, Calif., to compete in the Cal-State Chico Tournament, which starts on Friday, Nov. 20 and continues through Sunday, Nov. 22.
Volleyball: Team finishes with a season record of 12-8 and third in the NCIC

Men’s Basketball: Season opens with win; team breaks 100-point mark in opener against Alumni

Pirate Swimming: Wildcats down men and women

Cross Country: Ninth ranked women head to nationals in Wisconsin

SOLAR ECLIPSE
Tanning Salon
911 Country Homes Blvd., Suite A
Spokane, WA 99218
(509) 467-8372
CALL NOW! 300 minutes for $15

GETCHELL’S
Quick expert repair of boots, shoes, heels and other leather goods
Your finest footwear during the winter ball. 20% off for Whitworth students

Northpoint Plaza SAME DAY SHOE REPAIR

Pirate Swimming: Wildcats down men and women

Ryan Leonard
Whitworth Sports Editor

The Whitworthswim team traveled to McKeebany, Ohio, for a meet with the Linfield Wildcats on Saturday, with both teams coming out on top. The men lost by a score of 146-85. Highlights from the men’s race included Matt Snow, who won the 1650 freestyle with a time of 16:42 seconds. Other strong performances included Matt Kiddy, who won the 500 freestyle with a time of 4:50.47, as well as the 200 backstroke, where he finished with a time of 1:37.04.

In turning a season best performance was Steve Schull, who finished the 100 freestyle with a time of 1:06.26. The Wildcats, on the women’s side, lost to Linfield won by a score of 131-23. Highlights included Nancy Blake, who won the 1000 freestyle with a time of 10:50.55, a season best. Blake also won the 400 freestyle, finishing with times of 4:12.02 and 5:19.95, respectively. Other strong performances included Erin White, who won the 100 freestyle in 1:00.48. The Wildcats were outscored in the Lewis-Clark State College Tournament in Friday, November 21 and Saturday, November 22.

Pirate Swimming: Wildcats down men and women

Ryan Leonard
Whitworth Sports Editor

The Whitworthswim team traveled to McKeebany, Ohio, for a meet with the Linfield Wildcats on Saturday, with both teams coming out on top. The men lost by a score of 146-85. Highlights from the men’s race included Matt Snow, who won the 1650 freestyle with a time of 16:42 seconds. Other strong performances included Matt Kiddy, who won the 500 freestyle with a time of 4:50.47, as well as the 200 backstroke, where he finished with a time of 1:37.04.

In turning a season best performance was Steve Schull, who finished the 100 freestyle with a time of 1:06.26. The Wildcats, on the women’s side, lost to Linfield won by a score of 131-23. Highlights included Nancy Blake, who won the 1000 freestyle with a time of 10:50.55, a season best. Blake also won the 400 freestyle, finishing with times of 4:12.02 and 5:19.95, respectively. Other strong performances included Erin White, who won the 100 freestyle in 1:00.48. The Wildcats were outscored in the Lewis-Clark State College Tournament in Friday, November 21 and Saturday, November 22.
President-elect Clinton's proposed programs — what they will mean for college students

John Williams
College Press Service

Twelve years of Republican control of the White House ended in one day as voters decided to risk change with a Democrat rather than stay the course with George Bush.

President-elect Bill Clinton got across the broad support from most groups of Americans such as the youth, Reagan Democrats, suburbanites and dissatisfied Republicans, reversing some trends.

Youth voters who were attracted to Ronald Reagan and George Bush in the 1980s this time turned to the Democratic Party in huge numbers.

"It seems that the students were disturbed enough by what's going on. Stories spread about students who couldn't get their jobs, or graduate students who couldn't get a proper position," said Don Freeman, who teaches political science at the University of Evansville in Indiana. "They were fearful, they were troubled. I saw energy on campuses. They say the drugs and feared their future was in danger."

A clear message was sent that economic and social reforms were in order, and that the status quo was not enough to begin to solve some of the many problems that the nation faces within its borders and throughout the world.

But now what?

"I don't envy Clinton's position at all. The problems the next president of the United States faces are a mess," said Dean Keith Simonton, a professor of psychology at the University of California at Davis.

"At least Clinton has some things going for him. He is willing to listen, and he is optimistic that we can make things better."

Clinton, during the caucuses and sometimes bitter campaign, made several sweeping promises that directly affect college and university students. Those promises include:

* A program for students to pay off college loans either through community service or a payroll deduction plan. The Student G.I. Bill and Domestic Peace Corps plan the Clinton campaign has proposed to increase the availability of student loans.

* Graham Whately, a spokesman with the College Democrats, said the proposed funding is about $7 billion in guaranteed student loans.

* The current funding is approximately $3 billion. "It's going to a very serious loss," he said.

* A strong support for women's right to choose. The Democratic plank that was adopted at the National Convention favors abortion rights. Additionally, a gay rule on counseling patients about abortion likely will be rescinded.

* The Administration of Health and Human Services adopted a rule mandating federally funded family planning clinics from counseling patients about abortion. A federal appeals court ruled Nov. 3 that the rule could not be enforced, and the new administration is considering doing away with it.

* Allowing gays and lesbians to serve in the uniformed services. This would include students enrolled in ROTC courses and the military academies.

* Observers say Clinton will have to prove himself in the first 100 days of his presidency. Congress will be eager to get legislation from Clinton after 12 years of gridlock.

* But Clinton will be hampered by the budget deficit ceiling of $4 trillion and a still-weak economy and will have to be cautious. "He will be hit by limitations of what he can do with the economy and the federal budget. He's going to have to do a lot of political work to solve the economic problems," said Jared Bernstein, a political scientist at George Washington University in Washington D.C. "The most important thing that will happen is that the political makeup in Washington will change."

* Manderson noted that the negative campaigning, especially by Bush and Vice President Dan Quayle, turned off many college students.

* Clinton did not just stand back and take the negatives. He got in Bush's face. I think they (the Republicans) were surprised. Those running the campaign were surprised," he said. "There apparently was a good deal of campus activity weighted toward the Clinton campaign."

* Freeman, at the University of Evansville, said voters clearly told Bush that the last four years did not meet another.'

* The avenging angel was out in the country. This was a retrospective election in the sense that the American people looked back on 12 years and became suspicious that the economic game of the Reagan-Bush years wouldn't work," he said.

Whitworth students find away from home find alternatives to dining alone on Thanksgiving

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworth Staff Writer

Your home is over 20 driving hours away and Thanksgiving is quick approaching. What do you do?

Della Doug of Homer, Alaska is going to Quincy, Wash. to spend Thanksgiving with her grandpar-

* Aleksandar Markovic of Yugoslavia is planning on staying with his host family in Spokane.

* Diane Tombave, director of multicultural affairs, said in prior years the international students have gone to a variety of places.

* Some go home with roommates, friends or the school faculty or staff," she said. Still, there are some students who do not have friends or relatives to go to.

* In the past, the dining hall food service at Whitworth has provided a Thanksgiving dinner to those students who remain on campus during the holiday break. However, because of the small number of students who have remained on campus for Thanksgiving break during the past several years, Marriott Food Service this year is looking at an alternative means of providing food for the day.

* Jim O'Brien, the food service director said. "We are unsure of what the food service will provide for Thanksgiving Day. We're trying to do as many things as we can to meet the needs of our students, but to make sure it is not worth the effort."

* At Whitworth, many students who are members of the military service have given up their traditions of giving to their family at Christmas or Thanksgiving.

* Alumnus John Gudex is a former member of the military service who found the change difficult.

* "It's going to be a very lonely Christmas," he said.

* And for those who are left in town, the Whitworth students have come up with a variety of things to do.

* Jazz pianist Gene Harris will be performing at the award-winning Whitworth College Jazz Ensemble at 8 p.m. on Saturday, Nov. 21.

* The Pizza Pipeline will be open from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.

* Also, the Whitworth Bookstore will be open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m.

* There will be turkey, ham, sweet potatoes, mashed potatoes, peas, salad, and a variety of pies and ice cream.

* Celeste Montana from Oahu, Hawaii, is unsure of her plans as of now. A hurricane is probably going to make our own dinner. I have my rice pot, so I'm set," she said.

* Freshman Mical Johnson is inviting freshens from Baldwin-Jenkins to her home for dinner, if they have no where to go. "I figured it would be nice for the people far from home to have some place to go, so they don't feel lonely," Johnson said.

Don't go any further for the best deal in town.

Pizza Pipeline
WHITWORTH HOTLINE 466-8080
Any 16" One Item Pizza
Only $5.75
Plus Two 22oz. Soft Drinks
GOTTA HAVE IT
Whitworth’s current birth control policy being questioned

Julane Lussier
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Currently at Whitworth, female students can get a prescription for birth control pills on campus, but the prescription must be filled off campus. This policy may soon change as the college is examining whether or not to offer birth control pills to students who are married or who need the pill for medical reasons, said Vice President for Student Life Dr. Kathy Storm.

Apparently, the health center dispensed all types of birth control, but a previous president opposed the policy. After this opposition, the current policy resembles those of other colleges around the northwest. The current policy will be examined by the Student Life Committee, Student Life Administration Group and the Cabinet for a final decision.

Coordinator of Student Health Services Jan Murray said the cost for birth control pills at a pharmacy is $15-20 per month. Condoms are now available in the health center for disease protection purposes.

At Gonzaga University, no contraceptives of any kind are available to students through the health center. This policy is in conjunction with the Jesuit tradition and the philosophy of the institution as a Roman Catholic school.

Birth control counseling is available at Pacific Lutheran University in Tacoma, but students must go off campus to fill their birth control pill prescriptions. Condoms are available in the restrooms of the health center.

At the University of Puget Sound, female students can get started on the pill free, but after one or two months, they must get their prescription filled at a pharmacy. Free condoms are available in a basket at the health center.

Receptionist Louise Perez said, “Students don’t ask and we don’t look.” Perez also said many dorms have taken it upon themselves to distribute condoms in association with the AIDS Foundation for Disease Prevention.

At Whitman College, a non-denominational college in Walla Walla, birth control consultation and follow-up is available. Students can order pills through the health center, but prescriptions must be filled off campus for $18.50-$23.75.

Washington State University, University of Idaho and Eastern Washington University have all types of contraceptives available to students. At WSU and UI, condoms are free, and birth control pills cost $1.25 and $3 per cycle respectively. EWU students must fill their prescriptions at a pharmacy.

It is hoped that birth control, oral contraceptives are used for different purposes. In recent magazine, Dr. Paula Adams-Hillard, associate professor of obstetrics and gynecology at the University of Cincinnati Medical Center said, “…many women experience lighter menstrual periods with less pain and cramping, and regular cycles.” She also said, “Women who are considering oral contraceptives should talk to the facts from a reliable medical source — a gynecologist, family doctor, or family-planning nurse practitioner.”

Forensics takes 1st, 3rd, and 4th in competitions

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Whitworth’s Forensics team has won its first tournament this year. The team traveled because there was not a lot of rain the day they left.

On Nov. 6-8, the team traveled to Powell, Wyoming, where they participated in The Yellowstone Swing, which consisted of two separate tournaments against different colleges and universities in one weekend.

The first tournament was hosted by Northwest College. Of 15 schools, Whitworth placed fourth, with seven students receiving individual awards in several categories. Julie Underwood earned a first place award in communication analysis.

The following day the team took first place honors out of ten teams in the tournament hosted by Carroll College. Once again Julie Underwood earned first in communication analysis as well as placing in two other categories. Eric Hurst and Cindy Kohlmann also placed in several areas as well.

“I’m really pleased with the awards individually and the team won,” said Mike Ingram, Forensics team advisor. “It shows that we have a really strong team,” he said.

The following weekend the team took third place out of 25 teams at the Linfield College Forensics Tournament in McMinnville, Ore. A total of 13 awards were earned by 12 team members who attended the competition. Ingram said this was the most final round of participants in Whitworth Forensics history.

Kym Carmichael distinguished herself by earning two first place titles.

Ingram said the back-to-back traveling was difficult on the team, but this was not the least of their problems. "I’m very pleased with the students work and how well they competed," he said. "I believe that the philosophy of the school’s doesn’t matter in these sorts of competitions. About 60 schools, we are much larger schools, like Oregon State University, University of Oregon, and Western Washington, as well as some smaller competitive teams at Pacific Lutheran and Whitman," he said.

Junior Rosanne Ramos, who is involved in forensics for the first time this year, has found the Forensics team to be a lot different than she expected. "People on the team take this very seriously. I joined for something fun to do, but I have found that in order to do a good job you need to be focused," she said.

Ramos took both a third and a fourth place in the novice division at Linfield. "Forensics is very helpful for everyday life," she said. "Written and oral skills are some of the most important skills that you need to get out of college," Ramos said.

Senior Paul Spencer, a speech communication major, has been on the team for three seasons. He

Please see Forensics p. 4

IN Inside this issue

 sex survey results  page 3
 whitworth choir preforms page 4 gays and lesbians in rotc page 5 faculty’s fondest memories page 6 movie review — home alone page 8 gabe’s real words page 9
 men’s basketball page 10
 workaholism and stress page 12
U.N. intervention ensures the success of humanitarian aid

Anna Schenewerk
Editorial Board

Last week, the United Nations approved a plan allowing the U.S. to lead a multinational military force into Somalia. The force will secure the transport and distribution of food to the Somali people facing a deadly famine as well as to refugees in neighboring countries.

The U.N. intervention is the only option left in the attempt to alleviate Somalia's primary food crisis. All other proposals have failed to provide support for the relief operations being hampered by heavily armed clan militias and roving warlords, in the desert. The U.N. plan must be implemented immediately if Somalia is to avoid a humanitarian disaster.

Somalia is unable to ensure effective distribution of humanitarian aid because it has no real government structure or ability to mobilize for such an operation. The civil war has left no room for social responsibility. Numerous relief convoys have been hijacked and the relief workers killed in the inner-city warfare extends withholding emergency food supplies from rival clans.

The situation has so deteriorated that no food is arriving at the refugee camps or the emergency feeding centers. Numerous relief workers are killed while trying to provide humanitarian assistance to the suffering people.

An aerial U.N. plan to deploy a 5,000-member "robust" security force to escort food convoys throughout Somalia was no match for the uncontrolled armies of teenage boys and young adults bearing AK-47s. They also had a desperate need to feed themselves and their families.

An attempted cease-fire and mediation talks held last July were not successful because the unbridled tribal warfare is out of reach with the power rivalry among clan warlords in Mogadishu. Attempts to reach peace have not worked because 80 percent of Somalia's population is nomadic-economic and political pressure would take a long time to reach them.

A strong U.N. intervention is a last-ditch effort to set the stage for and end to the civil war and, long in the future, a resolution of the underlying ethnic conflict in Somalia. Food is a prerequisite to the ending of tensions and a cease-fire. Food and reconciliation go hand-in-hand. Unfortunately, the magnitude of starvation and violence, and the colossal amounts of weapons, can only be addressed by a military presence. We hope "presence" rather than "action" will continue to prevail.

Yes, the United States is leading this force. But we do have the resources. Why should we wait until we could be contributing to a humanitarian effort for once? It is selfish not to remain isolated from this disaster. The provision of food is a task worthy of our involvement.

We cannot wait any longer to make the relief operation effective. Out of Somalia's eight million citizens, two million face an immediate threat of starvation; over a million have sought refuge in Somalia's border countries. Several hundred thousand have already died from the effects of starvation and civil violence in the last two years; and approximately two thousand are dying every day. The country currently has a negative population growth rate - more people are dying than are being born - and the political and economic structures have completely collapsed. Somalia is a case study in anarchy and has been appropriately termed "hell on earth."

The television footage of misery, death, and unbelievable suffering is real, folks. We cannot let this continue. At this time, the only hope is a U.N. force which utilizes the resources of every concerned country - even the U.S. Those who do not think the world should protect food aid and ensure its safe delivery to a starving people should look at the television pictures again - and think realistically about the meaning of humanitarianism.

DO YOU HAVE AN OPINION?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR must be signed and submitted to The Whitworthian by 5 p.m. Friday. No anonymous letters will be published. A phone number must be included for author verification. The Whitworthian is not obligated to publish all letters and reserves the right to edit letters.
Students must represent Whitworth professionally for success of self, college.

Dear Editor,
I was recently flown to Seattle for a second interview with a successful accounting firm, Dawson & Gerbic. One of Whitworth’s 1992 graduates, Sonya Jansen, is currently employed by this firm. During the course of the day, I ate lunch with the staff, and was encouraged to ask as many questions as possible. They were very gracious to me for the quality of work that Sonya interviews. After much discussion with the secretary, she left a message asking why he wasn’t granted an interview. After much discussion with Sonya, I’ll tell you no lies...
Choir performs Christmas Festival Concert ‘Let the People Praise Thee’

Becky Kilpatrick
Whitworthian Staff Writer

“The Whitworth Choir sang its way to Seattle and Tacoma on Dec. 5 and 6 for an annual Christmas Festival Concert: ‘Let The People Praise Thee’ will be presented in Spokane on Dec. 11 and 12. The concert features choral, organ, handbell and a harp.” Professor of Music and Director of Choral Activities, Dr. Randi Von Ellisen said the concert follows a pattern of staging scripture in-between music. Ellisen has been with Whitworth for nine years and is festival director.

“The concert will be very strong,” he said, “because they are very prepared.”

The Spokane concerts are scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday, Dec. 11, and at 4 p.m. and 8 p.m. on Saturday, Dec. 12, at St. John’s Cathedral located on Grand Boulevard at 12th Avenue. Tickets cost $5 and can be purchased in the music office. If the music offices sell out, which Ellisen said is likely, tickets are available through G & B Select-a-Seat, 325-SEAT.

The concert is a very rewarding experience and does much more than just entertain according to Ward. It is a beautiful way to get into the Christmas season for what it really means,” said Ward. “Not like a shopping trip,” he said.

Winter ball to bring back past traditions
Rebecca Snelling
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Picture this: you’re dressed in your best semi-formal attire, swaying to the music of Kenny G beneath a brilliantly lit disco ball. Sound tempting? This can be you if you choose to attend this year’s first formal dance, the Winter Ball. This year’s winter formal will be held on Dec. 12 from 9:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Masonic Temple.

The winter ball theme is meant to evoke feelings of a traditional Christmas. The theme is to be an old-fashioned ball, said Devon Singh, cultural and special events coordinator. Singh is in charge of facilitating all the necessary arrangements for the dance.

The dance will be held in the ballroom at the temple. Singh said the room is beautiful, adorned with a hardwood floor and all of the traditional ballroom decor. The room will be further decorated with trees and wreaths and other Christmas decorations.

This year’s winter formal dance andheld so early in the school year, that it was decided to postpone the first formal dance until the winter. The purpose was so that students would have more time to build relationships,” said Singh.

She said this way students should feel more comfortable with the groups with whom they attend.

The committee, which has met once a week since before Thanksgiving, also thought a winter formal would be a good way to bring back the traditions of past years. This is the first time we have had a winter formal in 15 or 16 years,” said Singh.

The week’s Christmas festival activities will coincide with the Winter Ball at the end of the week. The week’s activities will include skiing, ice-skating, cookie-making, various barbecues, Whitworth Choir Christmas concerts at St. John’s Cathedral, and a Christmas dinner on Thursday evening. The campus coordinators facilitated the arrangements for these activities.

The format is expected to be fun for all who attend. There will be a wide variety of music types for dancing. The music will be provided by Sound Express and photography will be provided by Supershots. There will also be drinks and appetizers served.

Singh said everyone should go because it be a bond between group of friends because they will have a great time.

Singh said the dance “should be a very elegant and beautiful affair. Everyone should go. It will be a hit and a holler.”

Winterfest displays art

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworthian Staff Writer

A variety of hand-crafted items made by Whitworth students, faculty, staff, and alumni will be on sale at the UFR from Dec. 11 from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., for Winterfest 92.

Winterfest was started once again last year after being dormant for many years. Senior art major helped organize the event as part of their senior seminar class.

Rochelle Forbo, who is now a counselor in the Financial Aid Office, was one of the student coordinators involved in Winterfest last year. “The feedback we received was very favorable,” she said. “Not only were students surprised at the money they were able to make, but the Art department felt it was a good exposure and a beneficial experience for students in the Winterfest displays art

For news, information and advertising call (509) 966-1421

Let us pack and ship your holiday gifts.

(Unless you have a better way)
President-elect Clinton may allow gays, lesbians in ROTC programs

Joe Steffan, a law student at the University of Connecticut, was a senior at the U.S. Naval Academy when he was dismissed. In the fall of his senior year, Steffan told two friends in the cadet corps that he was gay. In March, 1987 an investigation was launched by academy officials. When confronted, Steffan told them he was gay. He was dismissed and eventually sued for repayment of ROTC scholarship money. The case is on open appeal, but if the policy is rescinded, the suit is moot, he said.

One of the most important things I've learned is to question not only my assumptions and attitudes but policies of our country and society," Steffan said. "I've assumed the system was fair, but my own experience woke me up to the reality of discrimination.

Any 16" Thick Crust One Item Pizza
Only $6.95
Plus Two 22oz. Soft Drinks.

Any 12" Two Item Pizza
Only $4.95
Plus Two 22oz. Soft Drink.

WHITWORTH HOTLINE
466-8080

Any 14" Two Item Pizza
Only $5.95
Plus One 22oz. Soft Drink.

Just mention the Whitworth Paper for these great savings.

Pizza Pipeline
Don't go any further for the best deal in town.

These Specials are all good through Finals Week!!!
Whitworth students celebrate Christmas in various ways

Carley Burril
Whitworth Staff Writer

Everyone has different and unique traditions that mean Christ· mas for them. They may include visiting Santa Claus in the mall, decorating the Christmas tree, drinking eggnog by the fireplace and singing Christmas carols or even cross-country skiing.
Whitworth students incorporate some of these traditions, plus add more original family traditions to celebrate in a variety of ways.

"Santa Claus still comes to our house," said Sarah Brooks, a freshman from Oregon. "Dickens said she and her brother, Adam, still continue to keep the tradition of Santa Claus alive in their family. "We leave our hot chocolate and carrot on Christmas Eve for Santa and the reindeer. On Christmas morning, the hot chocolate is always half gone and the carrot can't have been gnawed," Brooks said. "My mom is always sure to leave my paw prints taped to the fireplace."

Galee Mitchell, a freshman from Hawaii, said "when we were kids, one of our uncles dressed up as Santa. He would hand out gifts to all of the kids," she said.

Though Santa Claus is a popular Christmas tradition of course, many families have chosen not to include this character in their traditions.

"We never really believed in Santa," said Delia Craig, a freshman from Alaska.

Monie Haun, a sophomore from New York, never had Santa Claus as a tradition in her family either. "We were always taught that Christmas was to celebrate the birth of Christ. We still give gifts, but the gifts were solely to express our love for each other," said Haun.

Santa Claus is not a tradition at all for Tabitha Munro, a freshman from Kenya. "Christmas is mainly a family celebration," she said. "It is a time when many families get together. We go to church on Christmas day and go home and eat."

Unlike the tradition of Santa Claus that has remained mostly in America, some Christmas traditions have spread to other countries.
From plastics, to metal, to India where her parents moved during her childhood, Amy Madsen, a junior fromJoy Young, a junior from from Kenya, Burrell Interim President, took one of his family traditions of Christmas to Washington. "We have a homemade Firebird car hood toboggan sled, as so we all go tobogganing."

Unfortunately, many International students will not be able to be with their families during the Christmas season. Dirajlal, who has never really believed in Santa Claus, said he will be spending Christmas on his own. "It is very hard to get home for Christmas," he said.

"It's always a pine tree in Thailand," said Sree Cherukuri. "One year, my father made our family a Christmas tree out of metal pipes. Each year we decorate it," Munro said. "In Kenya, we cut branches from pine trees and decorate them for our homes or for our church."

For most Americans families, Christmas would not be the same without its own special traditions. One of the Christmas traditions fresh
Grosvenor's son was a musician! celebrate Christmas, "I remember waking up around 2 a.m. and coming down stairs all sleepy to feed the carolers that would come by and call," she said.

A tradition when Theatre Arts Professor of sociology Dr. Don Grosvenor was a recipient of Whitworth's branch of the Salvation Army, said that at Whitworth students often have parties and dinner while their three kids were younger.
"We have a homemade Firebird car hood toboggan sled, so we all go tobogganing."

"Nothing more enjoyable than sitting around Christmas morning reading the gospel and the story of Jesus' birth with your family," said Don Liebert

"It was a great time to share with my kids," said Eaton.
We have all at one time or another been a part of Whitworth's Mystery play. It is an all-ages production that every year will give a present to a faculty or staff person that they think deserves one.
"This year, art professor Spike Covens was a recipient of a gift from the Mystery Man. Camer's son is a musician and set designer for the show. "There is nothing more enjoyable than sitting around Christmas morning reading the gospel and the story of Jesus' birth with your family. It is a tradition in our house that we love."

"My wife and I had just finished an Open House for family and friends and the doorbell rang. On Christmas morning, we are a friend of our town. He said he had a present for us. He wrapped it in the newspaper and there was our dog. The Mummy Man flew into our house, for Christmas," explained Whitworth's Interim President, Dr. Philip Eaton.

"There is nothing more enjoyable than sitting around Christmas morning reading the gospel and the story of Jesus' birth with your family," said Don Liebert. "We were having a special breakfast and there was our dog. The Mummy Man flew into our house, for Christmas," explained Whitworth's Interim President, Dr. Philip Eaton.

"My wife and I had just finished an Open House for family and friends and the doorbell rang. On Christmas morning, we are a friend of our town. He said he had a present for us. He wrapped it in the newspaper and there was our dog. The Mummy Man flew into our house, for Christmas," explained Whitworth's Interim President, Dr. Philip Eaton.

"Nothing more enjoyable than sitting around Christmas morning reading the gospel and the story of Jesus' birth with your family," said Don Liebert.

"My wife and I had just finished an Open House for family and friends and the doorbell rang. On Christmas morning, we are a friend of our town. He said he had a present for us. He wrapped it in the newspaper and there was our dog. The Mummy Man flew into our house, for Christmas," explained Whitworth's Interim President, Dr. Philip Eaton.

"Nothing more enjoyable than sitting around Christmas morning reading the gospel and the story of Jesus' birth with your family," said Don Liebert. "We were having a special breakfast and there was our dog. The Mummy Man flew into our house, for Christmas," explained Whitworth's Interim President, Dr. Philip Eaton.

"My wife and I had just finished an Open House for family and friends and the doorbell rang. On Christmas morning, we are a friend of our town. He said he had a present for us. He wrapped it in the newspaper and there was our dog. The Mummy Man flew into our house, for Christmas," explained Whitworth's Interim President, Dr. Philip Eaton.
Unrealistic expectations may cause tension for students heading home for the holidays

John Williams

In terms of holiday expectations, families can go from "joy to the world" to "Twas the Night Before Christmas." Christmas is a time of great expectation and excitement for many people. But like most things in life, a bit of reality is necessary.

The holiday period from Thanksgiving to New Year's Day is full of unrealistic expectations that college students and their families can face. To help navigate these expectations, some tips have been compiled to help make holiday travel more stress-free for everyone.

Tips to help make holiday driving safe and stress-free for students

Alicia Jones

Christmas break is approaching, and for many college students that includes planning a trip home. Although it is a time of anticipation and excitement for many people, it is also a time of significant change for families and friends.

Before leaving on a trip, it is important to go over your car completely. Make sure you have your maps labeled and easily accessible. It is also important to call ahead to check the weather conditions of the roadways you plan to travel. The first thing you should do is set aside some time to talk with your family and friends. The holiday period is a time of great expectation and excitement for many people. But like most things in life, a bit of reality is necessary.

Another important driving safety tip is to remain alert and conscious of what is happening at all times. Give yourself plenty of time and distance between cars. Use the rear view mirror and turn signals, so your driver doesn't feel like you aren't paying attention.

Wearing a seatbelt is the law. If you are pulled over by a police officer in Washington, it is a $47 fine for not wearing a seatbelt. On the road, the driver needs to be alert and conscious of what is happening at all times. Give yourself plenty of time and distance between cars. Use the rear view mirror and turn signals, so your driver doesn't feel like you aren't paying attention.

The month of December is full of events and activities. Students often find themselves spending time with friends and family, and it can be difficult. It's important to remember to take care of yourself during this time.

Finally, the best realistic expectation is to have no expectations.

Counselors give the following tips to make the holiday season easier when going home after being in college:

- Stress communications

- If your parents are divorced, try to divide time between them.

- Set aside time to talk with your family and friends that it has to be done.

- Set some time aside just for yourself.

- Finally, the best realistic expectation is to have no expectations.

Meet the Whittworthians

Saturday, December 12, 1992
9:30 PM to 1:00 AM
At The Masonic Temple
$15 per couple, $8 per single Drinks and Appetizers Provided
Music provided by Wind Express Photographs by Derek Young
Tickets on sale in Marriott at dinner, in the ASCW office until 10:00 PM each night, or at the door.

See You There!
Movie Review:
Home Alone 2 equals déjà vu

It's that time of year again. Little kids dream of the new toys out on the market. Christmas lights are strung out on anything that doesn't move and movie makers hurry people to the theaters with flashy commercials advertising "The Movie of the Year." Yep, it's Christmas! By using lots of color and action, movie makers hope to draw people out of their warm homes to cold, dark movie theaters to watch billion dollar movies and have their shoes permanently bonded to the floor by who knows what.

Don't be fooled by the commercials! They advertise a great flick, but really you pay $6 to see a flop. Example? "Home Alone 2." Last year John Hughes brought us a touching comedy about a little boy (Macaulay Culkin) who is left at home while the family is in Paris. He learns about love, the meaning of Christmas and first degree burglary. If you've seen "Home Alone," you've seen "Home Alone 2."

In the sequel, Kevin McAllister (Culkin) accidentally boards the wrong plane and ends up in New York City with his father's credit cards and cash. What do he do? He has the greatest adventure of his life. McAllister goes sightseeing, makes reservations at The Plaza Hotel (while running up a $967.43 room service tab), and catches the bad guys — again.

Police chief Columbo (Donald Trump) was the original "Home Alone," but he got realistically take. Third, how could an eleven-year-old boy use cards and proceed to torture the that kid — someone else? — and make hotel reservations, while running up a $967.43 room service tab, and catches the bad guys — again.

A police chief, Columbo (Donald Trump) was the original "Home Alone," and he got "the greatest adventure of his life. McAllister goes sightseeing, makes reservations at The Plaza Hotel (while running up a $967.43 room service tab), which is in New York City and they decide to get rid of him, but they decide to rob a toy store first. McAllister, through his client plan called "Operation HO HO HO," stops the robbery and proceeds to the hotel rooms to get the bad guys through a lock-off-trapped house. Does this sound familiar?

Director Chris Columbus had planned a billion dollar sequel, but all he got was the original "Home Alone." It was uninteresting and silly. First, how could Miss McAllister (Catherine O'Hara) love her son so much? Most moms would have watched this kid fiddle, especially in a major airport during the Christmas season. Second, Mac and Harry took too long, belongings, slip, slide, leap, burn, punch, cut, and explosions then anyone could realistically take. Third, how could an eleven-year-old boy use his father's credit card to make hotel reservations at The Plaza Hotel? The only reason anyone should see this movie is for Alfred Hitchcock's "The Birds." parody, "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" songs, and Rob Schneider's, from Saturday Night Live, as part of the hotel staff! And Donald Trump. Curry and Schneider make convincing fools and use the famous and realistic characters in this movie besides himself, Trump who plays himself. Trump had one line in which he gives McAllister directions to the lobby of the Plaza.

"You have the rest of your life to live on your own. If you move off now you never have the chance to live this way again."

Sheldon Makani

To dwell on campus or off, that is the students' question

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworth Staff Writer

Situation one: You have your own bathroom and complete privacy. You also have the option to be as loud as you want past quiet hours, or have complete quiet without having to venture to the farthest corners of the library. However, rent is expensive, it takes 15 minutes to warm up your car in the mornings, and there is never anything in the refrigerator.

Situation two: You have to pay only once, without a first and last month rent. A constant companion is never hard to find and there is always plenty to do. There are no electricity bills, and no furniture is needed to move in. But you would really love to live on your own and not have to whisper in the hall.

Third, how could an eleven-year-old boy use cards and proceed to torture the that kid — someone else? — and make hotel reservations, while running up a $967.43 room service tab, and catches the bad guys — again.

"You have the rest of your life to live on your own. If you move off now you never have the chance to live this way again."

Sheldon Makani

I have the advantages of my own privacy, it's a lot more quiet, and I'm able to choose my own diet, enabling me to eat what I want when I want," Miller said.

Ryan Frey, who shares the house with Miller and another roommate, found it difficult locating a house that was both affordable and near the campus.

Frey said, "There were a couple of others before this one that I tried getting but it didn't work out. My biggest difficulty was getting my roommates' applications in and approved before someone else scored it."

However, not everyone experiences difficulty finding a rental. James Klassen, a transfer student from North Idaho College, began looking in places in June and found an apartment pretty quickly. He decided upon Northwood Terrace for the price, location and availability of the manager. "Actually, I think I was very fortunate not to experience any problems," Klassen said.

Nevertheless, Northwood Terrace Manager Daryn Glenn said that there are always apartments available. Currently there are four apartments, but according to Glenn there are always at least two. However, rent did increase on an average of $25 two months ago. Single bedroom apartments now range from $425 - $375, while two bedroom apartments go for $400. "We never have any problems with college students, they always try to make rent, but they often aren't able to pay their rent," commented Glenn.

"Circumstances occur to many students that make them re-evaluate their living situation. It is then harder than they can handle," said Jane Nielson, a departmental secretary involved in information referrals. "Rent increases, roommates don't work out and money gets scarce. We want students who know that we welcome them back at anytime. We just generally think that they do better here," she said.

Whether it is rising rent costs, a more competitive rental market or simply an interest in living on campus, Whitworth is seeing its first increase in total on-campus student enrollment since 1989. As of the tenth day of school, the last time an official count was calculated, there were 45 more students on campus this year than last year. Although it is less convenient sometimes, we have the rest of your life to live on your own. If you move off now you never have the chance to live this way again."
FEATURES

Gabe's Real Words

Gabe Taylor. Whitworthian Columnist

With Christmas approaching, I am starting to feel the burden of gift-giving. I would like to buy gifts for so many people. I could quickly wipe out my finances for next semester. This burden is a reality. Whether it be family or friends, we want to give loved ones a gift. In my own life, I struggle with the manifestations of this gift-giving tradition. When my mind fails to come up with a creative option, I feel stuck. How can I convey my intentions without putting a price tag on it?

I am always seeking balance in my life. I feel like I'm caught in the way of balance. I like to take into account my whole life when I am thinking on one aspect of my life. Making connections helps me to complete the big picture of life. This allows me to encompass the whole person and not just one aspect of the person. All of life and not just one aspect of life.

I think Christmas is canceled. This wonderful season that celebrates Christ happens once a year—just once. I want to shout that. I think I have placed Christ in a category, causing an inclination in my faith that is an inclination in my person. I want Christ to be celebrated on March 14 too, and Sept. 1—everyday of the year. This profoundly hits me.

I looked at my life and looked at what I value. Life to me is relationships. Then looked at the core of the Christmas story. Christ. God lived among us. He gave us His Son. Some late evening in Bethlehem, Mary gave birth to baby boy. That simple act was God's Christmas gift to me, and you. But it does not end there. Out of 365 days, Christ shows up one time to hand his gifts to us.

What about the other 364? There has to be more to this gift. This was the profoundly hit. God gave us a gift that we could RECEIVE everyday of the year—everyday of our life. God's gift is not on the gift-giving, but the gift-receiving. He chose person for me. A person for me to live in a relationship with throughout my life.

This Christmas I want to give you a gift. That gift is me. I am quick to tell you that I am not the perfect one. Do you have someone that you can relate to? But my struggles can be redeemed. Life is much more to me. Beyond my identity in books, clubs and people, I have witnessed a person who, in all of his/her perfect, can be loved just as me. I have a lot to offer you. I think that you have a lot to offer me. There are many relationships I can engage my life and have picked you.

Please receive my gift to you this Christmas; the gift of relationship. God wants us to receive his gift of Christ. I would like you to receive me. I am like to receive you. This gift has no price tag.

The emphasis is not back on receiving, and gift-giving is not a burden. Life has been balanced for me again.

I hope to see the wonderful season of Christmas in full swing in March and September. Have an all-season Christmas!
Men's Basketball: New defensive style grants victory

Despite a sluggish start, the Pirates beat Seattle University with a new defense style.

The Pirates had a slow start against SU which allowed Seattle to use their tall front line for easy inside points. The Pirates did not shoot well from the field which allowed SU to go up seven points at half time.

Head Coach Warren Friedrichs and his staff implemented a new style of defense into the team. The Pirates now use an aggressive pressing style defense that forces their opponents to turn the ball over. This new style of defense counts on all players to step up and play hard.

Friedrichs credits this great defense for the second half victory. The Pirates' tough defense did not allow SU to score in the last three minutes of the game. Technical fouls for SU also played a large role in the outcome which allowed Whitworth to send Jason Hull to the line and help win the game for the Pirates.

Other key players in the game were Chad McGuire, junior, and Nate Dunham, freshman. Red-shirt freshman John Beckman was activated for the remainder of the year. Beckman, who stands 6'7", was needed by the Pirates in front court attack and to assist Dave Hollingsworth in rebounding.

The Pirates went across town to play against Seattle Pacific University on Friday. The Pirates began a balanced attack of dumping the ball inside the paint and then kicking it back out for three point attempts. The Pirates also started with the pressing defense, but found it was not effective against SPU's taller team. Whitworth stayed close through the first half and was down three points at half time.

The pressing defense was called off in the second half to stop the fast break opportunities for SPU. But SPU ran off with the close victory of 71-69.

Top scorers for Whitworth were Jason Hull with 14 points, Nate Dunham with 13 points, John Graham with 16 points, Chad McGuire with nine points, and Jason Gillam with eight points.

The Pirates' next opponents will be Eastern Oregon State College and Central Washington University at 7 p.m.

Kevin Parker
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Despite a sluggish start, the Pirates beat Seattle University with a new defense style.

The Whitworth men's basketball team to Seattle to play Seattle University on Thursday and Seattle Pacific University on Friday.

The Pirates had a slow start against SU which allowed Seattle to use their tall front line for easy inside points. The Pirates did not shoot well from the field which allowed SU to go up seven points at half time.

Head Coach Warren Friedrichs and his staff implemented a new style of defense into the team. The Pirates now use an aggressive pressing style defense that forces their opponents to turn the ball over. This new style of defense counts on all players to step up and play hard.

Friedrichs credits this great defense for the second half victory. The Pirates' tough defense did not allow SU to score in the last three minutes of the game. Technical fouls for SU also played a large role in the outcome which allowed Whitworth to send Jason Hull to the line and help win the game for the Pirates.

Other key players in the game were Chad McGuire, junior, and Nate Dunham, freshman. Red-shirt freshman John Beckman was activated for the remainder of the year. Beckman, who stands 6'7", was needed by the Pirates in front court attack and to assist Dave Hollingsworth in rebounding. The Pirates went across town to play against Seattle Pacific University on Friday. The Pirates began a balanced attack of dumping the ball inside the paint and then kicking it back out for three point attempts. The Pirates also started with the pressing defense, but found it was not effective against SPU's taller team. Whitworth stayed close through the first half and was down three points at half time.

The pressing defense was called off in the second half to stop the fast break opportunities for SPU. But SPU ran off with the close victory of 71-69.

Top scorers for Whitworth were Jason Hull with 14 points, Nate Dunham with 13 points, John Graham with 16 points, Chad McGuire with nine points, and Jason Gillam with eight points. The Pirates' next opponents will be Eastern Oregon State College and Central Washington University at 7 p.m.
Women's Basketball: Team plays in California, beats Sonoma State

Kevin Parker
Whitworthian Staff Writer

The Pirates traveled to Chico, Calif., to take part in an eight team tournament hosted by California State University at Chico, better known as Chico State.

Whitworth played against Chico State for the first game. The Pirates played hard against Chico in the first half, which ended with Whitworth down by eight points.

The Pirates' confidence grew in the second half when they out scored Chico. Down three with 30 seconds to go, the Pirates needed to foul to get the ball back. But Chico scored key free throw points to win the game, 69-62.

"This was our first game of the season and there were a few butterflies," said Head Coach Lisa Orlind.

The second game matched Whitworth with district opponent Lewis-Clark State College, NAIA Division 1 with an 8-1 record.

LCSC handled the game from the start with scoring and rebounding from their All-American ForwardCenter.

LCSC ended the first half up nine. Whitworth pulled within four twice in the second half but could get no closer and fell 74-61.

The Pirates took on Sonoma State University on Sunday. The Pirates played tough, pressuring defense and forcing turnovers and fast break points. The Pirates took the game away from SSU in a 72-55 victory.

Cross Country: Women’s team finishes their season and ranks 11th in nationals

Ryan Leonard
Whitworthian Sports Editor

Whitworth's women's cross country team finished the 1992 season with a higher overall finish than any team since the 1960s. They did it by placing 11th at the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics National Meet in Kenosha, Wis., on Nov. 21.

According to Head Coach Andy Sonneland, the course was a quagmire by race time after several days of rain. Ranked ninth entering the competition, the Pirates had hoped for a top 10 finish.

"On the downside, we were beaten by a couple of teams we'd beaten several times this season," said Sonneland of the team's performance. "But on the other hand, there are a lot of teams across the country, and the team should be proud of themselves to finish so high."

The Pirates were led by senior Melanie Kost's 18th place finish, which earned her All-American honors for the third time in her career.

Other scoring team members included sophomore Andrea Carlson, senior Amy Duryee, and sophomores Kim Huson and Carryn Wilson. Juniors Kebra Kendall and Ken Smith also competed.

"They are a great group of people," said Sonneland of the team. "I really enjoyed being with them this season."
Workaholism, stress among college students is on the rise

Karen Neuland
College Press Service

Whether it's slaving over books or a part-time job, college students risk burnout with late hours and hectic schedules in the race to get a diploma. Workaholism means many faces in the college population. It shows up in an overachieving, perfectionist "superstudent," a cash-strapped student who works a full-time job to pay rent and tuition, or a student who feels guilty if he doesn't have too much on his plate.

Workaholism is becoming more widespread on campuses, and students are working more hours while grades are being lowered. Students are organizing a program to address this issue, said Phillip Meilman, director of the Counseling Center at the College of William and Mary in Virginia and author of "Tearing Up the College Blues."

"There is no hard data, however, but there is an obvious impression that there is a higher level of dysfunction, that there are more serious problems," said Meilman, noting that substance abuse is often an attempt to regulate stress.

The average college experience today is no longer the easy, unencumbered education into adulthood that it used to be.

"The stakes have been raised to the point that everyone has to do more to arrive at the same place, and that becomes stressful and unhealthy," Meilman said.

Mental health experts agree that economic problems are taking a toll on students, and many are seeking help at university counseling centers to cope with the complexities of their lives.

"The increasing cost of college, the problematic-economy coupled with students placing unrealistic demands on themselves, are having an impact on students and on how much they can engage in the learning process," said Alan Berkowitz, director of the counseling center at Hofstra and William Smith Colleges in New York.

Students are working more hours at part-time and full-time jobs and are getting paid less for their efforts. Educators complain that out-of-school, struggling to pay rent and tuition, often put academic work on the back burner.

However, colleges and universities are becoming more enlightened. New York University has more than 50 programs in residence halls to assist students in coping with stress. One group, known as "Peer Fays," often walk-in offices staffed with trained students who offer support and encouragement to harassed students.

At Swarthmore College in Pennsylvania, a campus-wide "how-to" can be heard for miles the night before exams as students are encouraged to let off steam with a horrifying student-counselor/psychotherapist, that substance abuse is often an attempt to regulate stress.

"We are organizing a program with Herbert Benson, the author of "Relaxation Response," to help our people learn his techniques," said Dr. Russell Chadlin, director of mental health services at Harvard University.

"We need to have higher acheivers," Chadlin said. "There is an attitude that everyone has to succeed, to be in the top 10 percent of their high school class, and it's hard to realize that only 10 percent get into the top 10 percent." Athletes also face conflicting pressures to succeed academically and win in sports competition.

"We look forward to working with coaches eventually," Chadlin added. "There is a lot of stress among the swimming, divers, and track stars.

"There is a lot of evidence of behavior in our society," said Dr. Mort Berkowitz, lecturer in psychology, who says that students of all ages are suffering from an "epidemic of stress." Some reports have shown that student stress, particularly around exam times, is associated with a decline in the body's immune system defenses, leaving it vulnerable to illnesses ranging from the common cold to recurring herpes attacks.

Studies indicate that not only do students suffer anxiety over test results, but they have an increase in irritability around examination time that is accompanied by a decline in positive experiences and social activities.

At the University of California at Berkeley, a campus police manager reported that business increases by 30 percent the week before exams when 500 pounds of coffee are consumed by stressed-out students in comparison to the usual 400 pounds.

Mental health experts say they can often change the stress level at their institutions by the academic schedule and the time of the year.

"We can see the stress level by the caseload at the counseling center," Meilman said.

"It is usually low at the beginning of the academic year, it cre­scends at midterms, and from finals to finals it is running at a peak. After finals, the caseload drops to zero," he said.

"Right now I am trying to deal with an onslaught of new cases. I feel like an air traffic controller who is trying to control patients getting to therapists," he said, adding that he had eight student files in one day, but no counselors available.

"Students always wait until they are in great distress before seeking help," he added.

Meilman said that 25 percent of the student body at the College of William and Mary are employed, and working students are generally more prone to stress.

But Meilman noted that he is most concerned about a certain type of student, who may or may not hold an outside job, but who is "perfomance-oriented, intense and races with a tendency to be anti-social and who often spends long, isolated hours in the library.

"Their lives have become a grail," Meilman said.

Treatment for workaholics requires a realization on the part of the student that he is behaving in a compulsive way. In many cases, Meilman said students are unaware of their unhealthy attitudes toward work.

Stress Reduction Techniques

- SELF-DIRECTED TECHNIQUES
  - Prioritize activities.
  - Exercise: jogging, aerobics.
  - Recreation: hobbies, sports, travel.
  - Activities: painting, sculpting.
  - Social skills systems: group activity, involvement in service or social organization, religious activities.

- BEHAVIORAL APPROACHES
  - Exercise discipline goals.
  - Identify stressors.
  - Recognize harmful traits.

- RELAXATION TRAINING
  - Meditation.
  - Guided imagery.
  - Muscle relaxation exercises

Hypnosis

Source: Dr. Paul Recht, American Institute of Stress

SURVEY

Please circle your answer to the questions, cut out the survey and put it in the campus mail system or bring it to your dormitory.

1. Do you think The Whitworthian is accurate in the way it covers? Always Mostly Seldom Never

2. Does The Whitworthian cover the important issues on campus? Always Mostly Seldom Never

3. Do you think The Whitworthian covers enough national news? Always Mostly Seldom Never

5. Do you do crossword puzzles? Always Mostly Seldom Never

6. Do you read Ms. Kneipp's column? Always Mostly Seldom Never

7. Do you use attractions & discounts? Always Mostly Seldom Never

8. Do you enjoy the feature stories in The Whitworthian? Always Mostly Seldom Never

9. Do you think the sports coverage in The Whitworthian is sufficient? Always Mostly Seldom Never

10. Do you read the editors? Always Mostly Seldom Never

11. Do you think the editorials are about significant issues? Always Mostly Seldom Never

12. Does The Whitworthian have enough photos? Always Mostly Seldom Never

13. What do you think is missing from The Whitworthian? Always Mostly Seldom Never

Thank you for your input!
New grad. program to focus on global market

Krista Vasquez
Whittworth News Editor

Designed to meet the demands of global management, Whitworth established a new graduate degree program in international management.

Dr. Dan Sanford, director of the Whitworth Institute and Graduate Program for International Management, said the program works in conjunction with the Spokane Intercultural Research and Technology Institute (SIRTI).

SIRTI is a consortium of business and five local colleges—Whitworth College, Gonzaga University, Community Colleges of Spokane, Eastern Washington University and Washington State University.

Four years ago, SIRTI asked Whitworth to consider providing a portion of the advanced training conducted with SIRTI.

With this invitation, Whitworth began a 10-member team to begin its research of all types of graduate programs available in this country and overseas.

The team also surveyed businesses to discover their needs.

After meeting with an international advisory board consisting of experts in international business, the members developed a curriculum.

Please see Grad. program p. 8

$2 million donation holds many new possibilities for Whitworth

Juliane Luenser
Whittworth Staff Writer

The Whitworth College Administration and Board of Trustees faces the unprecedented question of what to do with an unrestricted gift of $2 million given to the college from the Lief Trust.

The Lief Trust is a Nevada organization which supports a variety of educational institutions.

Interim President Philip Eaton said the Lief Trust needy donors to small, private institutions such as Whitworth.

"We have been blessed with a gift and we are thankful," said Eaton.

Whittworth College Chairman of the Board of Trustees, Charles Boppell, said, "We thought we had hit a high-water mark with the completion of our $15 million Centennial Campaign, but to follow that with a $2 million unrestricted gift...really confuses our capital campaign's plans." Trust.

Eaton announced the news to students, faculty and staff in the chapel, Jan. 7.

"This is the largest single unrestricted donation in the college's history," Eaton said.

With an unrestricted fund, Whitworth can decide how to spend the money. Many times donations such as this have guidelines on how to use it.

After accepting the $2 million, the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees asked the Whitworth administration to de-

The president's committee, including some local trustees, has started meeting to think about whether the capital, college program needs and an endowment. An endowment is in the planning stages, and together with the capital campaign. Tax law changes, Whitworth's capital campaign has slowed.

"This interest money would provide better scholarship opportunities without hurting the operating budget."

Please see Donation p. 2

INSIDE THIS ISSUE

WHITWORTH SPEAKS OUT

TONY CAMPOLO

A PIRATE CLOSE UP

ASWC RESTRUCTURING
OPINIONS

Administration must give “real power” to ASWC

Trent House
Editorialist

Change has become the buzz word for politicians desperately searching for momentum in a system plagued by skepticism and failed promises. You do not have to be a political scholar to know that Whitworth College is no exception.

Following an evaluation fall semester, the ASWC CREW+ are proposing a change in a system constantly riddled and criticized for not living up to the expectations of the past election cycle.

As a former ASWC president, I know and empathize with their frustrations.

The question, in my opinion, is not one of infrastructure. Reconstruction has been at the top of many agendas for several years. The current system is only a little more than two years old.

No, the real question is one of priority. The college has put very little real power in the hands of student governments. Student Life has failed to give the director of student activities and the ASWC Assembly the proper tools for establishing themselves as a major force on campus.

We can only be thankful that the hard work and strong leadership of a core group of people has kept this ship alive over the past several years.

If real change is to take place, the administration must take an active role in the well-being of this institution and begin using the Assembly as a tool, and not simply another extracurricular outlet.

This group’s potential will never be realized until their roles are equal to those of other student leaders positions. We cannot expect these students to perform their tasks for little or no compensation.

While I vehemently opposed the stipend program during my time as president, I am not opposed to the notion of compensation. Stipends are simply a token gesture and really don’t express a true commitment to the success of the college.

For real change to occur, two things must happen. First, the number of assembly members must be reduced to a more manageable number, and secondly, the members must be adequately compensated for their efforts.

My critics will proclaim that student government should be separate from the college and therefore the obligation of compensation is unfounded. However, in many cases financial compensation is not a question of want but rather a question of need. Many gifted students are banned or barred from a life of public service because the office responsibilities do not allow for a part-time job to help offset the financial burdens of college.

Secondly, a fiscal reward creates a built-in accountability system. Every other leadership team on campus has the luxury of garnishing wages for missed expectations.

Give that power to the assembly.

Finally, integrate the assembly members with the daily functions of the Residential Life program. Until the Assembly member’s role within the residence hall or class they represent is elevated to the equivalence of the resident assistant’s, they will continue to walk in the shadow of the well-equipped, well-equipped administrators of residence life.

Trent House is a member of the editorial board and served as ASWC president for the 1991-92 school year.

Donation, from page 1

The Whitworth community, including the administration, know the HUB is in need of restoration, Eaton said. The former HUB design committee will be reactivated and called the Campus Center Design Committee. The goal of this group is to bring everything current in planning a new campus center. The Fine Bowl project is also a part of capital concerns.

Eaton said the goal of the entire process is to devise a plan for the $2 million gift that “gives some balance and the best impact for the college.” Eaton stressed students must be part of the planning process. He said, “This college has never done any planning without students.”

The final decision for the use of the money will be determined by the board at its April meeting.

The Whitworthian Staff

Jeanine M. Hein • Editor in Chief
Krista Vasquez • News Editor
Bar Harrell • Features Editor
Diane Brennan • Photo Editor
Julie Buffington • Advertising Manager
Eric Hunt • Circulation Manager
Judy Gage • Copy Editor
Gordon Jackson • Advisor
Trent House • Editorialist

Carley Russell, Sitia Coddington, Rachel Haines, Steve Inglis, Bill Gunn, Rebecca Peterson, Rocky Skelton, Julianne Lusardi, Heather Moseley, Taylor

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly except during January and student vacations. Opinions expressed are those of the writers and do not necessarily reflect the views of The Associated Students of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity in education and employment in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972, Section 504 and 34 of the Public Health Service Act.
WHITWORTH SPEAKS OUT

"WHAT SHOULD BE DONE WITH THE $2 MILLION GIFT?"

JUSTIN ANDERSON, senior
"I think that a portion of the money should go toward rebuilding the HUB and a portion should go toward updating the facilities in the fieldhouse."

RACHEL HEISER, freshman
"We should put it toward a track fund."

JEFFREY LUND, sophomore
"They should pay work-study employees better wages."

TODD ORWIG, sophomore
"We should put it toward building a new HUB. We definitely need a new HUB."

RICH SCHATZ, professor
"We should use at least a good part of it to finish this HUB."

SEAN HENDRICKSON, sophomore
"I think we should expand our educational system."

DAVID WOLF, junior
"I like the idea of the HUB but I think there is a lot of renovation that needs to be done around here—the dorms need to be renovated and the classrooms need help. There is a lot that can be done to fix up the things we already have."

MATT WOODRUFF, senior
"What I think Whitworth should do is to create an endowment if we don't have one. If we do, make it larger."

You may think we know everything—but we don't.

If you have an idea for a story or something to be included in our calendar, please drop a line to The Whitworthian at #4302, or bring it by the ASWC office in the HUB.

If it's all Greek to you...

Come study the ancient languages with those who will help you apply them to today's contemporary issues.

Our graduates go on to serve in pastoral ministry, counseling, youth ministry, family ministry, urban ministry and a great variety of other Christian vocations, as well as teaching in colleges and seminaries.

We offer eleven MA programs (including Counseling, Youth Ministry, and Christian Education), the Master of Divinity, and the Master of Theology, and we offer competitive financial aid packages.

Call us today to learn more about these programs. You may even want to begin with our Independent Study Program offered by correspondence.

Gordon-Conwell
Theological Seminary
130 Essex Street, South Hamilton, Massachusetts 01982
Call 1-800-428-7329
Student's opera career confirmed by awards

Carley Burrell
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Like many typical junior high students, Frank Hernandez became bored with playing in the band. Half-way through eighth grade, with no other class to enter into at that point in the quarter, Hernandez was placed in choir. Little did he know this would be the beginning of an opera career.

During high school, the director decided to try for an opera sound with the choir, and began teaching the students to sing in that style. For most of the students, the opera effort was short-lived, but not for Hernandez.

Though shy about his voice in high school, he began winning voice competitions as early as age 16. His winning streak continued through college as well. His decision to be a professional opera singer was reinforced by the many awards he won.

As a transfer student from Wenatchee Valley Community College, Hernandez came to Whitworth College in the fall of 1990. He selected Whitworth because of the music of the department. When the football team also recruited him, his decision was made.

Soon Hernandez realized that it was too much to focus on both football and singing. He "made a change in his life," he said, when he made the hard decision to drop football. He began working very closely with his music teacher, Marjorie Halvorson, and his musical coach, Lisa Harrell.

Halvorson, many of the people Hernandez will be competing against are females and most of them have more experience. Even so, Hernandez has a chance of winning. He is "magnificently talented, but the extraordinary thing about him is that he has not taken his talent for granted. He has been willing to work at a master level," said Halvorson. She expects his personal drive to carry him far.

The Whitworth Foundation plays important role

Lisa Harrell
Feature Editor

The Whitworth Foundation office is found nestled in the Auld House across the street from the campus. Not many students know about the Whitworth Foundation, but it is vital to keeping tuition down and the college operating.

"I am not impressed," said Burrell. "Bym Hill, Whitworth Foundation executive vice president. "The faculty and students are important and it is my job to ensure that the important people remain here," he said.

The Whitworth Foundation is a non-profit organization which was established for the sole purpose of securing gifts for Whitworth College.

Hill's job is to help people with individual financial and estate planning. He helps them to set up deferred gifts. These gifts are committed to the college, but not received until a later date. These gifts, once received, go into the college's endowment.

"The college endowment is a collection of assets which are managed according to income," said Hill. "The initial money is never spent, just the interest which is generated.

"The endowment acts as a long-term buffer to volatility in student population which directly affects tuition," said Hill. Also, the endowment reduces a college's dependence upon a steady increase in annual gifts, explained Hill.

"Giving to the endowment is an eternal gift to the institution," said Hill. "One is insuring that their gifts today benefit students for many generations," he said.
Christian lecturer Tony Campolo speaks to Whitworth community

Becky Kilpatrick
Whitworthian Staff Writer

For three days, Feb. 17-19, the Whitworth community will have several opportunities to hear Dr. Tony Campolo, a distinguished and sometimes controversial Christian speaker.

No one is sure of the topic Campolo will choose. Chaplain Doug Dee explained, "He'll speak about whatever is on his heart."

There is much for Campolo to speak about. He is a sociology professor at Eastern College in St. David's, Pa., but also holds a degree in business. He has written several books dealing with student life and business issues and how they pertain to Christian life.

Campolo is also involved with the Evangelical Association for the Promotion of Education (EAPE). This association provides a variety of educational opportunities to provide outdoors and in America. Several Whitworth students have participated in this association by working on missions in urban communities like those in New Jersey.

Besides writing books, teaching, and working with the EAPE, Campolo is with the Staley Lecture, the same people who brought John Fischer last September. The Staley Lecture are Christian lecturers, with one each year, to finance and teach in the country to speak to Christian organizations and schools.

$1,000 given to Outdoor Rec. to finance recreational activities

Becky Kilpatrick
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Have you ever wanted to go sailing, skydiving or ultralight flying but never had the money to do it? Because of a recent $1,000 grant given to the Outdoor Recreation Department by the Associated Students of Whitworth College, you may be in luck.

At the beginning of this semester, the ASWC Finance Committee voted in favor of allotting $1,600 to the Outdoor Recreation Department for the subsidization of some dozen recreational activities.

Outdoor Recreation Coordinator Andy Beavert has already planned and carried out 13 activities including sailing trips, paddleball, a dog and clinic, a ski-tuning clinic, a movie night, inner tubing in the Back 40, a Spokane Chiefs' hockey game, and snow football in the Fine Bowl.

Beavert said the Outdoor Recreation Department normally plans and subsidizes two events each year due to a limited budget. "This fall the department received $3,000 from the ASWC to buy new equipment and $1,600 to subsidize trips," he said, "and we have made back almost $500 in revenue which will be used to subsidize more trips."

"I came to a point," said financial vice president and junior Eric Luther, "that we either had to redo the Outdoor Recreation Department or scrap it completely. We chose to redo it."

According to Brooks, the $1,000 was given to his department because students in past years rarely wanted to rent the old and outdated equipment. "Our equipment has not been that good in the past," said Brooks, but with the $3,000, "I bought less equipment, but high-quality equipment that is going to last."

Some new additions this fall include: fishing rods, fly-fishing rods, roller blades, soft backpacks, snowboards, tents, sleeping bags and snowshoes.

By revamping the department, students have a much better selection in rental equipment. The question of "Where or not to rent?" has been replaced with "What should I rent?"

There has also been much more of a demand to rent equipment because of the increased activities. The $1,600 grant will allow for many more activities to come.

Luther says the money was given to the Outdoor Recreation Department because of Brooks' past track record. "Adam has done an exceptional job this year and we know he'll keep it up," Luther said.

Brooks says he enjoys his job and the fun of organizing the activities. "Our whole purpose is to help students," he said, "and I don't feel like my job is work at all."

The Outdoor Recreation department is usually only given about $600 for an entire year - $300 of which buys new equipment and $350 of which subsidizes trips. This year, however, it has received a total of $3,250 - $3,100 for new equipment and $150 for subsidizing trips.

Brooks is gathering ideas for possible spring activities including sailing, skydiving, ultralight flying, salmon fishing, water-skiing, down sailing, back pedd ucking, scuba diving and also a triathlon at Whitworth. He encourages everyone to stop by his office and present him with new ideas. "I would really like to see some input from the off-campus students too and get them more involved," he said.

Brooks also says that students need to know that the rental costs are not expensive. "The costs are very reasonable," he said, "because I take the commercial rental prices and cut them in half." A price list is posted on the door of the Outdoor Recreation office.

Luther attributes much of the success of the program this year to Brooks. "Adam does 100 percent in everything," Luther said, "because he expects excellence in himself and excellence in what he does."

Brooks believes without the support of the ASWC his success would not be possible. "The whole ASWC has been very supportive of what I'm doing," he said, "and I'm very thankful for that."
Men's basketball slips to 3-8 in NCIC Conference play, 9-16 overall for season

Brian Coddington
Whitworth Staff Writer

The Whitworth men's basketball team saw its record slip to 3-8 in conference play and 9-16 overall as the team suffered three consecutive road losses last week.

The Pirates fell at Central Washington University 89-64 Tuesday night, before dropping a pair of Northwest Conference independent College games over the weekend in Oregon, 69-58 at Pacific and 70-62 at Lewis & Clark.

At Central, the Pirates shot 49 percent from the field and employed a balanced attack led by Jason Hull, John Graham, and Sherrod Behon.

Hull finished with 15 points and seven rebounds, while Graham chipped in 14 points and three rebounds, and Behon added eight points and six rebounds.

However, the Wildcats (21-6) proved to be too much for the visiting Pirates, as Central built a 46-28 halftime lead and never looked back. Ryan Pepper led five Wildcat players in double figures with 21 points.

John Beckman and Louis Vargas came off the bench for the Pirates to contribute eight and seven points, respectively.

On Friday, the Pirates traveled to Oregon State, to take on Pacific University.

Whitworth's hot on 34 percent of their field-goal attempts and committed only 13 turnovers, but the host Beavers did them one better.

Pacific knocked down 60 percent of their shots from the field and never trailed after taking a 24-23 advantage into the locker room at halftime.

Tony Ito led Pacific (8-1, 18-6), hitting six of eight from three-point range in the second half, on his way to a 7-point game-high.

Graham kept the Pirates close, hitting five of six three-pointers and 21 points, while Behon was face of four from the field and two of from the foul line to finish with 10 points.

Nate Durham also contributed seven rebounds for the Pirates.

Saturday, the Pirates finished their three game road trip with a visit to Lewis & Clark College, the 20th ranked and 9th in NAIA Division I in the nation.

The Pirates looked to average last month's overtime loss at Whitworth.

The Pirates hung tough early, trailing only 42-37 at halftime. Despite holding the nation's 3rd most prolific scoring defense 12 points below its season average, Whitworth was unable to overtake the host Pioneers.

Lewis & Clark's shooting and balanced scoring eventually shut down the Pirates, as the Pioneers (14-6) outscored double-figures in doubles, while hitting on 40 percent of their field-goals as a team.

Whitworth saw three of its players score in double figures as well. Graham led the Pirates with 18 points, while Jason Gilliam had 13, and Hull added 12.

However, as a team, the Pirates only managed to shoot 39 percent from the field on 30 of 76 shots.

The men's basketball team will play Seattle University on Friday, Feb. 19 at home and Whitman College on Saturday. Both games will be played at home.

The Whitworth basketball team will play Seattle University on Friday, Feb. 19 at home and Whitman College on Saturday. Both games will be played at home.

SPORTS

Swim teams finish fourth, prepare for districts

Steve Feigl
Whitworth Staff Writer

Nani Blake highlighted a tough NCIC Conference Championship meet which saw both the men's and women's swim teams take fourth place.

The men's team finished with 821 points, just behind Whitman College (838) and Willamette University (999). The women's team finished with 864 points, just ahead of Whitman (863) and Willamette (938).

The NCIC Conference Championships were held at Whitworth College over the weekend at Whitman College.

Mike Ramki, the head coach of the Whitworth swim team, said, "We are very pleased with our performance this year. We have had a great season and are looking forward to next year."
SPORTS

A PIRATE CLOSE-UP
Snow finds family swim team

Joanne Helm
Editor in Chief

The children say he can laugh and play just the same as you and me, but this swimmer plays just a little bit harder.

During swim season, senior Matt Snow is in the pool by 5:30 a.m. and swims for two hours, gets to class all day and swims for two hours each evening. If he feels like it, he lifts weight too.

Snow began swimming when he was eight years old and has been swimming ever since. He swam throughout high school and his four years at Whitworth, and went to national his last year in Canton, Ohio, to place fourth in the 200-yard backstroke with a time of 1:53.

The swim team will go on break in San Antonio, Tex., in March, where Snow will swim all events. Snow swims more than just the backstroke. He practices in the 100-yard, 200-yard backstroke, the 100-yard butterfly and all relays. His favorite? The 800-yard free relay.

Whitworth's swim team and geology department is what prompted Snow to leave Beech Grove, Ind., for Washington. After his first semester here, the geology department and major wasn't cut. But Snow stayed. He fought to keep the major until he graduates and is the last and only geology major at Whitworth College.

Because the geology major was cut, Snow will have one semester of classes to finish his major

"Since I'm so far from home, the swim team has really become a family to me."
Senior Matt Snow

VITAL STATISTICS
Name: Matt Snow
Nickname: Snowman
Hometown: Beech Grove, Ind.
Age: 21
Year: Senior
Major: Geology
Sports: Swimming
Hobbies: Swimming, relaxing

Basketball: Women lose to Pacific U., Lewis and Clark

Joanne Helm
Editor in Chief

Whitworth's women's basketball team played two highly ranked teams this weekend and lost to both.

On Friday, the Bucs played Pacific Lutheran University and lost 73-56. Pacific University is ranked second in the conference and third in the nation.

On Saturday, the Bucs played Lewis and Clark College, ranked ninth in the nation, is undefeated in the conference.

"It was a tight game for 35 minutes," said Coach Lisa Oriard. "We could have made a run at any time, but unfortunately Lewis and Clark did it first."

Lewis and Clark won in the last five minutes of the game. Before that their biggest lead over Whitworth was only five points.

The weekend as a whole showed how young Whitworth's team is.

"It showed because of how differently we played each night," said Oriard.

The team only has two seniors this year and the first string consists of two juniors and three sophomores.

The team has only two seniors this year and the first string consists of two juniors and three sophomores.

The women's basketball team plays at home this weekend against Pacific Lutheran University.
ASWC proposes new student government

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworth Staff Writer

Striving for a more effective way to govern the students of Whitworth College, ASWC is looking at an alternative system that would put the power of student governance to make it more efficient.

"Our goal is an autonomous ASWC, where there is more accountability and productivity from ASWC," said Tobin Heim, executive vice president and vice chair of the voting assembly.

"We're trying to work it and define it to simply make it better," ASWC President Chris Oswald.

The assembly, which is the voting body of ASWC, now comprises of 17 members including all dorm presidents, class presidents and two off-campus representatives.

However, this year, five members have resigned from their respective offices and two additional members are considering leaving.

Quiz program, from p. 1

The curriculum was presented to Whitworth and to the Northwest Accrediting Association for accreditation, said Sanford.

"This is an institution that really is now very attractive in the United States because it is helping to make the country more competitive... and everybody wants to see more competition," said Sanford.

The degree work will combine a theoretical and practical approach to personal management concerns with an emphasis on spoken foreign language skills and cross-cultural understanding, said Sanford.

Sanford said other universities offer similar graduate programs, but none integrate the necessary language and cross-cultural skills with international management practices that are necessary for success in the global marketplace.

"People of the next century are going to work in a global economy where they will need to be effective in other cultures," said Sanford.

"They will no longer be able to work with merely a national or regional world view," he said.

Sanford said the program will pay particular attention to issues of business ethics and values in a global setting.

The program places an emphasis on internship experience. A $10,000 grant from the Leuthold Foundation for its Office of Special Projects is used to fund student internships with companies involved in international marketing and business.

"We are especially grateful to the Leuthold Foundation for its general support and its recognition of the importance of this graduate program," said Sanford.

Dr. Ken Shipps, provost and dean of faculty, has been assisting Sanford. They recently returned from China and Japan, where they worked to acquire resources.

"What I was basically doing was securing various kinds of support for the program," said Shipps.

Ships met with potential student candidates and families to help the program. Shipps helped the program seek out many local community contacts.

"Getting a large number of people who are able to work is the key," said Sanford.

Shipps said this program would help Whitworth become a "recognized leader in global education." Dr. Philip Eaton, interim president, is helping to promote the new program to the community.

"This program helps us be active in the community," Eaton said. Since the program works with local business, it is an opportunity for Spokane to broaden its sights, he said.

"It's also a significant addition to our long history of international orientation," said Eaton.

Sanford said the program's strongest feature is its international emphasis. With this emphasis, it would be helpful for Whitworth to build a new student assembly status that would help recruit international students, said Sanford, who strongly encourages a university name.

Shipps said it would probably be a "good and a half" a year for the university name to fully be considered.

"With a new president coming, that issue will be raised," he said.

Sanford said more than 100 people had already applied to the graduate program. Classes will begin in May with an estimated enrollment of 15 students.

A nationwide search is underway for a new president to fill the vacancy for the new system to be implemented.

Ships was the clerk of the students at University of Washington, believing the new system a good idea.

"We had the same system at UW and it worked very well. Everyone was directly responsible for specific jobs or tasks," he said.

However, Trent House, 1991-1992 ASWC president, is frustrated.

"I believe it is the mindset that is the problem, not the structure. The system we have now is hardly to third year. Although I think this is a step in the right direction, it simply does not go far enough," he said.

Heim, who proposed the plan, is asking the board of assembly to vote on Feb. 18. If it is approved by the board, the students will vote at the end of the month.

"This is an idea that I have put a lot of time and effort into," said Heim. "It won't put as much energy into it as I have if I didn't think it was valuable to the future of the organization," he said.

Simpson urges all students who have reactions, concerns or suggestions to attend assembly meetings. The next meeting is on Thursday, Feb. 18 at 5:30 p.m. in the HUB chambers.

NEWS CLIPS

NATIONAL

"President Clinton nominates Janet Reno from Florida for attorney general. The president nominated Zoe Baird and Kimba Wood for the position but were asked to resign after the two women hired illegal aliens to care for their children.

"Arthur Ashe, the first African-American to win the singles championship at the U.S. Open and at Wimbledon, died from complications due to AIDS. Ashe was infected by AIDS from a blood transfusion after heart surgery in 1984. Ashe was 49 years old.

REGIONAL

"After the accident, the man who became the walrus, Bloom, 39, of Medford, Ore., pleaded guilty to six counts of murder. Whitworth admitted she set of the decision disapproved late last summer. Williams was sentenced to three years probation and will return to psychiatric treatment.

"A 16-year-old Port Angeles boy tried to rob a small grocery store and ended up being tortured by the same clerk. The clerk, the guy and demanded $50 and cell phones. The clerk said, "This is an armed robbery, they're going to haul you down to the police station!" The clerk said. She then said, "Well, why don't you go now, or something?" The boy left after he realized he wasn't going to get the money. He was arrested one block away from the store.

LOCAL

"Spokane police are looking for a man who robbed the Hilliard branch of the U.S. Bank last Friday. The robber put the money into a bag the robber was carrying. Also put into the bag by the robber was an explosive red dye pack into the bag. Police believe the dye pack exploded, causing the money and possibly the robber to shrink.

In the Good Ideas Column for "Trevor" suggested "the problem is the structure. If the organization," he said.

"The boy left after he realized he wasn't going to get the money. He was arrested one block away from the store.
Career Week helps to prepare students for life after Whitworth

Julane Lussier
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Whether it is three months or three years until graduation, Career Week, March 1-5, is designed for you.

Career Life Advisor Diane Thomas said Career Week is designed "to educate students about resources, skills and the various options available, both while in school and after graduation." She said all students are encouraged to take part in the different activities being offered.

A panel of Spokane area employers will kick off the week at Forum on Monday, March 1. The panel includes Whitworth alum Brian Neale who currently works for KOLY-TV.

Monday’s activities continue with “Making the Career Fair Work For You” will be held in Warren Lounge. The goal is to learn last minute tips on how to be an effective job seeker, specifically at the Career Fair on Wednesday.

The “Dress For Success Dessert” will be held Tuesday night, from 6:30 p.m. - 8 p.m. The dessert combines food with fine clothes. Some Whitworth students will model clothes from Harvey’s in the Northtown Mall. The event is designed for students to learn the basics of professional wardrobe planning and pie will be served.

Thomas said the highlight of the week is the Career Fair in the HUB on Wednesday, 10 a.m. - 1 p.m. Various Spokane businesses will set up information tables, and students can learn about different career options, employment and internship possibilities. A new addition this year to the career fair is that each business will have a box in which to put your resume.

The Career Fair is an opportunity for students to find out what employers look for, learn job search techniques, meet business people, and leave a resume with different businesses.

Thomas advises that students, especially seniors actively looking for jobs, should look nice and dress up for the Career Fair. She said this is a chance for students to make a good first impression on potential employers. Students should also bring more than one copy of their resume.

Wednesday from 5 p.m. -7 p.m. in the East Red Room of the dining hall, students have the opportunity to take part in a five-course dinner and learn the proper etiquettes for business dinner meetings. Students should sign up for the dinner in Student Life by March 1. The cost is $9.95 with a meal card, and $12 for students without a meal plan.

Students can hear from employers in a wide variety of fields at the "Career Networking Night" Thursday from 7 p.m. - 9 p.m. in Warren Lounge. Along with learning networking techniques, students will learn about professional associations and community resources.

The final event of Career Week is "Preparing for the Liberal Arts Career Fair" from 12:30 p.m. -1 p.m. Friday in Student Life. It is designed to prepare students for the career fair to be held in Tacoma, Monday March 22. Students can learn how to effectively present themselves to employers. Networking techniques and effective resumes will also be discussed.

The entire week is designed to help students feel more prepared for life after Whitworth. Thomas said in the past, alumni said they have not felt adequately prepared for the job market. Students must "take advantage of what is being brought to them," said Thomas. She said students have to be very aggressive if they are going into the job market.

Find jobs at three Seattle career fairs

Julane Lussier
Whitworthian Staff Writer

The job search is on the minds of many students as the year winds down toward graduation. But what things should students be doing to start the job search process?

Many things are offered specifically to help students learn more about finding a job. These events include career fairs and resource seminars. For Whitworth students, Career Week will be March 1-5 at Whitworth. But there are opportunities outside of Spokane.

During spring break there will be two Career Networking nights for Whitworth students and alumni. The first will be held Tuesday, March 16 at the Bellevue First Presbyterian Church in Bellevue. The second event will be Thursday, March 18 at Lake Grove Presbyterian Church in Lake Oswego, Ore. Both nights are free and will feature different panels from different career fields. For more information call the Whitworth Alumni Office, x3299.

Following spring break the Liberal Arts Career Fair will be held March 22 in Tacoma. Various employers from throughout the Puget Sound area will attend the event. Students will have the opportunity to make important contacts, learn about organizations and practice interviewing skills and save time by meeting with employers at one location. The focus of the fair is careers, and permanent locations, but internship opportunities may also be available. The cost is $10 for pre-registering in the Whitworth Student Life office, and $15 at the door. More information, students should contact Student Life.

Diakonia program to be postponed this year

Kristen Nicholson
Special to the Whitworthian

After providing service opportunities around the world for Whitworth students for the past four years, the Diakonia program is being postponed due to limited resources in the chaplain’s office, according to Chaplain Doug Dye.

"Cuts needed to be made in programming in the chaplain’s office. Diakonia was the least profitable of all the crops. The postponement is simply an issue of staffing. It was not a reflection of the Diakonia program," said Dye.

Diakonia grew under the former three-staff chaplain office that existed before Dye took the chaplain position. The administration and training required for Diakonia was not effective under a one-staff chapel.

"We went through with Diakonia the past two years doing less than what we knew we should be doing. There is liability involved with the program, and we were not able to do a lot of recruiting or training," said Dye.

Sophomore Janise Warner went to Nicaragua last summer through the Diakonia program. She agreed that there was less preparation for the trip than she had anticipated.

"It’s hard to prepare anyone for a trip like that, yet I didn’t understand the mission of Diakonia before I left. I wasn’t sure if it was a service project or a mission project. I didn’t think they really organized it," said Warner.

"For students who could not afford to spend a semester or a January term off-campus, Diakonia provided service opportunities in the United States and abroad, funded by Whitworth College and its community. Students wrote letters to relatives and friends. Faculty members and the community hired students to complete yard work, and the chaplain’s office organized an annual auction to raise money for the trip. Diakonia helped fund our trip. Without its support we wouldn’t have been able to raise enough money. We couldn’t have done Diakonia at just any school. We needed the help of Whitworth’s community," said Warner.

"We hope to resurrect Diakonia in the future. This kind of ministry is needed students would benefit from."
Our generation can change Whitworth

Sarah Snelling

The generation of students now attending college is said to be lacking in motivation, creativity and intelligence. Faced with the dark future of a limited job market and a repressed economy, students are constantly bombarded with the message that they have little to look forward to.

Instead of motivating students to work harder, this unhappy tale seems to produce an attitude of pessimism, apathy and low involvement. An education rooted in instantaneous entertainment and low effort, and a society whose main goal for the past ten years has been to make as much money as possible in the shortest amount of time are added factors.

Today's students are often portrayed as bored, spoiled kids who pout if they are not entertained.

These same problems manifest themselves everywhere at Whitworth. RA's are forced to come up with the most creative programming possible to draw even one tenth of their resident leaders. Residents have a difficult time finding people willing to help them with event planning, yet they hear complaints from students who are bored and do not have enough events to entertain them.

Some people attribute this to a generation that is disinterested and nonchalant. It is not a generation effort, today's college students need to be more involved and willing to work for each other. Instead of 20 percent of the student body, 80 percent of the work in a more balanced system is necessary.

As a small college, Whitworth provides many more avenues for involvement than large universities. Students can work as media staff, TA's, tutors, residence life staff or ASWC leaders. They can also get involved with the administration, faculty and staff. Any student can be on any ASWC or administration committee.

The largest difficulty in getting involved is seeking out the opportunities. However, most students who display willingness and dedication to the department can find places to work.

The real power at this school is in the hands of the students. However, this power will never be maximized until more students are involved. It is easy to maintain change if one is willing to work. Even the president of the college said he wishes he had more time to spend with students, because it is their ideas which provide the stepping stones for future programs at Whitworth.

More students need to take the time to talk to the faculty, staff and administration. More people need to run for election and applying for departmental positions.

Granted, it will take more effort to be involved. However, the return of opportunities for time invested will be worth the effort.

The time has come to give a definitive answer to the question, "Wouldn't it be better to be known as the generation that changed Whitworth, rather than the generation which was too tired and too spoiled to do anything?"

KWRs General Manager responds to 'KWRs undergoes restructuring'

Dear Editor,

I would like to respond to the article, "KWRs undergoes restructuring to remain on air" that appeared in the Feb. 16 edition of The Whitworthian.

I feel that some of the truth was withheld and some of the facts could have been misinterpreted.

First of all, it stated that the budget review process was done at the beginning of each semester. Last year, this process was not done before mid-semester. We made our budget and then some, in order to put $4,500 into our transmitter fund. If this process occurred in regard to KWRs before this year, we were never notified. Therefore, working within the same parameters from last year, we planned to use the entire year to reach our bottom line.

For the quote given by Mr. Bowers, it was solely his opinion. The article was authored without the help of ASWC or administration committees. The present management has been the problem with licensing issues since the beginning of the year. The budget proposal from last year was prepared with the help of the ASWC. The ASWC would not strike me as a big deal.

The problem with licensing occurred under previous management. The present management has been the one that has tried to find new stations to replace the situation. As of now, we are working with the FCC and are not in any violation.

The budget proposal from last year was prepared with the help of the newly elected Executive Vice President Toben Heim. We were under the impression that proposing a budget that includes new stations and raising under the direction of ASWC, would not put us in a compromising position.

Due to the fact that we cannot hold concerts on campus, we were forced to come up with alternative methods of fund-raising, which we have done.

Neither the Finance Committee nor anyone in ASWC approached us regarding this fund-raising before they proposed to shut KWRs down due to finances.

In conclusion, the entire month of January was devoted to solving these problems. The review process neither initiated nor bolstered our efforts. I do not feel that the article gave an accurate representation of KWRs. We have activities planned for the spring semester and I hope to see student support.

Susan F. Rush
KWRs General Manager
WHITWORTH SPEAKS OUT

"WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT DOWNSTAIRS AT MARRIOTT BEING CLOSED?"

SCOTT SCHMIDT, sophomore
"When you have to be somewhere at a certain time, it's better to get there. There's not enough time to eat."

ROBB LEROY, junior
"I don't like it. There's less room. It's too crowded. You can't come the times you want."

LORI WHITE, freshman
"I don't mind at all."

HEIDI BOOMER, junior
"I can understand why—but it's not effective. It's overcrowded and not quiet."

JOSH ARMSTRONG, sophomore
"It's an outrage. We're now forced to be crowded upstairs."

Be kind to your Escapees

Dear Editor,

Recently I ran into a Whitworth alumna who had invited a high school friend to the Great Escape last semester. This woman bragged to her young friend about what a great college Whitworth is and advised her to stay in Baldwin-Jenkins during the Great Escape. Around 10 p.m., she received a call from the girl, who was in tears because her host in B. J. were "being mean" to her. The woman drove to Whitworth that night to pick her up. Now the girl has a bad impression of this school and is no longer considering Whitworth College in her future application process. I would hope that Whitworth students would consider the Great Escape to be a means of recruitment. Many students choose to attend this college because of a positive Great Escape experience. Yet the number of Escapees who have scratched Whitworth off their list due to disrespect and cruelty is a big unknown.

If you sign up to host Escapees please plan, before they arrive, to treat them kindly.

Karen Richison

South African Study Tour
Jan Term 1994

Attend an informational meeting this coming Sunday, February 28, at 6 p.m. in Rider Hall. Besides updating you on how the tour is taking shape, we'll show a 20-minute videotape on South Africa.

For additional information, contact Dr. John Pedel (x7901) or Dr. Gordon Jackson (x7940).

DO YOU HAVE AN OPINION?

LETTERS to the EDITOR must be signed and submitted to The Whitworthian by 5 p.m. Friday. No anonymous letters will be published. A phone number must be included for author verification. The Whitworthian is not obligated to publish all letters and reserves the right to edit letters.

Will You Be Able to Manage in the Global Marketplace?

The Master's Degree in International Management for Business and Development features:

- Advanced strategic management skills
- An emphasis on the emerging markets of Asia and the Pacific rim
- An accelerated 15-month track for working professionals
- High-quality business internships and assistance in career placement
- A program applicable to both business and non-profit managers
- Consideration of business ethics and values in a global economy
- Languages offered: Chinese, Japanese, Russian, Spanish, French and German

WHITWORTH COLLEGE

Classes forming for May and September, 1993. For admission and financial aid information, contact Dr. J. Ethlord, Director, Whitworth Institute for International Management, Whitworth College, 300 W. Hawthorne Blvd., Spokane, WA 99251-1103 / Phone (509) 456-1742

!!!NEW!!!

Start your morning right with the BEST KEPT BREAKFAST SECRET around at Didier's Yogurt & More

6:30-11 a.m., Monday-Saturday

1 EGG, 2 PANCAKES, 2 SLICES OF BACON

ONLY $2.69

One coupon per person per visit. Expires 3/3/93.

Try our hot, delicious hashbrowns!

YOU MAY THINK WE KNOW EVERYTHING— BUT WE DON'T.

If you have an idea for a story or something to be included in our calendar, please drop a line to The Whitworthian at *302, or bring it by the ASUC office in the RUB.
Campolo calls students to live out the gospel

Carley Burris
Whitworthian Staff Writer

He captured audiences with jokes on behaviors, stories of his experiences, and his encouragement to lead a Christian lifestyle. The Whitworth community was privileged to spend Feb. 17-19 with Dr. Tony Campolo. Campolo is a sociology professor at Eastern College in St. David's, Pa., (near Philadelphia) where he lives with his wife. However, a lot of his time is spent outside of his small town. In addition to being a professor, Campolo is a missionary, a world-wide speaker and an author. He has written numerous books on various topics concerning Christianity in today's world.

As busy as Campolo is, he never misses any of his classes. All of his classes are taught on Monday and Tuesday mornings and he "makes sure to never be away." When he is available, he continues to reach.

At Whitworth, Campolo was a guest speaker in many of the sociology and business classes. He spoke to students about goodness in attitudes of business, and caring attitudes in the sociological situations in the world.

He stressed the importance of exercising a Christian attitude. Part of being a Christian is "to live out the Gospel and the need and hope to little kids," Campolo told students in Forum. "If it's not enough to just talk about Christ," he said. Campolo called students to "live out the Gospel" through helping children who are underprivileged.

"It is work that Campolo is greatly involved in. He believes the "poor are God's gift to us."

Campolo said he never planned on going into public speaking. "It just happened," he said. "I just wanted to impact people for Christ and I wanted to do something that would affect the poor and the oppressed, because I live with a lot of poor people." At Eastern College, Campolo and other professors worked hard to develop a program involving college students in ghettos. College students go out into the ghettos to work with the youth, showing them love and reaching them about Jesus. The purpose of this ministry is to "help kids rediscover value, openness and hope," said Campolo.

While he was on campus, Campolo invited and encouraged Whitworth students to either work with him in the ghettos of Philadelphia over the summer, or intern there after graduation.

According to Campolo, there are two kinds of internships. The first one is for students who want to become school teachers. Interns dedicate themselves to teach kids who are considered hopeless in regular area schools for one year. The second internship is for students who would just like to work with underprivileged youth. Volunteers in these positions work with primarily junior and senior high school students, talking with them, entertaining them in groups that resemble Young Life, and speaking with them about God. Campolo believes that "direct involvement" makes Christians "come alive." He explained that people realize that what they think controls what they do, but what they do also influences the way they think. He believes that in the "sacramental nature of people, we can find Jesus.

Once you are in a relationship with the youth there, something happens to you," he continued. "There is no intellectual shortcut" to accomplish this, he said.

Campolo's attitude was influenced by two people he admires. The first is Tom Roop, a "little old accountant who now lives in Spokane," who ran a little, after-school Bible club in Philadelphia when Campolo was growing up. The club was an unusual group because many Christian leaders came out of it. "It is an example of a lay person who's had a tremendous impact on others," said Campolo. The other person who he looks to is someone he met over the years is Mother Teresa. She has shown so much sacrificial love to others through her work in Calcutta.

Employers look for well-rounded students

Communication and problem-solving skills valued more than G.P.A.s

Lisa Harrell
Whitworthian Feature Writer

"If you are struggling to raise your G.P.A. before you graduate in order to meet enrollment, you may not need to work so hard. Good grades are near the bottom of the list of skills and traits most important to the recruiters in making hiring decisions, according to a recent survey of 113 corporate recruiters who visited Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

"Dr. Thomas, director of career/advising at Whitworth, agrees with the results of this survey. "It used to be that a college education was much more rare than it is now, "he said. "Now, if a student makes it through college he or she basically had it made in the professional world."" But today employers are looking for a more well-rounded person that has some of the classic liberal arts skills."

"The three skills [employers] value most are interpersonal skills, problem-solving skills and communication skills," said Tom Tameulli, associate director of the Career Development Center at the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

"Companies today are working more as a team. They are merging and they are working more with other countries," said Thomas. "It is a global marketplace and those communication skills are key for the most important and that includes being culturally aware."

Other valued skills included creativity, flexibility, maturity and good judgment.

However, there are some businesses that do still put a lot of weight on the applicants' G.P.A. "Accounting being one of them," said Thomas.

Advertising Account Executive, Becky Kohl, of Gross-Hash Associates said good communication skills are the most important characteristic they look for in an applicant. "However, we also look at the G.P.A. because in the advertising business we need people who can catch on quickly and are very alert, and a high G.P.A. is a good indicator." Ideally, they look for a G.P.A. of 3.5 and above, explained Kohl.

On a scale of one to 10, 10 being the best, the importance of an applicant's G.P.A. varied, says six said Dick Boaler, manager of information system consulting services at W. R. Grace & Co. "Grades are not a factor that we put a lot of faith in," said Boaler. "It really depends on the school." He explained that a four point at one school does not always equal the four point at another school.

Thomas explained that students at Whitworth should be encouraged about the type of education they are receiving. "We have students who have liberal arts skills such as writing, communicating, problem-solving and team work ability. Also at a smaller campus, one has more opportunities to get involved and that is a small representation of what one will find out in the work world," said Thomas. For those students who are still nervous about their grades, Thomas suggests emphasizing the activities that the student was involved in. "You need to learn how to market yourself properly when you are 'suffering' [in the area of grades]."

The College Press Service contributed to this article.
Tavener impacts students for years

Heather Spooner
Special to The Whitworthian

Teachers, administrators, and thousands of students have come and gone, but many memories have been built; others have been removed.

In the past 34 years Dr. Tom Tavener has been here to see it all.

As Tavener's retirement nears, the school staff and students say goodbye to a well-loved teacher.

In the spring Tavener will join the choir on a spring trip to Europe as a farewell tour. I used to sing with the choir and play trombone with the band at the same time," he started here, so I am excited to do this again," said Tavener.

Tavener's story began at Whitworth in 1959. Having just completed his master's degree in vocal music, he was hired with the music department chair, then music department director.

He has guided numerous students to musical careers, including many professional performers and teachers.

Even those who didn't have him as an advisor, teacher, or guide were able to find their path.

Tavener has always been a teacher, a mentor, and a friend, and he has been a constant presence in the lives of his students.

DR. TAVENER IS SO UNDERSTANDING. When we were in our vocal class show last spring, he changed it to a right class so we could all make it.

Robert Bower, a 1993 graduate of Whitworth, said, "He came at just the right time in my life. I know the Holy Spirit worked through that man."

Tavener's wife, Jean, jokes about his resistance to change, but he's stayed at Whitworth for so long because he has had any resistance to leave he said. He added, "It's been fun to watch Whitworth grow. It's been wonderful to watch people grow. I've worked with wonderful friends and followed many students' careers with great interest. Whitworth has been more than a place to work - it's been a major part of my life."

He added, "The next challenge in his life, whether it's moving to Seattle to near his children, or teaching abroad, it is obvious Whitworth will not be the same without his generosity and enthusiasm for teaching."
Men's basketball team returns home to win

Brian Coddington
Whitworthian Staff Writer

There is no place like home. The Whitworth men's basketball team returned home to the Fieldhouse Friday night, and ended its seven game losing streak with a 109-88 convincing 89-49 conference victory over Seattle University, winning an 82-78 NCIC conference thriller over visiting Whitman, Saturday, before ending their season.

Against Seattle, the Pirates jumped out to an easy lead, scoring 20 of the game's first 24 points and never looked back. Brian Coddington added 13 points, and Jason Hull added 10 points, the Bucs raced to a 49-37 halftime lead. The first 12 minutes of the second half saw a much different Pirate team, as Whitman went on a 27-8 run to open up its biggest lead at 64-57, with 10:20 remaining in the game.

"It was like we had a cigarette at halftime," said Friedrichs. "We came out relaxed and flat. We could not get anything going for us." After Friedrichs called time out with 11:08 to play, he inserted Chad Reeves for defensive purposes, as the Pirates began to press. Eventually, Friedrichs' strategy paid off.

I began at about the nine minute mark when Gillam stood tough and took a charging foul. The play seemed to rub off on the rest of the Pirates, as Reeves steal with 4:44 brought the crowd to its feet.

"We put Chad [Reeves] in to pick it up on defense and change the pace of the game a little," said Friedrichs. "His play on the defensive end really got the crowd going. The crowd support was great, it was really noisy in here."

The teams traded baskets over the next two minutes until Graham connected on a three pointer from the corner, sending the Pirates on an 11-4 run of their own. Hull capped the run with a four foot jump shot to tie the score 72-72 with 4:31 remaining.

"Graham and Hull really picked it up for us at the end. Graham with the three, and Hull with a couple of three point plays," Friedrichs said.

The Pirates finally regained the lead with 1:02 remaining, after Hull's hustle following his own missed shot forced a key Missionary turnover. Graham was fouled on the subsequent play and made both free throws for a 79-78 Pirate lead.

A jumper by Hull and a free throw by Reeves closed out the scoring for the Bucs as they finished their season 4-8 in conference play and 11-16 overall. Hull and Graham downplayed their personal heroics, preferring to talk about the team.

We just wanted to get one for the seniors," Hull said of his performance. "It was our last home game and coach just asked the team, 'Who wants it more?'

"It was a team effort. Team. Team," explained Graham. "We just wanted to go out with a win."

Hull led all scorers and finished with 23, while contributing nine rebounds and seven assists.

Seniors, Graham and David Hollingsworth, playing in the final collegiate game of their careers, finished with 18 and 4, respectively. Graham also had 10 points for the Pirates.

Women's tennis begins season with win, loss

Joanne Hein
Editor in Chief

The Whitworth women's tennis team began their season last Monday at North Park and 8-1 win over Gonzaga University.

Tanya Jones, Julie Lanister and Cindy Oswald won in straight sets in singles matches against Gonzaga players.

Also in singles matches, Jodi Baxter won 6-2, 6-1; Jodi Baxter lost 6-0, 6-2; Jodi Baxter lost 6-2, 6-2; and Jodi Baxter and Steed won 6-2, 6-1.

On Friday, they played against Eastern Washington University and lost 8-2.

In singles, Jones lost 6-4, 6-4; Lanister lost 6-2, 6-1; Jodi Baxter lost 6-0, 6-2; Jodi Baxter lost 6-1, 6-2; Terrie lost 6-2, 6-4, and Oswald lost 6-0, 7-5. Julie Jones won through in three sets, 6-4, 6-0.

Whitworth also lost three doubles matches, and Lanister lost 6-4, 6-3; Jodi Baxter and Terrie lost 6-2, 6-4, and Jodi Baxter and Steed lost 6-1, 6-1.

The match played at Eastern was played indoors on a gym floor, making it difficult to play.

Neither Gonzaga or Eastern Washington University are in Whitworth's conference or district.

The women's tennis team plays their first home match in two weeks, which should be interesting if the extra sticks around for a while.

SCOREBOARD

MEN'S BASKETBALL

Whitworth College, 89
Seattle University, 49

Whitworth College, 82
Whitman College, 78

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

Whitworth College, 58
Pacific Lutheran U., 60

WOMEN'S TENNIS

Whitworth College, 8
Gonzaga University, 1

Whitworth College, 1
Eastern Washington University, 8

STUDENT TRAVELS MAGAZINE

coming soon to this newspaper on 3/2/93

Council on International Educational Exchange

WHITWORTHIAN • February 23, 1993

SPORTS
A PIRATE UP CLOSE:
RADKE OVERCOMES SETBACKS,
HEADS TO NATIONALS
Joanne Hahn
Editor In Chief

Senior Mindy Radke began swimming when she was 10 years old and has been swimming ever since. "Well, kind of," she said.

Radke swam only half of her freshman season because she had to have shoulder surgery. "I had problems with my shoulder before, but swimming aggravated it," she said. Radke wanted to get an education.

A larger school, she was told she might want to choose an easier major than biology and sports medicine.

"Bigger schools are really into athletics--but I wanted an education, too," she said. "Whitworth was definitely what I was looking for."

Radke loves the atmosphere at Whitworth, "Professors are more than professors," she said. "Having professors as friends is a plus for Radke."

In addition to swimming, Radke is an intern in the Biology Department. She was class president her sophomore year and is a member of the Sports Medicine Club.

"In 10 years where will Radke be? I have no clue," she said. "I want to be working at a job where I'm happy." After graduation, she wants to go to graduate school. But first she wants to take a break. "I need some time off to be in the field and to find my niche," she said.

VITAL STATISTICS
Name: Mindy Radke
Nickname: Radical
Hometown: Saint Paul, Minn.
Age: 21
Year: Senior
Major: Biology/Sports Medicine
Sport: Swimming
Hobbies: Outdoor activities

Women's basketball
loses against PLU
in a close game, 60-58
Steve Flagel
Whitworthian Staff Writer

In a game that had little impact on their playoff chances, but much impact on their confidence, the Whitworth women's basketball team lost a close game to the Pacific Lutheran Lutes in the Fieldhouse on Saturday night, 60-58.

The Pirates' record dropped to 5-6 in conference play. PLU finished their conference season 10-4.

Junior Molly McLaughlin's three-point attempt with seven seconds left was long, and Mical Johnson could not put back the rebound in time expired in the tense, emotional, and confining game.

The Pirates were led in scoring by Johnson, a freshman, with 16 points. Johnson scored most of her points in the second half as the Pirates went to her almost exclusively. She scored 10 of the Pirates' last 13 points during the final eight minutes of the game.

"Mical was stressed very much harder to get open in the second half," said Pirate Coach Lisa Oriard. "She wanted the ball."

Yet, Johnson's and her teammates' efforts were not enough, as senior Amy Yunker led the Lutes, last place in the NCIC, to their second league victory. Yunker had 26 points, including five three-pointers.

"Amy had a huge game," said Lute coach Mary Ann Kluge. "We were looking to penetrate and kick the ball out to Amy, and she kept hitting."

Oriard was criticized by her team's play. "We're having a problem with consistency," she said. "Players who have carried us in the past didn't do the job tonight. We showed a real lack of focus."

But Oriard did not think her team overlooked the last-place Lutes in anticipation of the Pirates' big game at Whitman Monday night. "I told our team that they need to lock up," she said.

The Pirates were clearly the team that felt the pressure in the second half. A three-point basket by Pirate Sophomore Kim McPadden with 10:40 left in the game gave the Bucs a 44-32 lead that seemed secure. But the Lutes countered with four straight baskets to cut the lead to 44-40.

A three-point basket by Yunker and McPadden with 4:09 to go gave the Bucs a seemingly comfortable seven-point lead, 55-48.

But the Lutes outsscored the Pirates 27-17 in the last 3:30 of the game, the winning points coming on a lay-in by Lute freshman Jennifer Riches with 2:37 left.

Both coaches seemed confused with the referees during the game. A total of 11 technical fouls were called on both teams.

"It was wild," said Kluge. "They're [the Pirates] not as well disciplined and didn't establish a flow." Despite the disappointment, Johnson said the loss would not mentally hurt the team against Whitman. "We're still going to win."

"They [the officials] are not consistent and didn't establish a flow," said Oriard. "They [the officials] had no idea what was going on. I don't think anybody on our team deserved a technical."

Despite the disappointment, Johnson said the loss would not mentally hurt the team against Whitman. "We're still going to win."

"We'll be even more determined," she said. But Oriard said that the loss added pressure to the Pirates. "The game against Whitman now means everything for the playoffs," she said.

At press time, the Pirates' playoff fate is still in their hands. A win against Whitman would send the Pirates to the NCIC tournament, the Bucs' record dropped to 3-3.

A three-point basket by Pirate Sophomore Kim McPadden with 10:40 left in the game gave the Bucs a 44-32 lead that seemed secure. But the Lutes countered with four straight baskets to cut the lead to 44-40.

But the Lutes outscored the Pirates 27-17 in the last 3:30 of the game, the winning points coming on a lay-in by Lute freshman Jennifer Riches with 2:37 left.

Both coaches seemed confused with the referees during the game. A total of 11 technical fouls were called on both teams.

"It was wild," said Kluge. "They're [the Pirates] not as well disciplined and didn't establish a flow." Despite the disappointment, Johnson said the loss would not mentally hurt the team against Whitman. "We're still going to win."

"They [the officials] are not consistent and didn't establish a flow," said Oriard. "They [the officials] had no idea what was going on. I don't think anybody on our team deserved a technical."

Despite the disappointment, Johnson said the loss would not mentally hurt the team against Whitman. "We're still going to win."

"We'll be even more determined," she said. But Oriard said that the loss added pressure to the Pirates. "The game against Whitman now means everything for the playoffs," she said.

At press time, the Pirates' playoff fate is still in their hands. A win against Whitman would send the Pirates to the NCIC tournament, the Bucs' record dropped to 3-3.
NEWS

Marriott stops serving food downstairs

Rebecca Jensen
Whiteprehian Staff Writer

With all the lines and crowding that occurred at the beginning of the semester at Marriott, many people were wondering if the dining halls would be closed. A food service coordinator in the spring semester and an increase in student numbers would cause the dining halls to be tentatively closed until further notice.

Jim O'Brien, the director of Marriott Food Services, said that while 69 percent of the students were currently eating meals upstairs and 25 percent at the snack bar, only nine percent were eating downstairs.

"It was really an inefficient situation," said O'Brien. "The staff downstairs would be busy for 15-20 minutes, then end up standing around for the rest of the time."

Although the downstairs will no longer be serving food, students have the option to take their lunches and dinners downstairs Mondays through Fridays. Joy Young, a resident assistant in B1, said to eat downstairs often.

"I know that not very many people eat down there, but that's why I like it. Sure, you can hear people downstairs, but that can be inconvenienced. What if you went elsewhere?" she said.

Jim is planning on reopening the downstairs again in the fall when numbers go up at Marriott. However, the new options that are available this year such as the deli bar, stir fry woks, self-serve ice cream and extended meal times have made the choices for students even greater.

"What it came down to was variety; it was a burden for one chaplain to handle the program, yet service is still up. It must be that kids like fast food better than casseroles and food like that," she said.

Kroideck, a freshman on the track team, has found the half an hour longer meal time at dinner more convenient.

"I've found that I can't take a little more time after practice and still have time to go to dinner," he said.

Dick Mandeville, associate dean of students and director of student life, said the new additions to Marriott, such as the new fry table, will greatly expand the program.

"Jim is a very creative guy. I can trust that he can eventually find a viable option to problems that do arise," he said.

Mandeville urges students who have comments about Marriott to share what they have to say.

Marriott, from p. 1

needs to be owned by the community, not just the chaplain's office. There is energy for Diakonia on this campus, people who will channel the energy into a proper way," said Dye.

Dye, along with other faculty and staff members, are presently looking for outside resources to try to fund the trips.

Kathy Cook, coordinator of cross-cultural programs, Dr. Don Lieben, professor of sociology, Dr. Jerry Stinnett, assistant professor of religion and philosophy, and Vice President of Student Life Dr. Kathy Storm may soon regret to discuss Diakonia's future along with campus resources for service projects.

"Diakonia has not died. We felt it was a burden for one chaplain to handle the program, yet service is an important part of Whitworth's mission. During this one-year hiatus period we hope to expand and fortify Diakonia, and see the larger picture of service opportunities," said Storm.

A service project to Gambell, Alaska is planned for approximately June 10-14 and is open to three to four Whitworth students. Gambell is a remote Eskimo village 35 miles from the coast of Siberia and is the oldest village on the North American continent.

This year the team will be leading recreational activities for youths in school to a school where the team will stay during their trip. The mission project is regarded as a unique cross-cultural experience. Last year we worked at a Presbyterian church in Gambell. We experienced a joyful, true spirit of thankfulness there," said Karen Habbeast, a coordinator of the trip.

The team will begin in recreational activities and will send in their food before they leave, since the Alaskan natives live on walrus, seal and whale meat.

Students with recreational or musical abilities who are interested in completing this service project should contact Habbeast at 482-946.

"The trip to Gambell will not be a traditional Diakonia project, but it sounds like it will be a rewarding experience," said Storm.

...It's all Greek to you...

Comprise the ancient languages with those who will help you apply them to today's contemporary issues.

Our graduates go on to serve in pastoral ministry, counseling, youth ministry, family ministry, urban ministry and a great variety of other Christian vocations, as well as teaching in colleges and seminaries.

We offer eleven MA programs (including Counseling, Youth Ministry, and Christian Education), the Master of Divinity, and the Master of Theology, and we offer competitive financial aid packages.

Call us today to learn more about these programs. You may even want to begin with our Independent Study Program offered by correspondence.

Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary

CRUISE SHIP EMPLOYMENT

Now hiring students, $5000-5000
March 19-22

Includes: transportation, two nights hotel, two days skiing, two breakfasts, hot tub, hot springs and pools; $159 downhill, $115 x-country

Call: Inland Empire Events, (509) 747-1335. Ask for Dick Jensen

FREE PREGNANCY TESTS

Completely confidential. Crisis Pregnancy Center, 682-2843.

NEWS CLIPS

GLOBAL

An Afghanian man, armed with three grenades, hijacked a Russian Tupolev-134 jet Saturday, demanding to go to the United States. The hijacker had his wife and nine-month-old baby on the plane. Three Americans were on board and no one was injured. The crew told the hijacker there was not enough fuel to fly directly to the United States from Estonia, so a stop in Sweden was necessary. After five hours of negotiation with the hijacker, the flight finally took off. This is the third hijacking within the last two weeks.

NATIONAL

Presidents Clinton appeared on television Saturday to answer questions from 40 children from all over the United States at the White House. ABC News anchor Peter Jennings, the president's daughter Chelsea, and her cat Socks helped Clinton through the live broadcast. A child with AIDS asked him what he would do for AIDS research. He told the child with AIDS to buy in there. The more shocking the research is available.

LOCAL

A total of 14 inches of snow fell in the Spokane area Friday and Saturday. The Washington State Patrol said 25 minor accidents on Saturday and 130 on Friday.

SPRING SKIING

WHITWORTH & ANS WORTH HOT SPRINGS

March 19-22

Includes: transportation, two nights hotel, two days skiing, two breakfasts, hot tub, hot springs and pools; $159 downhill, $115 x-country

Call: Inland Empire Events, (509) 747-1335. Ask for Dick Jensen

3/27/93

"The trip to Gambell will not be a traditional Diakonia project, but it sounds like it will be a rewarding experience," said Storm.
U.N. Association Network comes to Whitworth, first one in Washington

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Providing the first United Nations Association (UNA) Network in Washington, Whitworth College has joined 165 other chapters and divisions throughout the United States. However, many students do not understand what the UN or UNA is, what its purpose is, or where Whitworth comes into the picture.

The UNA acts as a sort of mediator between the people and the officials of the UN. It is the most direct way information can be passed on to UN representatives and government officials from the public.

The UN also has practical purposes. Many know it as a force that has helped promote peace throughout the world. In addition to that, the UN also deals with many current social issues that concern America's society today, such as drugs, environmental protection and child mortality.

"The UN opens up a new view of the world," explains sophomore, international student Christian Djalilag from Spokane's UNA network. "It allows students to learn about other cultures and at the same time, build their own," he said.

The United Nations Association (UNA) network at Whitworth offers three opportunities to share with students.

The first and primary opportunity has to do with education. Not only will students have access to information provided by UN publications, books and videos, but also informal classes will be available for students to attend. Students will also have the opportunity to take part in debates and research activities.

"The classes that will be available through these classes will allow students to see problems of other countries in a whole new perspective," said Evana Minjah, vice-president of Spokane's UNA network, and sophomore international student.

The second opportunity the UNA network offers is that of experience. Through various activities, students will gain skills in leadership and debate, and also gain a sense on how to handle things in a diplomatic way. Other possibilities being looked into for the future are debating with other local model UN teams such as the one at Eastern Washington, or traveling to UNA headquarters in New York or San Francisco.

The third opportunity for students to benefit from is through references for the job market - both locally and worldwide.

"I think this is one of those things that with very little money, we have the chance to plug into a national network," said Fred Funisch, dean of enrollment services. "It can also really help students become more politically aware. What better place than the UN to help us do that?"

Dr. Ken Shippe, provost and dean of faculty, agrees that this is an excellent opportunity for students to get involved. "Not only is this program consistent with the mission of the school, but it also allows them a great role playing opportunity, to represent countries and gives them direct contact with the UN and the people who are serving in leadership roles."

Djalilag, who brought the program to Whitworth after spending a month in Geneva, Switzerland at a UN conference, is optimistic about the future of the organization. "I believe if we can make a difference on campus, we can make a difference worldwide," he said.

The network's office is located in Beyond 101, the building behind Grieve. "It makes me happy that Whitworth has such strong support for this organization," said Djalilag.

"And a big thank you for those who let me use this office," he said.

The network is still in the process of expanding, but already has approximately 50 members at Whitworth, and about 150 more in the Spokane area. According to Minjah, membership kits will be available this week sometime, and any interested students are encouraged to call 9349 for more information.

"This network is open to everyone and anyone-from ages five to 55," stressed Djalilag.

"I believe it is no longer sufficient to say, 'I am an American, or I am French,' one must be a world citizen," said Djalilag. "The UN is the only way to keep up in our global society. Tomorrow is made of today's decisions. If we can't change today, we won't be able to change tomorrow," he said.

Annual Mac Hall in Concert this Saturday

Krista Vasquez
Whitworthian News Editor

A memorable moment of last year's Mac Hall in Concert was the marriage proposal of Alan Jackson to Dolly Cooke. This Saturday at 8 p.m. come see what memories this year's Mac Hall in Concert will hold.

"Our main goal is to get the entire campus involved," said senior Chris Ward, Mac Hall upper common room president.

Originally scheduled for the day before Springfest, the concert had to be set back a few weeks due to scheduling conflicts with other campus activities.

Sophomore Peter Larbana, who has been in charge of audiovisual, said there will be 14 acts-five from residens in Mac and the remaining nine from other students and faculty.

Larbana said the faculty scheduled to appear include communication professor Ron Fyle, professor of philosophy Jerry Sittert, and Dale Soden, professor of history/political studies.

The acts range from Stewart Hall's Sound of Music act, standing comedian acts, and from members in the choir, to acts from the intramural teams.

The masters of ceremonies for the night will be senior Ward, sophomore Ron Schueter and Jason Schmidt.

Cost of admission is $2 and all proceeds will go to the chapel.

MOVIE REVIEW: SOMMERSBY
DR. WICKUM PROFILE
A PIRATE CLOSE UP

PAGES
PAGE 5
PAGE 6
PAGE 7

Presidential search committee interviews final six candidates

Julene Luskyer
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Krista Vasquez
Whitworthian News Editor

An outstanding leader, with an enthusiastic commitment to the Children's faith, a belief in the importance of church-related higher education, and a record of effective financial management are a few of the qualifications the Presidential Search Committee is looking for in a new Whitworth College President.

The committee, which consists of faculty, trustees, administration, students and representatives, chose one step closer last week to selecting a new president for the college. It hopes to make its final recommendation to the Board of Trustees on April 1. The board will then make the final decision at their meeting in late April.

Last Monday and Tuesday, the committee spent two full days of campus, hearing, discussing and interviewing with the final five candidates, all of whom are men, for the presidency. Four of the six candidates are current college presidents, yet their names cannot be released because of confidentiality restrictions.

The Whitworthian has learned that it is likely no more than three presidential candidates will be coming to campus sometime after spring break.

Marvin Heps, chair of the committee, said "the interviewings went very well. He said the committee interviewed candidates with a wide range of qualifications.

Committee member Dale Soden, associate professor of history and director of continuity studies, said the committee was very impressed with the accomplishments of the individuals and how they each had different assets to offer Whitworth.

Soden said the challenge of the committee was to "weaken their strengths according to Whitworth's needs."

The function of the committee now is to further narrow the choices and decide who they will invite to visit the campus.

Student representative and ASWC Executive Vice President, Toben Heim, said the decision of who to bring to campus depends on the strengths of the candidates. "While they are on campus, students, faculty, alumni and the administration do the committing," said Heim. "This is a question of who fits best on campus, and who the students want." Heim said.

Both Heim and Soden agreed, one of the highlights of the meetings last week was to actually meet the candidates.

"It was nice to attack a face to a name. Getting a feel for their personality can't always be done through resumes," Heim said.

Cost of admission is $2 and all proceeds will go to the chapel.
OPINIONS

Whitworth must get involved in Springfest

Mother Nature is finally handing over the entire campus to the students. While spring offers many opportunities for the community and the students, it is necessary to involve the campus community and to raise money for a Spokane charity.

The Whitworthian staff submitted anonymous letters to the editor, and thereby got a look at the minds of the students. The way they plan to get involved is to sell advertising or to sell the station. The station was placed on hold last fall, but the station management did not have access to any of those allocated funds after this point. This means that they acquired this deficit in just one and a half months. Without any attempt by KWRS to sell advertising or to attempt any other fund raising campaign, they made the difficult and logical solution of the debt. I would like to respond to Laura Rush's letter. This was in a way necessary to blame Tobi Kimes for the recent problems due to his involvement in the budget committee. Furthermore, I consider the ASWC financial vice president, elected by the students to be a steward of their funds, to inform the ASWC Finance Committee of the problem.

Dear Editor,

I am writing to inform the campus of the previous litigation involving KWRS and to respond to the letter written by Laura Rush. ASWC may have the good will of the event, but its success is contingent on campus involvement.

This means that students, as well as faculty and athletic programs, must show a greater interest. ASWC is only hurting itself if it continues to be a silent partner in this potentially rewarding event.

The Whitworthian Staff

JOANNE M. HEIM ◆ Editor in Chief
KRISTA HUNZINGER ◆ News Editor
DAN HARVEY ◆ Features Editor
DIANE SHERMAN ◆ Photo Editor
JULIE BELLFORD ◆ Advertising Manager
SARAH HORTON ◆ Circulation Manager
KATY GOGO ◆ Copy Editor
GORDON JACKSON ◆ Adviser

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly, except during January and student vacations. Opinions expressed in these are the student's and do not necessarily reflect the views of the students or faculty of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity to otherwise qualified, non-discriminatory students in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972 and Sections 504 and 508 of the Public Health Services Act.

ASWC Financial Vice President responds to KWRS debt, General Manager's letter

Dear Editor,

I am writing to inform the campus of the previous litigation involving KWRS and to respond to the letter written by Laura Rush. ASWC may have the good will of the event, but its success is contingent on campus involvement. ASWC is only hurting itself if it continues to be a silent partner in this potentially rewarding event.

This means that students, as well as faculty and athletic programs, must show a greater interest. ASWC is only hurting itself if it continues to be a silent partner in this potentially rewarding event.

The Whitworthian Staff

JOANNE M. HEIM ◆ Editor in Chief
KRISTA HUNZINGER ◆ News Editor
DAN HARVEY ◆ Features Editor
DIANE SHERMAN ◆ Photo Editor
JULIE BELLFORD ◆ Advertising Manager
SARAH HORTON ◆ Circulation Manager
KATY GOGO ◆ Copy Editor
GORDON JACKSON ◆ Adviser

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly, except during January and student vacations. Opinions expressed in these are the student's and do not necessarily reflect the views of the students or faculty of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity to otherwise qualified, non-discriminatory students in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972 and Sections 504 and 508 of the Public Health Services Act.

The Whitworthian Staff

JOANNE M. HEIM ◆ Editor in Chief
KRISTA HUNZINGER ◆ News Editor
DAN HARVEY ◆ Features Editor
DIANE SHERMAN ◆ Photo Editor
JULIE BELLFORD ◆ Advertising Manager
SARAH HORTON ◆ Circulation Manager
KATY GOGO ◆ Copy Editor
GORDON JACKSON ◆ Adviser

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly, except during January and student vacations. Opinions expressed in these are the student's and do not necessarily reflect the views of the students or faculty of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity to otherwise qualified, non-discriminatory students in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendment of 1972 and Sections 504 and 508 of the Public Health Services Act.
Forensics Team wants equal media coverage

Dear Editor,

The Feb. 23 issue of The Whitworthian had an article on the Whitworth College Bowl. Josh Armstrong was quoted as saying, "It's exciting to see something that's academic for people who aren't sports inclined..." The team is called a "vanity game of the mind."

Unfortunately, due to a lack of recognition at Whitworth, Armstrong and The Whitworthian seem unaware that Whitworth already has a very successful competitive academic team - Forensics.

During the 1992-93 school year, the Forensics (speech and debate) Team has attended four tournaments throughout the Northwest. In November of 1992, the team traveled to Powell, Wyo., to attend two tournaments in one weekend.

At the Northwest College Tournament, Whitworth placed fourth out of 19 schools, and placed first out of 10 schools at the Carroll in Walla Walla for the last tournament of the 1992-93 season.

We hope that The Whitworthian will in the future find the means to support the Forensics team.

Kym Carahanan
Bill Gann
Eric Hard
Nicole Isabams
Cindy Johnson
Margaret Meeker
Paul Spencer
Julie Underwood

Editor's Note: Before this letter was received, a reporter was assigned to write an article about the team, which will appear in next week's issue.

OPINIONS

Will You Be Able to Manage in the Global Marketplace?

The Master's Degree in International Management for Business and Development features:

- Advanced strategic management skills
- Emphasis on the emerging markets of Asia and the Pacific Rim
- An accelerated 15-month track for working professionals
- High-quality overseas internships and opportunities in career placement
- A program applicable to both business and non-profit managers
- Consideration of business ethics and values in a global economy
- Language classes: Chinese, Japanese, Russian, Spanish, French and German

WHITWORTH COLLEGE

Class forming for May and September, 1993. For admission and financial aid information, contact Dr. Dan Sanford, Director, Whitworth Institute for International Management, Whitworth College, 300 W. Hawthorne Rd., Spokane, WA 99251-1103/Phone (509) 624-3424.

THE Crossword by Louis Sabin

ACROSS
1 Secret group
6 Tractable
10 Cheese choice
14 Siag
15 Natural process
16 Tabu
17 Way to fight
19 Hernando de
20 Tennis need
21 N.M. art
22 Vacationed in a way
24 Choo or Thalia
25 Pet Moore
29 City on the Oka
30 Pinder product
33 Commotion
34 Fight site
35 A DiMaaggio
36 Musical conclusion
37 Trapped congers
38 Roger Moore
39 Apply
40 Novices
42 Rhone leader
43 Chow —
44 Neuring or Beasley
45 Take the stump
47 Roof section
48 Gambling spot
49 Wine center
50 Pluto's|
51 Pluto's counterpart
52 New Game
54 84
55 Way to go
56 Right-hand man
57 Contract
59 Pound sound
60 Lunar valley
61 Fr. order
62 Or —
63 Precipitous

6 Nev. lake
7 Hatchets
8 Long-nosed bird
9 Way to measure
10 Follow
11 Way to sell
12 Poker money
13 Humor
18 Brewery unit
23 S.A. slaw
24 Butte's look-alike
26 Rowan and Jev
27 Cooper
28 Way to weave
29 Man-made fabric
30 T. E. Smith
32 Ger. seaport
33 Lyricti Sammy
34 Penthouse
35 Way to see
36 Unfurished
37 Vipers
38 Contract
39 Govt. agent
40 or base
41 They bring
42 Waterway
43 Printing term
44 Electrical unit
46 Waterway
47 Ms. Lighter
48 Brick base
49 Imaginary
50 Vipers
51 Capri for one
52 Vipers
57 Gilbshore

ANSWERS

©1993 Tribune Media Services, Inc.
All Rights Reserved

10820 10763 10703 10643 10583 10523 10463 10403 10343 10283 10223 10163 10103 10043 9983 9923 9863 9803 9743 9683 9623 9563 9503 9443 9383 9323 9263 9203 9143 9083 9023 8963 8903 8843 8783 8723 8663 8603 8543 8483 8423 8363 8303 8243 8183 8123 8063 8003 7943 7883 7823 7763 7703 7643 7583 7523 7463 7403 7343 7283 7223 7163 7103 7043 6983 6923 6863 6803 6743 6683 6623 6563 6503 6443 6383 6323 6263 6203 6143 6083 6023 5963 5903 5843 5783 5723 5663 5603 5543 5483 5423 5363 5303 5243 5183 5123 5063 5003 4943 4883 4823 4763 4703 4643 4583 4523 4463 4403 4343 4283 4223 4163 4103 4043 3983 3923 3863 3803 3743 3683 3623 3563 3503 3443 3383 3323 3263 3203 3143 3083 3023 2963 2903 2843 2783 2723 2663 2603 2543 2483 2423 2363 2303 2243 2183 2123 2063 2003 1943 1883 1823 1763 1703 1643 1583 1523 1463 1403 1343 1283 1223 1163 1103 1043 983 923 863 803 743 683 623 563 503 443 383 323 263 203 143 873

AGAINST ABORTION!

Come to an organizational meeting for a campus Pro-Life Club with ASWC status.

Give us your input.

To be involved?

Faculty welcome

Who: Dixon 113
When: Thursday, March 4
Time: 12:10-1:10 p.m.

Call x4402 for more information.

YOU MAY THINK WE KNOW EVERYTHING —
BUT WE DON'T.

If you have an idea for a story or something to be included in our calendar, please drop a line to The Whitworthian at x430, or bring it by the ASWC office in the KUB.
Sophomore author continues to publish

Lisa Harrill
Whitworthian Feature Editor

JASON ANDREW made a decision to become a writer instead of a computer scientist when he was a senior in high school in Fresno, Calif. He must have made the right decision because, after only two years of college, he has already had three science fiction stories published. Two more pieces, an article and a short story, are in the works.

"Christian Sexuality," an article written by Andrew, will be published in Redbook magazine in April. He also has a short story, titled "Year," at Rolling Stone magazine, waiting to be published when space is available.

Andrew, last year's recipient of the YoungNewburyAuthor Scholarship, submits himself in literature. In addition to his English classes, he works as a consultant in the writing center, and is a member of the Whitworthian literary magazine. In his spare time, he likes to read.

Andrew's reading led him to Whitworth. "The reason why I came to Whitworth was because I had heard about Doug Sugano, last year's recipient of the Young Newbury Author Scholarship. I actually read part of his doctoral thesis and was really impressed with him," said Andrew.

"If it wasn't for Doug and his easy writing class, I wouldn't have been published," he said. He taught himself how to focus on my own writing, be objective, and say this, this and this needs to be done and actually do it," he said.

Sugano said Andrew's improvement has been amazing. "He is very teachable - you can always accept the advice you give him, but he always mull it over," Sugano said.

Sugano said Andrew has got what it takes to be a writer. "He is talented. He has a sense of time, his own sense of time, which is important, and his own vision of reality," Sugano said.

Howard Zehn, the Whitworth plumber, has helped teach Andrew what is important. Andrew explained that Zehn had realized that "Jason has always had the talent and the drive. He just needed a couple people to help guide him."

Movie Review:

"Sommersby" keeps audience guessing

JAMIE FLORIN Whittowshian Staff Writer

It's dramatic and funny. It's romantic and heroic. It's suspenseful and action-packed. It's Sommersby, a new movie by Jon Gere and it's good. What more could you ask for?

Richard Gere and Jodie Foster. Yeah, they're in this movie along with James Earl Jones and Bill Pullman (that actor whose face you recognize but can never remember from where).

A little bit of historical trivia: Sure, this takes place right after the Civil War era and racial tension is at its peak in the South.

A love story and a mystery? You bet! It all takes place in the last two minutes of this flick before you realize who did what.

What more do you need?

This movie is about Jake Sommersby (Gere), a self-claimed "rich and stupid" Southern land owner, who leaves for the Civil War and runs six years later a changed man after spending four years in a Yankee prison camp. He may have changed more than anyone realizes.

His wife Laurel (Foster), her ex-finance, Orin (Pullman), and the family dog, Jethro all notice something different about him.

Sommersby comes back to his land and must decide what to do with all of it. He can't grow cotton because the land is infertile and too dry to grow anything but tobacco. So he talks the entire community of Vinc. Hill into sharecropping (with options to buy) his land to grow tobacco. Even the blacks are allowed a piece of his land.

Historical note: Remember that the Civil War just got over and the South is in its recovery stage. Conditions were poor, especially if you were black, even less if you were black and owned land. And if you were the white man who gave the land to a black, you were just about as popular.

In the middle of the growing season, Sommersby is visited by members of the local chapter of the Ku Klux Klan. He is visited by the Klan. He is visited by the Klan. He is visited by the Klan.

Meanwhile back in the ranch house, Sommersby and Laurel have been becoming rather friendly with one another. It is discovered that she is pregnant and nine months later gives birth to a girl, Rachel Caroline. The incident of the White Chameleons.

Dressed in their white robes and hoods, riding white ponies, they set a cross on fire in the front yard and beat Joseph, the black land owner, Sommersby's freed slave.

So he was killed after a card game in which he got caught Sommersby cheating.

This is where the mystery comes in. Are you ready? Laurel and Orin know that Sommersby is not Sommersby, but the man who says he is. However, Sugano said that, yes, he really is Sommersby, but he didn't kill Conklin. The pseudo-Sommersby's attorney claims that he is Sommersby, but really Orin, a schoolteacher who ran off with some money from the town where he previously worked before being placed in a Yankee prison camp. Sommersby claims he is Orin, Townsend, but that he isn't Townsend.

The judge in the murder trial is played by one of the best actors ever, James Earl Jones.

To prove thatSommersby isn't Sommersby, the attorney places a racist on the witness stand to testify to the black judge and white jury that Sommersby is really Townsend. By proving he isn't, Sugano said Sommersby couldn't have killed Conklin. The case would have been declared a mistrial and everything would have been great.

However, it didn't end that way. Go see the movie for yourself if you want to know what happens to the pseudo-Sommersby or Townsend, which ever he is, to Orin, Laurel and Jethro. Just remember the Kleenex.

"The Ultimate Love Story"

RICHARD GERE FOSTER

Sommersby

"Sommersby" is now playing at Lincoln Heights (535-6226) and at Newport Center (467-4442). Please call for a listing of times.
Zwick wins Ironman Contests

Becky Kilpatrick
Whitworthian Staff Writer

"Not many people know that Whitworth has its own 'Ironman' tucked away in the chemistry department. Ann Tidwell, Professor of Chemistry and Marine Reserves William G. Zwick has participated in the Marine Corps Special Ironman Competition in San Diego, Calif. for the past five years.

Zwick reaches chemistry and physical science during the summer in San Diego at the Marine Enlisted Commissioning Education Program Prep School. During this time he also trains and participates in the Ironman competition. The Marine Corps Special Ironman Competition is different from the competition held in Hawaii and is only for military personnel. Ann Tidwell and Zwick participate - from the Marines as well as the Navy.

The difference in the competition involves running a mile with a backpack containing a 35-pound bag of sand. "This can really turn some people off," Zwick said. "By the time I'm done with that my legs are kind of rubbery."

The second step is an obstacle course which includes rope climbing, going over hurdles and vertical walls, and climbing horizontal bars. These obstacles are completed with a confidence course. Then comes a climb of 40 foot tower and rappel down it.

The fifth step is a two mile run to the bike course and then a six mile bike ride. "The biking is a real for me," said Zwick.

The bike course continues with 40 pull-ups, and then the final step, 500 sit-ups. "I never stop," Zwick said, "and pride myself in that because not many others can do that.

Zwick usually finishes in about one hour and 20 minutes and has placed in the top ten for the past 4 years. Zwick's team has done well also—placing second in 1990 and winning the competition in 1991.

Zwick, 43, is five feet eleven inches tall and weighs 155 pounds. He trains all year for this special event. During the winter, he builds his strength by swimming about 4500 yards a week, lifting weights two or three times a week, and running six miles one or two times a week.

During the spring, he begins working on his endurance. He starts biking everyday for a total of 30 to 50 miles a week. He still swims, lifts weights, and increases his running to four times a week.

There is a psychological need in me to excel physically," Zwick said. "I enjoy pushing my body to the limits."

Zwick has always been active in sports. In high school he was on the track team and ran cross country. In college he continued to run cross country and he played lacrosse. In the mid '70s, Zwick also participated in century and double century biking; biking 100 miles or 200 miles in one day. "I have always kept myself in shape," said Zwick. "I have been running for 30 years now."

Zwick enjoys his training and physical exercise. "It brings about a sense of mental toughness as well as physical toughness," he said.

"There is nothing I can't handle."

In high school he was on the track team and ran cross country. In college he continued to run cross country and he played lacrosse. In the mid '70s, Zwick also participated in century and double century biking; biking 100 miles or 200 miles in one day. "I have always kept myself in shape," said Zwick. "I have been running for 30 years now."

Zwick enjoys his training and physical exercise. "It brings about a sense of mental toughness as well as physical toughness," he said.

"There is nothing I can't handle."

Zwick has always been active in sports. In high school he was on the track team and ran cross country. In college he continued to run cross country and he played lacrosse. In the mid '70s, Zwick also participated in century and double century biking; biking 100 miles or 200 miles in one day. "I have always kept myself in shape," said Zwick. "I have been running for 30 years now."

Zwick enjoys his training and physical exercise. "It brings about a sense of mental toughness as well as physical toughness," he said.

"There is nothing I can't handle."

Zwick has always been active in sports. In high school he was on the track team and ran cross country. In college he continued to run cross country and he played lacrosse. In the mid '70s, Zwick also participated in century and double century biking; biking 100 miles or 200 miles in one day. "I have always kept myself in shape," said Zwick. "I have been running for 30 years now."

Zwick enjoys his training and physical exercise. "It brings about a sense of mental toughness as well as physical toughness," he said.

"There is nothing I can't handle."
Men's tennis loses to L-C State

Brian Coddington
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Sometimes, a rest is just what the doctor ordered. And sometimes it is not.
The Whitworth men's tennis team found this out the hard way.
Sixth-year veteran Jamie McCollin failed to win in a more experienced Lewis Clark State College team after a three-week layoff between matches.
Redshirt freshman Marvin Mathis scored the lone victory for the Pirates (0-2) as the Warriors knocked Whitworth, 6-1, in a non-conference match at L-C State.
Playing in their first match since a 9-0 defeat at Eastern Washington University, the Pirates lost their first five before avoiding the shutout with Mathis' 7-5, 6-0 straight set win in sixth singles.
For Mathis, the win was enjoyable, but came as a little bit of a surprise.
"Going in, everyone thinks they are going to win, but it was a nice surprise to get that because they are supposed to be a really good team," said Mathis.
The Pirates stayed close in several matches and could have easily come out winners in first singles and doubles, but got a couple of bad breaks, according to coach Dave Penton.
Penton lost his singles match in first singles 6-4, 6-4 and then teamed with Steve Vaskavich for a 4-6, 7-6 loss in first doubles.
"Both were really good matches with long points," said Penton.
"I thought overall the team played well. They (L-C State) just had the experience, and as a whole the whole team played well."
Head coach Tim Retzmann pointed to L-C State's experience as a factor in the Warrior victory and said the Pirates may have learned a lesson Friday.
"We have played some straight set matches which makes a huge difference in terms of match experience," Retzmann explained.
The Piratl's return home for a match against Eastern Montana March 11, at 3 p.m.

Other finals were Sophomore Dave Dunn, who lost to Lewis Clark State's Jon Recht and Lori White.
Seven other Pirate women qualified for L-C State's conference match at San Antonio and Rettman said the Pirate women, who had some experience, were able to come out winners in the 100- and 200-yard breaststrokes.
The Pirate men came even stronger, with only one swimmer falling by seven points.

Swim teams place thirds in District I, II championships

Steve Fliegel
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Sixteen Whitworth swimmers are on their way to San Antonio, Texas this weekend in the District I and II championships meet this weekend at the Everett State College pool.
Both the men's and women's teams finished sixth.
The Pirate men were led by Sophomore Matt Boles, who made finals in three events, and Seniors Matt Snow and Kim Coleman, who made finals in two events each.
Boles finished fourth in the 200-yard backstroke, fifth in the 400-yard individual medley, and eighth in the 100-yard backstroke.
He scored 60 of the men's 111 team points.
Coleman had career-best times in the 50-, 100-, and 200-yard freestyle.
His time of 48.23 seconds in the 100 set a new men's team record.
Mike Ashmore, Freshman David Coddington and Freshman Steve Schadt.
Junior Leroy Wissman and Freshman Andy McFarland and Clark Bucham did not score or qualify, but have been strong swimmers during the meet.
The Pirate men came even stronger, with only one swimmer falling by seven points.
The USS women won the meet.
Nani Blake again led the Bucs women, making finals in three events.
Blake finished third in the 500- and 1650-yard freestyle, and fourth in the 200-yard butterfly.
Her district times were slower than they were at the Conference Championships, but that did not concern coach Todd much.
"Nani and a couple of others have improved later in the season, so they already had their national cut," said Dodd.
"Swimmers tend to swim slower mid-season."

Women's tennis team gains a "moral victory"

Brian Coddington
Whitworthian Staff Writer

The Whitworth women's tennis team dropped a 6-3 non-conference match to Lewis Clark State College, last Wednesday.
Whitworth lost its first five singles matches before Cindy Osward registered the first Pirate victory, winning 4-6, 6-4, 6-0.
However, head coach Dr. Rettman was encouraged by the effort of the team.
"It's am really pleased with the match," Wagtuff said.
"This is the first time we have won an individual match from L-C State in three years, so it was somewhat of a moral victory."
The Pirates fared better in doubles matches, taking two of three from the host Warriors.
Tanya Jones and Juliane Luckier teamed to play first doubles and picked up a 6-4, 3-6, 7-6 victory.
"It was a good match," Jones explained.
"It was our first year together and I think we will be a strong team." Luckier also played a tough match at first singles, before falling 7-6, 4-6, according to Wagstaff.
"The match had long rallies and long points. It was good tennis to watch," said Jones.

Fresno State junior and Sophomore Matt Boles was seeded to play third doubles and close out the match with a 6-2, 6-0 straight set victory for the Pirates.
Besides the "moral victory," Wagstaff and Retzmann insist that the team's play provided a preview of things to come in conference play.
"We played a lot of really close matches against the top teams in the country," said Wagstaff. "This shows we will be a strong team in our conference, which is great.
Wagstaff also cited the Pirates' lack of preparation due to the snow on the courts as a reason for encouragement.
"Our practice time has been limited due to the snow," Wagstaff explained.
"North Park has only been able to give us limited practice time, but L-C State plays every day on their own indoor facility, so I feel really good about the match. We are just missing the hitting time right now.
Jones agreed saying, "We only get about an hour a half practice and seven people have to share with Mathich so we are really thin and physically into shape."
The Pirates return March 10 against Eastern Montana in a home match scheduled to start at 2:30 p.m.
A Pirate Up Close: Gilliam has 'that knack'

Joanne Helen
Editor in Chief

Jason Gilliam has been playing basketball since he could walk.

Gilliam grew up in Spokane playing basketball with his two older brothers on the court behind their house. In third grade, he began playing organized basketball and has been playing ever since.

Gilliam came to Whitworth College because he liked the fact that Whitworth is a small school. At Whitworth, he saw a good basketball team and a need for someone to play basketball, he said.

After two strong seasons at Whitworth, this season was harder. "The season was a little rough," Gilliam said. "It wasn't the best year."

Coach Warren Friedrichs and Gilliam was not able to contribute as much this season as he was capable of because there was no one setting him up.

"Jason is a very good three-point shooter," Friedrichs said. "He has a knack for hitting big shots-the last two-three-of-the-game kind of shot." Gilliam said this season put the team on a different level. "After playing in nationals, we were on the other end this season."

Despite having a rough season, Gilliam said the team always stayed together. "We didn't always play very well but we never lost, we all remained friends," he said.

The team is one of the things that Gilliam likes about Whitworth. He enjoys being with the team because they work together so well. "It's a good group of guys," he said.

Friedrichs said that one of Gilliam’s strengths is that he is a consistent team player.

"Where will he be in 10 years? "I could be single or married, here or somewhere else," Gilliam said. "I don't think that far ahead."

VITAL STATISTICS

Name: Jason Gilliam
Nickname: Gill
Hometown: Spokane, Wash.
Age: 20
Year: Junior
Major: Accounting
Sport: Basketball
Hobbies: Golf, water-skiing

Women's basketball wins, loses in District II

Steve Fiegel
Whitworthian Staff Writer

In the span of just one week the Whitworth women's basketball team began and ended a new season.

The Pirates beat Whitman College 74-51 on Feb. 22 in Walla Walla to gain a spot in the NCAC District II playoffs and begin a new season. On Saturday the Bucs fell to Western Oregon State College 74-61 in Salem, Ore., in the first round of the playoffs, ending their season for good.

The Pirates were to Whitman needing a victory to make the district playoffs. They were in over-time when Becky Randall, hit a fade away jumper at time expired. Randall led the pirates in scoring and rebounding with 10 points and eight boards.

The shot Becky took was not exactly the shot we designed for her," said Pirate head coach Lisa Oriard. "After she caught the ball she fumbled it and had to dribble away from the basket. The shot she took was very difficult, but when she let it go we all knew it was going in."

Randall had to shoot over 6'2" Missionary center Jennifer McClure, who had eight blocked shots in addition to her game high 24 points. Most of these blocks came against Randall. "She's a lot taller than I am," said Randall, "but I didn't really think about all the blocks. I was just trying to get the shot off."

After finding 40-29 at the half, the Bucs saw their lead disappear five minutes into the second half. "We came out ready to play," said Oriard. "We were intense and didn't let up on them the whole fast half. Starting the second half we lost a little intensity and that was all they needed."

The game stayed close through the rest of the second half, and regulation ended tied at 70.

The Pirates' shooting touch did not return to the Bucs with them to overtime. Whitman scored the first five points of the overtime period and led 71-66 before McLaughlin hit a three point basket with 1:08 left. "That shot gave the momentum back to us," Oriard said.

After another Whitman miss off the ball, Amy Roberts hit two crucial free throws to tie the game at 71-71 with 31 seconds left. After a time out, the Bucs came out ready to play tough defense. "We were trying to deny her anything," said McLaughlin. "We wanted to play the kind of defense coach talked about all year—intense, pressure defense." It worked.

McLaughlin knocked the ball away from a Whitman player. After a scramble on the floor Pirate Sara Chamberlin and another Whitman player tied the ball up for jump ball. The Pirates had the ball with six seconds left and gave Randall the opportunity for heroics.

Oriard was able to put perspective on the big win. "As long as I have coached here as an assistant and head coach, we had never won at Whitman," she said.

The victory evened the Pirates' overall record at 6-6. Their overall record improved to 10-18.

On Saturday's loss to Western Oregon, the Bucs were hurt by their defensive intensity broken down. "They were trying to deny them something they knew Western Oregon was good at," Oriard said.

Oriard takes the past season as a growing experience for her players. "We had some real low points as well as some high points," she said. "We beat Pacific at home and Whitworth twice. I hope our players remember the things we did right and learn from the things we did wrong. Making the playoffs was an accomplishment."

With only two players graduating, three redshirts returning and a strong recruiting class coming in, Oriard sees a bright future for the young Pirates.

SCOREBOARD

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

*Whitworth College, 89
Seattle University, 49

SWIMMING

Both teams placed sixth in the District I and II championships

MEN'S TENNIS

Whitworth College, 1
*Lewis-Clark State College, 8

WOMEN'S TENNIS

Whitworth College, 3
*Lewis-Clark State College, 6

CORRECTION

The score board was incorrect last week. The women's tennis team lost to Eastern Washington University 9-0, not 8-1.
Students vote Wednesday on ASWC restructuring

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworthian Staff Writer

A unanimous vote by the ASWC Assembly, February 18, the students will vote whether to support or veto the ASWC restructuring proposal on March 3. According to Toben Heim, there must be at least 300 votes cast in order for it to be valid, and it must pass by at least a two-thirds vote. "I hope students will learn as much as possible about this proposal before they vote on it," said Heim. "It has had much support from the assembly and the executive. I hope students give us the chance to implement this program for the good of all of us," he said.

Pyle leads forum on inter-generational communication

Krista Vasquez
Whitworthian News Editor

Do you struggle with the generation gap? If so, then the forum on Thursday, March 10, just may be for you.

Intergenerational Communications: Building Understanding and Relationships will be the topic of discussion. The Elder Forum is a lecture series catering to the interests of senior citizens.

Ron Pyle, assistant professor of communication studies will lead the two-hour discussion. Pyle will discuss how people from different generations can communicate in a more meaningful way, leading to lasting, valuable relationships. Pyle will also address how people who have difficulty communicating across generational barriers can find more common ground.

Pyle will bring his Interpersonal Communication class to the forum and apply its principles with people from other generations.

Elsa D'elloul, executive director of the Lindaman Center said all students are invited to attend. The forum will cost $3.25 and an optional lunch that costs $3.75 will follow. For more information or to make reservations, call the Lindaman Center at 466-3291.

Congratulations to the Forensics team

The Forensics team placed fourth out of 24 schools at the Whitman College Tournament this weekend and placed second overall in their division.

Dr. C. Everett Koop speaks at Forum

Wednesday, March 10, 9-10 A.M.

Come hear the advice of the former U.S. Surgeon General

"Health Care: Our Responsibility"

Please note: There will be no Forum on Friday, March 12.

Career Week

Today, March 2
Dress for Success' Dinner
Seminar Center 6:30 p.m.

Wednesday, March 3
Career Fair '93
HUB 10 a.m. - 1 p.m.

Etiquette Dinner
East Red Room in Marriott 5 p.m.
$9.75 with meal card, $12 without

Thursday, March 4
Monday Career Night
Warren Lounge 6:30 p.m.

Friday, March 5
Liberal Arts Career Fair Information
Student Life 12:30 p.m.

For more information contact Career/Life Advising • 466-3271

LSAT MCAT GMAT GRE SAT

Live MCAT class begins Feb. 20th. Call 455-3703.

FREE PREGNANCY TESTS

Completely confidential. Crisis Pregnancy Center, 462-2643.
Former Surgeon General to discuss health-care reform

Dr. C. Everett Koop addresses health care issues during a two day visit on campus this week

Krista Vaquez
Whitworth News Editor

Dr. C. Everett Koop will give a lecture and engage in an open forum in Cowles Auditorium during his two-day visit to campus sponsored by Whitworth's Campus Compact.

Koop, the Edward B. Lindaman Distinguished Scholar, will give a lecture titled "Health-care Reform: An Urgent Issue." The lecture will take place at 8:30 a.m. on Monday.

Richard Darrow, chairman of the Governor's Task Force on Healthcare Reform and former CEO of Saintatus Bank, will join Koop and give an update on the progress of healthcare reform in Washington.

On Wednesday, March 10 at 9 a.m., Koop will address the students during a special forum titled "Health Care: Our Responsibility." Eta Distinguished, executive director of the Lindaman Center, said the entire region is excited about Koop coming to Whitworth.

Distelhorst said Koop is a man acting on his convictions, and the depth of his value system is what impressed her the most.

"He understands what Christians should act in the world," said Distelhorst. "He is a speaker who will communicate to the region about who we are. He's a wonderful bridge-builder between Whitworth and the community."

"He's reforming his own profession and he's very concerned about his goals," said Distelhorst.

Koop helped reform the medical profession by convincing other physicians that operating on children was different from operating on adults. He was credited with revolutionizing pediatric surgery.

Koop became Surgeon-In-Chief of the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia in 1948 after receiving his M.D. degree from Cornell Medical College in 1941.

Through his work at Children's Hospital, he became known as a pediatric surgeon with an international reputation.

Koop was appointed Surgeon General in 1981 by former president Ronald Reagan. Many conservatives and liberals were astounded with his controversial straight-talk approach to health care issues such as AIDS and abortion.

As Surgeon General, Koop was responsible for the activities of the 6,000 member Public Health Service Commissioned Corps. He informed the public on health matters such as smoking and health, diet and nutrition, environmental health hazards and the importance of immunization and disease prevention.

Koop became the government's chief spokesperson on AIDS, and since his resignation as Surgeon General, he continues to inform the public on health care issues.

Koop has helped produce television shows discussing health-care reform.

He is currently the Elizabeth DeCamp McIntyre Professor at the Darthmouth Medical School. In May of 1992, the C. Everett Koop Institute at Dartmouth was established.

The institute is "devoted to medical education, to reshaping the nation's health care system and to improving the quality of medical care for patients and their families." Koop also stresses in the institute the importance of doctor-patient relationship.

The institute addresses critical issues in health care including lifestyle and disease prevention.

Koop said he wants to "create a doctor for the 21st century, grounded in science and the Hippocratic principles, but infused with the necessity of focusing on the needs of the individuals, the family and the community."

Whitworth joins service coalition

Juliane Lusak
Whitworthian Staff Writer

In December, Whitworth joined 24 other institutions to become one of the newest members of the college service coalition, Washington State Campus Compact.

The WSCC consists of colleges and universities that maintain service as an important aspect of preparing college students for their roles as civic leaders. The members of that coalition strive to integrate service opportunities and service-learning into their campus missions and curricula.

Service learning is the term given to students learning in service experiences through active participation. Terry Pickeral, the state Campus Compact director, said, "Community service provides students with another vehicle to learn." The national organization of Campus Compact started in 1985 by 12 colleges and university presidents. The state Campus Compact formed in October of 1991. Gordon Jacobson, assistant director of student employment at Whitworth, said colleges become members of the coalition when the college president decides to join. The president then designates other staff, faculty and students for the Campus Compact committee. Jacobson said the coalition is an attempt to have a central place on campus dedicated to providing resources to promote service-learning and opportunities.

He said, "I think it's great because Whitworth already has a great tradition for service. It is necessary to keep energy that has already been created and make it easy for people to find those opportunities." Jacobson said Campus Compact provides information in many different aspects of service. Currently Campus Compact is concerned with President Bill Clinton's "Summer of Service" program that he outlined in a speech at Rutgers University last week. He expressed concerns about at-risk children and how proven programs can be used in this area of service. This is just an example of the types of things Campus Compact is concerned with.

The Acquaintance Rape Advocate Group will be receiving the calls, and they have been training for more than two months through the Rape Crisis Network, a program of Lutheran Social Services of Washington. The volunteer group is comprised of seven students and two faculty members from the Whitworth community.

"If students won't hesitate to call if they are in a difficult situation," commented one volunteer in the group, whose name was not released due to confidentiality reasons. "Unfortunately, this is something that does happen on campus and we are here to help when it does," she said. The volunteers are trained for two hours a week and will provide support to students.

"It is a small campus, and for a lot of reasons, people don't like to talk about rape," said Pat Coleman, coordinator of the counseling center and an adviser to the Acquaintance Rape Advocate Group.

However, the volunteers in the group stressed that they are involved in the group as a service to those students in need.

"It's important to get teachers to involve service with their classes. I hope to see that happen more. As a community, we need to be involved in the group as a service to those students in need."

"It is a small campus, and for a lot of reasons, people don't like to talk about rape," said Pat Coleman, coordinator of the counseling center and an adviser to the Acquaintance Rape Advocate Group.

However, the volunteers in the group stressed that they are involved in the group as a service to those students in need.

"It's important to get teachers to involve service with their classes. I hope to see that happen more. As a community, we need to be involved in the group as a service to those students in need."

"It is a small campus, and for a lot of reasons, people don't like to talk about rape," said Pat Coleman, coordinator of the counseling center and an adviser to the Acquaintance Rape Advocate Group.

However, the volunteers in the group stressed that they are involved in the group as a service to those students in need.

"It's important to get teachers to involve service with their classes. I hope to see that happen more. As a community, we need to be involved in the group as a service to those students in need."

"It is a small campus, and for a lot of reasons, people don't like to talk about rape," said Pat Coleman, coordinator of the counseling center and an adviser to the Acquaintance Rape Advocate Group.

However, the volunteers in the group stressed that they are involved in the group as a service to those students in need.

"It's important to get teachers to involve service with their classes. I hope to see that happen more. As a community, we need to be involved in the group as a service to those students in need."

"It is a small campus, and for a lot of reasons, people don't like to talk about rape," said Pat Coleman, coordinator of the counseling center and an adviser to the Acquaintance Rape Advocate Group.

However, the volunteers in the group stressed that they are involved in the group as a service to those students in need.

"It's important to get teachers to involve service with their classes. I hope to see that happen more. As a community, we need to be involved in the group as a service to those students in need."

"It is a small campus, and for a lot of reasons, people don't like to talk about rape," said Pat Coleman, coordinator of the counseling center and an adviser to the Acquaintance Rape Advocate Group.

However, the volunteers in the group stressed that they are involved in the group as a service to those students in need.

"It's important to get teachers to involve service with their classes. I hope to see that happen more. As a community, we need to be involved in the group as a service to those students in need."

"It is a small campus, and for a lot of reasons, people don't like to talk about rape," said Pat Coleman, coordinator of the counseling center and an adviser to the Acquaintance Rape Advocate Group.

However, the volunteers in the group stressed that they are involved in the group as a service to those students in need.
Get involved, change the things you dislike

Sarah Snelling
Editorial Board

Webster defines integrity as "honesty to moral principles; honesty; soundness; completeness." In a practical sense, integrity is the important standard everyone must uphold.

Americans hold their public figures to character standards and justify themselves by saying, "If one lacks good character, one cannot be trusted to run the city/hotel/country." Unfortunately, the general public is not held to the same standard of behavior. Public figures are forced to either hide their private activities, or live an unquestionable life, while the public sees one thing and does another.

Americans need to remember that judgement is not their responsibility and thus integrity is.

Integrity is a wonderful goal. America needs more people who have standards and who are not afraid to defend those standards. It would require a great effort, but think of the possibilities it could bring. If everyone adhered to their morals and practiced honesty, soundness and completeness, the public’s views would be completely revolutionized.

There would no longer be time to judge others. Instead, people would be spending time keeping themselves in line.

The Whitworthian community needs to practice integrity, too. Students need to be responsible to their commitments. They need to be honest enough to admit they cannot do something. They need to be unfailing and stand up for their beliefs.

Whitworth’s atmosphere is conducive to integrity. The mission statement and the personal professor-student relationship offer unique opportunities for people to practice honesty, openness and integrity in a low-risk environment.

All students are invited to air their opinions and voice their concerns. Any student can attend an ASWC meeting and express opinions on Springfest, how student fees are spent, or on new ideas proposed by the assembly. In the same way, any student needing help in class can visit with his or her professor.

Students at Whitworth are fortunate to live in an environment where it is safe to practice integrity. Instead of complaining about things, do something. Stand up for integrity at Whitworth. Do things openly and honestly. Do not do things and ignore things that are done without integrity. Students do have the power. If things need to change, it is their responsibility to get involved and change it.

Sarah Snelling
Editorial Board

The Whitworthian Staff

Jeanne M. Hein • Editor in Chief
Katie Voogt • News Editor
Dale Harrell • Features Editor
Diane Brennan • Photo Editor
Julie Buffington • Advertising Manager
Eric Hart • Circulation Manager
Judy Ogge • Copy Editor
Gordon Johnson • Advisor
Trent House, Sarah Snelling • Editorial Board

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the student of Whitworth College and is published weekly, except during January and student vacations. Opinions expressed are those of the writers and do not necessarily reflect the views of The Associated Students of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity in education and employment in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 and Sections 504 and 508 of the Public Health Services Act.

The Whitworthian

The Whitworthian • March 9, 1993

OPINIONS

Springfests plans underway, organized, running smoothly

Dear Editor,

I would like to respond to last week’s editorial by Trent House regarding ASWC’s role in planning Springfest.

I applaud Trent for his enthusiastic support for ASWC’s annual Springfest celebration. As he pointed out in his article, it is crucial to have a well-organized plan to make Springfest successful.

I agree with him that without the consistent support from our Whitworthian community, this event wouldn’t be worth trying to pull off.

ASWC organized early this year, in hopes of combating some of the logistical nightmares that have occurred with Springless in the past. However, due to obscure job assignments and ambiguous responsibilities, the entire planning process soon became a gargantuan mess.

This semester, the ASWC Assembly and executives re-examined where we were going with Springfest and then made a few changes. I am very pleased to report that things are now running very smoothly with Springfest ‘93.

Our charity this year is Daybreak of Spokane, an organization serving teens and families troubled with alcohol and drug abuse.

We already have fourteen booths reserved by departments and clubs on campus, and we have contacted five camp groups to provide entertainment for Whitworth’s day in the sun at Riverfront Park.

We in ASWC eagerly await May 1, and all the fun and excitement that accompanies Springfest.

If you and your club, faculty department, group, or team would like to sponsor a booth, please contact your ASWC representative, or me at 6376. Please hurry, booth selections are being reserved quickly and space is limited.

Although we in ASWC merely organize this event, Springfest really succeeds when everyone at Whitworth rallies together to show their enthusiasm for our day in the sun at Riverfront Park.

I want you and your club, faculty department, group, or team to make Springfest a success.

Please help us make Springfest a success at Whitworth.

Christopher W. Cornwell
ASWC President

Leavitt Dining Hall’s beauty covered by paint

Dear Editor,

During this last week and a half or so, there has been a painter repairing the halls, and he had paint in Leavitt Dining Hall (a.k.a. Marion), and I commented on it. I wanted to do a great job.

There are some aspects about the dining hall that give it beauty, and those are being covered up.

I think the wood in Leavitt is Wild Cherry or Cherry. It is a wood with natural beauty hiding in it, and it is being covered so no one can see to enjoy it.

The worn and wood are weathered and need to be sanded and refinished. It is being sanded and painted white.

I know some faculty and Marriott employees have tried to stop the painter from doing this, but nothing has happened.

Now I hear that all the wood around the windows is going to be painted. If this happens, only the hall will be left.

Is there anything that students or faculty can do to stop this?

Jared Smith

DO YOU HAVE AN OPINION?

LETTERS to the EDITOR must be signed and submitted to The Whitworthian by 5 p.m. Friday. No anonymous letters will be published. A phone number must be included for author verification. The Whitworthian is not obligated to publish all letters and reserves the right to edit letters.

YOU MAY THINK WE KNOW EVERYTHING — BUT WE DON’T.

If you have an idea for a story or something to be included in our calendar, please drop a line to The Whitworthian at 2482, or bring it to the ASWC office in the HUB.
WHITWORTH SPEAKS OUT

"WHY IS THE NATIVITY SCENE STILL UP IN MARCH?"

KATIE BELLINGHAM, senior

"It's still up because we need to be reminded year round of Jesus coming everyday. (Is that the cheesiest thing you've ever heard?)"

RYAN GLOGERGEN, sophomore

"It's still up because they're just too lazy to take it down."

AMY BEGLEY, junior

"It's still up because it's surrounded by an impenetrable space-alien shield - no one can take it down."

MATT BOLAND, junior

"I don't know. But if they took it down, it would probably stop snowing!"

PELAR WEBSTER, freshman

"It's still up because there is too much "I'll snow to get it out!"

CRYSTAL WOODS, freshman

"It's still up because the weather confuses them. I think Mother Nature is confused."

Photos by Diane Brennan

DR. C. EVERETT KOOP SPEAKS AT FORUM
WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10, 9-10 A.M.

COME HEAR THE ADVICE OF THE FORMER U.S. SURGEON GENERAL

"HEALTH CARE: OUR RESPONSIBILITY"

PLEASE NOTE: THERE WILL BE NO FORUM ON FRIDAY, MARCH 12.

Will You Be Able to Manage in the Global Marketplace?

The Master's Degree in International Management for Business and Development features:

- Advanced strategic management skills
- An emphasis on the emerging markets of Asia and the Pacific Rim
- An accelerated 15-month track for working professionals
- High-quality overseas internships and assistance in career placement
- A program applicable to both business and non-profit managers
- Consideration of business ethics and values in a global economy
- Languages offered: Chinese, Japanese, Russian, Spanish, French, and German

WHITWORTH COLLEGE

Classes forming for May and September, 1993. For admission and financial aid information, contact Dr. Dan Sanford, Director, Whitworth Institute for International Management, Whitworth College, 300 W. Hawthorne Rd., Spokane, WA 99251-1103/ Phone (509) 466-3742
Howard Stien impacts campus, often misunderstood by students

Lisa Harrell, Whitworthian Feature Editor

In the 28 years he has been at Whitworth, Biology Professor Howard Stien has impacted faculty, students and Core 350. Yet, he is misunderstood by a lot of people.

Stien left the farm at age 12 to go to school and become a preacher. "For a while, I was a student, that being a professor seemed like interesting work," said Stien. "But then I realized it was too much of a thing to do for a while after that, I went to school and became a preacher."

In 1965, he came to Whitworth where he has taught a variety of biology courses. "Some of these classes are more technical and some of them have to do with the science of life," said Stien. "But it doesn't matter how technical you are, you have to be able to communicate with the student."

Stien has been instrumental in shaping the theater arts department. "I think we are doing more and better theater now than ever before," said Stien. "Yet, I also know that we have room for improvement."

Stien is unsure about exactly when he will retire. "I know it's going to be OK because Pat Stien, as well as I and many others, are actively praying that the Lord will be ready when the time is right."

Stien began teaching at Whitworth in the fall of 1965. At that time, Pat Stien had not intended to teach at Whitworth. She had been working for several years while her husband was in graduate school. "I was an ambitious woman," said Stien. "I was a freshman student and she was a new teacher."

Pat Stien's "time off" turns into 26 year career

Dave Phillips, 1992 biology graduate, said, "He is like a tough father figure - he makes you feel almost afraid to approach him, but when you do, you find out he's not like that at all," said Phillips. "You can't always tell at the end of a semester or the end of the day if you've accomplished anything, he said.

Stien has enjoyed working at the same school as his wife, Pat. "We've been able to keep our identities in an interesting way," said Howard. "I enjoy driving to work with her every morning." Stien looks forward to more time with his wife since they retire. "We want to travel, I will likely build my own house - that is something I really like to do, and we both have some writing projects," said Stien. "We will both be missed."

"I am trained to do and it's true in some of the other disciplines. I am trained to do," said Stien. "I have been instrumental in interpreting area, and it's true."
Hidden talent emerges during concert

Carley Burrell
Whitworth Staff Writer

For just $7, Whitworth students filled the Cowles Auditorium Saturday night to be entertained by Mac Hall in Concert. The event is an annual variety show that happens in the spring. The purpose is to "involve the whole campus and especially Mac Hall students," said Anthony G. Hamann, director of human resources at Whitworth. The show is attended by all students and faculty, and the proceeds go to a scholarship fund for students with a variety of talents.

The show was opened by ten different acts, each with a unique talent. The acts ranged from traditional music to modern dance, and each received a round of applause from the crowd. One of the acts that stood out was a student who performed a spoken word piece, "I am not broken". The act was powerful and emotional, and the audience was moved by the message.

The show was hosted by Anthony G. Hamann, and he introduced each act with enthusiasm and excitement. The acts were well-received by the audience, and the show ended with a round of applause for all involved.

The show was a great success, and it was clear that the talent at Whitworth is abundant. The event was a great opportunity for students to showcase their skills and for the audience to enjoy a variety of entertaining acts. The show was a testament to the diversity and creativity at Whitworth, and it was a night to remember for all who attended.
Blake, Snow and swim team head to Nationals

Brian Coddington
Whitworth Staff Writer

"I'm sure he has got his faults. I just have not seen any," said Whitworth Coach, Randy Russell. He was talking about Pirate pitcher Alan Johnson.

Born the son of a pastor and former University of Oregon baseball player, Johnson's talents are clear in three things in life: religion and baseball. "My father introduced me to the game, but there's never any pressure to play," explained Landers. "Baseball just became my favorite sport."

Landers has always been intense," said District meet coach Tom Dodd. "Steve Flegel and I are considered little contred- ences in our league. Both have had the best year of their college career to this point of the season. Both have put in up to 70,000 yards of practice a week during the heart of the season. But each has taken a different journey to get to this point.

Snow has been the most successful swimmer in Whitworth history. In the 200-yard backstroke, Snow has had the 13th and 14th fastest times in his first three years. He has also been an NAIA All-American in the 100-yard backstroke and the 100-yard butterfly.

Snow's career to succeed has always set a standard for the rest of the team, according to Dodd. "Matt has always been intense," said Dodd, but this season's he's even more so. He has a clearer purpose.

Snow gives credit for his extra determination to teammate Matt Bole. The emergence of Bole, a sophomore, as a top NAIA backstroker has given Snow the added competition he needs to succeed.

"The competition between Matt (Bole) and me has been very positive," said Snow. "We push each other hard every day, and that has built mental toughness in both of us. Some days he beats me and other days I beat him. I never get down because I know I have another shot at him the next day."
Merkel REMAINS A VITAL PART of Whitworth Athletics

Brian Coddington
Whitworthian Staff Writer

He will forever be known as "Coach."

A quick glance into his office reveals a modest man surrounded by stacks of paper, sitting quietly behind his typewriter. The only sounds in the room are the click of the old-fashioned typewriter and the mo­notonous creak of the window shades.

His name is Paul Merkel.

The 1940 graduate of Palouse High School first took root on the Whitworth campus in the fall of that same year, when he began his first stint with Whitworth as a student. Merkel came to Whitworth as a student, then as a faculty member and later as the athletic director, and finally as the Athletics Director for Whitworth. First as a student, then a faculty member, coach, and finally as the Athletics Director for Whitworth.

His name: Paul Merkel. His legacy: a man surrounded by a large family.

When it wasn't baseball season, he went to every athletic event going on, he still does. "He's a very dependable person who is just out to contribute to the good of the total program."

As a coach, Merkel never let baseball become winning alone. Instead, it was an education about tradition, commitment, and pride.

He was interested and personally involved in every player, not just as a player, but as a person. He pushed and pulled some through practice. He would come and coach, go a long way in developing a team. They weren't expected to do much more than show up that year.

But show up they did. Led by Merkel and Most Valuable Player Ray Washburn, the Pirates compiled a 20-8 record on the way to winning Whitworth's only national championships in a team sport.

The impact of the 1960 season is still felt today both on and off the field. Current basketball coach, Randy Russell, credits Merkel with putting Whitworth baseball on the map.

"This stack Whitworth baseball from college base­ball to elite college base­ball. Whitworth became the first NAIA school to compete with the (NCAA) Division I teams," Russell said. "He put Whitworth on the map with the NAIA. The field being named after him is a long way in showing his impact on Whitworth baseball."

However, Merkel down-plays his role with the success of the team, saying, "We just had good athletes."

Such understatement typifies Merkel's humble attitude. "He never expects anything," said Whitworth's football coach, Shonny Bennett. "You can always count on Paul Merkel; he's Mr. Reliable."

Retired tennis coach, Russ Cutter, echoes Bennett's sentiments.

"He (Merkel) had pneumonia that year, but it didn't keep him away from practice. He would come and coach from a chair in center field. They weren't expected to do much more than show up that year."

Irene Merkel, looking back on the 1960 baseball season, said:

"When it wasn't baseball season, he went to every athletic event going on, he still does. He's a very dependable person who is just out to contribute to the good of the total program."

As a coach, Merkel never let baseball become winning alone. Instead, it was an education about tradition, commitment, and pride.

"He's the kind of guy people want to see when they come back to visit Whitworth. He has made a lot of friends over the years. I admire him for that," said Cutter.

And although it has been 13 years since he managed his last game, to students at Whitworth, he is still the "Coach."
Brett Webb-Mitchell returns to tell stories and say final goodbye

Krista Vazquez
Whitworth News Editor

While a professor at Whitworth, Dr. Brett Webb-Mitchell wanted to help students understand that knowing and going to be together. But when he returns to campus on March 9, 2013, he will find himself in a different mission.

"People separate being from knowing... I try to help students understand the two together... that's it. It's a whole sided way of understanding life" Brett Webb-Mitchell

Webb-Mitchell will lead a forum titled "Navigating Lost in an Alien Land: The Spiritual Journeys of Children with Disabilities." He comes as a storyteller to share the experiences of children that have had behavioral and emotional disabilities.

Webb-Mitchell, an education professor and a member of the Core 150 team, taught at Whitworth between 1989-1991. "I didn't want to leave, but I'm glad I did," he said.

He and his family moved to Florida, where he worked as the director of religious life at the Devereux Hospital. The majority of the stories he will tell are from his experiences at the Devereux Hospital.

Webb-Mitchell said the stories will be about children with emotional and behavioral disabilities who are locked in institutions. "I consider these children to be the neediest among the needy," he said.

He said these children have fragments of the gospel and don't know what it means. "Help children put the gospel into context," he said. "How?" Webb-Mitchell said he will tell these stories to help students understand that knowing and going to be together.

McHugh returns to campus

Janet Green
Special to the Whitworthian

Heather McHugh, Writer in Residence for Whitworth College last fall, will be returning to campus on March 28, by the sponsorship of the Lisa Wallace-Reader's Digest Writing Fellows Program.

The Lisa Wallace Program sends McHugh to Whitworth as a result of a grant written by Doug Sagan, associate professor of English. The program's purpose is to bring the last contemporary writers to small campuses in the hopes of stimulating a greater appreciation for language and visual arts.

McHugh will be conducting manuscript conferences with students, faculty members or community residents interested in spending an hour discussing their work with her. She will also meet with classes to conduct lectures and public readings.

McHugh was among the college's top five choices for Writer in Residence. The list has consisted of well known and highly respected authors.

"We're lucky to have her. She is not only a good poet, but a good teacher. And not all good poets are good teachers," said Sagan.

Last fall, McHugh met with the Poetry Writing Workshop, and the Introduction to Creative Writing classes. She also conducted manuscript conferences for students, faculty and members of the Spokane community.

McHugh, who received her M.A. in English from the University of Denver in 1972, is currently a professor of English and Milliman Writer in Residence for the University of Washington.

McHugh is the author of five collections of poetry including "The Quick," and "Permutations." This year, McHugh is expecting the publication of two new books - one of poetry and one of essays.

On April 1, McHugh will lead a lecture and discussion with Eldershost.

On April 5, she will introduce Yosha poetry, a West African art form, in an evening lecture in the Music Recital Hall. A reception and book signing will follow.

McHugh will also be reading at Auntie's Bookstore, 313 Riverside, on April 7.

New regulations help campus parking problem

Amber Jaquis
Special to the Whitworthian

The doubling of parking fines, as well as other new and tighter parking regulations, have helped control the number of repeat violators in the auto boot.

The auto boot is a mechanical device that clamps over the back wheel, preventing the vehicle from moving. The boot is only used after the student has had at least three citations for the same offense, such as not registering their vehicle, or parking in the same illegal spot repeatedly.

This year, the boot has been applied twice, but only after several service visits, or pay to park permits.

Core 150 set up, with SERVE being the connection. She said the goal of SERVE is to connect people with service opportunities in Spokane, as well as being a resource for community organizations which seek volunteers. The SERVE program also tries to provide programming where students actually experience helping others.

The service theme seems to be strong at Whitworth and the Campus Compact is intended to strengthen this theme. As Truitt said, the Core 150 program provides students with the opportunity to go out and help in the Spokane community. Each student must choose one service location and then write a reflection paper on the experience.

English Professor and Core 150 advisor, Linda Hunt, said it is an opportunity for students to see the variety of options available. It makes it possible for students to look at something completely different. "As a faculty member, I've seen how very important this is for students. Students tell us it's a real eye opener," she said.

The task of the Campus Compact Committee is now to meet and implement some of the service ideas they learned as a recent Campus Compact workshop held at Gonzaga.

Jacobsen said they intend to work with the Associated Students of Whitworth College and programs such as SERVE to provide mobility for the service aspects of these positions, since new people work in these areas every year.

The SERVE program and the Core 150 projects are examples of service at Whitworth, and the Campus Compact has been added to the Whitworthian in order to enhance and expand these service opportunities.

The Whitworthian will be March 30.
Presidential Search Committee invites top candidate to campus

Dr. William Robinson of Manchester College will be on campus April 6-8

Manchester College has experienced a 22 percent increase in student enrollment and a 40 percent increase in annual giving. Robinson has a Ph.D. from the University of Pittsburgh, a M.A. from Wheaton College, and a B.A. from the University of Northern Iowa.

He and his wife Bonnie have three children-Brenna, Bailey and Benjamin.

Greg Hamann, executive secretary for the search committee, said he believes it is Robinson's level of energy that impressed the committee.

"I think he is very interested in coming to Whitworth College," he said.

Toben Heim, student member on the Presidential Search Committee said, "It's a good opportunity for the committee to observe Bill's interaction with the different constituents on our campus."

In a telephone interview, Robinson said "I hope to make certain to accurately identify the mission of Whitworth College." Robinson said he has read the mission statement in the college catalog and said that by visiting Whitworth, he hopes "the stated mission is the lived mission."

Robinson also said he hopes the visit will help his "family make certain that it is a good fit for their perspectives."

"Finally, I hope to get to know the faculty and to find out more about them," Robinson said.

Robinson said educationally, Whitworth is similar to Manchester in that they are both "mission institutions. They both have rather distinctive missions and approaches to education."

"They are both excellent academically, but underexposed due to the quality of the program," he said.

Robinson said interacting with students is very important.

"I hope there will be time that will be spent with the students. It is more helpful and meaningful to visit with the students."

Fifty students will have the opportunity to visit with Robinson during a dinner on Tuesday, April 6 at 7 p.m. in Lewitt Dining Hall. Tickets for this event will be available in the ASWC office.

On Wednesday, April 7 at 4:30 p.m. in the HUB, Robinson will be at an All-College Reception with the Whitworth community.

Increase in college costs for students necessary

Juliane Luusler
Whitworthian Staff Writer

On March 1, students received a letter announcing the increase in tuition and room and board at Whitworth next year. Tuition increased $870, a 7.9 percent increase from last year. Room and board will increase $225 which is a 5.5 percent increase. This makes the total cost based on a double room, 20 meal plan, $16,140.

Tom Johnson, vice president for business affairs, said the increase is necessary to cover the increasing costs of operating a college. This includes general operating costs and inflation, but he said these alone do not justify the increase to students.

"One of the big issues we're trying to address is faculty salaries and academic support," he said.

This includes classroom resources, supplies, the new library, travel for professor's meetings, professional, and other things to maintain and enhance the academic program.

"These areas have been cut in the last few years. The college needed to be responsive to that," he said.

Toben helps students deal with these increases, Dean of Enrollment Services Fred Plumich said the financial aid budget increased 8.5 percent for next year. He said about 85 percent of students at Whitworth receive financial aid.

Johnson said students will receive over $4 million in institutional funded grants next year. A new federal financial aid policy will also make more money available in loans, Plumich said.

Although prices at Whitworth continue to increase, Director of Financial Aid Mark Duris, said schools need to increase prices above the rate of inflation because academic resources and technology is more expensive to schools than normal products are to everyday consumers.

At Whitman College, tuition will increase 9 percent and room and board will increase 5.6 percent next year. Ron Urban, Financial Director for Student Life, said schools need to increase prices above the rate of inflation because academic resources and technology is more expensive to schools than normal products are to everyday consumers.

At Whitworth College, tuition will increase 9 percent and room and board will increase 5.1 percent.

"We're trying to promote health and wellness, good decision making and open and honest communication. The issue is health when it comes to on-campus contraceptives," said Storm.

Storm said his decision needs to be consistent with the college mission. "We're not going to work on putting in writing, even for our own clarity, what the college policy is," said Storm.

"A large part of the conversation had to do with what kind of counseling and education we will provide for students...that is our first commitment and it always has been," said Storm.
Voting is your right

Trent House
Editorial Board

Whitworth students are being victimized. The tragedy is that they are choosing to victimize themselves.

Every year following Spring Break, the majority students choose not to participate in a process that is designed for their own benefit. The ASWC Constitution sets aside two weeks for the purpose of electing new ASWC executives. And every year less than one third of the students take advantage of the opportunity.

If you knew what was at stake, maybe you would be more attentive. First of all, ASWC executives work with an annual budget that exceeds $100,000. Each student commits $10 per school year to fund this operation. At the end of each school year the newly elected executives appoint a committee to help allocate those funds for the following year.

By not voting, by not attending the scheduled debates, by not seeking out a candidate and finding out where they stand on the issues, especially at a school the size of Whitworth, you effectively nullify your ability to have any say where $100,000 will be spent.

In the past, the administration has approached ASWC executives to help them deal with these issues. The administration charges the actions of your executives as being representative of the students' opinions.

Here are just a few of the issues that executives have met to discuss with the president and other administrators in the past three years. How do students feel about the plus minus grading system, tuition increases, development of the Student Union Building, the potential of building the second phase of the Music Building to include the theater and fine arts.

While the most crucial of decisions are left to the powers that be, the student input on these issues is made through the offices of the three executives.

Do you have an opinion on any of these issues? What is it? How would your candidate respond to these issues? How can you find out what they think?

The people elected into those offices retain the same amount of influence among administrators whether or not you vote. The difference is whether your opinion is included.

The election process is not about the candidates and their ideas. The election process is first, about vocalizing what your concerns are to those people who will be in the best position to convey that opinion to others. Second, elections allow you to find out for yourself who will represent you during the next year.

Do not allow yourself to sit back and feel the effects of others' decisions. College is a time for you to learn to effectively voice your opinions. The election process allows you that freedom.

Please use that freedom.

The Whitworthian Staff

Joanne M. Heim * Editor in Chief
Krista Vasquez * News Editor
Les Harrell * Features Editor
Diane Brennan * Photo Editor
Julie Belfington * Advertising Manager
Eric Hurst * Circulation Manager
Judy Gage * Copy Editor
Gordon Jackson * Adviser

Trent House, Sarah Seelinger * Editorial Board

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly, except during January and summer vacations. Opinions expressed are those of the writers and do not necessarily reflect the views of The Association of Students of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity in education and employment in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 and Sections 504 and 508 of the Public Health Service Act.

Koop's statement not an authority

Dear Editor:

This letter is in response to the statement by Dr. C. Everett Koop that "our world is not over populated—we still have plenty of land to develop."

1. I admire his accomplishments and his position in society, but he does not have the background to be an authority on this issue. The statement he made must be taken for what it is—his own opinion.

Koop is very conservative in his viewpoints, which is his right. His generation trusted on this type of philosophy, and consequently made the United States a great nation. Unfortunately, the side effects of this have been destructive on the environment. The responsibility not only belongs to the United States, but to the majority of the world's modern cultures.

I would like to think that we plan on preserving this earth for more than the next few centuries. If this is correct, Koop's philosophy has no place in the new world.

I urge you to become educated on the subject. Read literature on this subject or take advantage of courses at Whitworth by Ecology Professor David Hacks.

The future of our planet and our species depends upon an educated youth. Resources are readily available to become educated, so use them.

Koop neglected to mention that other species inhabit this planet and have a right to live here. We do not have the right to directly or indirectly destroy them to inhabit the land on which they live. Our own survival is dependent upon the ecosystems that the animals create.

Koop called people who oppose environmental destruction terrorists, but in reality, it is people with his view that are the terrorists. It seems logical to me that God intended for us to live in harmony with his creation, not to dominate and pervert it.

If we really want change and a positive future for our children and our species, discard the obsolete philosophy Koop displayed with his off-hand remark.

It is easy to follow his view, but to not think of the future of the earth and its inhabitants is weak in every respect.

Alan Stone

DO YOU HAVE AN OPINION?

LETTERS to the EDITOR must be signed and submitted to The Whitworthian by 5 p.m. Friday. No anonymous letters will be published. A phone number must be included for author verification. The Whitworthian is not obligated to publish all letters and reserves the right to edit letters.

YOU MAY THINK WE KNOW EVERYTHING—BUT WE DON'T.

If you have an idea for a story or something to be included in our calendar, please drop a line to The Whitworthian at *839 or bring it by the ASWC office in the HUB.
WHITWORTH SPEAKS OUT

"WHAT DID YOU THINK OF THE MIKE TUCKER FORUM?"

STACY SAWYERS, senior

"It was very informative. We all put such a stigma on homosexuality. They are forgiven and need to realize that."

AARON McMURRAY, sophomore

"I agree that as Christians, we need to love the sinner. We must be sympathetic to the trials that homosexuals in our society face."

KRISTIN OTA, sophomore

"It was interesting. I've never known anyone with HIV or AIDS. It was good to hear his story firsthand."

BOB BARR, senior

"It was educational and a good idea to have someone give a personal reflection on such a controversial topic."

MONEE HAMM, sophomore

"It was a timely topic. We can't continue to turn our heads on these topics — homosexuality and AIDS."

ALYSSA HUMPHRES, senior

"It makes it much more personal when you hear a real person's story."

FROM THE REGISTRAR...

PRE-REGISTRATION COMING UP

Graduate and post-baccalaureate students may pre-register any day, any time. Any student may pre-register after the scheduled time.

TO PRE-REGISTER:

1. Complete your registration form with your adviser. Be sure to list alternate choices in case your first choices are full. Meet with your adviser during Advising Week (March 29-April 2). Be sure to obtain your adviser's signature on your registration form.
2. Check the timetable below for your scheduled day and time. Please DO NOT attempt to register early.
3. Proceed to the Office of the Registrar in McEachran Hall at your appointed time.

The Announcements of Course Offerings will be available at several distribution sites: Lemitt Dining Hall the HUB, the Library, the Registrar's Office.

CLASS STANDING DATE LAST NAMES TIME
Senior Monday, April 5 M-Z 10-11 a.m.
A-L 11 a.m.-noon
Junior Monday, April 5 T-Z 1-2 p.m.
M-S 2-3 p.m.
G-L 3-4 p.m.
A-F 4-5 p.m.
Sophomore Tuesday, April 6 A-F 1-2 p.m.
G-L 2-3 p.m.
M-S 3-4 p.m.
T-Z 4-5 p.m.
Freshman Wednesday, April 7 N-P 1-2 p.m.
A-C 2-3 p.m.
W-Z 3-4 p.m.
T-V 4-5 p.m.
Thursday, April 8 D-H 1-2 p.m.
Q-S 2-3 p.m.
I-M 3-4 p.m.
Open 4-5:30 p.m.

Note: * You may make changes to your fall 1993 schedule after April 8 by submitting a Drop/Add form to the Office of the Registrar. * Students who wish to pre-register may submit a pre-registration form to the Office of the Registrar after April 8. * Class standing is based on credits earned to date; it does not include credits in progress. * Students who wish to sign up for music lessons must do so in the Music Office prior to your scheduled time.

Mac Hall says thanks

Dear Editor,

We at MacMillan Hall would like to express our extreme gratitude to all of the students who participated in Mac Hall in Concert this year. We would also like to thank the stage crew, for without them, the production would not have been possible. Thank you to everyone who came and watched the performance. Lastly, our commendation goes out to Stewart Hall. Hey, we thought "Do You Wanna Get Rocked?" would fluster you, but you reacted remarkably. Congrats.

Mac Hall

FREE PREGNANCY TESTS

Completely confidential. Crisis Pregnancy Center, 482-2843.

"I have a lot of determination to make great things happen in our student government next year. I would appreciate your vote."

JULIE BUFFINGTON

FOR E.V.P.

FOCUS + EXPERIENCE = EXCELLENCE
FEATURES

Trumpet soloist blows judges away at jazz festival

On Feb. 25, 1993, the weather was miserable in Moscow, Idaho. It was cold and grim outside, but in the music buildings of the University of Idaho, the jazz was hot and alive.

Freshman Eric Moe remembers that day well. That was the day his parents, two of his friends, some music judges and the soundmen were the only audience to hear his award-winning performance. The judges had already selected Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival held at Whitworth as a soloist. That highlighted his talents, he won the jazz trumpet soloist competition and the Signature E Flat trumpet as his prize.

The Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival, held every year, is a chance for jazz groups from all over the west to come and compete. Groups of all levels, including high school, college, and professional, are represented. This year, schools from as far away as Brigham Young University, Utah State University, and as close as Washington State University came to compete.

Big name artists also performed in the concerts. In past years, Lionel Hampton, who is the competition named after, has performed. This year Arturo Sandoval played. Sandoval is known as a jazz trumpeter and is Moe's current idol. "I got to meet him, get his autograph and listen to him play twice. He does a lot of everything—classical, jazz, Latin. I'd love to play like he's doing at the 1993 festival," Moe said.

It's ironic that when you talk to Moe's fellow jazz band members, they say the same thing about him. Freshman trombone player Mike McElroy said, "Eric doesn't have any bad points. His stylistic abilities are good. Jazz, improv, it's all there."

But things didn't sound so great in the beginning for Moe. His mother remembers when Moe started to play in the fifth grade. "His neighbor would call when Eric practiced and laugh. 'It's terrible!' she would say. One day last year while Eric was practicing, [the neighbor] called and said 'I don't laugh anymore!'"

One word that Moe's mother is reminded of when asked about her son is "practice." "He never complained about carrying the trumpet case. His brother complained every day, but not Eric," Keith Nielsen, Moe's high school band director, and Whitworth junior Wendy Arsalde are both reminded of his dedication. "It's an outstanding trumpet player...very dedicated," said Nielsen. Arsalde, who played with Moe in grade school, added, "He never relied on his talents. He never slacked off."

This is a signature event of the festival for Moe. "In two hours a week, he is working extremely hard to perfect his playing," Nielsen said. "Eric is very focused. I think in the next year, I'll be teaching in a small high school on the Oregon Coast, with my family moving to competitions and taking finals, Moe said.

"When asked if he intended to go professional he said, 'I'll always play...who knows, more and more playing opportunities are opening up to me,' Nielsen and Arsalde both agreed this would be a good year for Moe to take. jokingly, Arsalde said 'Eric will be a sweaty bald man playing trumpet in a smoky New York nightclub!'"

However, Moe's definition of success doesn't include New York nightclubs. He defines success as "feeling good about what you've done and not having to compare yourself to others. I will be successful when I can get on stage and play a ballad and make people cry."

Emotions rang high on Feb. 25. Moe was nervous and jittery and his parents were nervous and anxious. But through it all, Moe knew who to thank. "I realize that God has given me a gift and I'm able to use it and expressing music is a real gift from God," he said.

---

Storyteller to entertain, educate

Carley Burrell
Whitworth Staff Writer

The cultural heritage of African-American slaves on Sapelo Island, off the coast of Georgia, comes to the Whitworth community through the storytelling talents of Diane Ferlatte on April 2. The cultural heritage of African-American slaves on Sapelo Island, off the coast of Georgia, comes to the Whitworth community through the storytelling talents of Diane Ferlatte on April 2.

Bobbi Patterson, associate professor of theater arts, first saw Ferlatte perform at a workshop last spring at the National Association for the Preservation and Perpetuation of Storytelling conference. "I was taken by her work," said Patterson, "I was so impressed; I knew I had to see her."

Ferlatte then performed at the forum and had remarked on how powerful was his talent. She invited Ferlatte to perform at the Cowles Memorial Auditorium that night at 8 p.m. "I hope the entertainment value that he'll bring, said Stien.

Ferlatte will speak in Forum on Friday, April 2, as well as give a performance in the Cowles Memorial Auditorium at 8 p.m. "People have to come and see to believe what a great brown skin ballad and make people cry."

---

Int'l Banquet shows cultural environment

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworth Staff Writer

Traditional food from seven countries and cultural performances highlighted the year's International Banquet at a packed Fieldhouse last Saturday. Master of Ceremonies Sujoy Saha from India and president of the International Club Wai Kuen Hsi from Hong Kong guided the audience through the 12 performances. Acts included a Mexican dance, Chinese dragon dance, a jazz piano quartet, and many more.

---
FEATURES

Michael W. Smith comes to Spokane
Christian artist attempts to 'Change the World'

Carley Burrell
Whitworthian Staff Writer

He is the winner of the 1992 Grammy Award for Best Contemporary Christian Artist/Adult Contemporary. "I have written more than 200 songs and six previous albums sold over three hundred million units worldwide. He is currently touring 63 U.S. cities. His name is Michael W. Smith and he is attempting to "Change Your World.""

"I believe we can change the world," said Smith, "we can make it a better place for others."

Julie Taylor, a Whitworth student who is going to Smith's concert on March 7 at the Spokane Coliseum, believes he is working to change the world. "I am supportive of his music," said Taylor. "I believe what he is striving to do is incorporating his value system and view of Christ into positive music for young people." Smith says his music is an attempt to counteract all of the negative music available today. By playing music that appeals to the Top 40 and Adult Contemporary crowds, Smith is "opening doors to a new audience," he said. In doing so, he's even fooling people because they might not listen to Christian music even if they wanted to," he said.

Smith, who has been a big name in the Christian music world since 1983, recently gained popularity in the eyes of secular music listeners with his latest albums "Go West Young Man" and "Change Your World." However, though his current tour is greatly promoted securely, it is a survey of concert audiences, 90 percent of the people who are going to are Christians," said Smith.

"I think it was more of a shock when Amy Grant did it," said Smith. "I think it is good that Smith went secular. God is using [Smith] for His purposes. His music still has a lot to say, whatever station it is being played on," said Smith.

Smith said that though he enjoys writing song lyrics and music, he is probably enjoying the rest of what is performing live. I think I can play for 15 people or 1,000 and entertain them," he said. Smith is predicted to reach 250,000 people on his current tour which began in February and will continue through May.

Tickets for the Spokane concert are still on sale. They can be purchased through the Ticketmaster Ticketline at 1-800-745-3000.

Some ticket still remain and can be obtained by calling 329-SEAT. Tickets cost $18.50.

Mike Tucker educates students

Lind Herrell
Whitworthian Feature Writer

Mike Tucker, at the age of 24, has come to grips with his own mortality and realized he wants to give a bit of a shock to following God's will and educating people about human immunodeficiency virus and acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

Tucker explained to the Whitworth community during Forum, that he had been a Christian since he was 5. He said he attended Christian schools and was very involved in the youth group but during his teen years he began struggling with his sexuality. He found himself feeling attracted to other males and struggled with guilt.

At age 18, he decided he could no longer maintain his Christian faith and his feelings, so abandoned his faith. After one year of the sexual lifestyle, he was suicidal. Tucker said that it was then that he sought counseling and began the road to recovery.

During his third year of counseling, Tucker said that he was able to receive a HIV test and put his past behind him for good. He was satisfied that his tests were negative and he believed that he was cured.

"I come here and lay all of my dirt out on the table," Tucker said. "I show you the brick out the window, because if I come here and talk about my life, let you see me, let you know what happens to somebody, and let you see a real person that it has happened to — it might keep one of you from getting it," said Tucker during Forum.

Tucker is a member of the Heart Ministry which "is a Christian ministry that provides support to HIV patients and education to churches," he said.

He explained that he visits church youth groups and gives his testimony, along with a warning, "My big push is that youths need to take control of their life. I'm going to leave the found; they are not. They are too busy... I just feel like saying, 'Come here and lay it all on the table. I just want you to know."

"I don't think that I am going to leave until I've done everything that God wants me to do," Mike Tucker realize that they are not immortal," said Tucker.

When Dr. C. Everett Koop came he said, AIDS is the modern day leprosy and it is time for the church to "Tucker's response!" "Amen! My view is that the church is the one that should be out there doing something, and they are not. They are too busy showing thrones," said Tucker.

He explained that at his church he is frequently the topic of conversation. "I have found out that there has been the topic of supernatural powers! I just laugh at it," said Tucker.

"I do not have any better to talk about," said Tucker.

Tucker explained that he would like to see the Christian church responding to HIV patients with compassion. "When you consider that these people are dying, you need to know that they are thinking about the future," Tucker said. "They are so ripe to become Christians and to get saved. Churches just need to be there to plant that seed. I mean we are talking about a major harvest!"

Tucker's faith has helped him to develop a positive view of death. "I always saw dying as meaning I had failed. But now that I have made the changes in my life that I have always wanted — one smile is a victory. Then, I end up in heaven," explained Tucker. "I am not really in a hurry to go to Earth, and when I die, I still beat him because then I go up to heaven!"

Tucker said that he has finally come to terms with where he is happy with who he is.

"I am confident knowing that God is in control of his life, I don't think I am going to leave until I've done everything that God wants to do," said Tucker.

Before, Tucker struggled between a Christian and a homosexual lifestyle. "I don't know for sure how long I was constantly being teased around here," Tucker said. But now he has a purpose. He said, "Dude, I am standing on a rock!"
Blake makes Whitworth history

Steve Fiegel
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Nani Blake’s victory in the 650-yard freestyle was one of several team place finishes by both the men’s and women’s teams concluded Whitworth’s most successful swimming season in history at the NAIA National Championships, held at the Palo Alto College Natatorium in San Antonio, Texas March 11-13.

Blake, a junior, made Whitworth athletic history by becoming the first female national champion in any sport. She was also the first female swimmer to win an individual event at a national meet in any sport.

In one of the closest and most exciting races ever, Blake beat Shannyn Hite of Dordt College by 5 yards and 12.2 seconds to win in 1:53.94. Hite finished at 1:53.94.

“It was a classic distance race,” said Head Coach Tom Dodd.

“I knew I could win.”

By the 1,200-yard mark the race was even and the crowd was on its feet. At 1,600 yards, Hite was three-tenths of a second ahead of Blake, but on her last turn Blake came off the wall and was first.

After an already gnawing 1,625 yards, swimming’s equivalent of the marathon came down to a 25-yard sprint. Blake was too much for Hite, teaching first, the Whitworth athletic history.

“Race was very emotional for many people,” said a tearful Dodd, “more than Nani may ever realize. It may be a long time before we see something like this again.”

Blake’s victory was only part of a successful meet for the Pirates. According to Dodd, the top 10 finishes were a benchmark the team tried to reach for a long time. “This is the accumulation of many years of building,” he said. “I’ve seen the team come a long way.”

The men’s team was led by All-American Matt Snow. Swimming in his final meet for Whitworth, Snow established lifetime best times in everything he swam. Snow was third in the 200-yard backstroke, fourth in the 100-yard backstroke, and sixth in the 100-yard butterfly. In his four-year career, Snow was All-American in ten of the twelve individual races he competed in at Nationals. He is the first four-year Whitworthian swimming history.

Snow hoped to win the 200-yard backstroke, but left satisfied with third place. “I swam the best race I could, a couple of guys were just a little faster,” he said.

“I had nothing left at the end.”

His time of 1:53.85 was behind Greg Kabacy of Puget Sound and Andrew Lennstrom of Simon Fraser. Kabacy won at 1:53.94.

“Matt has been the guy to move breaststroke and fourteenth in the 100-yard freestyle.”

Men’s head coach Tom Dodd added that the speed of the wall just in front. I’m happy he came here.”

According to Dodd, the race was just a little faster,” he said. “Any NAIA school would have been proud to come here.”

Blake led the men’s team to its tenth place finish by taking seventh in the 200-yard breaststroke and tenth in the 500-yard freestyle.

Finishing in eighth place All-American Matt Snow was the Pirate 200-yard medley relay swim by Lori White, Lisa Rachetto, Blake and Mindy Radke.

Also earning Honorable Mention were Lori Wilson, fourthteenth in the 100-yard butterfly; Andrew Lennstrom, sixthteenth in the 200-yard butterfly; Rachetto, twelfth in the 100-yard breaststroke and fourteenth in the 200-yard breaststroke; and Radke fifteenth in the 200-yard freestyle.

“I see this meet as a step to something bigger,” said Dodd. “We may take a step back along the way, but we will always be competitive.”

Drury College of Missouri won both the men’s and women’s national titles with 602.5 and 637 points respectively.

The top finisher from the district was the University of Puget Sound, who placed second in both the men’s and women’s national titles.

The Pirates men scored 129.5 points and Pirates women team scored 117 points.

Continue the journey of faith.

The destination is worth the effort. Join us in prayer with a hunger for God’s service, and an urge to explore.

Meet the people and feel the warmth of Austin. Ministry. If your personal road map calls for insights in Bible, church history, pastoral care, theology, Christian education, world religions, women’s ethics, and ministry — continue your journey with us.

We offer Master of Arts and Master of Divinity degrees. Registration deadlines for fall: July 15. Come journey with us.

Contact Elkanah Coady Cherryholmes, Director of Vocations and Admissions

AUSTIN PRESBYTERIAN THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY
100 East 21st Street, Austin, Texas 78705-5397; 800-777-6127
A PIRATE UP CLOSE:

STEVE SUND CATCHES RUNNING FEVER

Steve Fliegel
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Spring break was anything but a vacation for many members of the Whitworth Track and Field team as they competed in the Salinas Relays in California on March 27 and the Whitworth Invitational as part of the Tri-Cities Sports Festival in Richland on March 20.

Neither of the men’s or women’s teams were fully represented at either meet because of the break, according to Head Coach Sam Wiseman. "We only had 20 of about 40 competitors," he said.

Yet the Busa who were there made the most of the opportunity. Sprinter John Karusa finished second in both the 100- and 200-meter events and anchored the winning 400-meter relay. His anchor leg brought the team back from second place, according to Wiseman. "His times of 11.0 and 22.7 were excellent for this time of year," said Wiseman.

Steve Sund won the mile with a time of 4:12.3. The Salmon meet was one of the few meets that Sund will run all season, according to Wiseman. Most meets offer the 400-meter relay. He was also fifth in the 400.

Melanie Kraus finished fourth in the 3,000 meters with a time of 10:46.2 to record the highest finish for the Pirate women at the meet. Kim Huson was fifth in the 400 meters with a time of 1:01.4.

At the Tri-Cities Sports Festival held at Richland High School, the Pirates were competing against many of the finest track and field programs in the area, including Washington State University.

Standouts for the Pirates at the Tri-Cities meet were Rae Wilson and Diana Tritleff, said Wiseman. Wilson was third in the throw with a throw of 138 feet, 6 inches. "The only two girls out here are very notable throwers," said Wiseman. In the women’s discus, Diana Tritleff finished third with a throw of 113 feet, 2 inches.

Pirate athletes who have already qualified for the conference and district meets include Karusa in the 100 and 200, Horren in the 400, and Wilson and Tritleff in the discus. Others who have qualified for conference are Kraus in the 3,000 and 5,000, Sund in the 800, Trea Oliver qualified in the 400-meter hurdles, and Caryn Wilson qualified in the 5,000 meters.

Wiseman was pleased with the performances we [he coaches have] seen at this point in the season," said Wiseman. "Now we hope to see even better performances this month [April] as we attempt to qualify for nationals."

The Pirates will compete at the Central Washington Invitational April 3 in Ellensburg.

VITAL STATISTICS

Name: Steve Sund
Age: 22
Hometown: Olympia, Wash.
Year: Senior
Sport: Track, Cross country
Major: Religion
Minor: Psychology

Photo by Diane Brennan

Steve Sund catches running fever.

Track and field compete

Steve Sund
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Steve Sund said that he was surprised to realize how much he missed competition.

Sund qualified for the conference and district meets with his performance in the mile. "I didn’t really expect to break 4:20," he said. "I really thought I should run around 4:30 and break 4:50, so breaking 4:20 was impressive for this time of year." Sund said.

Steve Sund
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Steve Sund has achieved a notable accomplishment for Sund because it has stood since 1987, when Loren McDaniel covered the distance in 1:31.2. Sund prefers not to concentrate on the record, but to focus on running to compete.

"I would love to meet those goals, especially the 800 meters because it has been around since 1987," Sund confided. "I just try not to think about it at all because there would be too much pressure. It is almost better not to race for time, but for the competition and let the times come," Sund said.

This is the kind of maturity Sund has that comes from the writing, something he said is a valuable asset to the rest of the team.

"Sports can be an example of what it takes to be good," said Sund. "He has a great work ethic and is one of the few kids I actually have to hold back because he thinks too much at one time."

Sund also said that Sund was a self-motivator because of his two strong assets. "He is a very disciplined person — a perfect model, showing you how you can be in and still have fun," explained Sund. "You must be very self-motivated to run in the morning and pack on the summer miles. And Steve does all that: it is work habits that separate the elite from the rest of the pack," he said.

Religion major, Sund carries a 3.83 grade point average through grad year this spring, and sees his strength in cross country as beneficial to his personal and academic life. "I like to think my discipline in religion carries into the rest of my life," Sund explained. "It forces me to learn to balance my time."

Sund spends time preparing for upcoming races, being careful to do his best. His last trip around the track is approaching and Sund wants to leave no room for second guessing.

"I just like to go for it," explained Sund. "This is my last year and I do not want to have any regrets. I do not want to look back and say, ‘I could have done this or I could have done that.’"

At the same time, his experience reminds him, "I am just like all the other runners; I’m just trying to catch running fever."

VITAL STATISTICS

Name: Steve Sund
Age: 22
Hometown: Olympia, Wash.
Year: Senior
Sport: Track, Cross country
Major: Religion
Minor: Psychology

Track and field compete

Steve Sund catches running fever.

VITAL STATISTICS

Name: Steve Sund
Age: 22
Hometown: Olympia, Wash.
Year: Senior
Sport: Track, Cross country
Major: Religion
Minor: Psychology

Track and field compete

Steve Sund catches running fever.
Hawaiian Club hosts luau

Travis Sines
If you look at the record, you will see that I have gained the experience necessary to facilitate smooth operations and give the students’ input needed to help make the changes the college faces next year. I will work for the students—representing them, sharing their ideas, and facilitating their projects—in a manner that is advantageous to all concerned.

Sarah Snelling
I feel ASWC has detached from students, especially in the executive positions. One of my greatest strengths I would bring to this office is the approachable leadership. Through my experience with ASWC, I have learned how it functions and what needs to be changed. This may not be easy, but with your help we can make ASWC a representation of student needs.

Eric Luther
If elected Financial Vice President, I plan to develop an intercollegiate network with seven other colleges in our region. I will use clubs to a greater extent in order to facilitate the intercollegiate network and on-campus activities. I will revamp our college accounting/changing system in order to improve financial accountability of ASWC groups.

Josh Armstrong
I feel ASWC has detached from students, especially in the executive positions. One of my greatest strengths I would bring to this office is the approachable leadership. Through my experience with ASWC, I have learned how it functions and what needs to be changed. This may not be easy, but with your help we can make ASWC a representation of student needs.

Julie Buffington
I feel I have the experience and energy we need for an effective student government. If elected EVP, I will use my experience with ASWC to make sure we as students get the most out of our money. I will work hard to increase the communication between ASWC and students which will help build school spirit.
Whitworth College

receives $750,000 gift

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Whitworth has recently received a gift of $750,000 from the estate of longtime Spokane resident Florence Lovell, who died on her 100th birthday last year. Parr, who apparently had no living relatives, left 45 percent of her $1.6 million estate to Whitworth College in her will as an unrestricted bequest. After all assets are liquidated and legal and trustee fees are paid, Parr\textquotesingle;s funds should receive between $650,000 and $700,000.

The exact reasons why Parr left the money to the school are unknown. "As best as we can determine, Parr had significant contact with longtime donors Mr. and Mrs. Louis Livingstone," said Tom Johnson, Whitworth's vice president for business affairs. "They donated a lot of money to the college and could have suggested the same to her," he said.

Parr was married to the late Dr. Russell Parr, a Spokane physician who died in 1975. In addition to her husband's practice, Parr held stock certificates in her family\textquotesingle;s Northeastern Washington timber business.

New bill designed to increase financial aid

Julie Lucas
Whitworthian Staff Writer

To help Washington residents handle the increasing costs of college, Washington State Representatives Ken Jacobsen and Gary Locke have introduced a bill to change some of the financial aid guidelines.

House Bill 1603, known as the "College Promise" program, passed unanimously in the House of Representatives and is now in the Senate. The bill builds on former Governor Booth Gardner\textquotesingle;s proposal to increase financial aid funding to serve about 21,500 additional Washington resident students.

ASWC President Chris Oswald has been working with Jacobsen and Locke. Oswald was called by the lobbyist group Washington State Friends of Higher Education to represent the student body on the Whitworth College. "The lobby group lobbies on behalf of the students at private schools," said Oswald.

The main purpose of this bill is to "allocate a bigger portion of the budget to be given to higher education, which is better," said Richardson. The two projects are not related in any way.

"The treatment center does nothing to do with the HUB. We have been raising the money for five years," he said.

Jo Wagner, acting athletic director, said the complex will take approximately two months to build. Richardson said construction is supposed to begin later this term. The classrooms are expected to be completed by early summer.

Sports medicine at Whitworth has developed into a first-rate program, said Richardson, who is now in his fifth year as head athletic trainer.

"When I came here, there were seven students in the program. Now there are almost 70," said Richardson.

Richardson said he received a dying program by establishing an atmosphere of professionalism, recruiting outstanding students, and, most importantly, teaching stewardship.

"I teach that being a trainer models stewardship, which is Christ-like," said Richardson. "That has been the key to the program\textquotesingle;s success," he said.

The two-story treatment center and lab, which will also include three offices and two classrooms, will be constructed where the batting cages are presently located in the fieldhouse. The entire complex will be 1,200 square feet. The complex will be located downtown in Graves Gym, is 350 square feet. Richardson said the new center will provide much needed space for taping and rehabilitation.

According to senior trainer Frank Castaneda, the new sports medicine complex will be a drastic improvement over the present facilities.

"It will go from a hole in the wall to a modern training facility," said Castaneda.

The human performance lab will be used to analyze how the human body performs. It will include a treadmill, computer learning terminals, stationary cycles, metabolic analysis equipment, and other advanced instruments to enhance physical therapy. Richardson said it also provides hands-on experience to enhance the theory taught to those in the sports medicine field.

The three major financial supporters, Dr. Par Evans, a Whitworth alumna, the Cheney Foundation, which was developed in memory of Ben B. Cheney, and Dick and Patti Anderson, also Whitworth alumni, donated a large portion of the $200,000 Evans has a "long-standing love for the college and the impact it had on his life," said Richardson.

In honor of Evans, the entire treatment facility will be called the Dr. Par Evans Sports Medicine Complex.

The Cheney Foundation donates money to athletic programs in an effort to give opportunities to athletes.

"The treatment center itself will be named the Ben B. Cheney Treatment Center."
Whitworth's diversity allows students to 'tackle tough issues'

Sarah Snelling
Editorial Board

Whitworth College is distinctive in its celebration of diversity. The intention of the college, as put forth in the mission statement, is to provide its diverse student body an education of the spirit and the heart. This statement is not unique to this college; it is unique because this college actually follows that mission statement.

Last Thursday, the ASWC Assembly voted to accept the charter for a Whitworth College Pro-Life Club. This action was taken with some uncertainty since abortion is such a controversial and often confrontational issue. However, the purpose of this club is to educate—not to confront. Despite the initial hesitancy, the vote was unanimously in favor of chartering the club.

On the scale of Christian colleges, Whitworth is often called liberal for its promotion of a questioning and open atmosphere. Whitworth should instead be called realistic for this approach to education. The founders of this college realized that educating students to believe that life in the real world is spiritual and easy would set students up for disappointment when faced with the reality of a secular world.

Throughout the college's history, the administration has maintained this vision and philosophy of educating the heart and mind. This unique atmosphere allows students to tackle tough issues like abortion, come up with two different options, and co-exist peacefully while believing differently.

Whitworth students are provided with another opportunity to be educated by their peers, through international students who make up nearly 10 percent of the student body. This education prepares students for an outside world which is quickly becoming globally minded.

At Whitworth, all students have the chance to be educated, not just in the classroom, but in the dorm, on the campus and in the community. It is important for students to appreciate this factor. They need to continue to celebrate diversity at Whitworth and take advantage of their unique opportunities.

Because Whitworth is a liberal arts college, all students are required to take classes in almost every department on campus. This experience in a number of different fields allows students to make an educated-choice about what God is calling them to do. In a world oriented on breadth, Whitworth allows students to become knowledgeable in a broad number of subjects. Students here can take pride in the quality of their education.
Dear Editor,

Many members of the International Club were incensed by the inadequate coverage given to the International Banquet by last week's paper. The banquet is a yearly dinner and entertainment program which is presented by the students in Whitworth's International Club in order to educate people about our cultures.

We hope to attract many Whitworth students to the banquet, as well as people from the Spokane community. It is a time of fun, with new tastes and beautiful sights. Students decorate with items brought from their countries and spend hours preparing food and performances.

This year's banquet, held March 27, was a bigger success than any of us can remember. People pulled together to paint signs, loan items, cook food, and create performances. It brought us together as a club, and educated people about our cultures.

The article in last week's paper gave only the barest of coverage to the event which is the main purpose for the existence of our club. It did not mention which types of food were served, and only minimally mentioned the excellent performances. The writer did not interview any of the club's leaders or its adviser, Diane Toombave. We do not feel that Whitworth students were properly informed about our club by reading this article.

We exist not only as a support group for international students, but also as a way for American students to learn about other cultures. We encourage anyone to join, for America is just as much a part of the world as any other country. The main focus of our club is to put on the International Banquet each spring, but we also have weekly meetings about club business.

For the record, this year's banquet was a big success. Dinner included dishes from Korea, Zaire, China, Mexico, France, Thailand and Hong Kong. Entertainment included dances from Latin America, Korea, Thailand, Japan, China and Hawaii. Some students demonstrated martial arts and others sang. One modeled dress from her country, and two played a duet. There were 12 acts in all, each displaying some of this world's diversity.

It is our hope that the failure to mention these things was accidental, and that next year the International Banquet will be better covered by The Whitworthian. We also hope that everyone reading this will help make next year's banquet as much of a success as this one.

Students from the International Club

Barbie Silvey, Sophomore

"Jim Waller is my favorite professor because he is funny and fun to listen to."

Christian Dirajalal, Sophomore

"Jerry Sittser is my favorite because he is a great teacher and cares about his students."

Amy Shoffner, Senior

"John Yoder, because he is so involved with helping you learn. He is always willing to talk."

Justin Uhler, Freshman

"Leonard Oakland is my favorite because he's so incredible to listen to. He tells stories about this history of the school and has a passion for literature."

Staci Abrams, Junior

"Mike Aleman is my favorite professor because he brings action into the classroom and uses his experience to teach."

Jirong Wang, Junior

"George Weber is my favorite professor because there is so much information in his classes."

Photos by Diane Brennan

Int'l Club Banquet was a huge success

1. Sam Clinton on TV

2. I mean, it would kill me when they would lie just because it would save some eggs, rights-wing end

3. But apparently when Clinton crosses the truth to serve ends I believe in: I see it as a harmless political experience.

4. And I can't stand that even people who believed in those ends would pretend all that fuzzy feeling

5. So, how are liberals any different now that they're in power?

6. At least we're competing with these issues.

Photo by Ruben Bolling
FEATURES

Attractions & Distractions

7 Wednesday

Heather McGunigle will be appearing at Aurum's Bookstore at 7:30 p.m.

8 Thursday

Wellness Day in the HUB from 10:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

9 Friday

Good Friday: No Classes

10 Saturday

Easter Sunday Night Live in the Odeon at 11 p.m.

11 Sunday

Pastoral Council Luncheon

12 Monday

Future Students: Visit Whitworth!

13 Tuesday

Young Life in the DJ Lounge at 7:15 p.m.

Former trouble-maker becomes disciplinarian

Brian Coddington Whitworth Student Writer

As you enter Student Life you are greeted with, "Have a seat and he will be right with you." The silence is deafening as you sit, struggling to get your story straight. What seems like an eternity passes as you wait nervously anticipating what lies ahead. The porter, when he eventually walks in, looks like a harmless old man. He seems to fit the image of a faculty or student associate dean. He paces around the room, tapping his foot and the edge of the table while you wait in silence, watching his every move. When he finally breaks the silence, it is deafening as you hear, "I am Dr. Mandeville, the great and terrible! Who are you and why did you violate the Big Three?"

For students whose only opportunity to meet Dick Mandeville is when they have had, as he puts it, "a single error in judgment," Mandeville is the great and terrible. However, with all of this, this is only an illusion created for the administrative needs of students and the duties of student services.

"Behind the smoke and mirrors sits the man who is working hard to push the students he has to handle to the edge of the classroom, a side students find unattractive. However, as Diane Gunderson, director of housing and conferences, explained, "He is very involved and interested in what is going on in his department." Mandeville's tough reputation is well deserved.

"I've been fairly consistent in enforcing the behavioral policy of Whitworth College," said Storm. "He has a strong desire to make discipline an educational experience. It is important to him that students need to think about when their actions affect their lives and others around them.

When it came to trouble, Mandeville did not do it lightly. "I am like a father to those students," he said. "I am not afraid to have a conversation with them and I was not involved with very many mature Christians. He helped me to see the right direction and to stay there were answers." While at UNC, Mandeville also met his wife to be, Judy. She had done undergrad work at UNC, where they met. Mandeville teaches his wife with helping him to teach to learn and grow as an individual in Christ, something he says he is still helping him with today.

"God has taught me a great deal through my wife. She helped wake me up and continue to teach me about myself. I have learned more about myself from her than anyone else," he said.

After completing his undergraduate work, Mandeville was offered a job as a residence director at Western Montana College in 1979. He remained there for eight years serving as the director of student activities, associate dean of students and director of Student Services, the chair of a presidential search committee, as well as director of a $2.3 million federal grant for various intervals throughout his stay.

In the fall of 1987, Mandeville decided to go back to school and he returned to the University of Northern Colorado to work on his doctorate. Two years later, he graduated with a doctorate in counseling.

Dick Mandeville strives to challenge students to be leaders and to take responsibility for their own actions.

A charge, so he packed up his things and gave up his scholarship to head for the University of Northern Colorado. It was there he met a man who helped guide his life in the right direction.

In this new field, Mandeville found someone to answer his questions about faith and the Bible. The man was doing ministry work on campus through the church, and was very knowledgeable of scripture. Soon after meeting, the two set up weekly visits for Mandeville to get answers to his many questions.

"He was a positive example for me because he represented a living example that Christians didn't have to put their brains on the shelf," said Mandeville. "At the time, I had everyone to talk to, and they were involved with very many mature Christians. He helped me to see the right direction and to stay there were answers." While at UNC, Mandeville also met his wife to be, Judy. She had done undergrad work at UNC, where they met. Mandeville teaches his wife with helping him to teach to learn and grow as an individual in Christ, something he says he is still helping him with today.

"God has taught me a great deal through my wife. She helped wake me up and continue to teach me about myself. I have learned more about myself from her than anyone else," he said.

After completing his undergraduate work, Mandeville was offered a job as a residence director at Western Montana College in 1979. He remained there for eight years serving as the director of student activities, associate dean of students and director of Student Services, the chair of a presidential search committee, as well as director of a $2.3 million federal grant for various intervals throughout his stay.

In the fall of 1987, Mandeville decided to go back to school and he returned to the University of Northern Colorado to work on his doctorate. Two years later, he graduated with a doctorate in counseling.

"God has taught me a great deal through my wife. She helped wake me up and continue to teach me about myself. I have learned more about myself from her than anyone else," he said.

After completing his undergraduate work, Mandeville was offered a job as a residence director at Western Montana College in 1979. He remained there for eight years serving as the director of student activities, associate dean of students and director of Student Services, the chair of a presidential search committee, as well as director of a $2.3 million federal grant for various intervals throughout his stay.

In the fall of 1987, Mandeville decided to go back to school and he returned to the University of Northern Colorado to work on his doctorate. Two years later, he graduated with a doctorate in counseling.

"God has taught me a great deal through my wife. She helped wake me up and continue to teach me about myself. I have learned more about myself from her than anyone else," he said.

After completing his undergraduate work, Mandeville was offered a job as a residence director at Western Montana College in 1979. He remained there for eight years serving as the director of student activities, associate dean of students and director of Student Services, the chair of a presidential search committee, as well as director of a $2.3 million federal grant for various intervals throughout his stay.

In the fall of 1987, Mandeville decided to go back to school and he returned to the University of Northern Colorado to work on his doctorate. Two years later, he graduated with a doctorate in counseling.

"God has taught me a great deal through my wife. She helped wake me up and continue to teach me about myself. I have learned more about myself from her than anyone else," he said.

After completing his undergraduate work, Mandeville was offered a job as a residence director at Western Montana College in 1979. He remained there for eight years serving as the director of student activities, associate dean of students and director of Student Services, the chair of a presidential search committee, as well as director of a $2.3 million federal grant for various intervals throughout his stay.

In the fall of 1987, Mandeville decided to go back to school and he returned to the University of Northern Colorado to work on his doctorate. Two years later, he graduated with a doctorate in counseling.

"God has taught me a great deal through my wife. She helped wake me up and continue to teach me about myself. I have learned more about myself from her than anyone else," he said.

After completing his undergraduate work, Mandeville was offered a job as a residence director at Western Montana College in 1979. He remained there for eight years serving as the director of student activities, associate dean of students and director of Student Services, the chair of a presidential search committee, as well as director of a $2.3 million federal grant for various intervals throughout his stay.

In the fall of 1987, Mandeville decided to go back to school and he returned to the University of Northern Colorado to work on his doctorate. Two years later, he graduated with a doctorate in counseling.

"God has taught me a great deal through my wife. She helped wake me up and continue to teach me about myself. I have learned more about myself from her than anyone else," he said.

After completing his undergraduate work, Mandeville was offered a job as a residence director at Western Montana College in 1979. He remained there for eight years serving as the director of student activities, associate dean of students and director of Student Services, the chair of a presidential search committee, as well as director of a $2.3 million federal grant for various intervals throughout his stay.

In the fall of 1987, Mandeville decided to go back to school and he returned to the University of Northern Colorado to work on his doctorate. Two years later, he graduated with a doctorate in counseling.

"God has taught me a great deal through my wife. She helped wake me up and continue to teach me about myself. I have learned more about myself from her than anyone else," he said.

After completing his undergraduate work, Mandeville was offered a job as a residence director at Western Montana College in 1979. He remained there for eight years serving as the director of student activities, associate dean of students and director of Student Services, the chair of a presidential search committee, as well as director of a $2.3 million federal grant for various intervals throughout his stay.

In the fall of 1987, Mandeville decided to go back to school and he returned to the University of Northern Colorado to work on his doctorate. Two years later, he graduated with a doctorate in counseling.

"God has taught me a great deal through my wife. She helped wake me up and continue to teach me about myself. I have learned more about myself from her than anyone else," he said.

After completing his undergraduate work, Mandeville was offered a job as a residence director at Western Montana College in 1979. He remained there for eight years serving as the director of student activities, associate dean of students and director of Student Services, the chair of a presidential search committee, as well as director of a $2.3 million federal grant for various intervals throughout his stay.

In the fall of 1987, Mandeville decided to go back to school and he returned to the University of Northern Colorado to work on his doctorate. Two years later, he graduated with a doctorate in counseling.

"God has taught me a great deal through my wife. She helped wake me up and continue to teach me about myself. I have learned more about myself from her than anyone else," he said.

After completing his undergraduate work, Mandeville was offered a job as a residence director at Western Montana College in 1979. He remained there for eight years serving as the director of student activities, associate dean of students and director of Student Services, the chair of a presidential search committee, as well as director of a $2.3 million federal grant for various intervals throughout his stay.

In the fall of 1987, Mandeville decided to go back to school and he returned to the University of Northern Colorado to work on his doctorate. Two years later, he graduated with a doctorate in counseling.
Gabe’s Real Words

Gabe Taylor
Whitworthian Columnist

It scares me to write about the value of feelings nowadays. So many people are way off base with their philosophy of feelings, I get confused on what to believe. The hedonist says, “If it feels good do it.” Then there are people who do not acknowledge their feelings until they can not hold them any longer and flow out like a time bomb. (I probably have done this more than once or twice in my lifetime.) Sometimes just recognizing the importance of emotions sends the message that I think it is right to “fly by the seat of my pants” all the time. Growing up I have learned that doing it only if it feels good can get me into big trouble, time bombs do not go over well in relationships, and my pants do not usually last to the end. But I have also learned that some of my feelings ought to be given more time and attention than just one conversation with a friend, if I even give them that.

Haven’t your feelings ever pointed directly to areas of your life where you could use some growth? They have for me. If you ask any of my closest friends, they would tell you how important it is for me to have relationships “right” in my life. I can not function when something is uneasy with someone important to me. I want to know the origin of the uneasiness and address it ASAP. My feelings point to the uneasiness in me. And usually my feelings are correct in pointing to areas that need growth. I feel the lack of communication, cutting words, or whatever the uneasiness is an attempt to make the “wrong,” “right.”

Haven’t your feelings ever made you feel alive? Life was not just a series of events; but you were feeling life happen. Life is the example of the paralyzed person. Pin the neck down the person has no feeling. But that does not mean that that person does not feel life. I have heard about paralyzed people who are more fully alive than people in perfect physical health.

Haven’t your feelings ever told you that you were part of a group? I do not know about you but I have had times when I have felt pretty lonely. I recognize those times have ended, when relationships become evident in my life. I am no longer feeling lonely but feeling completely connected with those people. Even if we live 3,000 miles away from each other, I still feel connected.

Sometimes I think feelings are grounded in fact. There is some speculation, but I tend to believe the Gospel is fact. And the Gospel surrounds love. When I think about the over 2,000 years ago I can not help but think of the one who is going a long way of love that Christ felt for me and for you, he hung bleeding. He felt enough love to take his whole life for me. He’s one of Crandal’s strongest points a person to take action.

Karya Chorover and Nell, two of three musicians who make up The Pawprints, began their concert with a slide show about pressing environmental issues such as clear-cutting (destroying whole areas of forest, leaving them completely bare) and civil disobedience. They begged students to get involved and to learn about how the ecology system is being destroyed.

“Tolled the slide show ended with the suggestion to write letters to editors and to be willing to be arrested for the causes,” said Jeff Lund, the third member of the band which performed, $1 to the Save America’s Forests organization and $1 to the Ecology Club on campus. However, the club “took a major loss,” said Miller.

After the concert, people attended the concert, and some of those were from schools other than Whitworth. “The amount of students who attended the concert was amazing,” said Stephanie Young, a member of the Ecology club. “It’s really a shame that the Whitworthians didn’t partake of what was offered.”

FEATURES

Conducting students from "big name" universities like Arizona State University, Eastman School of Music, and University of Alabama were there for the competition.

Then there was Crandal from Whitworth College in Spokane, Cal. "Yes, Spokane, Cal." said Crandall. "When the announcer was reading the list of winners he announced 'Second Place, Sco Crandall, Whitworth College, Spokane, Cal.'" said Crandall. "Then he corrected himself and said 'Whitworth College, Spokane, Ore.'" clock conducted said Spokane, Washington." Later, when Crandall told the other conductors where he was from, they were surprised. "One of them asked, "Wow! How long was your flight?"" laughed Crandall.

The flight did not take as much time as Crandall did to prepare for the competition. "I practiced many hours with [Ellifson] and then many more by myself, conducting and listening to recordings."

"I tried to apply myself in San Antonio and show them what I have. There were people from big name universities from all over the country - from all over the world," said Crandall. "The first place winner from Arizona State University had never conducted in front of a real choir. Crandall, on the other hand, is the assistant conductor of Whitworth’s choir. Ellifson said, "Scot’s had a wide variety of experience come his way, so he’s worked very hard. He’s talented, bright, and disciplined."”

Junior Heather Mahugh, who sings in the choir with Crandall agrees with Ellifson, adding that some of Crandall’s strongest points is his ability to take the choir under control. "He’s at a personal level with the choir but is still respected by all. He’s one of the most talented and wonderful people I’ve ever met," Mahugh said. Crandall is slow to point out his strengths, but said that he “has a view of music that is unique.” It is a real integral part of my life. It expresses ideas that words can’t.

“I love to talk about music; the reason is because I love to perform,” said Crandall who has been performing since sixth grade. Crandall added, "without the experience of music, life doesn’t amount to much.”

Environmental band asks students to take action, get involved

Carley Burrell
Whitworthian Staff Writer

"If we don’t feel the environmental issues, what are we going to do about them?" asked Casey Nell of the environmental music group, The Pawprints, who performed March 29 in the HUB.

The band, which was sponsored by Whitworth’s Ecology club, not only performed but also urged students to take action.

Karya Chorover and Nell, two of three musicians who make up The Pawprints, began their concert with a slide show about pressing environmental issues such as clear-cutting (destroying whole areas of forest, leaving them completely bare) and civil disobedience. They begged students to get involved and to learn about how the ecology system is being destroyed.

Karya Chorover and Nell, two of three musicians who make up The Pawprints, began their concert with a slide show about pressing environmental issues such as clear-cutting (destroying whole areas of forest, leaving them completely bare) and civil disobedience. They begged students to get involved and to learn about how the ecology system is being destroyed.

"In order to write about the value of feelings nowadays. So many people are way off base with their philosophy of feelings, I get confused on what to believe. The hedonist says, “If it feels good do it.” Then there are people who do not acknowledge their feelings until they can not hold them any longer and flow out like a time bomb. (I probably have done this more than once or twice in my lifetime.) Sometimes just recognizing the importance of emotions sends the message that I think it is right to “fly by the seat of my pants” all the time. Growing up I have learned that doing it only if it feels good can get me into big trouble, time bombs do not go over well in relationships, and my pants do not usually last to the end. But I have also learned that some of my feelings ought to be given more time and attention than just one conversation with a friend, if I even give them that.

Haven’t your feelings ever pointed directly to areas of your life where you could use some growth? They have for me. If you ask any of my closest friends, they would tell you how important it is for me to have relationships “right” in my life. I can not function when something is uneasy with someone important to me. I want to know the origin of the uneasiness and address it ASAP. My feelings point to the uneasiness in me. And usually my feelings are correct in pointing to areas that need growth. I feel the lack of communication, cutting words, or whatever the uneasiness is an attempt to make the “wrong,” “right.”

Haven’t your feelings ever made you feel alive? Life was not just a series of events; but you were feeling life happen. Life is the example of the paralyzed person. Pin the neck down the person has no feeling. But that does not mean that that person does not feel life. I have heard about paralyzed people who are more fully alive than people in perfect physical health.

Haven’t your feelings ever told you that you were part of a group? I do not know about you but I have had times when I have felt pretty lonely. I recognize those times have ended, when relationships become evident in my life. I am no longer feeling lonely but feeling completely connected with those people. Even if we live 3,000 miles away from each other, I still feel connected.

Sometimes I think feelings are grounded in fact. There is some speculation, but I tend to believe the Gospel is fact. And the Gospel surrounds love. When I think about the over 2,000 years ago I can not help but think of the one who is going a long way of love that Christ felt for me and for you, he hung bleeding. He felt enough love to take his whole life for me. He’s one of Crandal’s strongest points a person to take action.

Karya Chorover and Nell, two of three musicians who make up The Pawprints, began their concert with a slide show about pressing environmental issues such as clear-cutting (destroying whole areas of forest, leaving them completely bare) and civil disobedience. They begged students to get involved and to learn about how the ecology system is being destroyed.

The slide show ended with the suggestion to write letters to editors and to be willing to be arrested for the causes, "Join Direct Action campaign," said Jeff Lund, the third member of the band which performed, $1 to the Save America’s Forests organization and $1 to the Ecology Club on campus. However, the club "took a major loss," said Miller.

After the concert, people attended the concert, and some of those were from schools other than Whitworth. "The amount of students who attended the concert was amazing," said Stephanie Young, a member of the Ecology club. "It’s really a shame that the Whitworthians didn’t partake of what was offered."
Baseball extends winning streak

Steve Flagel
Whitworth Staff Writer

Win over Central Washington University on Wednesday at Willamette University on Sunday extended the Whitworth winning streak to five games before it was broken late Sunday by Willamette in the second game of a doubleheader.

The Pirates' third game series against the Willamette Bearcats was shortened to two games after Saturday's doubleheader was rained out.

The two teams made up one game by playing two on Sunday. Whitworth won the opener 11-1 behind the power of Matt Triebwasser and the finesse of Billy Warlc. Triebwasser pounded two home runs and Warlc allowed only one hit during the game that was called after six innings due to the Pirates' 10-run lead.

Triebwasser began the offensive explosion in the first inning when he belted a home run off Whitworth starter Torrey Landers. Jason Till hit a solo homer deep to left. and the Bearcats chased Landers in the ninth with runners on second and third. The Pirates held on to lead 11-5.

In the nightcap, the Bearcats grab the lead by example.
A PIRATE UP CLOSE:
MELANIE KOSIN LEADS BY EXAMPLE

Brian Coddington
Whitworth Staff Writer

Whitworth Cross Country and Track Coach Andy Sonneland did not hesitate. "The best female runner Whitworth has ever had — by far" was the first thing he said when asked about Melanie Kosin. "We were really lucky to get her," he said.

As a graduate of Eisenhower High School in Yakima, Wash., Kosin competed in both track and cross country. Her 3.000 meter time ranked as one of the top 10 in the nation and she was considered to be among the top two or three runners in Washington.

Accomplishments like these had college coaches drooling. Pacific 10 Conference schools were very interested in Kosin, but she had little interest in them. She was looking for something a little more personal and in Washington.

"I wanted to stay in the state," said Kosin. "I was really looking for more one-on-one attention, something a place like Whitworth can offer, instead of being stuck with a big group of girls, where all they do is compete," she said.

After arriving at Whitworth, Kosin became more and more successful. She qualified for nationals in both track and cross country as a freshman and finished eighteenth nationally in cross country — good enough to be named All-American.

As a sophomore, Kosin repeated the feat, qualifying for eleventh nationally, and again was named All-American.

As a junior, Kosin took her accomplishments one step further by winning the 3,000-meter conference title, while capturing both the conference and district titles in the 5,000-meter race in track. In addition, she added the school record in both events to her list of accomplishments, covering the 3,000-meter race in 9:48 and the 5,000-meter in 17:30.

Last fall, Kosin once again qualified for the national cross country meet and finished eighth and became a three-time All-American in cross country. Sonneland cited mental toughness and endurance as the main reasons for her success. "Melanie is a very strong runner mentally," he said. "She has pretty good speed, but her main asset is her ability to push the pace for long time. She is able to push it throughout the race."

Success has thrust Kosin into a leadership role in both track and cross country, said Sonneland.

"She is the type of person who leads by example," he explained. "She is very disciplined about running every morning, pushing to be the best she can be. The other women know the amount of dedication and work she puts in," said Sonneland.

This dedication and hard work pay off in the end when Kosin looks back over what she has accomplished.

"I have to put it all into perspective," Kosin said. "It is really an honor to reach my goals. It makes all my struggles worthwhile. Yet, there is pressure to Kosin that is not about business."

"Melanie is always funny," said teammate Kebra Kendall. "She likes to wear her ponytail on top of her head. So we have named "bucky- ponytail" in honor of her," she said.

This fun side is a tale that the women know well. "This is the kind of woman that loose them up and puts a little bounce in their steps during the Friady run," Sonneland said.

"Melanie really inspires all of our Friday runs," said Kendall. "She has us singing and dancing while we run."

Kosin says she enjoys these runs because they are fun. And fun is what it is all about.

"If you are not having fun," she said, "then is it worth it."

VITAL STATISTICS

Name: Melanie Kosin
Age: 21
Hometown: Yakima, Wash.
Sport: Cross Country
Track
Hobbies: Biking

Tennis teams win, lose in busy week of matches

Brian Coddington
Whitworth Staff Writer

The Whitworth men's tennis team opened their four-match road trip by splitting a pair of matches Saturday in Portland after being rained out at Linfield on Friday. The Pirates fell to Pacific University, 7-2, in the morning before bouncing back to defeat Lewis and Clark College, 7-2, that afternoon.

Sunday, the Pirates closed out the trip by dropping their match at Willamette, 9-0.

As Pacific, the Pirates lost their first four matches before T. J. Wollom scored Whitworth's first victory at number five singles. Melanie Kosin followed with victory at number six singles to close the gap for the Pirates.

However, Pacific won the first doubles match to clinch the team victory and to drop the Pirates to 2-4 overall.

The Pirates finished the match strong, as Wollom and Scott Chaudhuri teamed to score a victory at doubles, but our performances. Hilden and Mathis closed out the match with a win at number three doubles.

At Lewis and Clark, Whitworth won early as Pete Dreves and Steve Radonich recorded victories at number one singles, 7-6 and 6-2, and number two singles, 7-5 and 7-6 respectively. Hilden and Mathis also won their singles matches.

The Pirates played well down the stretch as all three doubles teams won matches to seal the victory and improve the team record to 3-4.

On Sunday, the weary Pirate team took to the courts and were unable to get on the scoreboard as Willamette proved to be too strong with a lot of injuries that affected our performance," Dreves said. "But we were on the road for four matches in one weekend. That's a lot of tennis."

Despite the lopsided defeat, Dreves said the Pirates were out without chances to score.

The has dropped the Pirates to 3-5 overall.

This week, the men's team takes on Pacific Lutheran University at 9:30 a.m. Saturday. The match will be played at Whitworth.

The Whitworth women's tennis team dropped 6-1 to Seattle University in a match shortened due to course repair.

The day started promising for the Pirates at Tanya Jones lost what she described as "a really close match in the first set."

"The score for the number one singles match was 6-4, 3-6 and 6-2 respectively. Hilden and Mathis was unable to record a victory until Cindy Oswald's 6-4, 6-3 win at number two," said Jones.

Jones and Julane Lussier took to the courts for the first doubles match and had it going early, taking the first set 6-4. The second set was 4-6 and 4-6 in the final two sets. Despite the loss, Jones and Lussier were both pleased with their performance.

"I think we surprised them a bit," said Jones. "We were able to get some balls back and mix our shots around. They are used to quick hard return," she said.

"I think this will probably help with our seating at districts because we were able to take a set from them," added Lussier.

The match was not without frustrations for the Pirates as the match was originally scheduled to be played at Whitworth, but due to rainy weather, was forced indoors to Northpark.

"It is frustrating to not play on our own courts," said Lussier. "We were not able to play at home yet because of the weather."

The women's team takes to the road once again for a weekend tournament in Wenatchee against Pacific Lutheran University, Lewis and Clark College, and Whitman College.

Athletes, academics mix

ATHENS, Ohio (CPS) — Ohio University's athletics program was recognized for its commitment to the academic success of its athletes by Athletic Management magazine, which named the school its winner in the academic support category in the third annual national Awards of Excellence contest.

"We're committed to the academic success of our athletes," said Harold McElhaney, the school's athletic director. "In the past years, winning is defined on the scoreboard, but it's our philosophy that winning is in the classroom as well."

Ohio University's graduation rate for scholarship football athletes was the best in the nation among public institutions playing at the Division I-A level, according to the National Collegiate Athletic Association. The school graduated 76 percent of its football recruits within six years, the NCAA says.

In graduation rate for all scholarship athletes was third in the U.S. among public institutions and first in the Mid-American Conference.

In overall graduation rate for athletes was 71 percent — ranked third nationally among public schools and third in the Mid-American Conference.

The Whitworthian • April 7, 1993

7
Whitworth up for sale for a day

Senior Matt Woodruff plays April Fool's joke on college

Joanne Heim
Editor in Chief

When the swallowboard rang on Thursday morning and the caller asked to speak with E. Kathy Nelson, the swallowboard operator, thought it was peculiar. But she transferred the call to Nancy Rau, President Eaton's secretary. Rau answered the phone and was asked to speak to Phil E. about the 300 acres for sale. She thought it had to be a joke and informed the caller that the college was not for sale.

Rau said that call was one of several over the past week that the college received about selling the 300 acres of land for sale. Nelson reviewed by senior Matt Woodruff.

"We have a serious prospective buyer and we didn't know what he was talking about when we had supposedly said sale," Rau said. Rau told the caller that she would find out about it and then call back.

After discovering the ad in the paper, the president had discussed it with an unidentified caller who wanted to take more calls that came in about the ad. Eaton was out of town and unable to be reached for comment.

Nelson received more than 12 calls on Thursday and one Friday. Each time she explained that the ad was an April Fool's joke, she mailed the newspaper to a student paper.

Rau continued to receive on-campus calls about the ad during the day. "It became a nuisance," she said. "There were so many calls every time I was working on work done." One of the on-campus calls that Rau received was from a female student who wanted to know if she was real. She realized it was a joke. "She called wanting to know if there would be a school for her to come back to next year," Rau said.

"It was a joke," Woodruff said. "I got the idea from my roommate, Richie Lane. "He said, Hey, you know, we should put up an ad when we were thinking of April Fool's jokes. The ad just came together and we decided to put the school up for sale."

The joke was funny, but the opinion of some was that it was a little too far for some that Eaton had lost his job and must sell ASAP. The joke box was so an afterthought," said Woodruff. "Dr. Eaton was learning and I figured that he's the one who could sell the school if anyone could," he said. "Woodruff has been pulling pranks since he came to Whitworth four years ago. "I've pulled every prank in the book," he said. His freshman year, he and his roommate, Matt Wright, chained all the doors and windows in Jenkins during spring break. They left one window open and made a treasure map for the women to follow in order to find the combination to unlock their rooms. "They weren't very happy with us," said Woodruff.

The same year, Woodruff and his friends told President Director Steve Timmerman that there was a stranger wandering around in Jenkins. "He [Timmerman] came running down the hall and found himself surrounded by about 20 guys with duct tape," Rau said. "They taped him up, put him in the back of my truck and drove around until we dropped him at Ballard," Woodruff said. "The Mac guys came out with buckets of water and we left them stranded there."

"I couldn't run and Timmerman got scared," Woodruff said. "Will this be Woodruff's last prank? "Probably not," he said. "There are many I'd like to do, but I can't tell you what it is."

"You know," said one professor jokingly upon seeing the ad, "being a graduating senior is a lot like being a faculty member with tenure -- you can do whatever you like."

-- Bill, from p. 1

cation, especially private schools," said Oswald. Currently 20,000 Washington students receive financial aid and the average income of their families is $66,000 a year, based on a family of four. Students are eligible for need grants if their family income is $27,000, but because of limited funding, only about half of those receive aid.

This new bill proposes to focus more students from middle income families. This means that students from families with an income of up to $52,160 could be eligible for financial aid, starting in 1995.

The Aid proposal would be a combination of needs and merit with help for work study. Jacobson said, "This bill will ensure that a college education doesn't become the exclusive privilege of the very rich and the very poor." For students ranging from lower to middle income families, earning up to $44,000 a year, the money in the financial aid package would come from grants and half from self-help. For middle-income families earning up to $52,160 a year, the available aid would be one-third of their income in the form of loans and work-study. The bill would increase work-study opportunities because the employer would not be required to match what the student pays in order to pay the student's wage.

Several provisions of the bill would take effect within the next two years. These include: excluding the value of the students' primary home when calculating a student's financial needs, authorizing a program to provide financial aid specifically for low income students whose parents did not graduate from college, and allowing Washington resident graduates, law and professional students to qualify for aid through the state need grant program.

Another part of the bill applies to the nation of Washington state funded schools. These institutions would have guidelines to lower tuition for residents undergraduate students and increase the tuition for out-of-state graduate students. It would also raise tuition for undergraduates after they have spent five and a half years at a school. Lockie said, "We want to differentiate between the financial needs of four-year schools the option of gap-filling grants for graduates and non residents of state students to meet financial demands. In addition, we want to encourage graduate students to complete their degrees in a timely fashion."

An aid in Jacobson's office said students are encouraged to share their ideas with the legislature on this issue. The bill's legislative number is 1-306-562-6600.

INTERESTED IN WORKING FOR THE WHITWORTHIAN?

PAID POSITIONS
• AD MANAGER
• FEATURE EDITOR
• NEWS EDITOR
• PHOTO EDITOR
• SPORTS EDITOR
FOR JR 245 CREDIT
• AD STAFF WRITER
• PHOTOGRAPHERS
• EDITORIAL BOARD
FOR INFORMATION ON PAID POSITIONS, CONTACT LISA
HARRELL, X087 OR BY ASWC. FOR OTHER POSITIONS, SIGN UP FOR JR 245

NEXT YEARS ASWC EXECUTIVES

TRAVIS SINES
ASWC PRESIDENT

JOSH ARNOLD
EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

ERIC LUTHER
FINANCIAL VICE PRESIDENT

NEWS CLIPS

• President Bill Clinton and Russian President Boris Yeltsin met last week to discuss the first step in a decades-long process they hope will bring into the family of democratic nations. Clinton announced the United States would give $1.6 billion in aid to Russia.

NATIONAL

• Country music is slowly gaining an edge on becoming the most popular form of music. Rock 'n' roll still is the most popular, but country music is gaining. Country music's share of the marketplace increased from 12.5 percent in 1991 to 16.5 percent in 1992. Rock 'n' roll declined three percent, but still led overall sales with 33 percent.

REGIONAL

• Austin Branch of the American Association of Independent Colleges and Universities was named the "Outstanding Chapter of the Year of the Year." The award was presented at the annual meeting on April 26, 1993.

NO CLASSES FRIDAY, APRIL 9 BECAUSE OF GOOD FRIDAY

Continue the journey of faith.

The destination is worth the effort. Join others with a hunger for God's service, and an urge to explore the most the people and feel the warmth of Austin Seminary. If your personal road map calls for insights in Bible, church history, pastoral care, theology, Christian education, world religions, worship, ethics, and ministry — continue your journey with us.

We offer Master of Arts and Master of Divinity degrees. Registration deadline for fall: July 15.

Come journey with us.

Contact Ellen Cook Cress, Director of Vocations and Admissions

AUSTIN PRESIDENTIAN THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

100 East 27th Street, Austin, Texas 78705-5797; 800-777-6127
William Robinson addresses campus issues during three-day visit

Joanne Helm
Editor in Chief

Top presidential candidate Dr. William Robinson visited the Whitworth College campus April 6-8. The purpose of the visit was to give the search committee an opportunity to evaluate his interaction with the different constituencies on campus.

Robinson is currently the president of Manchester College in North Manchester, Ind., where he has served since 1986. Robinson attended a dinner at Leavitt Dining Hall Thursday evening where he was introduced, with his family, to the Whitworth community. At the dinner, Robinson spoke about the challenges facing higher education in the United States and why Whitworth College will succeed in the future. "Whitworth will be well-supported in the future and will flourish," Robinson said.

He cited Whitworth's commitment to its mission of educating both the heart and the mind as a primary reason for Whitworth's possibility for success. Other reasons Robinson gave for Whitworth's ability to succeed included the value that the faculty place upon the students and Whitworth's interest in social action. "Whitworth offers students something that is needed in today's society," Robinson said. He said that Whitworth offers just what is needed in today's society, explaining his views on social justice.

When asked, Robinson said the three greatest needs of Whitworth that he has seen are the endowment, visibility and higher retention. Robinson said that one of the ways to make Whitworth more visible is by being involved in even more national and higher education organizations. Robinson is involved in several of these organizations, including the National Association of Independent Colleges and Universities, where he is a member of the Legislative Policy Analyst Committee.

The retention rate can be raised by helping students be successful, he said. "You can't serve customers' slide," he said. Robinson clarified that he does not view students as customers per se, but that students need to be served and encouraged to succeed. Wednesday, Robinson attended the weekly faculty meeting and met with Enrollment Services, the Please see Robinson, p. 8

Faculty, staff submit petition to search committee requesting that Philip Eaton be considered a candidate for president

PETITION TO THE PRESIDENTIAL SEARCH COMMITTEE
Concerning Philip Eaton

In order to ensure the best possible pool of candidates, we, the undersigned faculty and student members of Whitworth, respectfully request the Presidential Search Committee consider Philip Eaton for President of the college before closing the search.

Given the remarkable work he has done as Interim President in fund-raising, recruiting students, connecting with alumni, enhancing our presence in the community together with his unique background and gifts, his love for the college, and the continuity that his presidency would represent, we believe he merits a closer look. Not all of the undersigned would necessarily endorse his candidacy, but we are united in requesting that the committee examine this possibility.

Krista Vanquez
Whitworthian News Editor

The eight-month task of Whitworth College's Presidential Search Committee became more complex Friday after the committee was presented with a petition, signed by more than 120 members of the Whitworth faculty and staff, requesting that Interim President Philip Eaton be considered a candidate for the presidency.

The petition came at the end of a three-day on-campus visit by Dr. William Robinson, the committee's top candidate for the presidency. Faculty members said that the petition was not intended to reflect negatively upon Robinson's candidacy, or the quality of Robinson's visit to campus.

"The petition is not primarily about Dr. Robinson," said one faculty member who asked not to be identified. "The petition is about Dr. Eaton." Economics and Business Professor Dr. Richard Schatz said, "Any candidate would have received such a reaction." Schatz said the college should be given "the opportunity to compare both men."

The Whitworthian has learned that Dr. Forrest Baird, professor of philosophy, initiated the petition. Baird declined to comment beyond saying that the petition was "an expression of concern that the 1,000 faculty and staff need the search committee must have the best possible pool of candidates, rather it reflected the high esteem in which many faculty and staff hold Dr. Eaton."

The petition was given to the search committee during its scheduled meeting following Robinson's visit. The meeting, which a committee member expected to last "about an hour," lasted more than seven hours.

When Greg Hamann, executive secretary for the search committee, was asked why the meeting was taking so long, he said the committee was considering "so many good options," but refused to comment on what those options were.

According to Toben Heim, the spokesman for search committee chair Marvin Heaps, "We had a long and fruitful committee meeting in which we considered the candidacy of William Robinson. We were presented with a petition requesting that Philip Eaton be considered as a candidate for the presidency. We began to take this into consideration and we are currently in discussion. We hope to be able to make a comment early this week."

Heaps said, "We are not doing anything that would prevent the search. The Board of Trustees can decide whether or not to have Eaton considered as a presidential candidate," said Heaps. The board will meet April 22-23 to hear the search committee recommendation.

Eaton was unable to be reached for comment.
Whitworth community owes Robinson, search committee a fair hearing

Sarah Swinging
Editorial Board

A monumental occasion in the life of Whitworth College occurred last week. After months of interviewing, reference-checking and countless conference calls, the Presidential Search Committee brought Dr. William Robinson, their top candidate, to the Whitworth College campus. This purpose of the visit was to provide an opportunity for Robinson and the Whitworth community to interact.

If Whitworth was a larger college or university, the input of students, faculty and administration concerning who the next president would be would not have been considered. The Board of Trustees would hire the person they thought to be most competent for the job.

Whitworth College, however, values the opinions of the faculty, staff, administration and students. Therefore, the responsibility of the Whitworth community to be open-minded toward the candidate whom the committee feels is best. In doing so, it must be aware of the months of preparation that went into choosing the top candidate.

This week, the Whitworth community failed in some senses to retain that open-mindedness. Instead of providing Robinson with a friendly atmosphere conducive to forming a relationship with the man who may become our next president, some members of our community were non-receptive and almost hostile. These attitudes ignore the fact that although part of the purpose of Robinson's visit was to provide him with an opportunity to convince the Whitworth community that he would be a good president, the other part of the visit was for the Whitworth community to convince him that this would be a great place to be a president — regardless if he is offered the job.

Robinson is a well-respected person in the field of higher education. Whether or not he comes here, it is important that he have a favorable impression of this college. As a small school, Whitworth needs to have good relationships with other colleges and college presidents.

Circulating a petition through the community requesting that Interim President Dr. Philip Eaton be considered as a presidential candidate, while Robinson was still on campus, lacked consideration of Robinson's feelings. Regardless if people agreed with Robinson or his candidacy, it is this community's responsibility to represent itself well to all people visiting our campus.

In order for Whitworth to succeed as a college in the next 10 years, the community must not become its own worst enemy by representing itself as a close-minded, reactionary institution that is afraid of change. The whole community must be open to the actions the search committee who have the community's best interest at heart — a group that has spent the last eight months searching for the right person to lead Whitworth into the future. Whether we agree with this committee's choice or not, we owe both the committee and the candidate a fair hearing.

Commitment to God's kingdom makes Whitworth distinctive

Dear Editor,

This letter is a response to the editorial published in the April 7 edition of The Whitworthian. The editorial commended it to readers the value of diversity. Stating that "Whitworth College is distinctive in its celebration of diversity," the writer encourages students to "take advantage of their unique opportunities." After reading the column, I am encouraged by the apparent value of a Whitworth education.

As the shopworn saying goes, our planet is becoming a global village. Pluralism is the order of the day. As thinking Christians, we cannot turn a blind eye to these phenomena.

Nevertheless, I do not believe it is accurate to claim that "Whitworth is distinctive in its celebration of diversity." The educational philosophy of multi-culturalism, which seeks to embrace the perspective of the educational enterprise and challenge any arrogant ethnocentrism, is exerting a tremendous influence in most educational institutions. I suspect that racial, political and religious diversity is the order of the day in the majority of educational institutions in America. Diversity is widely celebrated. Whitworth is not distinctive in this regard; it is merely up to date.

We must ask whether diversity is to be celebrated for its own sake. Is diversity an unqualified end in itself? Diversity is a present reality, and I think it is good. But diversity is not an end in itself. To limit us and to learn from other cultures and religions makes good sense. But to rejoice in a phenomenon of opposing viewpoints is foolish. Academic freedom is valuable, but it is only good if it is conducive to the discovery of truth. Openness is a virtue and unorthodox opinions are a virtue.

As the author rightly said, Whitworth should not be classified simply as liberal, but as a college that strives toward realism. However, when she says that "the founders of this college realized that educating to believe that life in the real world is spiritual and easy would set students up for disappointment when faced with the reality of a secular world," some of us encounter a difficulty.

Is the real world not spiritual? Are the phenomena which we encounter in the "secular" world non-spiritual realities? Neither the founders of this college nor the students would sympathize with Whitworth graduates to be naive and unthinking religious. Still, I believe both parties would want to teach students that real life in the world is, in fact, spiritual.

What then, is distinctive about Whitworth College? The author, quoting from the missions statement, said that "the intention of the college... is to provide its diverse student body an education of the spirit (the mind) and the heart." This quotation must be read in context of the entire mission statement.

What is distinctive about the college is not primarily its commitment to diversity, but in its commitment to Jesus Christ and the spiritual reality of his Kingdom. This Kingdom encompasses all the realities of the earth. It is diversity within the Kingdom which we should celebrate.

A. Tucker Richardson

The Whitworthian Staff

Joanne M. Heim • Editor in Chief
Krista Wasing • News Editor
Lisa Horrell • Features Editor
Diane Brennan • Photo Editor
Julie Baffett • Advertising Manager
Oak Hunt • Circulation Manager
Judy Gage • Copy Editor
Gordon Jackson • Adviser
Terry House, Sarah Swinging • Editorial Board

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly, except during breaks in the academic calendar. Opinions expressed are those of the writers and do not necessarily represent the views of the Board of Trustees. The Whitworthian is an auxiliary enterprise of the Associated Students of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity in education and employment to all students and employees regardless of race, color, national origin, age, religion, sex, marital status, familial status, sexual orientation, sexual identity, disability, or veteran status. In accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, Section 2003a of the Civil Rights Act of 1991, and Section 508 of the Public Health Services Act.
New ASWC president thanks Whitworth community, asks for continued support in 1993-94

Dear Editor,

On behalf of myself and my peers who have been elected ASWC Executives for the 1993-94 school year, I would like to say thank you to the Whitworth community for selecting us as your officers. It is our hope to fulfill our campaign pledges and, over the course of the next year, forge ahead to make ASWC a servant of the students.

We cannot, however, reach our highest goals without your support. We must know your ideas; we must hear your concerns; we must be able to come to you for your time and energy. We must all work together as a team in order for us, the Whitworth student community, to realize our objectives. I would like us to adopt the motto of the young Theodore Roosevelt and say, "Look up and not down; look out and not in; look forward and not back, and lend a hand."

With that in mind, your first task is to elect your representatives for the 1993-94 school year. Please make this selection carefully as those people will be your representatives and decision makers for the next year. The candidates' position statements will be available to you so that you can make an informed decision when you vote. Remember, however, that after your vote is cast, the job is never over but has just begun. These individuals will need your help and participation under the new structure of ASWC so that they can work toward your objectives. Please work with them and give them your support.

As we go forward into next year, let us work diligently together for the good of the whole and strive for success. We all have great ideas — let’s put them into action.

Sincerely,
Timothy L. Smith
President-Elect

---

CRUISE JOBS

ALASKA • SUMMER JOBS

Students Needed! Earn $2000/month working for Cruise Ships and Tour Companies. Select summer and full-time employment available. For employment program call Cruise Employment Services (210) 624-5664 ext. CERS.

---

Heavy Classix

Sixty-six minutes of the most powerful, bombastic, and intense music ever written!

$5.99/$7.99

Cassette Compact Disc

---

Panda House

Chinese Restaurant

North 6010 Division

One block south of Francis

482-7155

10% off with coupon. Dine-in only.

5-10 p.m. Delivery only.
FEATURES

Attractions & Distractions

13 Tuesday
Young Life Meeting in UU Lounge at 9:15 p.m.

14 Wednesday
Chapel at 11:15 a.m.
Faculty Appreciation Day at the Centennial Court at 3 p.m.

15 Thursday
Charlie Coop, Accoutant, Gallatin, in the HUB at 7:30 p.m.

16 Friday
French, Russian Study Tour
Charity of Wesley's at 5 p.m.
Tennis at the Moor at Concept at 6 p.m.

17 Saturday
Whist Fun Run at 10 a.m.
Saturday Night Festival at 5 p.m.
Party at Wesley of Wednesdays at 6 p.m.

18 Sunday
Welsh Ensemble Concert at Opportunity Presbyterian Church at 3 p.m.
Party of Wesley of Wednesdays at 7 p.m.
Frante Hernandez Reception 8 p.m.

19 Monday
Prayer: Dan Miller

Rollerblading becomes new craze

Todd Owly
Whitworth Staff Writer

Rollerbladers have grown in numbers and popularity on the Whitworth campus.

"They really helped get me in shape, " said Hawthorne when I saw a new toy, they have come increasingly popular down the ramps," he said. He has decided to buy a pair of Rollerblades. People on campus would give me some pretty weird looks," said Duffey.

One reason it is so common in the Midwest is because of the popularity of hockey. Many people use them for training during the off-season, he explained.

Sophomore Tait Water, from Minnesota, said everybody back home owns a pair of Rollerblades, "I bought mine from a friend in Spokane. They really helped get me into shape, " said Water.

Although the Rollerblades didn't help with his training, he also used them for entertainment.

"During the summer, my friends and I got into downtown St. Paul really late at night and skate in the parking garages. It's fun to go to the top of the garage and don't see the ramp, he said.

Over the years, blading has become increasingly popular on the Whitworth campus. Many students use them as a means of transportation from classroom to classroom.

Junior Bill Weigum saw some kids give some tricks and decided to buy a pair. He hasn't taken them off since. "Blaading makes it fun to go to class," he said. "I actually make it to class on time," said Weigum.

Senior Aaron Lane, who traded in his skateboard for his blades, said, "Blaading is a killer transportation. I never used to be," he said.

Duffy agrees that you can get around on these blades, but he offers another advantage to the sport. "Rollerblades make me look like my old pair for $40 to another student on campus. The average cost of a new pair of Rollerblades is about $150.

According to Duffey, the prices have leveled off and have gone down since they first came out. "I bought a pair of upper-middle-class blades for $175 four years ago. You can buy the same skates now for about $150," he said.

Those who cannot afford buying a pair of Rollerblades can rent them from the Outdoor Recreation Coordinator, Adam Brooks. The cost is $3 for the day or $5 for the weekend.

"I haven't had a lot of people come in and rent because I don't think people are aware that they can rent them from me. I have three pairs now, but will bring more if more people show an interest," said Brooks.

"Rollerblading is a total blast. You get a great workout and have fun doing it," said Duffy.

Senior Keith Knowles shows off his rollerblading skills.

College Graduates:
You can become a member of the teaching profession by earning your Elementary or Secondary Certificate and Master's Degree at the Same Time

The Master in Teaching Program
Developing Reflective Teachers for Leadership in Tomorrow's Schools

Now is the Time, Look into Whitworth's M.I.T.

For more information, call the School of Education at 800.489.3299
Kevin Brady

Special to the Whitworthian

You probably never heard of Pansetta Merril. But if you live on campus and eat pizza, then you probably know who she is. She is Bunny, the pita girl. And through the average employee at Domino's Pizza is between the ages of 18 and 21, Merril has been delivering pizza for more than three years now. She looks forward to work because, "It's fun with barely any stress," she said.

Merril explained that she spent many years in the medical field. "It paid good, but the stress was overwhelming," she said. She went on to work in the chiropractic field, but that was a low paying job and she didn't make any money.

In 1989, Merril started working part time with Dominos, "I had so much fun that I just kept on jobs and joined Dominos' full time. I love my job, it's a blast," Then she added, "I don't have a problem with the hungry thing like this 40 year ago." Merril delivers to Whitworth campus quite often. "I love the Whitworth kids," she said. "I used to deliver to Cottages and they were rude and inconsiderate. The Whitworth students are the other side of the coin. They're nice with love and respect and they love the Whitworth kids are family." Other than a passion for Whitworth, Merril explained, "Bunny the pizza woman portrays a positive attitude toward life. I go to work with a smile on my face, and I know that she cared about me." Stephen Verhoefen a freshman at Whitworth said, "I really like Bunny's style. She's charming and considerate. She also has very generous with her coupons, which comes in handy on a college budget. She seems to understand college students." Pefia Webster another freshman added, "She's considerate and has a smile on her face. She's my favorite pita deliverer." John Martin, assistant manager of Dominos pita said, "Bunny is a top notch employee and sets an

"Bunny the pitta woman portrays a positive attitude toward life" - Chris Murphy

Shakespeare's 'Merry Wives of Windsor' opens Friday

Jamie Florin
Whitworthian Staff Writer

It is Friday at 1 p.m. and the Cowles Memorial Auditorium is a bustle with activity. The auditorium is being transformed into a Shakespearean world. The halls are decorated over a make shift stage as the crew paints backdrops and costumes. The actors who will perform on this stage are mulling around talking, singing and stretching in preparation for the afternoon practice of "The Merry Wives of Windsor." They will sit and feel like the afternoon until it meets the satisfaction of the co-directors, Pat Stiem and Rick Horner.

At 2:30, they "circle up" and talk about previous practices and their goals for today's rehearsal. "Talk to the back audience! Mom passionate energy!" then does. All of the actors have a goal in mind when they begin practice. After a prayer, the rehearsal is started.

The play is based on Sir John Falstaff, played by Trevor St. John. Falstaff is a lecherous charac- ter who lives for beer, sex, and has a good time," said St. John. In this play Falstaff plays the role of the entire character, but the affections of two of the wives of Falstaff, Mary, Missus Page (Beverly Pue) and Alice Ford (the same time. The wives find out about his sneaky plans to play a little game with his mind.

Shakespeare wrote "Merry Wives of Windsor" for Queen Elizabeth who had become enamored with Falstaff while watching him perform Shakespeare's history plays. The queen requested that

"Merry Wives of Windsor" is not the performance originally scheduled for this spring. "The Matchmaker" was the production originally planned, but it was impossible to do in Whitworth's auditorium because, "basically it's an auditions, not a theater," said Horner.

"It just wasn't doable, technically," added Stien. She explained that she and Horner chose "Merry Wives of Windsor" because, "we had limited time—less than six weeks—to produce a quality show. A comedy lends itself to what we needed. Also, it had been a while since we had done a Shakespeare play."

Despite the short time in which to produce a quality show, the play is coming along quite successfully said Stien.

"We have seen some grand glimpses of full characters, a sense of the magic of the moment. I'm very satisfied," Horner said, "the actors are phenomenal, they have incredible talent." The actors love the play too. "It's loads of fun... if you put your head through," said senior Kynesten Lee. "Merry Wives of Windsor" is the last play the Stiem will direct at Whitworth because she is retiring. Horner said, "I've been in my brain and my arm. She is a mentor and colleague." Stien, who has been at Whi- forth for 27 years, said, "I'm glad to go to a cloud in a lot of glory, it's abso- lutely magnificent. I have no regrets about this being my last production."

The play opens Friday, April 16, at 8 p.m. In the Cowles Auditorium. Additional performances are on April 17 at 8 p.m. and April 18 at 7 p.m. Tickets are $5 for adults and $4 for Whitworth students. They are available at the door and in the Theatre Arts Department by calling 466-3007.

Gabe's Real Words

Gabe Taylor
Whitworthian Columnist

Buried. I cannot seem to see the magnificence of this holiday. I do not know if I am buried in my schedule of if the significance of the day has been lost on me. But the glory that I imagined happening 2,000 years ago to the Son of Man is nowhere to be found here in April of 1993. Today is Cloudy Friday. I read about this day on the Gospel News. I wonder what they mean by "good." The guy was crucified. Nails in his hands and feet. They even thought he was able to make sure he was dead... after he was dead. This is the day they buried him. Pretty morbid if you ask me. I like to run and get outside under the open sky, after being indoors all day. My legs finally get to move at a faster pace than a walk across campus or the shaking that I give them as I sit and listen to a lecture in class. My arms automatically move in a forward and backward motion to help me steady breathing. I can feel my heart pumping and some of my muscles tensing. At least once during my run a shooting pain in some area of my body reminds me of how blessed I am to be able to move like this. My pain helps me to appreciate the run because I know that the pain will eventually fade away.

I wonder if Christ kept pushing him down the path because he knew of the events that were inevitable the next couple of days. It seems like the resurrection that was coming on Easter Sunday would have blinded his vision of his present circumstances. Life would overcome death for the first time and last time. I imagine God calling the sun up on Sunday morning and having him be able to lay his eyes on us as we all stood across: Christ was no longer buried, but out walking around. Maybe even running.

Christ had stood before and his end is the end. On Sunday he would defeat death for all of us. So often the pain of the crucifixion gets buried in the glory of the resurrection. So often the resurrection gets buried. To see the real pain means my muscles tense up and I get a cramp when I run. No wonder the holiday seems buried to me. I cannot relate to the happenings at all.

Each year I force myself to reflect on this holiday and its real meaning. Chris did what no other man in history has done— He walked the earth and he had to go through every day. I read about seems a little more real to me. I value that Sunday morning a little bit more. The glory of the resurrection contains the word "good." To me this is not god, it just is another word for the good. The resurrection is the only thing I find that I read about seems a little more real to me. I value that Sunday morning a little bit more. The glory of the resurrection contains the word "good." To me this is not god, it just is another word for the good. The resurrection is the only thing I find that

Color & Image Photo Quality Film

PricePlus 222 W Milston

WordPerfect, PageMaker, ColorDRAW, Freelance & more

328-6102
Men's tennis team suffers defeats; women split matches, 4-2 in NCIC

Brian Coddington
Whitworth Staff Writer

The Whitworth men's tennis team suffered back to back setbacks and a rainout last week as they were defeated by Central Washington University and Eastern Washington University, before rain forced the cancellation of the match against Pacific Lutheran University.

Tuesday, the Pirates hosted Central Washington and fell 7-2, as the visiting Wildcats won every doubles match.

Steve Radonich got the Pirates going early with a 6-4, 7-6 (7-2) victory at number two singles. However, the Wildcats took the next three singles matches before Marvin Mathis broke the Wildcat's string with a 6-3, 6-1 victory at number six singles.

Pirate Coach Tim Rettman cited Radonich's singles play as being exceptional during the last few matches.

"He's playing good singles and having some good matches," Rettman said of Radonich. "The last five or six matches, he has pulled off some tough ones."

Whitworth took to the courts again Wednesday, this time hosting Eastern Washington University.

This match saw the Pirate and Eagles trade the six singles matches as Radonich, T. J. Wolbom, and Mathis all won for the Bucs. However, the Pirates recorded what proved to be the deciding victory when they defeated Wolbom and Scott Chadderton 6-0, 6-1 at number two doubles.

Eric Hilden and Mathis teamed to score a 6-2, 6-3 victory at number three doubles to close out the scoring for the Pirates.

The women's team was also in action last week and earned a split of its four matches by scoring wins over Lewis & Clark College and Whitman College and falling to Eastern Washington University and Pacific Lutheran University.

Whitworth began the week with a 5-2 loss to Eastern in a match shortened due to darkness.

The Pirates got off to a slow start as the Eagles took the first five singles matches before Cindy Oswald recorded a win at number six singles. Whitworth scored Tanya Jones and Julane Lussier teamed for the victory at number one doubles.

However, due to rain, the match got off to a late start and was forced to be called because of darkness before the last two doubles matches could finish.

The Pirates returned to action during a weekend tournament in Wenatchee and got off to a great start, sweeping Lewis & Clark College, 9-0, Friday.

"We were pleased with the wins," said Pirate Coach Jo Wagstaff. "The women really played well."

Jones got the Pirates rolling with a 6-0, 6-0 victory at number one singles and capped her day by teaming with Lussier to score a 6-4, 6-0 victory at number one doubles.

Lussier, Jodi Baxter, Jana Baxter, Jessie Trenee, and Oswald were victorious for the Bucs as they raised their Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges record to 3-1.

Saturday brought a repeat of Friday, as Whitworth downed Whitman College, 9-0 in an NCIC match.

Jones once again got the match started well for the Pirates as she recorded a 6-0, 6-2 victory at number one singles. And for the second straight day Jones and Lussier scored a victory at number one doubles, 6-2, 6-0.

Lussier, Jodi Baxter, Jana Baxter, Trenee, and Oswald also recorded victories for the Pirates.

"Tanya and Julane won all their singles matches this weekend and really played well," said Wagstaff, who saw the Pirates raise their NCIC record to 4-1.

Against Pacific Lutheran, the Bucs were forced indoors because of rain and fell 7-2 to the Lutes in what Wagstaff called a "somewhat disappointing loss."

"We had to go inside because of the rain," said Wagstaff, "and I don't think we were mentally ready when we started the match."

Commitment to athletic success not mirrored in financial aid, scholarships

Steve Fliegel
Whitworth Staff Writer

A growing number of participants in the Whitworth Athletic Department think that the school's administration is not honoring its stated commitment to athletic success.

Some participants wonder whether Whitworth's policies value other skills and abilities more than athletics. Athletics is the only area on campus where financial awards may not be given based upon talent alone, according to Professor Bill Johnson, the faculty athletic representative to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

All other departments have awards that may be given to deserving students.

In the Music Department, for example, a dozen endowed scholarships are awarded to students each year, according to Professor Richard Evans, chair of the department. The endowed scholarships range in value from $200 to $2,000. In addition, the school offers music talent awards ranging in value from $1,000 to $3,500. Unlike financial aid given to athletes, these awards are not based on financial need only.

"We want to have the finest music program in the area," said Evans, "and we feel very supported by the Whitworth community."

The Music Department has been extremely successful this year. Evans is proud to point out that Eric Moe recently won the jazz trumpet soloist competition at the Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival in February. In addition to his other duties, Moe is currently pursuing a Ph.D. degree in music theory at the University of Iowa.

Some basketball players at Whitworth are not based on athletic ability, according to Evans. "The basketball coach is really the only coach that is paying attention at the moment," said Evans.

"We want to have the finest music program in the area," said Evans, "and we feel very supported by the Whitworth community."

The Music Department has been extremely successful this year. Evans is proud to point out that Eric Moe recently won the jazz trumpet soloist competition at the Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival in February. In addition to his other duties, Moe is currently pursuing a Ph.D. degree in music theory at the University of Iowa.

Women's tennis team suffers defeats; men split matches, 4-2 in NCIC

Brian Coddington
Whitworth Staff Writer

The Whitworth men's tennis team suffered back to back setbacks and a rainout last week as they were defeated by Central Washington University and Eastern Washington University, before rain forced the cancellation of the match against Pacific Lutheran University.

Tuesday, the Pirates hosted Central Washington and fell 7-2, as the visiting Wildcats won every doubles match.

Steve Radonich got the Pirates going early with a 6-4, 7-6 (7-2) victory at number two singles. However, the Wildcats took the next three singles matches before Marvin Mathis broke the Wildcat's string with a 6-3, 6-1 victory at number six singles.

Pirate Coach Tim Rettman cited Radonich's singles play as being exceptional during the last few matches.

"He's playing good singles and having some good matches," Rettman said of Radonich. "The last five or six matches, he has pulled off some tough ones."

Whitworth took to the courts again Wednesday, this time hosting Eastern Washington University.

This match saw the Pirate and Eagles trade the six singles matches as Radonich, T. J. Wolbom, and Mathis all won for the Bucs. However, the Pirates recorded what proved to be the deciding victory when they defeated Wolbom and Scott Chadderton 6-0, 6-1 at number two doubles.

Eric Hilden and Mathis teamed to score a 6-2, 6-3 victory at number three doubles to close out the scoring for the Pirates.

The women's team was also in action last week and earned a split of its four matches by scoring wins over Lewis & Clark College and Whitman College and falling to Eastern Washington University and Pacific Lutheran University.

Whitworth began the week with a 5-2 loss to Eastern in a match shortened due to darkness.

The Pirates got off to a slow start as the Eagles took the first five singles matches before Cindy Oswald recorded a win at number six singles. Whitworth scored Tanya Jones and Julane Lussier teamed for the victory at number one doubles.

However, due to rain, the match got off to a late start and was forced to be called because of darkness before the last two doubles matches could finish.

The Pirates returned to action during a weekend tournament in Wenatchee and got off to a great start, sweeping Lewis & Clark College, 9-0, Friday.

"We were pleased with the wins," said Pirate Coach Jo Wagstaff. "The women really played well."

Jones got the Pirates rolling with a 6-0, 6-0 victory at number one singles and capped her day by teaming with Lussier to score a 6-4, 6-0 victory at number one doubles.

Lussier, Jodi Baxter, Jana Baxter, Jessie Trenee, and Oswald were victorious for the Bucs as they raised their Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges record to 3-1.

Saturday brought a repeat of Friday, as Whitworth downed Whitman College, 9-0 in an NCIC match.

Jones once again got the match started well for the Pirates as she recorded a 6-0, 6-2 victory at number one singles. And for the second straight day Jones and Lussier scored a victory at number one doubles, 6-2, 6-0.

Lussier, Jodi Baxter, Jana Baxter, Trenee, and Oswald also recorded victories for the Pirates.

"Tanya and Julane won all their singles matches this weekend and really played well," said Wagstaff, who saw the Pirates raise their NCIC record to 4-1.

Against Pacific Lutheran, the Bucs were forced indoors because of rain and fell 7-2 to the Lutes in what Wagstaff called a "somewhat disappointing loss."

"We had to go inside because of the rain," said Wagstaff, "and I don't think we were mentally ready when we started the match."

Commitment to athletic success not mirrored in financial aid, scholarships

Steve Fliegel
Whitworth Staff Writer

A growing number of participants in the Whitworth Athletic Department think that the school's administration is not honoring its stated commitment to athletic success.

Some participants wonder whether Whitworth's policies value other skills and abilities more than athletics. Athletics is the only area on campus where financial awards may not be given based upon talent alone, according to Professor Bill Johnson, the faculty athletic representative to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

All other departments have awards that may be given to deserving students.

In the Music Department, for example, a dozen endowed scholarships are awarded to students each year, according to Professor Richard Evans, chair of the department. The endowed scholarships range in value from $200 to $2,000. In addition, the school offers music talent awards ranging in value from $1,000 to $3,500. Unlike financial aid given to athletes, these awards are not based on financial need only.

"We want to have the finest music program in the area," said Evans, "and we feel very supported by the Whitworth community."

The Music Department has been extremely successful this year. Evans is proud to point out that Eric Moe recently won the jazz trumpet soloist competition at the Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival in February. In addition to his other duties, Moe is currently pursuing a Ph.D. degree in music theory at the University of Iowa.

"We want to have the finest music program in the area," said Evans, "and we feel very supported by the Whitworth community."

The Music Department has been extremely successful this year. Evans is proud to point out that Eric Moe recently won the jazz trumpet soloist competition at the Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival in February. In addition to his other duties, Moe is currently pursuing a Ph.D. degree in music theory at the University of Iowa.
SPONSORS

A PIRATE UP CLOSE:
STEVE RADONICH BRINGS
COMPETITIVE SPIRIT TO WHITWORTH

By Brian Coddington

Whitworth Staff Writer

They call him "El Gato."

"That's because he moves like a cat," chuckles Whitworth men's tennis coach, Tim Rettrman. "Actually, I think he started it [the nickname] and it stuck with the rest of the guys.

However, the nickname seemed to fit, as many of Steve Radonich's actions on the court resemble those of a cat.

Radonich's approach to shots appears quiet like a cat, as he seems to creep up on the ball. His stroke resembles the long, graceful stride of a cat in pursuit of its victim. Finally, his follow through begins from a short, compact position, much like a cat about to pounce, and ends quickly and definitely with a snap of the wrist as he rights himself for another attack.

"He has a good ground stroke and baseline game," said Pat Drees, Radonich's doubles partner. "This allows him to be a strong player."

A junior transfer from Scottsdale Community College in Scottsdale, Arizona, Radonich's baseline game comes from years of experience as a singles player, he said.

"In Arizona, we didn't play much doubles, mostly singles," Radonich explained. "This forced me to develop my singles game more than my doubles play."

While at Scottsdale, Radonich's game developed nicely as he was named a National Junior College Athletic Association All-American during his sophomore year, while helping his team to a fifth place national finish. Radonich's taste for national success has left him hungry for more. Part of his decision to attend Whitworth rested on his belief in the Pirate's young and growing program.

"We are definitely a building team," said Radonich. "If I could, I would give up individual wins for team wins. I have already had personal success at the JC [junior college] level and I would put it aside now for team building."

Radonich's unselshful attitude has made him a popular player on the team, said Rettrman.

"He makes everyone laugh," Rettrman explained. "He is just a good guy to have around and has fit in well."

His effort on the court is another reason why Radonich has become a valuable asset to the Pirate team.

"He is very coachable and good to work with," said Rettrman. "He has become a team leader because of his efforts on the court."

However, sometimes this same effort gets Radonich in trouble, said Rettrman.

"He is a fiery, emotional player, and if there is a flaw in his game, it is because he gets too emotional and then lacks consistency," his coach explained.

Drees agreed with Rettrman's assessment.

"Steve is a great guy, very energetic and funny," said Drees. "But he is also a competitor and he hates to lose more than anything."

Sounds a lot like a cat running around the yard playful until aroused by a neighborhood cat trolling on his turf.

That is why they call him "El Gato."

---

VITAL STATISTICS

Name:
Steve Radonich

Nickname:
El Gato

Age:
22

Hometown:
Scottsdale, Arizona

Sport:
Tennis

Hobbies:
Jogging, music

Favorite player:
Michael Chang

---

Baseball rained out

By Steve Fiegel

Whitworth Staff Writer

The Whitworth baseball team encountered its tough test for the season on the weekend in Forest Grove, Oregon.

Rain prevented the Pirates from winning any of their three scheduled games against Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges rival Pacific University. All three games were rained out. The two teams attempted to make up two games Monday, but results were not available at press time.

Whitworth continues on the road this week. The Pirates take on Pacific-10 power Washington State University Tuesday in Pullman at 6 p.m. On Saturday, the Pirates battle NCIC and District 1 foe Pacific Lutheran University in Tacoma.

The teams are scheduled to play a double header on Saturday and one game on Sunday. The Pirates return home to play Lewis and Clark State College on April 21.
New music professor begins position this fall

Juliane Luetke
Whitworth Staff Writer

Change seems to be the theme at Whitworth this year, and this theme continues as a new band director prepares to join the Whitworth faculty.

Larry Martin, a current teacher at Warner Pacific College in Portland, will assume the position of associate professor of music and director of bands next year at Whitworth.

In a telephone interview, Martin said he is 'mentally excited and I wish I could come tomorrow.'

And his wife, Olinda, plans to move to Spokane at the beginning of July. He will start teaching in the fall.

Martin said he hopes to enhance the quality of the wind ensemble to go in Washington if you want to be a music teacher.

Whitworth Professor of Music and Department Chair, Richard Evans, said Martin will fill an unconstructed position created because Whitworth is the college's "ott not too large and not too small." Whitworth is three times larger than Warner Pacific, a Christian liberal arts college attended by about 600 students. Martin was drawn to Whitworth because of the "serious academic program...the wind ensemble students seem to really want to get better."

In a final comment, Martin said, "I'm very anxious. I will want to be conducting this ensemble in 30 years when I retire."

associate dean of students and director of student life, said that the student life staff wanted to hear Robinson's views on student development.

"We asked about Manchester College's (student life) organization and wanted to get his impression on the place of student life in a college education," Mandeville said.

Thursday afternoon Robinson had a final meeting with the search committee and the board members.

The search committee met Friday afternoon to evaluate Robinson's visit. "We have had a candidate here and we are going to evaluate that candidate," said Marvin Heap, search committee chair, before the meeting began.

The meeting, which began at 2 p.m., lasted seven and a half hours.

Evans said the decision to not to release their decision and are currently in discussions.

The Board of Trustees will meet April 22-23. At that time, they will hear all of the assistant recommendation and vote whether or not to offer the position of president to Robinson and his family spent Friday in Spokane, and flew back to Indiana Saturday morning.

KQRS Fun Run to raise money for budget, transmitter

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworth Staff Writer

To raise money for the general budget and a transmitter to increase wattage, KQRS will be hosting a Fun Run this Saturday April 17, beginning at 10 a.m. The run, which will be open to everyone, will include a T-shirt for all those who register, drawings, prizes and awards for the top two finishers.

Some of the prizes include gift certificates to local restaurants, movie passes, and Hastings' gift certificates.

According to KQRS General Manager Laura Rush, the event should be fun for all.

"You don't even have to run if you don't want to. People are free to ride bikes, roller blades or even walk," said Rush. "Like the name of the run - it's fun for fun."

KQRS disc jockey Lisa Bridges is planning on participating in the 3.1 mile run. "I'm doing it so we are able to increase the wattage," she said.

Rush reports that much support is still needed. "By participating, it would show people's support for the station," she noted.

The radio station was recently informed that if they move their transmitter antenna to a different location they will be able to increase the wattage and keep the same frequency as well. Registration forms are available in the AWC Office. Deadline is Friday, April 10. The race is 8 a.m. and students can register the day of the run beginning at 9 a.m.

Freshman Matt Douglas is also running in the event. "I like to run and it's for a cause," he said.

The run will begin in the parking lot near the music building. "It's really fun, we're going to run," said Rush.

-- By Andrea Stahl, Student Life Staff Writer
Search Committee announces recommendation of Robinson

Krista Vaquero Whitworth News Editor

Last Friday, the Presidential Search Committee announced its recommendation to the Board of Trustees that Dr. William Robinson, current president of Murray State College, be the 17th president of Whitworth College.

Over the past nine months, the recommendation that he be selected as the candidate of the Board of Trustees was supported by the Executive Committee and the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Robinson is a graduate of Whittier College and of the University of California at Los Angeles. He has served as the president of Murray State College since 1988.

The Board of Trustees will meet on campus April 23 to review what has been presented by the search committee.

Students sign new Eaton petition

Krista Vaquero Whitworth News Editor

More than 85 students signed a petition requesting Dr. Phil Eaton's consideration as a candidate for the presidency of Whitworth College.

The petition, issued by the Student Government Association, was submitted to the Board of Trustees on Thursday, April 22, and obtained 87 signatures in less than two hours.

The petition states, "We the undersigned students wish to have Dr. Phil Eaton considered for the presidency of Whitworth College.

The petition is intended to show the support of students for Dr. Eaton and to continue the search for a president.

The search committee is considering candidates for the presidency of Whitworth College.

The search committee is scheduled to make a decision in the near future.

The search committee is considering candidates for the presidency of Whitworth College.

The search committee is scheduled to make a decision in the near future.

The search committee is considering candidates for the presidency of Whitworth College.

The search committee is scheduled to make a decision in the near future.

The search committee is considering candidates for the presidency of Whitworth College.

The search committee is scheduled to make a decision in the near future.

The search committee is considering candidates for the presidency of Whitworth College.

The search committee is scheduled to make a decision in the near future.

The search committee is considering candidates for the presidency of Whitworth College.

The search committee is scheduled to make a decision in the near future.

The search committee is considering candidates for the presidency of Whitworth College.

The search committee is scheduled to make a decision in the near future.

The search committee is considering candidates for the presidency of Whitworth College.

The search committee is scheduled to make a decision in the near future.

The search committee is considering candidates for the presidency of Whitworth College.

The search committee is scheduled to make a decision in the near future.

The search committee is considering candidates for the presidency of Whitworth College.

The search committee is scheduled to make a decision in the near future.

The search committee is considering candidates for the presidency of Whitworth College.

The search committee is scheduled to make a decision in the near future.

The search committee is considering candidates for the presidency of Whitworth College.

The search committee is scheduled to make a decision in the near future.

The search committee is considering candidates for the presidency of Whitworth College.

The search committee is scheduled to make a decision in the near future.
OPINIONS

Community cannot usurp search committee's power

Those of us who have a favorite candidate for the position of president of Whitworth College have much to say about the search process. Many of us have only been observers of the process and must be aware that our judgements are based on a lack of knowledge and experience in this area.

The problem we are facing is not trying to place value on the merits of Interim President, Dr. Phil Benton, or the committee's choice, Dr. Bill Robinson. The real problem seems to be in the attempt by members of this campus to usurp the power of the Presidential Search Committee.

We must realize several things. First, most members of this committee were selected by the groups they represent. In order to conduct business with any efficiency we must relinquish some power to a representative group and give them the freedom to operate for us. The search committee has acted on our behalf courageously and conscientiously.

Second, we must realize that the committee is acting with privileged information that the campus does not have the luxury of knowing. We do not and cannot know all the circumstances that lead to their decision. Confidential information is simply a by-product of the committee system and not of this particular committee.

Finally, as a result of our internal struggles, the campus has become divided, weak, and is no closer to an agreement. For the Board of Trustees to back down based on any external pressure would forever taint their authority. In addition, an overt rejection of the candidate could possibly lead to no candidate at all, resulting in a continued search and another academic year of waiting.

To overtop the committee system at Whitworth, particularly on such a vital issue, would bring business to a standstill. This campus has had difficulty agreeing, and even though we will not always be faced with a decision of this magnitude, precedent would be set.

We chose these people to represent our community. They operated within a framework and power deviated from their course. We owe them the benefit of the doubt because we cannot know all that they know.

International students minister to Whitworth

Dear Editor,

On April 14, I was privileged to attend a very moving and inspirational chapel service. The international students of our campus prepared and presented a worship service of songs, scripture, and devotion focused on the theme of loving one another.

In a year when the Chapel Choir has dwindled to near extinction, the international students assembled their own choir of more than thirty voices, a Chinese student choir, and a Korean quartet. Peggy Lo, who has just been accepted to the graduate music program at Boston University, accompanied the choral groups and the congregational hymn on the piano. Peter Chuang, an ordained Presbyterian minister from Taiwan, gave the benediction.

In all, students from at least ten different countries led those of us who attended in worship as one united Christian family. I felt both proud and humbled. Proud of the wonderful spirit and talent of our international students. Mourned by their strong witness of faith.

I was also saddened and embarrassed that so few of our community were present to show support for and oneness with these students.

On a campus where we claim that Christ is our center and diversity is a goal to be prized, only a handful of faculty and staff, a scattering of American students, and one lone administrator came to join the international students in declaring that in Christ we are all one.

For many years, Whitworth graduates have gone to other countries to proclaim the gospel and bear witness to God's love. Perhaps now the missionary outreach is coming to us. Certainly the low attendance at chapel last Wednesday seems to indicate that our campus needs to hear the gospel message yet again.

Janet S. Under Director English Language Program Coordinator

The Whitworthian Staff

Joanne M. Hein * Editor in Chief
Krista Powers * News Editor
Lisa Harefeld * Features Editor
Diane Brennan * Photo Editor
Julie Bittlinger * Advertising Manager
Bek Hunt * Circulation Manager
Kathy Gao * Copy Editor
Gordon Jackson * Adviser
Trent House * Sports Editor

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly, except during academic recess. Opinions expressed in this publication do not necessarily reflect the views of The Associated Students of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity in education and employment to all students and employees in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, the Age Discrimination in Employment Amendments of 1972 and Sections 504 and 841 of the Public Health Services Act.

DO YOU HAVE AN OPINION?

LETTERS to the EDITOR must be signed and submitted to The Whitworthian by 5 p.m. Friday. No anonymous letters will be published. A phone number must be included for author verification. The Whitworthian is not obligated to publish all letters and reserves the right to edit letters.

YOU MAY THINK WE KNOW EVERYTHING - BUT WE DON'T.

If you have an idea for a story or something to be included in our calendar, please drop a line to The Whitworthian at #4302, or bring it by the ASWC office in the HUB.
Student offers snack bar idea

Dear Editor,

I wrote this letter while waiting for my "Chicken-on-a-Bun" in the HUB last week. The snack bar attendant brought out the sandwich and yelled, "Chicken-on-a-Bun!" Five of us got up to go claim what we all thought was our "Chicken-on-a-Bun." At the counter, a person who had just ordered ended up with the sandwich that I had been waiting for the last 30 minutes. I returned to the seat grumbling, knowing I would wait another 30 minutes to get my sandwich.

I enjoy the convenience of the snack bar and I appreciate the staff that works there. However, I would like to suggest a simple idea that would greatly decrease confusion and increase efficiency of the operations at the snack bar.

My idea is simply to implement a number system. When you order, the snack bar attendant will write a number on the ticket. You would then receive that number, written on a laminated piece of paper. When the order is ready, they will call the number and the person with that number can be sure that is their order.

I hope the snack bar will consider this an easy way to improve the snack bar's service.

Ryan S. Williams

CORRECTION

Michelle Conway was featured in last week's Whitworth Speaks Out. I misunderstood the question — I thought I was being asked about a pro-choice club. For the record, I'm not sure if I agree with the pro-choice position. I do think a pro-life club is a wonderful addition to Whitworth College. The Whitworthian apologizes for the misunderstanding.
Todd Orwig
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Name the prank, and Dr. Bob Bocksch has probably seen it during his 35 years of teaching at Whitworth. Bocksch has seen it all, everything from having his room filled with balloons to finding his desk and chair on the roof of the science building.

"Probably the best one I remember happened several years ago. Some student took my door off and replaced it with the women's restroom door. I had a lot of surprised females walk into my office throughout the day," said Bocksch. Bocksch administers the prank funny and sees them as part of the job.

The jokes are an expression of the students' appreciation for their chemistry teacher. However, students will no longer be able to show that same appreciation because Bocksch is retiring.

Bocksch did his undergraduate work at Wayne State University in Detroit where he grew up. He later attended University of Wisconsin Madison for his graduate study. After completing his graduate courses, he was looking for work. Bocksch received a letter from Whitworth College, a place he had never heard of. "I had never been further west than Ames, Iowa. I decided to go out to Spokane and check it out. Interviewed and was hired," said Bocksch. Headshins he was only planning on staying a few years until he found something better. "Nothing better came along. I ended up staying a little longer," he said laughing.

"What he will miss most about Whitworth, Bocksch is quick to say "the students."

"Dealing with the students and faculty on this campus has been very inspirational," he said. His students and colleagues feel the same way about him. Student Gina Sorenson said Bocksch is "the greatest asset that the Chemistry department has ever had. He's a very special man."

Sophomore Brandon Elmer agrees. "Dr. B has been an inspiration. He has been encouraging in and out of class. He'll definitely be missed," said Elmer. Bocksch doesn't mind taking a little extra time to help out a student because he really wants his students to succeed. He wants them to learn.

Sophomore Matthew Boles said Bocksch was the one who convinced him to continue in the chemistry field. "He helped me personally, and gave me the courage to stick with chemistry even when it got tough," said Boles. Bocksch is currently on sabatical and he is serving as Chairperson of the Solid Waste Advisory Committee. He said that he would like to continue doing consulting work in the area of solid waste management, said Bocksch.

He admits that he keeps an eye on finding things that he could use in class and would like to teach classes on occasion.

Ironically, the person who will fill Bocksch's position is his son-in-law, a Whitworth graduate. Dr. Tony Mega sees this as an interesting and challenging opportunity. He hopes to continue in his father-in-law's footsteps.

"Bocksch made the Chemistry department a lively place in a Christian context, upholding academic excellence. I want to maintain that high level of academic excellence while keeping a strong sense of care for the student's needs," said Mega.

Although Bocksch's colleagues are confident that Mega will be successful at Whitworth, they are sad to see Bocksch go. "He has been an invaluable person to work with. He has been the backbone of the Chemistry department. He is a super person that will be missed," said Dr. Don Callenbach, associate professor of chemistry.

Besides all that Bocksch has done for the Chemistry department, he also exemplifies what Whitworth stands for: high academic levels with personal attention in a Christian setting. Bocksch said that Whitworth has maintained a strong Christian emphasis with high academic goals throughout his 35 years of teaching. "One without the other is a real shame," he said.

---

Dr. Bob Bocksch helps sophomore Gretchen Rose with a chemistry experiment.

Dr. Bob Bocksch has probably seen it all, everything from having his room filled with balloons to finding his desk and chair on the roof of the science building.

"Probably the best one I remember happened several years ago. Some student took my door off and replaced it with the women's restroom door. I had a lot of surprised females walk into my office throughout the day," said Bocksch. Bocksch administers the prank funny and sees them as part of the job.

The jokes are an expression of the students' appreciation for their chemistry teacher. However, students will no longer be able to show that same appreciation because Bocksch is retiring.

Bocksch did his undergraduate work at Wayne State University in Detroit where he grew up. He later attended University of Wisconsin Madison for his graduate study. After completing his graduate courses, he was looking for work. Bocksch received a letter from Whitworth College, a place he had never heard of. "I had never been further west than Ames, Iowa. I decided to go out to Spokane and check it out. Interviewed and was hired," said Bocksch. Headshins he was only planning on staying a few years until he found something better. "Nothing better came along. I ended up staying a little longer," he said laughing.

"What he will miss most about Whitworth, Bocksch is quick to say "the students."

"Dealing with the students and faculty on this campus has been very inspirational," he said. His students and colleagues feel the same way about him. Student Gina Sorenson said Bocksch is "the greatest asset that the Chemistry department has ever had. He's a very special man."

Sophomore Brandon Elmer agrees. "Dr. B has been an inspiration. He has been encouraging in and out of class. He'll definitely be missed," said Elmer. Bocksch doesn't mind taking a little extra time to help out a student because he really wants his students to succeed. He wants them to learn.

Sophomore Matthew Boles said Bocksch was the one who convinced him to continue in the chemistry field. "He helped me personally, and gave me the courage to stick with chemistry even when it got tough," said Boles. Bocksch is currently on sabatical and he is serving as Chairperson of the Solid Waste Advisory Committee. He said that he would like to continue doing consulting work in the area of solid waste management, said Bocksch.

He admits that he keeps an eye on finding things that he could use in class and would like to teach classes on occasion.

Ironically, the person who will fill Bocksch's position is his son-in-law, a Whitworth graduate. Dr. Tony Mega sees this as an interesting and challenging opportunity. He hopes to continue in his father-in-law's footsteps.

"Bocksch made the Chemistry department a lively place in a Christian context, upholding academic excellence. I want to maintain that high level of academic excellence while keeping a strong sense of care for the student's needs," said Mega.

Although Bocksch's colleagues are confident that Mega will be successful at Whitworth, they are sad to see Bocksch go. "He has been an invaluable person to work with. He has been the backbone of the Chemistry department. He is a super person that will be missed," said Dr. Don Callenbach, associate professor of chemistry.

Besides all that Bocksch has done for the Chemistry department, he also exemplifies what Whitworth stands for: high academic levels with personal attention in a Christian setting. Bocksch said that Whitworth has maintained a strong Christian emphasis with high academic goals throughout his 35 years of teaching. "One without the other is a real shame," he said.
Ballet performs 'Making of a Dancer'

Jamie Florano
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Rita Brodie has been dancing for four and a half decades. Dancing is her life and she does love teaching ballet at Whitworth and by leading a ballet company into the spotlight. Brodie is also the director of two of the ballet companies based in Spokane, the Conservatory Ballet and Theater. The college also has dancers and apprentice (Whitworth senior Alicia Beale). The dancers are Whitworth and Gonzaga University students and alumni. "We are unique in that we are a strong forming group," said Brodie.

The company had a controversial start. During the 1990-91 school year, budget cuts were made to the ballet program. Brodie, angry over the cuts to her department, was allowed to form a ballet company that "goes on to the community and funded by the community," said Brodie. Brodie speaks highly of her company. "We've been compared to professional companies and many dancers have had professional offers to dance. Susan English [who writes for the Spokesman-Review] wrote that we were 'up and coming' and compared us to Spokane's professional company," said Brodie.

This "up and coming" company has been working hard for their spring performance, "Making of a Dancer." "Symphony in White," an excerpt from "Sleeping Beauty" and "Roméo and Juliet" will be performed this year. "Sleeping Beauty," Brodie said, "is one of the hardest ballets for women. You can see the work put into it." The performances are held at the Cowles Memorial Auditorium on Saturday, April 24 at 8 p.m. and on Sunday, April 25 at 2 p.m. Tickets are $8 for adults, $5 for youth (18 and under) and children under 10 are free. Tickets can be purchased in the ballet studio from 3:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. daily or by calling U & B Select A-Seat at 325-SEAT.

Warrens, ASWC sponsor formal on Lake Coeur d' Alene

Lisa Harrell
Whitworthian Feature Editor

While walking across campus last week I passed by a group of students whom were humming "Toad the Wet Sprocket's song. "Walk on the Ocean." It must be contagious because I soon found myself humming it as well.

What could be the reason for this? It is probably because there are signs everywhere advertising this spring's Walk on the Ocean dance. Warren Hall and ASWC are co-sponsoring the formal dance and boat cruise on April 24 from 9 p.m. until 12 a.m. According to South Warren President, Rita Norris, the theme was partly chosen because of the song.

She also explained that it is a tradition for the Warrens to sponsor an annual boat cruise. In the past, the cruise and formal were always separate. However, a few years ago the two events were combined. Last year was the exception. Last year the formal was held at Cavanaugh because a boat was not reserved in time.

Norris and Devon Singh, Cultural and Special Events Coordinator, decided to bring back the tradition. This year's formal will be on Lake Coeur d' Alene. The boat will be decorated in keeping with the theme. Balloons, fish and other ocean life decorations will be hanging above the dance floor, and candles in seashells will adorn the tables.

Everybody must be aboard the boat by 8:45 p.m. because this is when the boat will be leaving the dock. Norris explained that two years ago some students missed the boat and it turned around to get them. "It will not be turning around this year, though," said Norris. She wanted students to be sure to get to the dock by 8 p.m. if they wanted pictures taken. The photographer will not be boarding the boat, explained Norris. "Last time people complained because it was so cold. So this year we are holding the dance on the lower deck which is inside," explained Norris. "This way if people get lost from dancing they can go to the upper deck and there will be picnic tables up there for them to sit on."

There will also be soda available for $3 if people need to cool down. The Coeur d' Alene resort is providing the drinks and free hors d'oeuvres. T.J. of Sound Express will provide the music. "He was the same disc jockey who worked at the Winterhall," said Norris. She explained that he will be taking requests at the dance.

Norris said that more than 100 tickets have been sold already. She wanted to urge students to buy their tickets soon. "We will be selling tickets at the dock, but the tickets are limited and we cannot guarantee that everyone will get a ticket that night," said Norris. Tickets will be available for $7 all week long at the ASWC office and will also be made available at the Marriott until Friday night. Norris said part of the proceeds will go toward replenishing Warren's account, and will be used to do the same boat cruise next year. The other part of the proceeds will go to ASWC to reimburse them for the catering and decoration costs.

"South Warren could not have done it all alone. We didn't have enough money to do it all and Pete [Davison's] help and past planning experience has been great," said Norris.

OUTDOOR REC TRIPS!

GOLFING AT WANDEMERE
18 holes
April 20, 1:30 p.m.
12 people
ONLY $5

LING COD FISHING
Two-day trip
May 7-8 (leave May 7, return May 8)
Includes boat, license, tax, gear, transportation, and a place to stay
ONLY $30

You must pre-pay in the ASWC Office
First come, first serve
Call Adam Brooks with any questions, 466-3276

Gabe’s Real Words

Gabe Taylor
Whitworthian Columnist

"Grace is necessary; that is to say, man is not free to change without it."

-Claude Bernard

Can you believe it! This is a quote I found in a book that was necessary to read, for a necessary class, for a necessary credit, for a necessary grade, in order for me to graduate. I do not know about you, but I am in four weeks left to the school year, all this necessary stuff is not the first thing on my mind.

I am reflecting. I am preparing. I am contemplating. Because of all these "real life" thoughts, Christ seems to be on my mind a lot. I am trying to integrate my God and my never-ending "two-page assignments." They are clashing not meshing. My growth process with Christ is locked up too. My freedom to change is bound.

Do you know people who won't let you be you? It is as if you need to be extra cautious so that you do not expose too many weak areas. That is because the reaction of these people to what is really inside you would be intolerable.

You get stuck in the ceramic mold that these people have for you and you do not know how to be different. You find yourself wanting room to fall down in front of these people. You want to do something that does not necessarily fit with your ceramic, preconceived character. You need some room to change. You need some grace from these people. But your freedom to be different seems to be missing.

Simon Peter really opened up. Before Christ's death, he was the one to completely deny knowing and being in a relationship with Christ. He stood by a fire one night and lied to some people who were trying to associate him with Christ. Peter felt pretty bad. But as I read further in the Gospel, I was amazed, even perplexed at the response Christ gave to Peter. After Christ had been crucified and resurrected, he saw Peter for the first time. Peter was hanging out with the other Disciples. Christ's first words were, "Peace be with you." Peace. He offered peace to all the other disciples who were not around when he was carrying the weight of the world. Even Peter. But Christ knew that Peter needed a lot of room to change. The Grace that he gave, allowed Peter to change. He could be on fire for Christ again, and renew his relationship with Christ again. That Grace was necessary.

I fall too many times in one day. A necessary reading does not get done for class and I "add-up" the class discussion. I allow a snowball to come crashing over me when I look at my grades and see how much I have due before school ends. Life gets out of focus and my only hope is that Christ will run into me during my day so that I can be reminded to be Christ-centered. Sometimes, people get hold of a ceramic mold of me and I forget to be different from the mold's image.

But I found this quote..."Grace is necessary...man is not free to change without it."
Whitworth's low salaries make it hard for coaches, faculty to stay

Steve Fliegel
Whitworth Staff Writer

One coach has left, while another has turned down a substantial offer. Many students are wondering if other coaches will follow.

Stein Slette, head coach for the women's soccer team and physical education instructor, has decided to accept a position at Hope College in Michigan. Though he says that his leaving is not just a money issue, Slette does not deny that salary played a role in his decision.

"Besides the benefit package and the pay, the salary will be substantially higher," he said.

Slette hoped to remain at Whitworth for a long time. He bought a house and planned on raising his daughter in the Mead School District. But Slette soon found himself in the current salary system, I have to work in the summer to pay the bills," he said. "That takes away an opportunity to work toward a doctorate degree. It was extremely hard to stay here without a doctorate degree," said Slette.

A salary at Whitworth for a first-year assistant professor with a master's degree starts at $23,360, according to the faculty salary schedule for the 1992-93 school year. Some coaches are hired as physical education instructors and begin at $21,268.

Jo Waggstaff, interim director of athletics, says Whitworth is able to attract and keep coaches for reasons other than salary. "The Christian, small college atmosphere draws people," she said. "The students here are the best. Candidates see all those things and get really excited."

Head Track and Field Coach Sam Wiseman came to Whitworth for many of those reasons. Wiseman, like Slette, has a family. He and his wife have worked three years full time at Whitworth. Wiseman has performed some coaching duties at Whitworth for five years.

"I came here from Idaho because my philosophy of coaching were just too different from what was happening there," he said. "I wanted to stay in coaching, but Whitworth could offer anything other than a defensive line coach coaching position for $15,000.

Wiseman took on some administrative duties, but his whole pay from Whitworth totaled less than $5,000. So in order to subsidize his income, Wiseman sub­stituted taught, moved furniture and worked in a pizza parlor.

Wiseman remains, he says, because "I've reached a point where I know those environments I can work in and those I can't."

In addition to coaching track and field, Wiseman builds up his income by taking on other responsibilities. He is defensive coordinator on the football team, as well as in intramural director and a physical education instructor.

Students wonder whether Whitworth should depend on a coach's love for the school to encourage them to stay. As strong as that love may be, it doesn't pay the bills.

"There is a presence of God on this campus and I will always love the things about Whitworth," Slette said.

One way of dealing with the issue of small coaching salaries may be to hire younger, unmarried candidates. Lisa Oriard, Head Coach of the women's basketball team and the only unmarried coach at Whitworth, is also here because of the students. "I want to work with players who really want to play basketball," she said, "players who do not need a scholarship to play."

Small salaries are not as large an issue for Oriard, she said, because "fortunately I only have to take care of myself."

But Whitworth may have a harder time holding on to younger coaches who have goals that may be unattainable. Every coach has reached the same point as Wiseman.

Waggstaff points out that the coaches know what to expect when they come to Whitworth. "We are up front with people that they won't make a lot of money," she said.

Dr. Ken Stette, provost and dean of the faculty, acknowledges that small salaries for all faculty at Whitworth are a major concern. "Once the new president is here, we will establish a blue ribbon committee to address the issue of faculty salaries," he said. "This is one of the priorities for the new president."

But at present, Whitworth continues to rank at the bottom of a 30-college comparison group in the area of average salaries, according to a report made to the Academic Affairs Committee of the Board of Trustees in October of 1992. A goal of meeting the median salary level of that comparison group had previously been stated, but since that time, Whitworth's ranking has fallen.

The concern of some students is whether Whitworth can really offer in-state scholarships if professors and coaches cannot afford to stay, or if it cannot hire the best candidates for new openings. Even coaches who are committed to the mission of the college are finding it hard to stay.

"We had no intentions of leaving when we came," said Slette.
Tennis teams defeat Yakima Valley C.C.

Brian Coddington
Whitworth Staff Writer

The Whitworth men's and women's tennis teams defeated Yakima Valley Community College in a match held Thursday, at the Roe Cutler, Jr. Tennis Courts. They were rained out on Wednesday in a match against Lewis-Clark State College.

The men opened the day by blanking visiting Yakima Valley 6-0, by good because the and the two doubles matches. Robert Deves lead the way for the Pirates. Radorsch won 6-1, 6-4 numbers one singles, while Deves teamed with Eric Hilden to score a 6-0, 6-4 victory in number one doubles.

"We are really coming toge ther as a team," said Deves, "which is good because the conference tournament is next weekend."

Hilden, Wolshorn, and Martha were also victorious for the Pirates. They saw their record improve to 5-7 on the season, something Radorsch found consoling.

"We are 5-7 now," explained Radorsch. "We have won twice as many games in last year, which is a positive sign.

The Pirates traveled to Central Washington University on Sunday, but at press time the results of this match were unavailable.

The women's team also faced Yakima Valley and took an 8-1 victory.

Whitworth opened the match by taking all six singles matches, as Tanya Jones got the ball rolling for the Pirates with a 6-0,6-2 victory in number one singles. Jodi Baxter, Jessie Trerise, Lisa Steele, Cindy Oswald, and Julie Zaglow all followed Jones' lead to whack shortstop victories to make the Pirates to a 6-0 victory.

Yakima Valley broke the Whitworth string at six with a victory in the doubles. Before Baxter and Steele lighted the Pirates by scoring a 6-1, 6-0 victory at number one doubles, Zaglow and Jennifer Rose closed out the match with a 6-3, 6-1 victory on three doubles.

"It was nice because everyone on the team got a chance to play in our last match," said Baxter, who is pleased with the team's performance. It was the final tune-up before the Northwest Conference of Independent College tournament. "Everyone played very well and we were ready.

The Pirates host the women's portion of the two day NCIC tournament which begins Friday, April 24.

Baseball beats PLU

Steve Flagel
Whitworth Staff Writer

The Whitworth nine took to the diamond again this week after a weather-forecast-voided weekend, won three of their four ball games. The Pirates lost at Washington State on Saturday but came back to sweep Pacific Lutheran over the weekend.

The Pacific 10 Conference Cougars pounded on the Pirates 10-6 in Pullman. Whitworth helped their opponents by committing six errors, three each by Chad Anderson and second baseman Renee Row. Doug Lewis was started for the Bucs and took the loss, breaking his streak.

The Pirates' only offensive came in the first inning on Matt Leveque's two-run single. On Saturday, the Pirates returned to National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics play with a District and Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges double header against Pacific Lutheran in Tacoma.

The Pirates won both games by scores of 8-2 and 5-1, respectively. In the opener, Billy Bark pitched six innings to get the victory, raising his record to 5-1. Anderson, Chad Martin, and Brandon Allard each had two hits to lead the Pirates over.

The nightcap was a pitcher's duel, with the Pirates coming out on top. Lewis won for the Pirates, pitching a complete game. The Bucs scored single runs in the third and fourth innings.

On Sunday, Whitworth exploded to 11-1 win over the Lutes. The game was called after seven innings due to the 10-run rule. Tom Landry pitched into the sixth inning, giving up only the single run to raise his record to 2-4. Kurd hit his second homer of the season to lead the Pirates.

The Pirates are 13-7 over 70 in District Play and 4-1 in the NCIC.

Whitworth plays Lewis and Clark State on Wednesday. Both are undefeated District 1 teams. This weekend, Linfield College comes to Mount Angel for a three game NCIC series. Linfield is the defending conference champion.

SPORTS

A PIRATE UP CLOSE:

TANYA JONES USES HUMOR TO DEVELOP TEAM UNITY

Brian Coddington
Whitworth Student Writer

"It was just a little prank," she said with a grin, "we have had lots of those.

Whitworth senior Tanya Jones was referring to the ski trip the Whitworth women's tennis team took to Kimberly, B.C. last winter, despite coach Jonnie Wagner's reservations.

"She didn't really want us to go because she was afraid of injuries," Jones explained.

However, go they did and what started out as a great time became Wagner's worst nightmare — almost.

Jones knew her coach worried about possible injuries the team might suffer on the trip, so she and fellow teammate Marlen Jones scouted the moment and Jones knew she had the perfect team mate.

As Wagner and the rest of the team gathered for practice the following Monday, Jones was greeted by what appeared to be a severely injured and very upset Jones.

"Sorry and I had put eye-shadow on my ankle and I came walking out on crutches to make it look like I had sprained my ankles," said Jones with a laugh. "I had splashed water on my face to make it look like I was crying.

Wagner's reaction was one of panic.

"She took me to the training room right away and asked Russ [Richardson, Whitworth's head trainer] to examine me. Then he asked how hard it was and if I could play tomorrow because we had a match the next day," Richardson was aware of the prank and played along with Jones, obeying Wagner's every request.

After Wagner had rejoiced the team, Jones left the training room and came running out onto the court laughing, and letting Wagner on the joke.

Wagner appreciated the prank because as one of four seniors, Jones has stepped into the role of a team leader and has used her sense of humor to develop team unity.

"She has a great sense of humor," Wagner said. "The team really enjoys her sense of humor. It gets the camaraderie and the fun going.

However, Jones' leadership skills are not limited to her sense of humor. In fact, she is one who has the ability to lead by example according to teammate and fellow senior, Jana Baxter.

"She is a good example of what it takes to come back," explained Baxter. "She could be down 2-0 or 2-1 and come back to win the set. She sets a good example for us and always encourages us to do the same."

Her coach attributes this part of her game to her ability to play the mental side of the game as well as the physical side. "She is mentally tough and positive," said Wagner. "She is very good at preparing mentally for a match and she is sometimes starts game in advance if it is a big match. I know she is getting ready because she is off in her own little world," Wagner said.

And as for the physical side, Jones is very self motivated. "Tanya works very hard at the game," Wagner said. "She is constantly working on her game — she just loves the game."

This self motivation began back when she was eight years old and her father first introduced her to tennis. With no high school program, Jones was forced to work out on her own with her father as her coach.

"We did not have a high school team, so I practiced on my own with my dad," Jones explained. "He always had a basket of balls in his back pocket and put me through drills." With dad as her coach, mom was left to take care of the nutritional side of her training.

"My parents have both been very supportive," said Jones. "My dad as my coach and my mom with all the meals and the carbs (carbohydrates)."

Jones began playing tournaments when she was 13 and continued to play the summer tournaments throughout high school. "I got a ranking and went to college," And it was through one of her summer tournaments that she found out about Whitworth.

"I was playing in a tournament at Northpark and Jol's husband was also playing in it," explained Jones. "He introduced me to Jo and Whitworth."

Jones was able to make an immediate contribution, going 13-8 her first year. She has since compiled a 63-24 record, which included the 1992 Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges conference championship and a regional appearance in the 1992 District I tournament.

For her accomplishments, Jones was named to the All-District Team in both 1991 and 1992, and was named the 1992 NCIC Player of the Year.

"She is, without a doubt, the best player the Whitworth women have ever had," said Wagner. "Just by coming here, she has won a lot for our program."

Her smiling face and carefree spirit will be missed by her teammates as she is set to graduate this spring with a degree in elementary education and physical education.

"She always makes us laugh by the things she does," said Baxter. "The team will not be the same without her.

It is easy to see why.

VITAL STATISTICS

Name: Tanya Jones
Nickname: Joney
Year: Senior
Majors: Elementary Education, Physical Education
Hometown: Kimberly, B.C.
Sport: Tennis
Hobbies: Skiing, mountain biking

FREE PREGNANCY TESTS

Completely confidential
Crisis Pregnancy Center, 482-2843.
New Pro-life Club offers many options

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworthian Staff Writer

A Whitworth sophomore became pregnant and wants to have an abortion after all other doors seemed to close. Maureen Krouse, also a sophomore, counseled her through the situation but felt that there could and should be other options, prompting her to start an on-campus Pro-life Club.

Despite initial opposition, ASWC unanimously voted to make it the most recent chartered club at Whitworth. Financial Vice President Eric Luther said many people thought it should not be an issue addressed by ASWC. "We didn't want to be an abortion battleground," said Luther.

"There's simply no organized support, so I decided to do something about it," said Krouse, president of the club.

Krouse said she believes there are many women, like the one she counseled, "who are confused and afraid with nowhere to go." Although there have been only one meeting so far, the group has already formulated a goal. According to Krouse, the vision is to find money for those women who are pregnant and want to remain in college, but without financial assistance would be unable to continue the pregnancy and stay in school at the same time.

Krouse contacted Presbyterians for Life, a pro-life organization headquartered in Virginia, and is "We tried to start the club last fall, but there could and should be other options," said Krouse.

"My hope is to provide women at Whitworth with some real options," said Randy Michaelis, advisor to the group. "Now, if there is a crisis pregnancy, there are not a lot of options. It doesn't matter what kind of school it is, secular or Christian, crisis pregnancies are happening," he said. The group is planning to distribute information, provide post-abortion counseling, and buy a set of videos to donate to the audiovisual department for students' use.

"If there is something God has laid on my heart for about a year," said Michaelis. "I encourage everyone to get involved," said Sophomore Karen Wharton, who expressed a need for the vigil last year.

"I encourage everyone to get involved," said Sophomore Karen Wharton, who expressed a need for the vigil last year.

Prayer vigil begins next week in chapel

Kristen Nicholson
Special to The Whitworthian

A 24-hour prayer vigil will take place in the chapel April 26-27. Students, faculty, and staff are encouraged to sign up for 30 minute prayer slots for the vigil in Marriott and in the HUB April 21-23.

"I encourage everyone to get involved," said Sophomore Karen Wharton, who expressed a need for the vigil last year.

SERVE coordinator Becky Teut said that she and several students have considered doing the vigil since last spring. Although the prayer vigil was originally scheduled to take place last fall, it has been postponed until now.

"This is something God has laid on my heart for about a year," said Michaelis. "I encourage everyone to get involved," said Sophomore Karen Wharton, who expressed a need for the vigil last year.

Prayer topics will generate from prepared index cards and from a prayer request box in which participants can include specific concerns.

On Friday, April 30, there will be a time of group prayer for everyone who participated in the vigil.

"It goes over well, this vigil will unite the campus," said Wharton.

CRUISE SHIP EMPLOYMENT

CRUISE JOBS

Applications for Whitworth students available in the SSC.

CRUISE JOBS

Students Needed!

Stewards, Counselors, Tours, Tours, Tours! To apply, write to Cruise Ships Inc. Company, Holiday, Summer and Fall Time employment available. For employment program call Development Department (206) 614-2666 ext. CSS6

CRUISE SHIP EMPLOYMENT

ASWC and Warrens Presents

Walk on the Ocean

Whitworth College Spring Formal and Boat Cruise

On Lake Coeur d'Alene

9 pm to 12 am
April 24th 1993

with drinks and hors d'oeuvres served music by sound express photography by supershots

Tickets are 7 dollars per person
Available in ASWC office and Marriot

NEWS CLIPS

GLOBAL

+ Pentagon investigators are beginning a new search for evidence about the 1,654 American missing in action from the Vietnam War. More than 71 Americans and Vietnamese will look for clues about the MIAs. This is the 23rd search since October 1988.

NATIONAL

- Two of the four police officers charged with violating the civil rights of Rodney King, the black motorist who was beaten by the officers in March 1991, were found guilty Tuesday. Sgt. Stacey Koon and Officer Lawrence Powell were found guilty. Officer Theodore Brieno and former Officer Timothy Wind were acquitted. Koon and Powell face up to 10 years in prison and $250,000 each in fines. Sentencing is scheduled for August 4.

LOCAL

- The Inland Northwest Blood Center in Spokane was shut down last Friday at the request of the Food and Drug Administration for failing to protect the blood supply. Last Monday the blood bank was forbidden to transport blood across state lines.
Robertson accepts position as 17th president; to begin July 1

Kris Vasquez
Whitworth News Editor

Dr. William Robertson, the President Search Committee's top candidate, has accepted the position as the 17th president of Whitworth College.

The Whitworth College Board of Trustees announced the selection of Dr. William Robertson as the 17th president of Whitworth College as its meeting last Friday. Robertson, 45, is currently the president of Manchester College in North Manchester, Ind.

In a telephone interview, Robertson said there are a number of reasons why Whitworth is appealing to him. He said there is "a strong fit between Whitworth's values and my values." He also said he believes he has the ability to meet the current needs of Whitworth.

"Another very important factor is our deep affection and commitment for the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.)," and to be active in the denomination. He also said "It is an excellent position for spiritual nurturing."

"Whitworth has a superb academic production and I wanted to be involved in that," said Robertson. "I think I have a very strong sense of calling about the position," he said.

Chairman of the Board Chuck Boppell said Robertson has the experience and the vision to lead Whitworth into the 21st century.

"Drawing from the very strong pool of candidates, we felt that Dr. Robertson would provide the best leadership for Whitworth," said Boppell. "He best met the criteria established by the search committee and the college community concerning what qualities Whitworth's next president should bring to the position," he said.

After selecting Robertson, the Board of Trustees expressed its thanks to Interim President Dr. Philip Eaton and his wife Sharon. The board passed a resolution affirming its appreciation of their leadership and support over the last year.

"The trustees feel a great deal of administration and respect for the superb leadership Phil Eaton has shown us as interim president during this transition year," said Boppell.

Marvin Heaps, trustee and chair of the Presidential Search Committee, said the board circulated and evaluated all of the petitions submitted, and listened to them through the search committee.

He said "I read every one of them...every word of those petitions..." Trustee Mark Toone said, "It is very important to the campus to know that the Board of Trustees took every piece of information that came to us seriously. We listen, we read the petitions, we even passed the petitions around to read them...it was not something that was just mentioned and passed on."

"The board felt it had to talk this thing through until everyone had an opportunity to be heard," said Toone. Toone also said, "In the end we honored the search committee process and the decision it came to, and we validated that."

Dr. Richard Schatz, professor of economics and business, said "I think he [Robertson] will be an excellent president, and now that he has been selected, I am happy and I am fully supportive. I look forward to his coming."

Memorial service scheduled for Moore

Stepdaughter of Vic Bobb died at video store

Kris Vasquez
Whitworth News Writer

A memorial service will be held in the chapel for Mary Moore, stepdaughter of English professor Vic Bobb on Wednesday, April 28, at 4 p.m.

Moore, 20, was found strangled at the Northgate Premier Video store late Wednesday night.

Bobb found Moore in the bathroom of Premier around midnight. Bobb said he was waiting for her to close the store. It was her second night to close the store alone, he said.

Bobb said he arrived to pick up Moore around 11:30 p.m. He knew it would take Moore a while to close, so he began reading a book. He was waiting in his car and came alarmed when she was taking too long to come out. He then called security.

"I am glad it was I who found her," said Bobb. Bobb's wife, Cathy, arrived at Premier immediately. Bobb explained that his wife said, "She's my little girl," said Bobb.

Bobb's wife, Cathy, arrived at Premier immediately. Bobb explained that his wife said, "She's my little girl," said Bobb.

Bobb also said he is happy the Whitworth community honored his request of not calling him because there were many family members to contact.

Bobb also said he is pleased the community was ready "to forget the willingness to express their concern."

"He said, 'I've always felt blessed to be a part of Whitworth."' This was the second time Bobb had a job, and Bobb and Drew did not work together at the video store. "They did not know each other," said Bobb.

Drew was booked on charges of first-degree murder and first-degree robbery. He is held on $100,000 cash bond.

Board OKs campus center

Other issues discussed include tenure, distribution of birth control and new sports medicine complex

Joanne Helm
Whitworth Telephone Staff

In last week's meeting, the Board of Trustees voted to approve plans to build the first phase of the new campus center. Other items discussed included tenure for part-time faculty, the distribution of birth control pills on campus, and the approval of construction for the Dr. James P. Evans Sports Medicine Complex.

Building of the first phase of the campus center is the result of an effort to substantially improve the quality of student life at Whitworth College.

Dr. Philip Eaton, interim president, presented the plan for the building to the trustees on Friday. "It desperately needs to be replaced," said Eaton of the Hardwick Union Building, built in the late 1950s.

Eaton said the construction of the $3.8 million facility will likely begin early in 1994 and will take 18 to 20 months to complete. The two-story, 35,000-square-foot building will be built where the current student union building now stands. The current building will be torn down to make room.

The new facility will include a café and snack bar, expanded lounge space, office space for student activities, government and other organizations. Conference space will be offered in the new building.

Eaton said the new campus center is "central to the lives of students" and will help the college in both recruitment and retention of students.

Eaton also said $1.3 million was raised toward the cost of the first phase during the college's Centennial Campaign. Additional pledges from longtime Whitworth benefactors Jane Newhall of San Francisco, the estate of Spokane resident Florence Farr, and other supporters completed all but $100,000 of the $3.8 million project. A fund-raising challenge has been started with alumni and students to complete the funding for the project.

The second phase of the campus center project, which is still in the planning stages, is a 23,000-square-foot addition that will include a cafeteria and additional student services. No time lines or cost estimates have been put together for that portion of the project.

Another item discussed at last week's meeting was the issue of changing Whitworth's policy to grant tenure to part-time faculty members.

Chairman of the Board Chuck Boppell said, "The recommendation was that we not change our policy on part-time tenure, but that we recog...

Please see Board, p. 8
OPINIONS

Take advantage of all available information

Sarah Snelling
Editorial Board

Word-of-mouth is one of the primary carriers of information at Whitworth College. New rumors are heard everyday about a variety of subjects. These rumors can be helpful when their purpose is to pass on necessary information. However, when the rumors become vindictive, unsubstantiated gossip, the Whitworth community suffers. Over the past few weeks, most of the rumors have been about the Presidential Search Committee, Dr. Phil Eaton and Dr. Bill Robinson. Much of the information circulated was false or twisted to make one person look better than another. Whitworth simply cannot afford to behave in this manner.

One cause of these rumors is that people do not think they are given enough information. However, there are plenty of sources for correct information available to all members of the community.

The student media (The Whitworthian and KWRB) print or broadcast information vital to the college. The Flash contains current information every Tuesday and Thursday. Announcements are made in Forum each week. Important information is often distributed through campus mail and student mail boxes in the form of a memo or flyer. Finally, the ASWC meetings every Thursday night at 5:30 have announcements, and minutes of these meetings are published by the following Tuesday and distributed to dorms, class and off-campus representatives. There are many ways to obtain correct, factual information on this campus. Pay attention to memos. Read the newspaper. Read the Flash. Go to Forum and listen to the announcements. Find your dorm, class or off-campus representative and ask to see the minutes from the last ASWC meeting.

Most importantly, be careful when rumors and vicious gossip are the only information available. Chances are, there are real stories, real facts, and real information which can be found in the myriad of resources available to the Whitworth community.

Dear Editor,

Before rendering my opinion on Trent House’s editorial that appeared in last week’s newspaper, I would like to make it clear that my purpose in writing this letter is neither to condone nor to condemn the actions of the Presidential Search Committee. As a faithful alumna and an employee of Whitworth College, I believe that through prayerful consideration, the search committee and the Board of Trustees will provide us with a suitable new president.

I am, however, writing to question the pattern of thinking that Trent seems to be advocating in his editorial. I cannot accept that, for the sake of efficiency, we must relinquish some power to a representative group. I understand that “confidential information is simply a by-product of the committee system.”

I certainly do not agree that members of the campus community are striving to usurp the power of the search committee. Granted, some may be questioning the decision of the search committee. Some may be placing “value on the merits of [the] individual . . . or the committee’s choice.” Some may have even gone so far as to sign a petition.

And what is at the heart of all of these actions? Is it the petty need to usurp the power of the search committee? Or, could it be that some Whitworthians have ventured out onto the limb of critical thinking?

If by chance, the motivation for petitions and thoughtful, passionate and intelligent discussions is a venture into critical thinking, what’s so wrong with that? I dare to disagree with Trent’s assertion that “this campus has become divided [and] weak” because of our “internal struggles.” It seems to me that the campus community has found something more important to discuss than the location of Marriott’s silverware or how many pairs of tan chinos and navy blazers there are in Whitworth closets.

Dialogue is good. If you shrink from it, you might look into hanging out at an animal stockyard. You’ll find the masses that don’t ask questions, even as they are being led to slaughter.

Dianna L. Jackson

The Whitworthian Staff

Joanne M. Hain * Editor in Chief

Krista Hayspeng * News Editor

Lisa Harvard * Features Editor

Diane Brennan * Photo Editor

Julie Bajalova * Advertising Manager

Eric Hurst * Circulation Manager

Judy Gage * Copy Editor

Gordon Jackson * Advice

Trent House, Sarah Snelling * Editorial Board

Carolee Bucy, Brian Coddington, Jamie Torrin, Steve Vogel

Bill Ginn, Rebecca Jenson, Julene Quasier, Todd Darby, Gayle Taylor

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly,except during January and student vacations. Opinions expressed in these pages are those of the editors and do not necessarily reflect the views of The Associated Students of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity in education and employment in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 and Sections 504 and 901 of the Public Health Service Act.

DO YOU HAVE AN OPINION?

LETTERS to the EDITOR must be signed and submitted to The Whitworthian by 5 p.m. Friday. No anonymous letters will be published. A phone number must be included for author verification. The Whitworthian is not obligated to publish all letters and reserves the right to edit letters.

Whitworthians have ‘ventured... onto the limb of critical thinking’

Dear Editor,

Before rendering my opinion on Trent House’s editorial that appeared in last week’s newspaper, I would like to make it clear that my purpose in writing this letter is neither to condone nor to condemn the actions of the Presidential Search Committee. As a faithful alumna and an employee of Whitworth College, I believe that through prayerful consideration, the search committee and the Board of Trustees will provide us with a suitable new president.

I am, however, writing to question the pattern of thinking that Trent seems to be advocating in his editorial. I cannot accept that, for the sake of efficiency, we must relinquish some power to a representative group. I understand that “confidential information is simply a by-product of the committee system.”

I certainly do not agree that members of the campus community are striving to usurp the power of the search committee. Granted, some may be questioning the decision of the search committee. Some may be placing “value on the merits of [the] individual . . . or the committee’s choice.” Some may have even gone so far as to sign a petition.

And what is at the heart of all of these actions? Is it the petty need to usurp the power of the search committee? Or, could it be that some Whitworthians have ventured out onto the limb of critical thinking?

If by chance, the motivation for petitions and thoughtful, passionate and intelligent discussions is a venture into critical thinking, what’s so wrong with that? I dare to disagree with Trent’s assertion that “this campus has become divided [and] weak” because of our “internal struggles.” It seems to me that the campus community has found something more important to discuss than the location of Marriott’s silverware or how many pairs of tan chinos and navy blazers there are in Whitworth closets.

Dialogue is good. If you shrink from it, you might look into hanging out at an animal stockyard. You’ll find the masses that don’t ask questions, even as they are being led to slaughter.

Dianna L. Jackson

April 27, 1993
WHITWORTH SPEAKS OUT

"WHAT DO YOU THINK ABOUT CAMPUS SECURITY?"

ANGIE FOWLER, senior

"For the number of people they have hired and the money they're budgeted, I think they are doing the best job they can."

SCOTT McEACHERN, junior

"They do a good job to a certain extent, but I think they got lax late at night and early in the morning."

BIRGITTE NOWLAN, senior

"It does not seem like there's a lot being done. A lot of women I've talked to don't feel very safe."

DANIELLE BUCKLEY, sophomore

"I think they are doing the best they can with the funding they have. They just don't have a lot of financial support. The administration needs to look into it."

ERIK KAPUS, freshman

"They do a good job making sure dorms are locked. But I think they could do more, making sure people are where they're supposed to be."

ESTHER DAZA, sophomore

"I think it is inadequate. The lighting on campus at night is terrible. I see a lot of reason to feel unsafe late at night."

Need a job for next year?

OFFICE OF ADMISSIONS
Student Positions Available for the 1993-94 Academic Year

Campus Visit Coordinators (2)
Admissions Counselor Assistants (5)
Campus Visitor Overnight Hosts (6)
Student Data Entry Assistants (3)
Student Mailing Assistants (2)

Position descriptions and applications available in the Office of Enrollment Services, second floor McEachran Hall.

Work study preferred by not required

Must apply by Tuesday, May 4

Commitment to the mission and purpose of Whitworth College required
At Whitworth College, more than half of the student body is female, while less than one third of the faculty and administration are female.

The Women's Task Force was formed to tackle this problem and deal with other gender issues. The Women's Task Force was generated after the college adopted the human development theme. Pat MacDonald, former chairperson of the force, said, "It became very clear that the committee that was implementing the theme was not reaching the goal with women in the same way they were with men." In order to focus on the development of the full potential of women in the campus community, the Women's Task Force branched off of the human development committee.

According to Janet Yoder, Chair of the Women's Task Force, the gender inequality on campus is a part of our culture. "I think we mirror society," she said. She said that the administration, in spite of good intentions, has not had a clear vision of how and why they need to hire more females," Yoder said.

In the past, there has not been an effort to recruit females to faculty and administrative positions on campus, said Yoder. Whitworth does not discourage females from applying, but no exceptional effort was made.

"This year, Ken Shipps, Provost and Dean of the Faculty, "has made some efforts to insure that every search has a woman or minority candidate as one of the finalists," Yoder said.

Yet this is just a small step in the right direction. Some of the areas on campus, including the religion and communications departments, do not have any female role models among the faculty. "That affects the whole flavor of the campus, the atmosphere of the classroom, and the whole process of mentoring students," said Yoder.

In addition to the few female faculty on campus, the Women's Task Force is also concerned about the issue of males frequently being hired at higher ranks and promoted faster than females. "Often circumstances or careers patch work differently for males and females, and we reward the male configuration," but we don't reward the female configuration," said Yoder. "Our system for tenure and promotion is very much a system geared to reward the male type man and neutralizes the female characteristic track, professionally," Yoder said.

Yoder estimated that 33 percent of the female faculty either are not and/or cannot be tenured, while only 14 percent of the male faculty fall into this category. Currently, the possibility of offering tenure to part-time faculty is being considered. "This would greatly benefit women who, for reasons such as raising a family, have been unable to achieve tenure thus far," she said.

Compared to other colleges and universities, Whitworth tends to be more advanced in achieving equality in relation to other Christian colleges. However, in relation to higher education generally, Whitworth is behind, particularly at the high levels of administration.

"We've never had a female president, for instance," said MacDonald, "and yet, there are female presidents at many colleges and universities. The only area for which there has been a female vice president is the last two vice presidents of student life. "The Women's Task Force continues to push very hard and very intentionally to achieve a woman in the vice presidential level," said MacDonald.

In addition to the issue of gender in the faculty, the Women's Task Force is also concerned with increasing gender equality in all other areas of campus.

Last year, a sub-group of the task force completely re-wrote the sexual harassment policy for both the student side and the faculty side of campus. "A lot of time was spent on that," said Yoder, adding that it was an extremely important task.

This year the task force has been discussing problems in the athletic department. They are concerned about whether there is equality in funding and financial aid for female athletes. They have also been talking about the possibilities of hiring in the athletic department. "It seems that we have a high turnover of faculty in that department and we wonder what the reasons for that were," said Yoder.

The task force has also demonstrated concern for a women's study program on campus. Tammy Reid, Associate Dean for Academic Affairs and a member of the women's task force is particularly interested in looking into an area of conservation in women's studies.

To better serve the campus, two discussion groups have been formed, one is the women's discussion group and the other is the Faculty Women's Forum. The women's discussion group began in October and meets every other week. The last meeting will be Tuesday, May 4, at noon in the chapel. Both groups were formed to provide a place where women meet together to discuss issues that concern them. The women's discussion group is for students, faculty and administrators.

Dayna Coleman and Devon Singh began the group. The group provides a place where faculty and staff can come together to talk about issues that pertain to women on this campus," said Singh. The group does not gather for "male-bashing. We don't do that at all," she said.

"The women who attend feel supported and empowered when we leave," said Coleman. "They leave with the reassurance that they are not alone. "We can learn from each other," said Coleman. "The stories of overcoming discrimination provide the rest of the group with encouragement."

"We also talk a lot about the term 'feminism,'" said Coleman. The word seems to have very negative connotations on campus, but actually it is a very positive word.

At one meeting, the group looked up the word in the dictionary. According to Webster's Dictionary, feminism means "the policy, practice or advocacy of political, economic and social equality for women." This is what the task force has set out to do.

FEATURES

Women's Task Force addresses campus inequality

The WHITWORTHIAN • April 27, 1993
Improper backpack wear causes injury
Liza Harrell
Whitworthian Feature Editor
Joel Streuch
College Press Service

There's a proper way to wear a backpack - but most students opt for a more fashionable one-shoulder look.

However, following fashion can be dangerous, health officials say. Wearing backpacks, shoulder-packs or shoulder bags improperly can lead to problems in the back, lower back and trapezius muscle, said Mark Feight, an athletic trainer at Injury Prevention and Care in the University of Nebraska campus Recreation Center.

Hip problems, ranging from minor irritation to pain when standing, can also result from disproportionally back pack weight, Feight said. "The body is designed for balance," he said, "so you throw your hip out to balance the bag."

Students expressed the problems that they have had as a result of improper wear of packs. "I feel fatigue or cramps in my shoulder," said Nebraska senior Chris Worthley. "I don't worry about it, I just sit in trees, and have a thing for Buster Keaton—he dresses like him and acts like him."

Sam and Joon fall in love. Benny falls for Ruth (Julianne Moore), the waitress who used to be an actress. Benny finds out that Sam and Joon are in love and he's a little upset. His outburst delights Joon and she decides she must have taploca pudding with raisins to feel better. While Benny is getting taploca from Ruth, Joon and Sam run away.

The acting is outstanding, as well as director Jancis Netherwick's choice of location to film this movie. "Benny and Joon" was filmed in the Spokane area as well as Deer Park, Pullman, and Cheney.

This is a very competitive race, the first ever, between corporations. The captains are Shagool, Moore!, Pfursich, Slette, and Warren Friedrichs. The "Crimson" and "Black" will be representing Whitworth College in the 1993 Bloomsday Corporate Cup Challenge. Two groups of Whitworth faculty will be competing in the annual competition between corporations.

The "Crimson" team is made up of women and coaches. Their team includes Madeline Shagool, Tammy Reid, Dane Tomhase, Steve Britte, and Warren Friedrichs. The "Black" team calls itself the "Scrubbers." Members include Michael Bowers, Rich Schatz, Rich Hungerstuhl, and Fred Purnish. The captains of the respective teams are Shagool and Schatz. Whitworth competes against businesses with less than 300 employees. Two years ago, a team representing Whitworth won in their division. This year's teams are hungry to capture the title again. "This is a very competitive race. We have some very serious farmers competing," said Hungate.

Two Whitworth teams to race in 1993 Bloomsday Corporate Cup Challenge

Todd Greig
Whitworthian Staff Writer

The "Crimson" and "Black" will be representing Whitworth College in the 1993 Bloomsday Corporate Cup Challenge. Two groups of Whitworth faculty will be competing in the annual competition between corporations.

The "Crimson" team is made up of women and coaches. Their team includes Madeline Shagool, Tammy Reid, Dane Tomhase, Steve Britte, and Warren Friedrichs. The "Black" team calls itself the "Scrubbers." Members include Michael Bowers, Rich Schatz, Rich Hungerstuhl, and Fred Purnish. The captains of the respective teams are Shagool and Schatz.

Whitworth competes against businesses with less than 300 employees. Two years ago, a team representing Whitworth won in their division. This year's teams are hungry to capture the title again. "This is a very competitive race. We have some very serious farmers competing," said Hungate.

Hungate was responsible for getting fellow IBM employees to compete in the Corporate Cup. He said it was like pulling teeth to get anyone to race. "There is a lot more enthusiasm here at Whitworth."

Most members train on their own for the race, but give each other support. "We had one morning session together, but we have been doing our own thing lately," said Shagool.

Shagool was on the team that won the cup for their division two years ago. She said one of the few things she remembers about that race was being loaded up on carbohydrates afterwards. "The other thing I remember is how sore I was. This will probably be my last year running. I enjoy the outdoors, but I think I'll stick to walking and swimming," said Shagool.

The "Crimson" and "Black" may not win their division, but at least they will be representing Whitworth to the community. "It's great to participate in a community activity such as Bloomsday. It is a great race," said Hungate.
Baseball could not rise to the occasion

Steve Flegel
Whitworthian Staff Writer

In order to be the best, you must play the best. Last week the Whitworth baseball team had the opportunity to beat two defending champions and could not rise to the occasion.

"We just didn't want it enough," said Ken Russell, assistant coach. "We didn't play well enough to win.

Whitworth lost on Wednesday to defending National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics District I champion Lewis and Clark State College, 11-6. Over the weekend, the Pirates were swept away in a three-game series by the defending Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges champion, Linfield College, by scores of 12-9, 6-1, and 11-8.

On Wednesday, Whitworth battled the Warriors closely until the eighth inning. But a grand slam by Jake Taylor turned a 7-6 LCSC lead into an 11-6 cushion. Whitworth had taken an early 2-0 lead behind a three-run homer by Matt Treibwasser in the first inning. Whitworth did not hold the lead for long, however, as the Warriors scored three times in the third inning. Whitworth tied the game in the bottom of the third when Robin Lund scored a ground out to first base. The Pirates managed to keep the game close until the grand slam.

Treibwasser was 4-4 on the day while RBA's Billy Work started for the Bucs and took the loss to drop his record to 5-2 on the season. Work allowed eight runs over seven innings, drops his record to 0-8 and in overall record to 25-35-1. The Warriors are ranked second in the NAIA.

On Saturday, the Bucs played the Wildcat rallies and tied the game in the eighth inning. The gloomy, cloudy day gave some for the Pirates a rally chance and a win in the last game against the Pirates. Doug Lewis started for Whitworth and went the distance. The loss dropped his record to 0-4-4.

"For us to be a good team we have to compete with these guys," said left-fielder Justin Anderson. "We've been on an emotional roller coaster. We're have been on an emotional roller coaster. We have a big series at Central coming up. We need to have pride and rise to the occasion," he said.

The losses to Linfield dropped the Pirates' NCIC record to 4-4. Overall Whitworth is 13-11. Linfield improved to 11-1 in the NCIC, 12-12 overall. Whitworth puts its second place District record on the line this week against Central Washington University in a doubleheader on Wednesday, and a three-game series against Whitman next weekend. The Pirates (7-1 in district play) travel to Ellensburg for the games against Central. Whitworth beat CWU 12-11 earlier in the season. Whitworth plays Whitman at home with a doubleheader Saturday and a single game Sunday.

Track and field compete at Whitman; men's team wins first meet since early 1970s

Steve Flegel
Whitworthian Staff Writer

The Whitworth track and field team took another step toward establishing itself as a competitive program Saturday in Walla Walla at the Whitman Invitational.

Nathan Whiting won his first individual title in 1991. The women's team won their first meet last year. Saturday, the men's team won their first meet since the early '70s. The men finished with 66.5 points, 6.5 ahead of second place Gonzaga University.

"Everyone was willing to give up something or try something different for the team," said Pirate sprinter John Kavan. "Everyone did a great job."

Kavan sacrificed his choices for best times by competing in six events. He finished first in the 100 (11.0 seconds) and 300 meter (32.4) sprint, third in the triple jump, fourth in the 440 meter long jump. He also had the 100 meter relay team to victory and the 440 meter relay team to the second place finish.

"I mentioned to the team we had another shot at a second place," said Head Coach Steve Flegel. "We've been on an emotional roller coaster. We're have been on an emotional roller coaster. We have a big series at Central coming up. We need to have pride and rise to the occasion," he said.

The losses to Linfield dropped the Pirates' NCIC record to 4-4. Overall Whitworth is 13-11. Linfield improved to 11-1 in the NCIC, 12-12 overall. Whitworth puts its second place District record on the line this week against Central Washington University in a doubleheader on Wednesday, and a three-game series against Whitman next weekend. The Pirates (7-1 in district play) travel to Ellensburg for the games against Central. Whitworth beat CWU 12-11 earlier in the season. Whitworth plays Whitman at home with a doubleheader Saturday and a single game Sunday.

TUESDAY APRIL 27
BIG SHOW! 9 P.M.
CITIZEN SWING 10 P.M.
MT. T EXPERIENCE BULLET-PROOF NOTHING
BLOOMSDAY MAY 2
CITY 1 P.M.
CALL FOR DETAILS

SATURDAY MAY 1
MOTHERLOAD SCHLONG BUZZOVEN FALSE SAC.

SORE JACKSON FROM SEATTLE MO JO DANSER RAINBOW ZEN

WHITWORTHIAN • April 27, 1993
Tennis teams compete in NCIC tournaments

Jana Baxter goes for a return.

Wiseinan, we each grumbled to Jhe -

Since have to with a decent draw players," he said. "Districts is a

This past weekend for next weekend for Willamette finished

The men also travel to Central Washington for the

Despite the adverse conditions, Rettman said his team turned

"This is always more difficult to do if you are

It felt like we would have won all of our singles finals, we would have

We knew Willamette would be tough and we would have to knock them over to get to the final," said Jones. "We ended up playing really well. It was the highlight of the weekend." Lumen said the victory over Willamette gave the pair confidence.

"The whole weekend we thought Willamette would be our toughest match, and once we got them, we thought we could win it all," she explained.

The Pirates also received a boost from their singles play, as Jones, Jodi Baxter, Jana Baxter, and Lisa Steele all captured second place, something Lumen thought would be good enough to propel the Pirates to second overall.

"If we would have won all of our singles finals, we would have finished higher," she said. "We thought we still had second, but Willamette finished three points ahead if we had taken seconds.)"

Both Jones and Lumen felt the dual victory and the third place team finish provided the Pirates with something to build on for next weekend's district championships.

"I feel like we have a good chance," Jones said of the upcoming match. "It's going to be good tennis; I love that kind of tennis. If we play as well as we did this weekend, we have a good chance."

"It really helps us look forward to next weekend at districts," added Lumen. "It's kind of a step in the right direction, to 0 in a circle."

The Pirates travel to Central Washington University next weekend for the District 1 tournament.

At Portland, Pat Drevs, Steve Radovich, and Marvin Mathias all recorded victories for the men's team to salvage a sixth place finish, despite playing with only five players.

Sophomore T.J. Wolbom was unable to make the trip citing personal reasons, and Pirate Coach Tim Rettman.

"He had personal things to take care of at home," Rettman said of Wolbom. "This obviously hurt us because we had to forfeit those three matches.

However, Rettman cited the weather as the biggest factor for the Pirates. "We were forced inside and had to go to the rain schedule, which means playing eight game pro-sets," explained Rettman. "This is always a more difficult to do if you are not used to playing them."

Despite the adverse conditions, Rettman said his team turned in a solid performance. "We did all right," said Rettman. "We did not pull off any big wins, but we only lost one match we shouldn't have done."

Drevs in particular had a good weekend, according to Rettman.

"Pat probably played the best he has played all season," the coach said of Drevs' fourth place finish.

The Pirates played to Central Washington for the District 1 championships next weekend, something that will not be easy for the Pirates, but Rettman remained optimistic.

"Next weekend, they will be up against some really tough players," he said. "Districts is a lot more competitive. We will have to go in with the attitude that we have nothing to lose and with a decent draw and if we play well, we could win some matches," Rettman said.

A PIRATE UP CLOSE:

WELLMAN SWITCHES TO JAVELIN ON A BET

Brian Coddington
Whitworth Staff Writer

What began as a bet, has produced one of the finest javelin competitors in the national and possibly Whitworth's best track and field performers.

He began as a distance runner for his high school track team, competing in the half mile, two-mile, and mile relay. Dreves is a senior at Yelm High School. He placed 11th in the mile at the State Track Meet.

"This distance runners decided our workouts were harder than the throwers," senior Nathan Welham explained. "So we decided to trade workouts for a day and we each get to choose an event. I chose the javelin."

He added: "I really enjoy running, but it is good enough for my coach to suggest he try throwing the javelin. He accepted the offer and ended up at the state championships. I hated the best thrower on his team.

"It was a better thrower than I was a runner, so I decided to give it a shot," said Welham. He went on to set the school record in the javelin in the (6) mile at Northwest Christian High School in Spokane, while continuing to run the distance events as well.

"Our workouts were tough," he said. "I would run the mile, two mile, half mile, and the mile relay and then throw the javelin, and I was never really too tired."

Until coming to Whitworth, Welham chose to concentrate on throwing the javelin after a brief stint with the cross country team, a move Whitworth field coach Sam Ukena felt was for the best.

"The javelin is a highly specialized event," Welham explained. "It is really hard to do much more than that."

Welham's decision to concentrate on throwing the javelin left him extra time to spend in the weight room, packing on the pounds.

"When I got here, I only weighed about 145 pounds," he said. "They used to call me 'Wimpy' in high school because I was just a little too weak."

Since his arrival five years ago, Welham has bulked up to 181 pounds, a weight he feels comfortable at.

"Last season I weighed about 195 or 200, but I felt like I was too big and slow," Welham said. "I feel a lot quicker and more explosive at 185 pounds."

Being explosive is something Welham and his coach have been concentrating on as key to his success. "It takes extreme flexibility, body control, and explosiveness to throw the javelin," Welham explained. "It is not like throwing a softball where you can just throw it. To make a javelin fly correctly it takes some work."

Welham started Whitworth on a winning program, combining weight and plyometrics to allow Welham to get the most out of each throw.

"We have been emphasizing the explosive lifts, the push and the clean and jerk, along with the squats and bench press," Welham said. "We have also been using the plyometrics, both the boot camp and jumping on boxes and catching and throwing the medicine ball."

This year has been a rebuilding year for Welham as he is trying to regain his form of old.

"Last year, I had really good technique, but no speed or explosiveness," said Welham. "The year I won it, I really worked on being explosive."

Whelham entered in the 1990 season when he was on top of the nation, literally, as he threw the javelin 211 feet, 11 inches on his way to winning the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics national championship. However, during the first meet the following season, Welham injured his elbow and was forced to redo what would have been his junior season.

His return to competition in 1992 was made by what his coach described as a tentative season despite finishing in fifth place at the NCAA national championships.

"This year was a little better," said Welham. "Last year, his weakness was his aggressiveness, but he is not showing that this year."

Instead, Welham has his sights set on doing well at the national meet, setting the national record, and having a good time along the way, all goals that mean taking it slowly and peaking at the right time.

"I would love to see that on the [n]ational level," said Welham.

"The record is something that is definitely a goal, but most of all, I just want to meet as many people as I can and have a good time doing it. Since I injured my elbow, winning meets has not been as important. I am concentrating more on having fun and throwing qualitatively rather than quantitatively."

Spoken like a true science major.

In fact, Welham's talents are not limited to athletics as he holds a B.S. degree in physics while finishing his final semester at Whitworth as a chemistry and biology major.

For his achievements in the classroom, Welham has been chosen out of 8000 applicants to one of the 200 finalists for entry into the University of Washington Medical School, already with 1000 applications on file.

"For many, the two time All-American and Scholar Athlete's accomplishments may come as a surprise," said Welham. "I have the ability to be a national champion."

"This is why Nathan Welham may be Whitworth's best-kept secret."

VITAL STATISTICS

Name: Nathan Welham
Nickname: Wheatie
Year: Senior
Majors: Pre-med; Biology and chemistry
Hometown: Spokane, Wash.
Hobbies: Mountain biking, fishing, camping
Tomhave to resign after two years of service

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Director of Multi-cultural Student Affairs, Diane Tomhave, is resigning after two years at Whitworth.

Tomhave, who is in charge of the international students, the national students and the cultural diversity advocates and Educational Support Program advisors at Whitworth, has already had her resignation accepted.

"The international students and the national students are involved in the role that other people play in increasing multi-cultural education. For example, next year dorms will take on more of a responsibility for international students and national students of color and their interaction with Caucasian American students. The Academic Affairs Committee voted against the proposal last week for several reasons. Across the United States, only six percent of colleges and universities grant tenure to part-time faculty. In addition, many of the regular part-time faculty were not hired as a result of national searches."

"The committee felt it necessary to turn down the policy, they are very concerned about the professional well-being of people in this category," Reid said.

The Student Services Committee met to discuss student life, ASWC and admissions and financial aid.

"We need to start realizing that all these groups have different needs, not one typical student," Reid said. "What better place to develop this than college?" she said. There has been a gradual process of interaction, with even bigger efforts made to bridge the gap. "I'm looking forward to working with people of color," Reid said. "In the past year, I've had a lot of time getting ready for May 1."

Tomhave is resigning for personal reasons. She said she has been involved in national student affairs and educational support programs at Whitworth.

"I wanted to maintain the role that other people play in increasing multi-cultural education. For example, next year dorms will take on more of a responsibility for international students and national students of color and their interaction with Caucasian American students. This is important because promoting one particular culture could be threatening," said Tomhave. "We really need additional staff and programs to help do this."

Professor Dennis Liebert has recently begun a program in African American past classes on campus in the afternoons, dealing with enhancing their own ministries. "This is a step in the right direction, but it could be even more effective," she said. "I'm really a people person, in frustrating having to deal with constant paperwork."

Before Tomhave arrived at Whitworth, she worked on an affirmative action team at University of California at Riverside.

"You really can't compare the two because state schools have much more funding available for programs such as this," she said.

The position Tomhave holds was two years before she arrived. She recommended that the job be put back into two positions as it is too demanding. Vice President for Student Life, Dr. Kathy Storm, agrees. "I am hoping that at some point we can separate this position once again," she said. "Practically, this is the right thing to do. We, however, make things a little more difficult." Tomhave said that because this part of the state has virtually no Springfest to show Spokane the 'Whitworth feeling'

Juliane Lueser
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Ballrooms, booths, games, entertainment and maybe a little sunshine will fill Riverfront Park this Saturday, as Whitworth presents Springfest '93. The event will start at 10 a.m. Saturday and continue until 4 or 5 p.m.

There are approximately 20 Whitworth groups and organizations scheduled to have booths. The booths vary from bead jewelry at the Moose to drums at a hoop shoot and more. To play the games, tickets will be sold for $0.25 and some booths will require more than one ticket. There will also be a volleyball tournament and a male beauty pageant.

The senior class and off-campus students are sponsoring a Mr. Whitworth contest at 12:45 p.m. Enamece for the contest will be senior Adam Brooks and freshman Sarah Brooks. Each dorm nominated a contestant for the pageant. From Averill-Bee Wilson, Stewart-Aaron McMurry; B.J.-Kerri Parker; East Warren-Greg Nussmayr; South Warren-Willy Lee; McMillan-Brian Stewart; and Off-campus-Scott Williams. Each male contestant will participate in a formal/evening wear, beach wear, and lip sync competition and answer an impromptu question. A panel of judges will score each contestant and the person with the most points wins.

"It will prove to be a fun and surprising display for the Springfest events," said Andew Eweson, off-campus representative.

Entertainment will be featured throughout the day, starting with the Whitworth jazz choir at 10:30 a.m. The jazz band, a jazz combo and the band, Jimmishuff, will also perform.

ASWC Presidents Chris Oswald said Springfest is day for "relaxing and having a good time...showing Spokane what the Whitworth feeling is all about." As soon as Springfest was over last year, ASWC members started talking about the next one, but serious planning and delegating did not start until this spring. Oswald said, "The Assembly has really come together."

Last weekend, students washed and repainted the booths from Springfest last year. The assembly and other volunteers have spent a lot of time getting ready for May 1.

"In the last three weeks, we've had two meetings a week plus the assembly meeting, pull everything together," said Oswald. The day of Springfest, students will start loading equipment at 7 a.m., and start setting up in the park by 7 a.m.

Each year, the money raised at Springfest is donated to a non-profit organization in Spokane. This year, the money will go to the Spokane Police. The police are sponsoring a day for "relaxing and having a good time ... showing Spokane what the Whitworth feeling is all about."

The Academic Affairs Committee voted against the proposal last week for several reasons. Across the United States, only six percent of colleges and universities grant tenure to part-time faculty. In addition, many of the regular part-time faculty were not hired as a result of national searches.

"The committee felt it necessary to turn down the policy, they are very concerned about the professional well-being of people in this category," Reid said.

The Student Services Committee met to discuss student life, ASWC and admissions and financial aid.

"We need to start realizing that all these groups have different needs, not one typical student," Reid said. "What better place to develop this than college?" she said. There has been a gradual process of interaction, with even bigger efforts made to bridge the gap. "I'm looking forward to working with people of color," Reid said. "In the past year, I've had a lot of time getting ready for May 1."

Tomhave is resigning for personal reasons. She said she has been involved in national student affairs and educational support programs at Whitworth.

"I wanted to maintain the role that other people play in increasing multi-cultural education. For example, next year dorms will take on more of a responsibility for international students and national students of color and their interaction with Caucasian American students. This is important because promoting one particular culture could be threatening," said Tomhave. "We really need additional staff and programs to help do this."

Professor Dennis Liebert has recently begun a program in African American past classes on campus in the afternoons, dealing with enhancing their own ministries. "This is a step in the right direction, but it could be even more effective," she said. "I'm really a people person, in frustrating having to deal with constant paperwork."

Before Tomhave arrived at Whitworth, she worked on an affirmative action team at University of California at Riverside.

"You really can't compare the two because state schools have much more funding available for programs such as this," she said.

The position Tomhave holds was two years before she arrived. She recommended that the job be put back into two positions as it is too demanding. Vice President for Student Life, Dr. Kathy Storm, agrees. "I am hoping that at some point we can separate this position once again," she said. "Practically, this is the right thing to do. We, however, make things a little more difficult." Tomhave said that because this part of the state has virtually no Springfest to show Spokane the 'Whitworth feeling'
Eaton looks back, discusses future

Joanne Helm
Editor in Chief

The 1993-94 school year is coming to an end, and with it the interim presidency of Dr. Philip Eaton. The Whitworthians look to him about the past year and what the future holds for them.

After serving Whitworth this year, what is next for you?

"I'll go back to Phoenix and enter back into the business. The business is a commercial and industrial development company. It's a family business of which I have been in charge — especially in the last seven years after I left teaching. Prior to that, I was sort of on the periphery of that, serving on the board of directors."

Will you move back into your old house and pick up everything where you left off?

"When this whole thing came up, the possibility to do the interim thing, we had been trying to sell the house because we were trying to move to another part of Phoenix. We're not going to have to move. We haven't really checked that out in the North."

Will you change?

"I have never aspired to being the president's position. That, I think, has gone better than I expected. The faculty are my old friends and my old colleagues. It was great to reconnect with them."

What was your favorite part about serving as interim president this year?

"I'm not a professional president. I have never aspired to being the president of a college. I was an academic and loved that so much. I grew restless and became a business person and had a career change. I had no idea that I would ever put those things together to do this kind of an experience. I was not seeking a presidency and don't feel that I am now seeking any presidency. To come here was a call to Whitworth to serve at a particular time. It was a call because I love this institution. And I love the people here, too. A lot of the faculty are my old friends and my old colleagues. It was great to reconnect with them."

"We actually didn't know how we'd be received because of coming back in a very different role. We had a lot of questions about that — wondering how old friends would adapt to us in a very changed position. That, I think, has gone remarkably well. They have received us and welcomed us and supported us all the way through this thing."

Many activities planned during commencement

Krista Vasquez
Whitworthian News Editor

While seniors are trying to find time to study for what might be their last exam ever, they also need to find time to participate in the planned commencement activities.

May 8 kicks off graduation activities with the last dance of the year sponsored by the senior class, and P.J. Pedroni, senior class president. Pedroni said instructions from Kelly's will teach country western dancing from 7-9 p.m. in the HUB. From 9-11 p.m., students can show what they learned by dancing to country music. The dance will continue until 1 a.m. Proceeds from the dance will pay for the senior class gift — a big campus map. (For more information, see the wilderness section.)

Pedroni is also helping the alumni association with the Send-Off Picnic on Sunday, May 9 from 3:30-5 p.m. at the Totem Pole.

Monday's Honor Forum will award the members of the Whitworth community, Friday, May 14, a commissioning service for seniors will be held in the chapel.

On Saturday, the day before commencement, activities begin at 7 a.m. with a golf tournament at Wanamaker Golf Course. A ROTC commissioning service will take place in the Centennial Plaza at 11 a.m. Also at 11 a.m., a student art exhibit will be held in the Koehler Gallery.

A picnic in the Loop will begin at noon. The cost is $4.

Excerpts from the 1992-93 theatre season will be presented at the Best of Shows in Stage II of Cowles Auditorium at 1:30 p.m.

Pew Trusts give $8,000

Dr. Kenneth Shipps, provost and dean of the faculty at Whitworth, said: "This award is very prestigious for Whitworth. It represents the commitment of our faculty to our students to become good Christian scholars."

Shipps said a vital aspect of the Whitworth program is to introduce students to positive role models through fine-hand experience with guest lecturers, faculty mentors and visiting alumni.

Shipps said the program based on the assumption that exposing current undergraduate students to positive examples of Christian scholarship and commitment will also fund opportunities for students to become familiar with research libraries, attend professional meetings, and present personal research and writing.

The program at Whitworth will be funded for the next three years.
Whitworth College is not comfortable; we cannot be satisfied with the average

Trent House
Editorial Board

Each of us had reasons for attending Whitworth College. Whether it was the college’s Christian commitment, the faculty, or the curriculum, Whitworth is an institution of many strengths.

Regardless of our preconceived notions of what an institution of higher education should be, the graduates of this college should be thankful that this community has one intangible strength. Whitworth is an uncomfortable place to be.

As a student, you realize that average is not acceptable, nor only in the classroom, but among your peers. Campus life can be summed up by one word — exposure. Because this is a small campus, the odds of meeting and getting to know many people, both students and professors, are quite high. As a result, our actions and decisions have a higher impact than other institutions. Whitworthians, therefore, demand more from themselves and expect more from others.

Additionally, comfort in one’s spiritual life is challenged. Introduction to opposing spiritual views often shake the very foundation of our belief structure, and finally, when tragedy strikes, the why questions are never dismissed.

We are forced to deal with reality on our own terms and not on someone else’s assumptions. Eventually we form our own belief structures — one that can challenge and each of us can defend, at least we hope, at least until tragedy strikes.

Whitworth has been a challenge for both seen and unseen reasons. What must be realized is that many of our frustrations are the result of a community that expects excellence. A community that demands accountability.

As long as that is the intention of those people, ideas, actions we struggle with, we have an obligation to ourselves and our community to step up to the challenge.

WHITWORTHIAN • May 4, 1993

SENIOR ISSUE

HEY, WHERE’S HEIDT? GRADUATION STARTS IN JUST A LITTLE WHILE.

THE 1992-93 YEAR IN REVIEW

SEPTEMBER: Dr. Philip Eame was appointed interim president after Dr. Ann De Jong resigned.

“Tropicana Days” added a new twist to homecoming traditions with an informal dance held in the lot.

The Pirates best Williamsette in a second-half rally to Homecoming.

Sarah Barrell and Chad Reeves are crowned Tropic Queen and King during halftime.

OCTOBER: The official dedication of the Harriet Cheney Cowles Memorial Library occurred.

“Norma” was performed during a Parent’s weekend as the fall theatre performance.

Freeman Kenton Tsui killed in an automobile accident west of Ellensburg.

The popularity of tattoos rose.

Whitworth students.

The Erlestone program began as a mentoring program for students.

November: Whitworth hosted the fourth annual Eastern Washington Jam Festival.

Football season ended with seven straight losses.

December: Whitworth’s track and field policy was questioned.

Women’s cross country finished their season ranked 11th in nationals.

February: Marriet stepped serving food downtown.

Eric Moe blew judges away at the 1993 Lionel Hampton Jazz Festival.

March: The United Nations Association Network at Whitworth became the first one in Washington.

The Convocation captured second place at a student conducting contest in San Antonio, Texas.

Mac Hall in Concert went smoothly despite “Killer Comedy” and his infamous flash.

C. Everett Koop visited campus to discuss health-care reform.

Mari Smirioh and Nanto Blake became national swimming champions.

April: Senior Monte Woodruff put Whitworth up for sale in a day.

Dr. William Robinson was named the 17th president of Whitworth College.

Tuition was raised 7.9 percent.

Room and board were raised 5.3 percent.

Plans for a new treatment center and human performance lab were approved.

A stranger man harmed females on campus.

En Criste received a $3,000 miracle incontinue operation.

Whitworth hosted their first track and field meet.

Mary Moyer, daughter of Vic and Cathy Bobb, was filmed in Premier Video.

The new campus center was scheduled to be built in early 1994.

May: Springfest happened at Riverfront Park and ended early because of rain.

Graduation is 11 days away!

The Whitworthian Staff

Jeanne M. Heim • Editor in Chief

Krystal Voragen • News Editor

Les Harrell • Features Editor

Diane Denson • Photo Editor

Julie Kaufman • Advertising Manager

Eric Hart • circulation Manager

Judy Gage • Copy Editor

Gordon Jackson • Advisor

Trent House, Sarah Staffing • Editorial Board

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly, except during holidays and semester vacations. Opinions expressed are those of the writers and do not necessarily reflect the view of The Associated Students of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity in education and employment in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 and Sections 504 and 508 of the Public Health Services Act.

The Whitworthian Staff

Jeanne M. Heim • Editor in Chief

Krystal Voragen • News Editor

Les Harrell • Features Editor

Diane Denson • Photo Editor

Julie Kaufman • Advertising Manager

Eric Hart • circulation Manager

Judy Gage • Copy Editor

Gordon Jackson • Advisor

Trent House, Sarah Staffing • Editorial Board

The Whitworthian is the official publication of the students of Whitworth College and is published weekly, except during holidays and semester vacations. Opinions expressed are those of the writers and do not necessarily reflect the view of The Associated Students of Whitworth College. Whitworth College provides equal opportunity in education and employment in accordance with Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 and Sections 504 and 508 of the Public Health Services Act.
Eaton, from page 1

What has been tough about being the interim president? "It's University — probably spend too many hours working. If I went to do this longer term, I would probably have a more balanced life than I have had. It's a little frustrating when you're in a state when you have to work all weekend. I'm not complaining — the challenge of it has been fabulous. "I do have some regrets that I couldn't get more contact with the students. It's hard for that to just happen naturally because of the demands on the job — the demand to be away and all of that — are so great. I think that to do it in longer term, I would have to do to schedule that time regularly. We've had some great times though. We went into a number of the dorms and spent evenings with students, and we've had contact with ASPC. I wish I knew all you students better and was able to have more contact with you.

What was a challenge this year and how did you handle it? "I think a serious challenge for me through the year has been trying to balance being here, on campus, and being away. I think that the job requires that you be on the road some. We have a broad constituency that extends to Southern California, Seattle, Tacoma and Portland — even to Bangkok, Thailand. So I was really drawn away from the campus lot. That's a challenge and I think I brought some balance between the two. I do think that a Whitworth president has to be on-campus president — in addition to speaking, addressing and relating to all of those constituents.

You travelled some this year. What are some of the places you went? "We went to Thailand and had a wonderful experience with a very active and loyal group of alumni over there. There are about 20 of them and they are mostly those who are significantly involved in Thai culture and life We also con-enced with Western University, which is our sister university over there. "We went to Washington, D.C., for a Christian College Coalition conference for presidents of Christian College Coalition universities. We even had a picture taken with Tom Foley. That was a terrific experience, relating with presidents from our kinds of institutions. We looked a couple of trips to Southern California, a couple to Northern California and many over to the Seattle area."

How will being a trustee change your having the experience of being a president? "It will certainly give me a more informed perspective. I'm quite excited about the new perspective and hope it can be useful to the board in terms of understanding the campus and what really happens here. I hope it's not uncomfortable for me or for Robinson and other board members. I have talked with the leadership on the board about that and we all feel it probably will not be a problem. I'm looking forward to it. I think that a board is always excited and anticipates the beginning of a new administration. It will be fun to watch that happen."

What is something you will look back on as being one of your biggest accomplishments this year? "One thing I think is an accompliishment has been my persistence, staying after, coordinating and depilihing — I think all those words need to be used because some things came out of the blue — fundraising and the organization of the funding to build the new campus center. To get that through the board and announced, and to be able to say the project will be built not just in accomplishment. We're here and I'm tremendously excited about that."

"I was also excited to announce the $5 million gift from the Lied Trust. It's one of the largest things that's ever happened at Whitworth. Beyond that, there have been some significant gifts that have materialized this year."

What was one of the goals you had when the year began? "I knew there was a lot of hurt, disorientation and difficulty through the budget cut years. People were feeling disenfranchised and my primary goal was to come in and see what I could do to build morale and the spirit of those people. I am delighted that I could be a part of lifting the morale on campus — raising people's spirits and sense of their significant part in the mission of this place. That was a big deal for me and I think some of that happened. Whatever part I played in that, I feel good about that.

Do you have anything to say in closing? "It's been a very good year. This community is amazing. Leonard Oak had used to use the word 'earnest' to describe it. We are so earnest at Whitworth — we are intellectually earnest, we are spiritually, morally and socially earnest, I think that's true. People don't live this way elsewhere. It wears us all out, we are exhausted but, that's a good thing to live in earnest."

Comm. major Adam Brooks combines his faith with fun

Todd Orwig
Whitworthian Staff Writer

"Greetings and Salutations" is one of many phrases that make up Adam Brooks' vocabulary. Those who know him well, have grown accustomed to his "Brookisms." Now Brooks can add graduation to his vocabulary as he nears the end of his Whitworth career and welcomes a new life beyond the campus walls.

"I'm a Bend, Ore. native, will be working as a youth leader in my old church in Sunriver, Oregon. It's a job I've never really applied for," said Brooks. "I think God called me there. I prayed about it, interviewed, and there you have it, I got the job," said Brooks.

Brooks will also be the offensive line coach at his former high school. Although he said he never thought he would be a high school football coach, he is looking forward to the opportunity.

"I had already found a house in Sunriver. The church helped find a house, and gave me an excellent deal on that which I couldn't afford," said Brooks.

He said he would like to work at the church for at least two years, but someday he would like to open his own outdoor recreation business. "I probably would like to have a church for awhile and then somewhere where God takes me next," said Brooks.

Brooks wants to travel a little before he starts his job in the fall. He plans to backpack around Europe for two months this summer with a friend from high school. "I want to run with the bulls in Pamplona, Spain. That should be a total blast," said Brooks.

After high school, Brooks wanted to go to a Christian college where he could play football. Whitworth was the only school that really took an interest in his ability as a football player. "There are not many schools where a medium-sized white guy with minimal speed can play football," admits Brooks. Brooks said that the coach at University of Puget Sound would not even look at his tapes, and told him he was too small to play on his line.

The next year, Whitworth beat UPS and Brooks dominated the opponent's nose tackle. After the game, I went up to the UPS coach and said, 'remember me? I'm the guy that was too small to play on your team. I was wrong on grading..." Brooks said, laughing.

Brooks started at center, three of his four years at Whitworth. He was also captain for the last two years. "I played the friendships I've made over the last two years. I'm going to miss the midnight bus conversations on the way home from road trips with Jeff Edmondson and Andy Davies," said Brooks.

Brooks changed from a psychology major to a Speech Communication major because he didn't see the usefulness of psychology in his life. He has really enjoyed interacting with the communications professors at Whitworth. Brooks says he is in college as a close friend as a professor. "I respect him for being a friend, a prof and a person. He does a great job of doing all of these. I call him "Doc," said Brooks. "I think Mike Ingram is a funny mother. I don't think most people really get most of his jokes, but I think he's hilarious." Brooks added that Steve Meyer and Vic Bobb also influenced him. Brooks said Meyer's class, Reasons for Faith, really challenged him to look at his faith and strengthen it.

Pyle and Ingram agree that the one characteristic that describes Brooks is "honesty." "Brooks is honest with other students and faculty (he both positive and negative). He is also very honest in his relationship with God," said Pyle.

"You always know what Adam plans. He is not afraid to let it be known how he feels," said Ingram. "For example, one day in class, I asked my students what they thought about something I said, and he said, 'It makes me want to burst.' He added, 'Adam tries to be known how to have fun.' He has his Christian faith. I think that's very commendable," Ingram said. Brooks has been a very good friend, and one of the many things he's been involved in, Brooks is helpful for the students. "I have received at Whitworth. He said when he came to Whitworth he had thought to himself, "does the same work, same dedication, same way he did. That view has changed. I've learned to think on a larger scale. I've learned that we can do things that we couldn't do on our own. We can do things that we couldn't do on our own," said Brooks.

"I've been able to exhaust my perspective. This has been a good job. I've been able to exhaust what other people think," said Brooks.

He said, "I would like to be remembered as a Christian that knows how to have fun."

Well, Brooks, to use some of your "Brookisms," "Fair enough. There you have it."}

Devon Singh leaves her spirit, energy and enthusiasm

Carley Burrell
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Though Devon Singh is graduating, her spirit, energy and enthusiasm will live on at Whitworth. Singh, Cultural and Special Events Coordinator, is one of the more creative and energetic students I've known," said Devon Coleman, Director of Student Activities.

Coleman has worked closely with Singh for the last two years while Singh has held her position in ASWC. At Cultural and Special Events Coordinator, Singh has put a lot of time and effort into Whitworth. "She is really good at organizing events and selling ideas," said Coleman. This year Singh presided over such events as Homecoming with its "Tropical Days" theme and the Hawaiian Luau. "She really brought back a lot of the enthusiasm for Homecoming," said Coleman. "She brought back a lot of tradition and excitement, and a lot of involvement on the student part."

Coleman went on to praise Singh for showing the Whitworth community that "you can go beyond the boundaries of what we put on ourselves, come up with creative ideas and make them work," said Coleman. "She doesn't say no to herself very often." Singh came to Whitworth in 1989 from Visalia, Calif. She chose Whitworth over the larger colleges in California because she wanted to go to a school where she would have more opportunities to participate and be involved. At Whitworth she found those opportunities. "I've been able to exhaust myself and do just about anything I've interested in," said Singh.

In addition, she said she appreciated the Christian emphasis here and the fact that Whitworth is welcoming of students who aren't Christians as well as those who are.

Singh believes that her education at Whitworth has helped her to think about a lot of issues. "It's empowered me to think, to think about change, things that I could do something for society. It's made me more accepting of people who are different. I am more open to their differences," she said.

Coleman believes that Singh's ability to observe people's differences has bettered Whitworth. "When she plans events, she does them with a philosophy in mind," said Coleman. "She makes sure no one is offended." If Singh thinks an event may offend someone or make the school look bad, she does not do the event. "She really believes in the college and in a strong Christian," said Coleman.

Singh also organized Women's Awareness Week, an event that was new to Whitworth this year. "It was a good thing for women to start," said Singh.

"My involvement in ASWC has equipped me to go out and to organize and administrate," said Singh. These are gifts she feels she can give to whatever job she has in the future.

In looking back on her time at Whitworth, one of the things Singh treasures most are her relationships with certain faculty members. "Dayna's really my mentor," said Singh. "She's been a good friend." Steve Meyer, a philosophy professor, has helped Singh "talk through a lot of issues." He has shown Singh that she can do even more in whatever field she goes into.

Many other professors at Whitworth have also made a positive mark on her life. Singh sees the faculty and staff as "a unique, indefinitely unique to Whitworth. As a younger student," Singh said she didn't realize how much the faculty actually cared. "I am sad that I didn't develop these relationships sooner," she said.

Singh is graduating with a philosophy major and a minor in peace studies.

After graduation, Singh plans to go to Europe to travel. "I think the plans to go back to Visalia and work in church there until the fall of 1994, when she will go to graduate school. She plans to do higher education at Fuller Theological Seminary in Pasadena, Calif.
Bessy shares her love for music

Jamie Florino
Whitworth Staff Writer

When sophomore choir member Kris Husby went to the music library to check out a CD for an opera workshop, he discovered that almost all of the CDs were checked out by fellow choir members, including Bessey. "She's committed," said Husby.

It's just one of several words used to describe Bessey. Another is respect. "She has gained a lot of respect in the choir, she's interested in people," said sophomore Heather Spooner.

Serious, bubbly, outgoing, hard worker, good musician, and gifted are other words used by fellow choir members to describe the senior music education major.

"I chose to teach music because I love kids. It's an avenue for them," Bessey said. Bessey included a vocal performance emphasis in her major and her teacher Marjory Halvorson, who was a vocal soloist for the Spokane Symphony, chose Bessey to sing with the Spokane Symphony. "I have no doubt that she will do well...she knows what she wants and will intentionally go about doing it," said Halvorson.

Bessey takes it all in stride and has fun doing it. Part of the reason is found in her philosophy on life. "I look for the good in every situation and in every person. This is very helpful for teaching," said Bessey. "I will need to find the best in every student; it will be a challenge," she said.

Bessey already has some experience in directing, having directed the Chapel Singers. "The choir is dedicated, hard-working people and they have come a long way. But most of all they are having fun," Spooner said.

Bessey looks forward to the challenge of teaching.

St. John creates memories to bind Whitworth community

Lisa Harrill
Whitworth Staff Writer

You may know him as Mr. Felstaff in "Merry Windom" and Joe Keller from "All My Sons." You may have seen him drumming for the jazz band, or you may have seen his name in the closing credits of "Benny and Jojo." He is theater arts major Trevor St. John.

St. John came to Whitworth four years ago. He said that he had heard that the jazz band was looking for a drummer. He auditioned and was given a $100 scholarship.

In addition to playing with the jazz band, he has been involved in the production of "As You Like It," "All My Sons," and "Merry Wives of Windsor." His favorite role was Joe Keller. "Out of all the plays I've been in, Arthur Miller had the most to say and the role that Joe Keller did," said St. John.

Rick Honor, assistant professor of theater arts, said that St. John has left the Whitworth community with many memories. Part of a community is the bond that holds them together, Honor explained. He said, "People were always looking forward to working with Joe Keller and tickled with his performance of Joe Keller." St. John has made some wonderful memories for himself while he has been here, too. He was chosen for Spokane Young Artists' Competition. It was a fierce competition with a cash prize, and an opportunity to sing with the Spokane Symphony. "I have no doubt that she will do well...she knows what she wants and will intentionally go about doing it," said Halvorson.

Bessey takes it all in stride and has fun doing it. Part of the reason is found in her philosophy on life. "I look for the good in every situation and in every person. This is very helpful for teaching," said Bessey. "I will need to find the best in every student; it will be a challenge," she said.

St. John creates memories to bind Whitworth community

St. John creates memories to bind Whitworth community

Jamie Florino
Whitworth Staff Writer

When sophomore choir member Kris Husby went to the music library to check out a CD for an opera workshop, he discovered that almost all of the CDs were checked out by fellow choir members, including Bessey. "She's committed," said Husby.

It's just one of several words used to describe Bessey. Another is respect. "She has gained a lot of respect in the choir, she's interested in people," said sophomore Heather Spooner.

Serious, bubbly, outgoing, hard worker, good musician, and gifted are other words used by fellow choir members to describe the senior music education major.

"I chose to teach music because I love kids. It's an avenue for them," Bessey said. Bessey included a vocal performance emphasis in her major and her teacher Marjory Halvorson, who was a vocal soloist for the Spokane Symphony, chose Bessey to sing with the Spokane Symphony. "I have no doubt that she will do well...she knows what she wants and will intentionally go about doing it," said Halvorson.

Bessey takes it all in stride and has fun doing it. Part of the reason is found in her philosophy on life. "I look for the good in every situation and in every person. This is very helpful for teaching," said Bessey. "I will need to find the best in every student; it will be a challenge," she said.

Bessey already has some experience in directing, having directed the Chapel Singers. "The choir is dedicated, hard-working people and they have come a long way. But most of all they are having fun," Spooner said.

Bessey looks forward to the challenge of teaching.

St. John creates memories to bind Whitworth community

Lisa Harrill
Whitworth Staff Writer

You may know him as Mr. Felstaff in "Merry Windom" and Joe Keller from "All My Sons." You may have seen him drumming for the jazz band, or you may have seen his name in the closing credits of "Benny and Jojo." He is theater arts major Trevor St. John.

St. John came to Whitworth four years ago. He said that he had heard that the jazz band was looking for a drummer. He auditioned and was given a $100 scholarship.

In addition to playing with the jazz band, he has been involved in the production of "As You Like It," "All My Sons," and "Merry Wives of Windsor." His favorite role was Joe Keller. "Out of all the plays I've been in, Arthur Miller had the most to say and the role that Joe Keller did," said St. John.

Rick Honor, assistant professor of theater arts, said that St. John has left the Whitworth community with many memories. Part of a community is the bond that holds them together, Honor explained. He said, "People were always looking forward to working with Joe Keller and tickled with his performance of Joe Keller." St. John has made some wonderful memories for himself while he has been here, too. He was chosen for Spokane Young Artists' Competition. It was a fierce competition with a cash prize, and an opportunity to sing with the Spokane Symphony. "I have no doubt that she will do well...she knows what she wants and will intentionally go about doing it," said Halvorson.

Bessey takes it all in stride and has fun doing it. Part of the reason is found in her philosophy on life. "I look for the good in every situation and in every person. This is very helpful for teaching," said Bessey. "I will need to find the best in every student; it will be a challenge," she said.

Bessey already has some experience in directing, having directed the Chapel Singers. "The choir is dedicated, hard-working people and they have come a long way. But most of all they are having fun," Spooner said.

Bessey looks forward to the challenge of teaching.

St. John creates memories to bind Whitworth community
Baseball ends seven-game losing streak

Steve Fliegel
Whitworth Staff Writer

The Whitworth baseball team avoided the distraction of the district playoff race by winning the final two games of a three-game series against Whitman College Saturday and Sunday at Merkle Field. The Pirates lost the first two games at General Washington University on Wednesday.

The victories ended a seven-game losing streak for the Pirates.

On Wednesday, the Pirates traveled to Ellensburg for a doubleheader against the Central Washington Wildcats. Whitworth lost both games, 1-0 and 2-0, respectively.

“We just didn’t swing the bats well,” said Pirate Head Coach Randy Russell. “We had bad bunting practice and it affected us during the game.”

In the opener, Wildcat starter Chad Lindholdt (2-1) gave up only one hit, pitching nine innings for the 1-0 victory. Billy Wark also pitched a great game, going ten innings, but took the loss to drop his record to 3-4.

In the nightcap, Whitworth again was shut out at Wildcat starter Doug Worsman improved his record to 5-0 by pitching into the sixth inning. Brandon Allison had two of the Pirates five hits.

Doug Lewis pitched all six innings in the loss, his record dropping to 4-5.

Central Washington improved to 8-2 in District I play, moving one game ahead of Whitworth, who dropped to 7-3.

The Pirates returned home for a three game weekend series against the Missionaries of Whitman College. Whitworth needed to win all three games to stay in control of their playoff destiny. It did not happen. Whitman won the first game of Saturday's doubleheader, 5-2 behind the solid pitching of Jim Hubler.

The Whitworth catcher Matt Teiberasser got the bat on the scoreboard in the first with his third home run of the season, driving in the scoring Rick Anders, for a 2-0 lead. That was it for the Pirates as Whitman scored five times in the sixth off of three bunt pitchers to take the victory.

“Our backs are against the wall,” said Russell. “One more loss and our playoff chances are over.”

Between games on Saturday, the field was officially named Merkle Field in a ceremony at home plate involving Whitworth Russell and former coach Paul Merkle. After a blessing for the field, the teams were ready to resume the second game.

“I got kind of choked up,” said Merkle, coach of Whitworth's only NAIA championship team in 1989. "It's a great feeling.”

After invoking the memory of former successor, Whitworth's offense finally woke in Saturday's second game. The Bucs scored in each of the first three innings to take a commanding 12-3 lead.

Teiberasser led with a three-run homer in the first and an RBI single in the third. Third baseman Robin Lund came around the line after Martin also had singles during the outcome. The Pirates scored in each of the next three innings. Whitman fought back, however, Triebwasser moved his record to 3-0.

In the nightcap, Triebwasser stepped off of the mound. Russell started yelling for a balk call, which the umpires granted, giving Lund a free start home. Whitman players and coaches loudly protested the call, but to no advantage. Whitworth had gained a 4-3 lead and Whitman had lost its heart.

“It was a bulk all the way,” said Russell. “Everybody saw it. I wasn't going to let them (the umpires) get away without making the call.”

The Pirates continued adding runs. In the sixth, Triebwasser hit an one out single. His record of the game and fifth of the weekend, to give the Pirates a crucial play of the game.

Teiberasser moved into second place on Whitworth's record board for most home runs in a season. His 14 on the year are second only to the 19 home runs Mike Nyquist hit in 1989.

The Pirates scored three more in the sixth, two runs coming on a triple by Martin. In the seventh Whitworth closed out the scoring on a three-run homer by Andreas.

Tommy Landers pitched the complete game for the Bucs to improve his season record to 3-6. Whitman fell to 5-3-4 for the Missionaries.

The victories improved Whitworth's record to 15-14 on the season, 9-4 in the district and 6-5 in the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges. Whitman fell to 15-14, 7-7 in the NCIAC and 9-4 in the district.

The Bucs conclude the regular season with a game at Lewis and Clark College on Wednesday, and a three-game series over the weekend in Portland against Lewis and Clark College.

Whitworth's playoff destiny is simple. The Bucs will lose Wednesday and hope Central Washington loses one of its three remaining district games.

Succession Issue

Steve Fliegel
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Three Whitworth athletes ran to victory at the Northwest Conference Track and Field Championships Friday and Saturday at Pacific Lutheran University in Tacoma.

Distance runners Steve Sandman and Melanie Koisin each defended a 1992 title, while Brian Lynch won his first career conference victory during the meet.

Both the men's and women's teams finished fourth in the six-team field.

Koisin paced the women's team with her victory in the 5,000-meter Saturday afternoon. The distance events should increase in intensity, but the throwing events almost decreased in intensity.

Koisin is the only Pirate to officially qualify for the NAIA national meet, but Wiuseman foresees others qualifying as well. He believes Whitman, Lewis, Whit, Triphlet, and John Kusan will all qualify.

"Sand is a national qualifier from last year, and of course Whitman is a definite champion," he said.

"Wiuseman is happy with his team's development this year and looks forward to a successful future. "We're looking forward to getting the track built and having more athletes come out to practice," he said. "The future looks good for our program."
Women’s tennis finishes in the top five at District I championships

Tanya Jones and Julane Lussier teamed up to lead the Whitworth women’s tennis team to a top-five finish at the District I tennis championships at Central Washington University.

Jones and Lussier breezed through the first two rounds defeating the entries from both Lewis-Clark State College and Central Washington to reach the quarterfinals of the doubles tournament against Seattle University.

In the quarterfinals, the duo continued their string of easy wins, taking the first set 6-4. However, Seattle University was able to slow the Pirate twosome, hitting several lob shots, while taking the second set 6-2 and closing the match with a 6-1 third set victory.

“Seattle University played well,” said Jones. “They had a very good strategy and played very consistently. We just couldn’t put it together.”

Lussier, a senior, described the match as a “bittersweet way to end the season.”

“It was disappointing to lose, but it was a good way to end the season,” explained Lussier. “We played okay and took them to three sets, so it ended good. It was hard because it was the last time we will be playing together, not just on the team, but we are friends with a lot of the girls we play against,” she said.

Jones also found success at the singles level, losing in the quarterfinals 3-6, 6-2, 0-6 to the University of Puget Sound entrant.

“She played really well and consistent,” said Jones of her opponent. “She did everything with a strong focus.”

However, she, too, was pleased with the finish and said she feels like she is moving on and not finishing up.

“It was a good four years and a great experience,” she said of her time at Whitworth. “I don’t feel like the end is here. I’m just going to keep on playing tournaments this summer and see what happens. There’s always something going on with sports,” Jones said.

Coach Jo Wagstaff said she thought the team played well and will feel the loss of Jones, Lussier, Jana Baxter, and Cindy Oswald who will be graduating.

“It will be a big loss,” said Wagstaff. “They have been the core of the team for four years. It will be quite different next year.”

On the men’s side, Steve Radonich was the only Pirate to win a match as the team suffered through a tough weekend, according to Head Coach Tim Rettman.

“Districts is really tough. I knew going in we would have a rough weekend,” Rettman said.

Radonich’s victory came in a 6-3, 6-2 defeat of CWU’s entry in a consolation match.

Despite the disappointing result, Rettman pointed to a couple of things to build on for next season.

“The guys all know what they need to work on to improve,” said Rettman. “As long as they put in the effort over the summer, they can improve.”

Rettman also cited Pat Dreyer improved play towards the end of the season as a building point.

“Pat’s first round match was one of his better matches he played all season even though he lost,” said Rettman.

“This kind of carried over from his conference play, which is a positive for Pat.”
Sahni finds relationships most enjoyable at Whitworth

Rebecca Jensen
Whitworthian Staff Writer

Ask Sujay Sahni how he has spent his four years at Whitworth and he will tell you talking. "It's what I do the best," said Sahni smiling.

This international student from India who also enjoys dancing, music and reading, said that socializing takes up much of his time. "It is by far my favorite past time," said Sahni.

Sahni said much of his time is devoted to associating with people of all backgrounds and ages. "One thing that Whitworth has really taught me is to go out and meet people and not be hindered by obvious differences," he said.

Mornie Hamm, the cultural diversity advocate in B.J., agrees that Sahni's strong point is people. "He interacts with people really well, making him a lot of fun to be around," she said.

This socializing has not kept this mathematics/computer science major from achieving his 4.0 grade point average or his place as valuable member of the senior class.

However, it was not Sahni, but his friends, who mentioned that he has a cumulative GPA of 4.0. "The neat thing about Sujay is that not only is he a very intelligent person, he really knows how to have fun— that's important too," said Aleksandar Lukovic, an international student from Yugoslavia.

Sahni went through the British educational system in India which places a strong emphasis on western education. Hence, he is an interest in attending college in the U.S. after his uncle had traveled to Washington and said it was a nice area. "I looked through college catalogs and found that Whitworth had the elements that I was looking for in a college," he said.

Although Sahni tested out of Calculus and I and the first class of physics, Dr. Howard Gage, Sahni's advisor, said he is not the stereotypical nerdy mathematical scientist. "Sujay is clearly a very fine student academically, and he is also very personable," said Gage. "He is not only bright but very giving as well. He never hesitates to help other when they need it,"

Despite Sahni's strong academic credentials, he regards the relationships he has developed over the four years as one of the things he has enjoyed the most about Whitworth. "Whether it is a studen- t-student relationship, student-professor relationship, or even a relationship with an administrator — it is valuable. The community emphasis in all areas is rewarding," he said.

Involvement in A.S.W.C., touring, the Inter- national Club, and editorial board for The Whitworthian, as well as serving as an R.A. for McMillan, a summer conference assistant for Student Life and a Cultural Diversity Administrator, Sahni enjoys many of his relationships over in the depart- ment. Sahni thinks the one profes- sor relationship, student, fun person to have in the depart- ment is Whitworth. "Whether it is learning about the English department or dancing in some of Sujni's quiet, he was always the coolest guy around. "He is a great person; he really knows how to have fun— that's the type of education you can get."—Said Sahni.

It was not long ago when this year's graduating seniors were entering college as freshmen. Following are events that made headlines during 1989:

• Exxon Corporation halts cleanup of the 11 million gallon oil spill from tanker Exxon Valdez.
• Hurricane Hugo sweeps through Caribbean, the U.S. Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and South Carolina causing a heavy human toll and immense property damage.
• Paula Abdul takes home four awards at the MTV music awards.
• Chris Evert, 34, resigns from tennis after a defeat in the U.S. by Zina Garrison.
• Mother Teresa has heart attack.
• National unemployment at 5.1 percent.
• President Ronald Reagan has brain surgery to remove fluid accumulated after falling from a horse.
• Hungarian government announces it's decision to permit thousands of East Germans permission to seek a knew life in a "country of their choice."
• Ferdinand Marcos, who ruled the Philippines for 20 years before being forced into exile in 1989, dies in Hawaii.

Mitchell inspired by her father

Juliane Luzsler
Whitworthian Staff Writer

In the fall of 1987, when she was in her thirties, Terry Mitchell worked full-time at Whitworth and started taking classes. This month she will graduate summa cum laude with a 4.0 grade point average and a degree in American Studies.

While completing her degree, she worked full-time as a secretary, first for the English department, and currently for the history and political studies department.

Dale Soden, associate professor of history said, "She has an amaz­ ing ability to relate to a wide variety of people." He added that her sense of humor makes the Lindeman Center a fun place to work.

Mitchell said sometimes working and studying has been hard, but she said, "I love Whitworth. I've been here a long time and I like the type of education you can get."

She said the inspiration to go back to school came from her dad. "My dad went back to school in his late thirties. I knew I could do it because he did it," she said.

Mitchell said her dad is really proud of her accomplishments and that she managed to keep a 4.0 GPA. "I wanted to work hard to get a good education, not just an education," she said.

Soden said, "Terry is one of the best writers and editors on cam­